War Services.

Brevet Lieutenant Colonel A. J. Hadfield served with the 37th Madras Native Infantry in the expedition from Kamptee to Sumbulpur against the refractory zemindars in that district in 1830. Accompanied the 37th Regiment to China in the first war in 1840; was present at the taking of Cheunpee, and at the storming of the forts of the Bocca Tigris in the Canton river; present in the action of the 25th May 1841 before Canton, and engaged in the affair of the 30th May, when a large body of Chinese endeavoured to relieve the city. On this occasion, during a tremendous thunderstorm, the company of the 37th Regiment, Madras Native Infantry, which he commanded, was cut off from the rest of the force and surrounded by several thousands of Chinese troops; but, notwithstanding the rain prevented the sepoys from discharging their muskets, yet they repulsed every attack made upon them until an hour or two after dusk, when they were extricated from their perilous position by a detachment of Royal Marines armed with percussion fire arms.

For this affair he was mentioned in despatches; received the brevet rank of Major and appointed Honorary Aide-de-Camp to the Viceroy (Lord Ellenborough). Likewise, every native officer, non-commissioned officer and private belonging to his company were admitted to the advantages of the Order of Merit, and when Parliament voted their thanks to the army and navy engaged in this war, special mention was made of his gallant conduct and of that of his company by the Duke of Wellington in the House of Lords, and by Lord Stanley in the House of Commons, (medal for China.)

No. 1250 of 1874.—The under-mentioned Officers are permitted to proceed to Europe on furlough on private affairs:—

Colonel Alexander Fraser, C. B., of the Royal Engineers, Chief Engineer, 1st Class, Public Works Department, and Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces, Allahabad,—for nine months, under Rule IX of the Regulations of 1868.

Surgeon Major Robert Wiseman Cunningham, M. D., of the Medical Department, in medical charge Meywar Bheel Corps,—for two years, under Rule IX of the Regulations of 1868.

The 1st January 1875.

No. 1 of 1875.—With reference to G. G. O. No. 656 of the 25th June 1874, and with the sanction of Her Majesty's Government, the Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council is pleased to notify that:—

I. During the year 1875 ninety (90) officers of the Staff Corps, and Cavalry and Infantry of the Indian Army, will be permitted to retire from the service, receiving, in addition to the pension to which they may be entitled by length of service under existing regulations, not exceeding the full pay pension of a Colonel (£456-5-0 per annum), an annuity representing the estimated value of their prospective claim to the Colonel's allowance, or its capitalized value as they may prefer.

II. This offer is restricted to substantive Lieutenant Colonels who shall have completed 28 years' service, from the date of first commission, on or before the date from which they apply to retire, who may either, 1st, have been appointed to one of the Staff Corps on or before the 12th September 1866, and can claim the Colonel's allowance under the provisions of G. G. O. No. 808 of the 26th September 1866, or 2ndly, may be entitled, under G. O. G. G. of the 12th September 1862, to the Colonel's allowance after 12 years' service in the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

III. The number allowed to retire under these conditions will be distributed as follows:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| For Bengal | ... | 40 |
| „ Madras | ... | 30 |
| „ Bombay | ... | 20 |
| TOTAL | ... | 90 |

In the event of the whole of the retirements allotted to a particular Presidency not being taken up in that Presidency, those remaining will be distributed in such manner as may be determined by the Government of India.

IV. Applications to retire will be considered and disposed of successively according to priority of proposed dates of retirement until the number of retirements allotted to the service shall have been accomplished, when retirements under this order will cease for the year. In the event of its becoming necessary to select one from among two or three applicants for retirement on the same day, preference will be given according to seniority from the date of first commission.

V. Officers wishing to retire under the terms of this order must, whether in or out of India, submit their applications to the Office of the Adjutant-General of their respective Presidencies, naming prospective dates for their retirements, such date not to be earlier than the 1st April 1875.

VI. Officers whose applications are accepted, will be gazetted out from the dates named by themselves, but will continue to perform their duties and receive the pay and allowances of their positions until officially informed of their removal from the effective list, either by direct communication, or by publication of the Gazette at the station at which they may be serving.

VII. Officers retiring under this arrangement will forego both the good service pension, if they are in receipt thereof, and all claim to bonus compensation under the terms of the despatch of the 8th of August 1866,* No. 160.

*G. G. O. No. 808 of 26th September 1866.

VIII. Applicants to retire must state—

1st.—Their rank and service.

2nd.—Their age (supported by a certificate of birth, or in its absence, by a formal declaration).

3rd.—Whether they wish to receive commutation for their prospective allowances in the shape of an annuity, or to capitalize its value. Officers who desire to receive the capitalized value of the annuity must attach to their applications a certificate in the form given in Appendix A. In the case of officers retiring out of India, the health certificate required will be called for and furnished under instructions from the India Office in London.

4th.—Whether they desire to receive payment, wholly or in part, in India, or in England.

IX. The Table given in Appendix B shows the rates at which the expectation of the Colonel's allowance will be calculated in carrying this order into effect in the case of officers of various ages and service.

X. For the purpose of arriving at the amount payable in each case, whether as an annuity or in a single payment, officers' ages will be calculated from their birthday next succeeding the date from which they propose to retire, and the number of years they have to serve before becoming entitled to the Colonel's allowance will be calculated from the date of the proposed retirement. When the period to serve contains a fraction of a year, the fraction, if it be six months or under six months, will be excluded altogether; if it exceeds six months, it will be reckoned as a complete year.

XI. Payments of the capitalized value of the annuity made in India under this order will be at the rate of 1*s.* 10½*d.* for the rupee.

XII. Officers who elect to receive an annuity in preference to the capital sum, will not, after their retirements have appeared in the Gazette, be allowed to capitalize such annuity under the provisions of this order; and it is to be understood that no separate applications of individual officers to retire after the present retirements have been allotted will be entertained on the basis of this order.

XIII. Officers of the half-pay list of the Staff Corps will be permitted, if disposed to retire from the service, to avail themselves of this scheme of retirement provided they are eligible thereto by the fulfilment, previously to their transfer to the half-pay list, of all the conditions required. The time passed by an officer on the half-pay list of the Staff Corps will not count towards the 12 years in the grade of Lieutenant Colonel required to qualify for promotion to the Colonel's allowance.

XIV. No application from officers to cancel their retirement or to change the date of such retirement will be entertained after it has been announced in the official Gazette of the Presidency to which they belong.

PART IV.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 16th December 1874, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. XVI OF 1874.

An Act for the repeal of certain Obsolete Enactments.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the enactments mentioned in the schedule to this Act, which have ceased to be in force otherwise than by express and specific repeal, or have by lapse of time and change of circumstances become unnecessary, or which merely repeal prior enactments, should be expressly and specifically repealed; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Enactments in schedule repealed.

1. The enactments described in the schedule annexed to this Act are hereby repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule:

Provided that the repeal by this Act of any enactment shall not affect any Statute, Act or Regulation in which such enactment has been applied, incorporated, or referred to:

And this Act shall not affect the validity or invalidity of anything already done or suffered, or any indemnity already granted, or any right or title already acquired or accrued, or any remedy or proceeding in respect thereof, or the proof of any past act or thing:

Nor shall this Act affect any principle or rule of law, or established jurisdiction, form or course of pleading, practice or procedure, or existing usage, custom, privilege, restriction, exemption, office or appointment, notwithstanding that the same respectively may have been in any manner affirmed, recognised, or derived, by, in, or from any enactment hereby repealed:

Nor shall this Act provide or restore any jurisdiction, office, custom, privilege, restriction, exemption, usage or practice not now existing or in force.

Short title. Commencement.

2. This Act may be cited as "The Repealing Act, 1874;" it extends to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

SCHEDULE.

A Bill for regulating Inland Customs Duties on Salt and Sugar, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the levy of inland customs-duties on salt and sugar, and to the import of salt, the export of sugar and the manufacture of salt and saltpetre into, from and in the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, Oudh and the Central Provinces; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—PRELIMINARY.

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Inland Customs Act, 1875": and shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Local extent.

This section, section two, and so much of this Act as refers to offences against any of its provisions or any rules made hereunder extend to the whole of British India:

The rest of this Act extends to the territories for the time being respectively subject to the Lieutenant-Governors of the North-Western Provinces and the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and the Central Provinces;

Power to extend Act.

And any part of this Act other than the parts specified in the second clause of this section, may be extended, by order of the Governor General in Council published in the Gazette of India, to any part of British India other than the said territories.

Repeal of enactments.

2. The enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the said schedule.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—the expression "the said territories" means the territories mentioned in the third clause of the first section:

"Collector."

the term "Collector" means a Collector or Assistant Commissioner of Inland Customs, and includes any revenue officer on whom the Local Government confers the powers of a Collector under this Act:

"Magistrate."

the term "Magistrate" means any Magistrate exercising powers not less than those of a Magistrate of the second class:

"Customs line."

the term "Customs line" means a space of ground, to be declared under section ten, clause (b), into out of or across which salt or sugar cannot be legally taken without payment of the duty prescribed by this Act, and unless covered by a current protective document in such manner as may for the time being be prescribed under the same section:

"Imported."

the term "Imported," as applied to salt, means brought into the customs line from the direction of the frontier of the said territories, and salt removed from Government depôt or Stores, or from Bonded Warehouses; and the term "exported," as applied to sugar, means brought into the customs line from the opposite direction:

"Exported."

"Sugar."

the term "Sugar" includes also saccharine produce, sweetmeats and all other articles of which sugar forms a principal ingredient, and which may be declared, by a rule under section ten, to be liable to duty under this Act:

"Saltpetre."

the term "Saltpetre" includes rasí, sajjí and all other substances manufactured from saline earth, and khárínún, or Glauber's salt, and every form of sulphate or carbonate of soda; and

"Manufacture of salt."

the expression "Manufacture of salt" includes the separation or purification of salt obtained in the manufacture of saltpetre, the separation of salt from earth or other substance so as to produce alimentary salt, and the excavation or removal of natural deposits or of efflorescence of salt.

II.—OF THE IMPORT OF SALT, EXPORT OF SUGAR AND MANUFACTURE OF SALT.

Regulation of the import of salt, export of sugar, and manufacture of salt and saltpetre.

4. No salt shall be imported into the said territories, and no sugar shall be exported therefrom, and no salt or saltpetre shall be manufactured or refined therein, except subject to the conditions and payments and in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules for the time being prescribed hereunder.

Proviso.

Provided that nothing in this Act shall affect the importation of salt or exportation of sugar into or from any of the said territories from or into any other of the said territories or the Lower Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William.

Power to levy duties.

5. The Governor General in Council may order the levy of the following duties:—

| | | Per maund of three thousand two hundred tolas. |
|---|---|---|
| (a). | On salt imported into the said territories | Three rupees. |
| (b). | On refined sugar exported from the said territories ... | One rupee. |
| (c). | On unrefined sugar exported from the said territories ... | Six annas. |
| (d). | On salt manufactured in the said territories ... | Three rupees. |

Levy of salt-duty in Central Provinces.

6. The duty leviable under section five, clause (a) may be levied by way of a mileage rate on—

(a.) salt imported from the Presidency of Bombay into any part of the territories under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces and

(b.) salt which having been so imported is afterwards moved from one place to another.

And the Governor General in Council may from time to time fix, for the purposes of this section, the rate per maund per mile, which shall be levied as aforesaid.

Power to reduce or remit duties.

7. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by order published in the Gazette of India, reduce or remit in the whole or any part of the said territories all or any of the duties ordered to be levied under section five.

Saving of existing duties on salt and sugar.

8. All duties now leviable on salt or sugar imported into or exported from the said territories, shall, until otherwise directed by the Governor General in Council, be deemed to be leviable under this Act.

9. The Governor General in Council may by order published in the Gazette of India prohibit the import of salt or the export of sugar into or from the whole or any part of the said territories.

Power to prohibit import of salt or export of sugar.

10. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules relating to the following matters (namely)—

Power to make rules.

(a) the manner, time, and place in and at which, and the persons by whom, the duties leviable under this Act shall be collected and the dutiable goods be permitted to be imported and exported;

(b) the position and extent of the customs lines, and the mode in which such lines shall be defined and protected;

(c) the manufacture, storage and sale of salt;

(d) what shall be deemed refined and what unrefined sugar;

(e) the manufacture and refinement of saltpetre;

(f) the form of licenses to be granted under this Act, the period for and the conditions on which such licenses shall be in force, and the fee to be paid in respect of them;

(g) the seizure, disposal or destruction of things liable to be seized or destroyed under this Act;

(h) the manner in which fines levied, and the proceeds of sales of articles confiscated, under this Act, shall be distributed.

(i) and generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Publication of rules.

Till otherwise directed, the rules now in force regarding the above-mentioned subjects, so far as they are not inconsistent with this Act, shall be deemed to have been issued under this Act, and the existing customs line shall be deemed to have been defined and protected under this Act.

Existing rules.

III.—OF THE POWERS OF OFFICERS.

11. Any officer of Inland Customs may stop and detain any person whom he has reasonable ground to suspect of carrying any salt or sugar liable to confiscation under this Act;

Power to detain suspected person and to seize goods liable to confiscation.

and may search for and seize any such salt or sugar together with the vessels, packages or coverings in which it is contained, and the animals and conveyances used in carrying it; and may also arrest the person in whose possession such salt or sugar is found.

12. Any officer of Inland Customs may arrest any person whom he has reasonable ground to suspect to be liable to punishment under this Act.

Power to arrest.

13. Whenever any officer of Inland Customs or land-revenue, not being below the grade of a Sub-Assistant Patrol or Náib Tahsíldár, has reason to believe from information given by any person and taken down in writing, that salt or saltpetre is being unlawfully manufactured or stored, Power to enter and search place of illicit manufacture.

such officer may, between sunrise and sunset (but always in the presence of an officer of police not being under the grade of a Head Constable), enter any house, boat, or place, in which there is reason to believe that salt or saltpetre is being so manufactured or stored, and, in case of resistance, may break open any door, and force and remove any other obstacle to such entry, and may seize and carry away all materials used in the manufacture of such salt or saltpetre, and may also arrest the occupier of the said house, boat, or place, together with all persons concerned in the manufacture of such salt or saltpetre, or in the keeping and concealing thereof.

14. Whenever an officer of Inland Customs or land-revenue under the rank of Collector arrests any person under this Act,

Report of arrest, seizure or search.

or seizes any articles as liable to confiscation under this Act, or enters any house, boat, or place for the purpose of searching for any such articles, he shall (unless empowered under the next succeeding clause of this section), within forty-eight hours next after such arrest, seizure or entry, make a full report of all the particulars of such arrest, seizure or search, to his official superior for the information of the Collector.

Any officer making any arrest under this section, or his official superior, shall, if generally empowered to do so by the Collector, either send with all convenient despatch the person arrested to the Magistrate, or order the discharge of such person.

15. Whenever the Collector is informed of the seizure of any article exceeding five sers in quantity, liable to confiscation under this Act, he shall, with all convenient despatch, report the circumstances of the case to the Commissioner of land-revenue, who may—

Procedure in respect of articles seized.

declare the article to be confiscated, or impose such lesser penalty in lieu thereof as to him may seem fit, or order the immediate release of such article.

If the quantity seized does not exceed five sers, the Collector shall possess the same powers in regard to its disposal which by this section are conferred on Commissioners of land-revenue in regard to quantities exceeding five sers.

Whenever a Commissioner of land-revenue declares under this section any article to be confiscated, he may also declare to be confiscated any vessel, package or covering in which such article is contained, and any animal or conveyance used in carrying it.

16. Whenever the Collector is informed of the arrest of any person, he shall (unless such person has been dealt with under the last clause of section fourteen), make such inquiry as he thinks necessary, and either send, with all convenient despatch, the person arrested to the Magistrate, or order the immediate discharge of such person.

Procedure in respect of person arrested.

17. All officers of police and officers of Government engaged in the collection of land-revenue, are empowered and required to assist the officers of the Inland Customs Department in the execution of this Act.

Officers of Police and land-revenue to assist Customs officers.

IV.—OF PENALTIES.

Evading duties or manufacturing without license.

18. Whoever commits any of the following offences—

(a) evades payment of any of the duties imposed by this Act,

(b) without a license under this Act, or in contravention of the terms and conditions of any such license, manufactures or refines salt or saltpetre,

(c) attempts, or abets, or, being a proprietor, farmer, tahsíldár, gumáshta or other manager of land, connives at any such evasion or manufacture,

(d) wilfully does anything in contravention of this Act, or of any rule for the time being prescribed under section ten, shall, for every such offence, be punishable with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees;

and all salt, sugar, or saltpetre in respect of which the offence has been committed, together with the vessels, packages, or coverings in which such salt, sugar, or saltpetre is contained, and the animals and conveyances used in carrying it, shall be liable to confiscation; and the works, materials and implements constructed or prepared for the purpose of such illicit manufacture shall be also liable to confiscation and may be destroyed.

Neglect or refusal by Police officer to assist.

19. Any police officer who, without lawful excuse, neglects or refuses to assist as provided in section seventeen, and any chief constable or other officer in charge of a police station, who, on application made by an officer of Inland Customs or Land-Revenue to attend for any of the purposes specified in section thirteen, fails so to attend or to depute a subordinate officer, not being below the grade of head constable, so to attend, shall for every such offence be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Maliciously causing arrest or search.

20. Whoever maliciously gives false information against any person as being engaged in the unlawful manufacture of salt or saltpetre, or as having in his possession any salt or saltpetre or sugar, in contravention of this Act, and so procures that such person be arrested, or that any house, boat, or place be searched, shall for every such offence be punishable with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or with both.

The officer imposing such fine may direct that it or any part thereof be paid to the person injured by such malicious information.

Vexatious search, seizure or arrest by customs officer.

21. Any officer of Inland Customs who commits any of the following offences—

(a) without reasonable ground of suspicion, searches or causes to be searched any house, boat or place;

(b) vexatiously and unnecessarily seizes the moveable property of any person, on pretence of seizing or searching for any article liable to confiscation under this Act;

(c) vexatiously and unnecessarily arrests any person;

(d) commits any other act to the injury of any person, when such act is not required for the execution of the officer's duty, shall for every such offence be punishable with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Such fine, or any part thereof, may, if the Magistrate imposing it so direct, be paid to the person aggrieved.

Unlawful release or connivance at escape.

22. Any officer of Inland Customs unlawfully releasing or conniving at the escape of any person arrested under this Act, or acting in any manner inconsistent with his duty, for the purpose of enabling any person to do any thing whereby any of the provisions of this Act may be evaded or broken, or the revenue defrauded, shall for every such offence be punishable with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Adjudication of fine and confiscation.

23. All fines leviable for offences against this Act, shall be adjudged by the Magistrate on the information of the Collector or any officer of Inland Customs.

Provided that no such information shall be necessary in any case of complaint preferred to a Magistrate under section nineteen, twenty, twenty-one or twenty-two.

On the application of the Collector or any officer of Inland Customs, the convicting Magistrate may declare to be confiscated all works, materials and implements constructed or prepared for the purpose of manufacturing or refining salt or saltpetre contrary to the provisions of this Act.

Cases in which summons to issue.

24. In all cases in which complaint or information is preferred to a Magistrate of offences committed against this Act, not being cases in which persons are sent in custody by a Collector or officer of Inland Customs or Land-Revenue, the Magistrate shall issue a summons requiring the attendance of the person accused.

Rules of Criminal Procedure Code to apply to trials.

The rules contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, for the trial of cases before a Magistrate and for appeal against orders passed by a Magistrate, shall apply to trials under this Act:

Limitation of time for complaint.

Provided that no complaint or information of an offence against this Act shall be admitted, unless it be preferred within six months after the commission of the offence to which the complaint or information refers.

Punishment on second and subsequent convictions.

25. Whenever any person is convicted of an offence against this Act, after having been previously convicted of an offence, against this Act or any enactment hereby repealed, a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months may be imposed on such person in addition to the punishment which may be inflicted for a first offence against this Act; and every such person shall, upon every subsequent conviction of an offence against this Act, be liable to six months' imprisonment in addition to any term of imprisonment to which he was liable at his last previous conviction.

Appropriation of fines and proceeds of goods confiscated.

26. All fines imposed under section eighteen, and the proceeds from sale of all confiscated articles, shall be employed in accordance with the rules that may from time to time be prescribed in that behalf by the Governor General in Council.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The primary object of this Bill is to consolidate and simplify the law relating to Inland Customs Duties. That law is now scattered over no less than eleven Acts and five Regulations. These Regulations are quite obsolete, and though most of them have been expressly repealed for the Lower Provinces of Bengal by Act VII of 1864 of the Bengal Council, they are still nominally in force in the North-Western Provinces.

Besides these legislative enactments, there are numerous orders of the Government of India and of the Local Governments of the Panjáb, North-Western Provinces and Central Provinces, which, whether they have in all cases the force of law or not, govern the practice of the Inland Customs Department as if they had the force of law. With respect to the sugar duties levied in the Panjáb beyond the old North-Western Provinces line, and perhaps in the Central Provinces south of the old Ságar Division, it seems, to say the least, doubtful whether the orders under which they are levied are legal. The Bill will remove this doubt.

2. The opportunity has been taken to make a few alterations in the law, which may be briefly stated as follows:—

3. Section 1, clause 2.—The question has been raised whether Magistrates in parts of India to which the present Inland Customs Acts have not been extended should try offences under those Acts. For instance, a Bombay trader books and despatches by railway for the Central Provinces salt under some other name for the purpose of evading the Inland Customs Duty. It is clear that he has committed an offence under Act XIV of 1843 as extended by Act VII of 1864 to the Central Provinces. Should a Bombay Magistrate hear the charge? The Bill sets this point at rest.

4. Section 3. Definitions.—These definitions settle many doubtful points in the present law and are in accordance with actual practice.

5. Section 4. Proviso.—This is a mere extension of Act XVI of 1848, so as to free from duty sugar exported from the Upper Provinces to the Lower Provinces of Bengal. No such duty has ever been levied, but under the law as it stands it is leviable.

6. Section 7.—This section is new, but in practice it has been always acted on. For instance, although the duty on salt imported into the Central Provinces is by law three rupees per maund, a deduction has always been allowed of the amount of duty paid in Madras or Bombay on salt imported from these presidencies. Again, until recently no duty was levied on sugar exported across the Customs Line on the Indus, and even now it is not levied in the northern portion of that line.

7. Section 9.—The only provision of the present law corresponding with this is section 1 of Act XIV of 1871, and it is doubtful whether that section applies to articles taken from one part of British India to another. No salt is allowed to be imported into the Panjáb across any part of the Customs Line north of the Satlaj, even on payment of duty. This is very necessary, as if trans-Indus salt (Kohat) were permitted to be imported cis-Indus, the difficulties in suppressing smuggling would be much increased. The trans-Indus salt is easily distinguishable from cis-Indus salt, and if found anywhere on the east of the Indus is known at once to have been smuggled.

8. Section 10.—This section is a reproduction, with the additions and modifications expressed in clauses (d), (f), (g), (h) and (i), of Acts XIV of 1843, section 3; XXXI of 1861, sections 1, 2, 3, 4 and 10, and XXV of 1869, section 1. The additions and modifications just referred to are as follows:—

Clause (d.) Disputes arise as to what is refined and what unrefined sugar; the line between each it is often difficult to draw. The Bill empowers the executive to determine such disputes.

Clause (f.) Under the present law (Act XXXI of 1861, sections 1 to 4 and section 11), the licenses for manufacturing and refining saltpetre and the other substances mentioned are required to be granted by the Local Government; the period of the license and the limits of the license-fees are fixed. In practice the licenses are issued by the Inland Customs officers subject to the control of the Local Governments. This clause will empower the Government of India to determine the limits of the license-fees.

Clauses (g), (h) and (i) are formal. Orders on the matters with which they deal have always been issued by the Executive Government. It is desirable that such orders should have the force of law.

9. Section 13.—The powers of officers to search houses, &c., and the precautions under which these powers are to be exercised, are prescribed in Acts XXXVI of 1855 and XIX of 1862. Section 13 of the Bill is drafted on the model of analogous sections in the Excise Act, X of 1871.

10. Section 14, last clause.—The officers of the Inland Customs are often stationed at great distances from the Collector. It would cause great delay if, on making an arrest, seizure or search, it were necessary to await the Collector's orders. Under this clause Collectors will be able to empower their subordinates to bring the person arrested before the Magistrate or discharge him at once. The present state of the law on this point is rather uncertain.

11. Section 15.—Under the present law the only authority (except at the Panjáb Mines) who can deal with articles seized as liable to confiscation is the Commissioner of Land Revenue, however small the quantity seized may be. On the Frontier Customs Line the law is strictly followed, but in the case of seizures made under Act XXXI of 1861 it seems to have been misapprehended, and the Customs Officers have been in the habit of disposing of seizures on their own authority. At the mines, seizures not exceeding five sers are dealt with by the Collector under rule 16 of the rules to which the force of law was given by Act XXV of 1872. It is now proposed to make this rule universal throughout the department, making a reference to the Commissioner of Land Revenue necessary only in the case of seizures exceeding five sers.

12. Section 20.—The penalty for maliciously causing search by false information is, under the present law (Act XXXVI of 1855, section 7), a fine of Rs. 500 and imprisonment for a period of two years. The present section is drafted so as to assimilate the punishment to that for the same offence under the Excise Act X of 1871, section 70.

13. The remaining sections are borrowed with slight modifications from the Excise Act, to which the Inland Customs Law is in many respects analogous.

[Second Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd December 1874, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in six weeks:—

No. 18 of 1874.

A Bill for the better administration of law in the Panjáb.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Panjáb Laws Act, 1872, and thereby to provide for the establishment of Rural Police and for the more efficient administration of law in the Panjáb; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Panjáb Laws Amendment Act, 1874:"

Commencement.

It shall come into force on the passing thereof:

Construction.

And it shall be read with and taken as part of the Panjáb Laws Act, 1872.

Addition to Act IV of 1872.

2. The said Panjáb Laws Act shall be read as if the following sections were inserted next after section thirty-nine thereof:—

Power to establish village-watchman system and to make rules.

"39A. The Local Government may establish a system of village-watchmen in any part of the territories under its administration and not comprised within the limits of a municipality, and in furtherance of this object may from time to time make rules to provide for the following matters:—

(a) the definition of the limits of watchmen's beats;

(b) the determination of the several grades of watchmen, and the number of each grade to be appointed to each beat;

(c) the appointment, suspension, dismissal and resignation of watchmen of each grade;

(d) the equipment and discipline of, and the control and supervision over, such watchmen;

(e) the conferring upon them and the exercise by them of any powers and the enjoyment by them of any protection or privilege, which may be exercised and enjoyed by a police officer under any Act for the time being in force;

(f) the performance by them of such duties as to the Local Government may seem fit, whether duties of the nature ordinarily imposed by law on police officers, or duties connected with the public health or the collection of information in any branch of administration;

(g) the exercise of authority over, and the rendering of aid to, such watchmen, by the headmen of the villages comprised in their respective beats;

(h) the performance, by the headmen of the villages comprised in the beat, of any of the duties of a village-watchman in aid of or substitution for such watchman;

(i) the exercise, by such village-headmen, of any of the powers, and the enjoyment by them of any privilege or protection, of a village-watchman for the purposes referred to in clauses (g) and (h) of this section;

(j) the determination of the rate at which, and the mode in which, watchmen shall be paid, and of the mode in which their pay, the expenses of their equipment, and other charges connected with the village-watchman system shall be provided for, whether out of cesses or funds already leviable or available in the villages comprised in the beat, or by a special tax in money or grain to be imposed on any class of persons residing or owning property in or resorting to such villages or partly in one of these ways and partly in the other;

(k) the collection with or without the aid of the village-headmen, and by any process available for the realization of the land-revenue, of any tax imposed under clause (j) of this section, and the application of, and the mode of accounting for, the same;

(l) the efficient working of the village-watchman system generally.

"Provided—

2ndly, that the rules to be made under clause (j) of this section shall include provisions for ascertaining and placing on record, and, as far as conveniently may be, giving effect to, the views and opinions of the headmen of such beat on the matters therein referred to.

Obligation to assist watchmen and headmen.

"39B. Every person is bound to render to a village-watchman or village headman discharging the duties of a police officer under the rules made hereunder all the assistance which he is bound to render to a police officer.

Person obstructing watchman or headman may be arrested without warrant.

"Any person who obstructs such watchman or headman in the discharge of such duties may be arrested without warrant by a police officer or by any village-headman or watchman empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

Power to direct local taxation for payment of police enrolled under Act V of 1861.

"39 C. Whenever it seems to the Local Government expedient that the duties of watch and ward and other internal police service of any town or village not comprised within the limits of a municipality or within the limits of a village-watchman's beat as defined under the power conferred by section thirty-nine A, should be performed by police officers enrolled under Act V of 1861, the Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, direct that the said service shall be so performed and that the charges for the time being fixed by such Government on account of such service shall be defrayed by taxes to be levied in such town or village.

Issue of notice of taxes proposed to be levied.

"39 D. When the Local Government has, under section thirty-nine C, directed that taxes shall be levied in any town or village, the Deputy Commissioner may from time to time issue a public notice in such town or village explaining the nature of the taxes he proposes to levy.

Objections to taxation.

"Any inhabitant of such town or village objecting to the taxation thus proposed may, within fifteen days from the publication of such notice, send his objection in writing to the Deputy Commissioner.

"After the expiry of fifteen days from the publication of the notice, the Deputy Commissioner may submit to the Local Government a report of the proposal made by him, the objections (if any) urged thereto and his opinion on such objections, and no such tax shall be levied until it has, upon such report, been approved by the Local Government.

Procedure thereon.

"39 E. When any such tax has been so approved by the Local Government, the Deputy Commissioner may from time to time, subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe, determine the rates at which it is to be levied.

Power to fix rates of tax.

"39 F. The Local Government may from time to time make rules to provide for the collection of such taxes by any process available for the realization of the land-revenue, and to regulate the application and mode of accounting for the same.

Power to make rules for collection of taxes.

"39 G. All taxes and collections which have been hitherto levied for the purposes of village and town police shall be deemed to have been levied in accordance with law."

Indemnity-clause.

3. Section 50 of the said Panjáb Laws Act is repealed and in lieu thereof there shall be read the following:—

Substitution of new section for section 50.

"50. The Local Government may issue rules as to the matters mentioned in sections forty-three to forty-nine inclusive, and may from time to time cancel or alter any such rules.

Power to make rules regarding matters mentioned in sections 43 to 49.

"All existing rules upon such matters shall, unless and until the Local Government otherwise direct, be deemed to have been issued under and in conformity with this section.

"50 A. No rules made by the Local Government under any power conferred by this Act shall be valid unless—

Conditions of validity of rules made under this Act.

(a) they are consistent with the laws for the time being in force in the Panjáb;

(b) they are published in the Local Gazette;

(c) previous to such publication they are sanctioned by the Governor General in Council.

"50 B. The Local Government may, in making any rule under any of the powers conferred by this Act, attach to the breach of it, in addition to any other consequences that would ensue from such breach, a punishment on conviction before a Magistrate not exceeding six months' imprisonment or 300 rupees fine, or both."

Penalties for breach of such rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

From correspondence which has recently taken place between the Government of India and the Government of the Panjáb, it has become apparent that the position of the village chaukídár in the Panjáb, as regards his duties, powers, pay, appointment, dismissal and punishment, rests upon practice and that there is no sufficient legal power to mould the system according to the exigencies of time and place.

The main object of the present Bill is to place on a legal basis a system which has existed and has in the main worked efficiently, and to the satisfaction of all concerned from our first occupation of the province.

The definition of the position and functions of the village-watchman involves of necessity the definition of the police-duties of the village-headman, whose nominee and servant he virtually is, and in subordination to whom, if the village-police system is to be efficient, he must always work. The duties which the present Bill goes to impose on village-headmen are, perhaps, in some particulars more extensive than those which at this moment can legally be required of them; but they are, it is believed, little, if at all, in excess of what the general opinion of the country would expect from men in their position, and what, as a matter of fact, the best of them at this moment undertake.

The present opportunity has been taken to provide for the raising of funds to defray the charges of police in certain kasbahs or towns which have outgrown the village-system, and yet are not sufficiently advanced to be formed into municipalities.

Here, again, the Bill does no more than put an existing and long-established system on a legal footing.

[Second Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd December 1874, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month:—

No. 19 OF 1874.

A Bill to remove doubts as to the rights and liabilities of certain Native Soldiers.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the rights and liabilities of certain Native Soldiers who have been enrolled without having been attested, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

1. Every person who has for the space of six months been in the receipt of military pay and been borne on the rolls of any Regiment, Corps, Depôt, Ordnance Establishment, or Department of Her Majesty's Indian Army (of which the last pay statement, if produced, shall be evidence), shall be deemed to have been duly enlisted, enrolled and attested, and shall not be entitled to claim his discharge on the ground of illegality or irregularity in his enlistment, enrolment or attestation, or on any other ground save such as may be recognised by the orders and customs of the service.

Validation of enlistment of Native soldiers.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It has lately been discovered that certain men now serving in the Native Army were not duly attested on enlistment, and doubts have consequently been raised as to their rights and liabilities.

The present Bill, which is framed on the model of section 59 of the English Mutiny Act, has accordingly been prepared. It simply declares that every soldier who has for six months received pay and been borne on the rolls, shall be deemed to have been duly enlisted, enrolled and attested.

WORKING OF THE PUNJAB TENANCY ACT XXVIII OF 1868.

No. 342, dated Lahore, the 3rd April 1872.

From—W. M. YOUNG, Esq., Offg. Secretary to the Financial Commissioner, Punjab,

To—The Officiating Secretary to Government, Punjab.

Report on revision of tenant entries under Act XXVIII of 1868.

I am directed by the Financial Commissioner to report the completion of the work of revising tenant entries under Act XXVIII of 1868 in the Amritsar, Gurdáspur, Siálkot, Lahore and Gujránwála districts. The revision was conducted by the following Extra Assistant Commissioners, who were specially appointed for the work by orders of Government conveyed in your letter No. 103, dated 4th February 1870:—

|---|---|
| Amritsar ... ... ... ... | Agha Kulbábid. |
| Gurdáspur ... ... ... ... | Káim Ali. |
| Siálkot ... ... ... ... | Wazir Ali. |
| Lahore ... ... ... ... | Ghulám Nabi Khán. |
| Gujránwála ... ... ... ... | Fakír Zahur-ud-dín. |

Dates of commencement and completion of work in the five districts named.

2. In Amritsar the work, as far as concerned the revision of entries in the settlement records, was commenced at the end of April 1870, and completed by the 31st of August 1870; in Gurdáspur the work was commenced in February 1870, and completed in November 1870; in Siálkot it was commenced in May 1870, and completed in October 1870; in Lahore it was commenced in May 1870, and finished in August 1870; and in Gujránwála it was commenced in May 1870, and brought to a conclusion in July 1870.

Suits instituted after actual revision of entries.

3. But a number of suits for matters connected with the Act were instituted after the actual revision of entries took place, and it was desirable to allow these cases to be decided by the officers named in your letter No. 103, dated 4th February 1870, and to receive reports as to the general working of the Act before closing proceedings. The officers employed in revision were therefore directed to send in final reports showing the result of their proceedings.

Reports of the five districts.

4. Reports have accordingly been submitted from all the above-named districts, giving an account of the method by which the revision of entries was carried out—the last of these was received, on 3rd June 1871, from the Commissioner of Lahore.

Recapitulation of the orders of Government on the subject.

5. A recapitulation of the orders of Government with reference to the subject, and of the principles laid down for the guidance of the officers conducting the revision, is here given.

6. The following instructions, contained in paragraphs 2 and 3 of your letter No. 898, dated 1st December 1868, form the basis upon which action has been taken :—

"Section 45 of the Act declares that 'all proceedings of officers of Government in making or revising, prior to the passing of this Act, settlements of land revenue shall, so far as such proceedings are consistent with the provisions of this Act, and subject to appeal and revision when an appeal and revision is provided, be deemed to have been taken in accordance with the law;' and section 6 provides that 'every tenant whose name appears in the records of a regular or revised settlement heretofore sanctioned by the Local Government as having a right of occupancy in land which he, or the person from whom he has immediately inherited, has continuously occupied from the entry of his name or the name of such person, as the case may be, shall be presumed to have a right of occupancy in the land so occupied, unless the landlord shall, in a regular suit, prove—

(1)—'That within the 30 years immediately before the institution of such suit other tenants of the same class in the same or in adjacent villages have ordinarily been ejected from their holdings at the will of the landlord; or

(2)—'That the tenant has voluntarily admitted before any officer employed in making or revising a regular settlement of land revenue, or before any officer authorized to attest the entries in the record of such settlement, that he is a tenant not having a right of occupancy, and that such admission has been recorded at the time by the officer so employed or authorized.'

"It follows that all proceedings in the recent settlements of the districts of Gurdáspur, Amritsar, Gujránwála, Siálkot, Kángra, Lahore, and Gujrát, whereby tenants previously recorded as tenants with a right of occupancy have been recorded as tenants-at-will, must be deemed invalid."

Exclusion of Kángra and Gujrát from revision of entries.

7. It was subsequently decided that of the districts mentioned in the latter paragraph, two, viz., Kángra and Gujrát, should be excluded from the number of those in which a revision of the entries in the settlement papers was deemed imperative; and the reasons for this exclusion, which it is not necessary to recapitulate here, were set forth, as regards Kángra, in this office No. 606—4554, dated 29th July 1869, and accepted in your predecessor's No. 955 A, dated 7th August 1869. In Gujrát there had been no wholesale alteration of tenant status at the second settlement, because the entries of rights of occupancy at the first settlement had been made in Gujrát with much more care than elsewhere, and after consideration of the nature of the occupancy as well as of its duration. Accordingly this report deals only with the five districts—Amritsar, Gurdáspur, Siálkot, Lahore, and Gujránwála.

Classification of tenants necessary.

8. In paragraph 4 of the letter of Government above quoted it was recorded as desirable that, besides the revision of the records of the recently-settled districts with reference to section 6 of the Act, the opportunity should be taken for classifying under sections 5 and 6 the several classes of tenants therein mentioned. But in Government letter No. 1196, dated 6th October 1869, it was considered that this classification of tenants with rights of occupancy would necessitate the employment of extra establishments and expense which there would be difficulty in meeting, and the plan was abandoned.

Agency employed in making the revisions.

9. The operation of revision thus became much simplified, and, in accordance with the orders of Government in the same letter, the Financial Commissioner proceeded to consider the question of the agency to be employed in making the revisions, and of rules for their guidance. The Financial Commissioner's proposals on the latter subject were set forth at length in my predecessor's letter No. 870, dated 3rd November 1869, and approved by Government letter No. 1344, dated 22nd November 1869. In Government letter No. 103, dated 4th February 1870, the officers mentioned in the first paragraph of this report were entrusted with the task of revising the entries in the records of the several districts, and the instructions laid down in the letters No. 1196, dated 6th October, from Secretary to Government, and No. 870, dated 3rd November, from Secretary to Financial Commissioner, declared to be the principles on which they should base their operations.

Instructions conveyed by the rules epitomized.

10. A copy of the rules framed in accordance with these instructions was given to each of the revising officers, and one is appended to this report. The instructions conveyed by them may be epitomized as enjoining the following procedure:—

I.—To revise the entries by which tenants who were recorded at the previous settlement as having a right of occupancy had been deprived of that right otherwise than by a decree of court, or by a special written agreement, by erasing the invalid entries and making a fresh entry in red ink, stating that the tenant has a presumptive right of occupancy under section 6 of the Act, and informing the parties interested,—leaving it to the proprietor, on the one hand, to take the necessary measures for rebutting the presumption of occupancy rights should he think fit to do so, and to the tenant, on the other hand, to take the necessary measures for obtaining an authoritative declaration of his precise status as a tenant under class 1, 2, 3 or 4 of Section 5, or the classes described in Sections 6 or 8.

To this was added a negative injunction, to the effect that the revising officers were not to undertake the work of classification of tenants proprio motu.

II.—To record on each settlement misl in red ink an entry to the following effect:—

"Nothing in this misl, which relates to the subjects treated of in Section 16 of Chapter 3, or in Chapters 4, 5, and 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, shall be considered valid if opposed to the entries made in the first regular settlement, unless it is supported by an agreement or a decree of court, or is valid under Section 45 of the Act."

With regard to Sections 10 to 15 of Chapter 3, treating of "rent," it was noted that, as the rates of rent of tenants with rights of occupancy were fixed at the first settlement for the term of settlement only, and were therefore liable to revision when the assessment was revised, the enhanced rates of rent imposed at the revised settlements were protected by Section 45 of the Act, and were not to be altered without a decree.

The correction of the entries of status of cultivators and the insertion of the general note in the patwari's copy of the settlement misl was ordered to be made simultaneously with the correction of the Government copy (or copies), and it was ordered that each entry should be signed by the Extra Assistant Commissioner.

Thus the correction of the official records of the settlements was provided for. In order to provide for a corresponding revision of the title-deeds in the hands of cultivators and their landlords, it was provided—

III.—That all such title-deeds should be collected, and entries corresponding to the revised entries in the settlement records regarding the status of cultivators be made in them and attested by the Extra Assistant Commissioner, or his responsible subordinate, the qánúngo acting under his orders; and further that on any document supplied to the people by the settlement authorities, whether an extract of the above nature or an extract from other parts of the settlement record touching upon the subjects treated of in Section 16 of Chapter 3, or Chapters 4, 5, and 6 of the Act, should have the general remark quoted above recorded on it, the meaning of which was to be explained to the parties concerned, after which process the papers, whether title-deeds or extracts, were to be returned to the people.

The revising officers were enjoined to undertake the work tahsil by tahsil, and they were empowered to make use of the whole staff of qánúngos and naib qánúngos for the purpose. They were enjoined to use dispatch in making the corrections, and not to delay making the rectifications, because they might anticipate that numerous suits would be brought to set aside the record of the first settlement. They were not to consider themselves precluded from hearing suits brought under the Act, but to decide them as they arose as promptly as possible, making any alterations necessitated by decrees in such suits as the decrees were passed.

With these rules for their guidance the revising officers were started on the work.

An additional ruling found necessary; account given.

11. In the course of operations an additional ruling was found necessary, an account of which may be here given.

From an inspection of some cases relating to the status of cultivators with right of occupancy, it came to the notice of the Financial Commissioner that petitions for restoration of the status recorded at the first settlement were rejected, because that status had been lowered by a judicial order passed during revision of settlement; and on examining some of these judicial orders the Financial Commissioner discovered that the officer deciding the case had, in his judicial decision, awarded the cultivator whose status had been degraded a lease for a term of years instead of the tenure recorded at the first settlement.

Gopal Singh versus Jowahir Singh.—Punjab Record No. 1, dated 5th December 1867.
Nathú Khán versus Sultán.—Punjab Record No. 18, dated 24th January 1868.
Het Rám versus Turti.—Punjab Record No. 42, dated 15th February 1868.

Account of three cases decided by Chief Court.

12. In three cases, marginally noted, it had been decided by the Chief Court that to award a lease for a term of years in a judicial decision without the consent of either party was illegal, and the Financial Commissioner, concurring in this view, considered it hard as well as illegal that decisions founded on a principle which had been declared wrong should be allowed to prejudice the rights of those who petitioned for a restitution of their status under Section 6 of the Tenancy Act. On the ground therefore that the revising officers were officers of the districts concerned, with jurisdiction and powers co-ordinate in respect of such suits with the officers who passed these orders, the Financial Commissioner gave instructions in his circular memorandum No. 4171, dated 19th July 1870, to the effect that a petition for restitution of status in such cases should be treated, if practicable, as a petition for review of judgment, and regarding the disposal of such cases where no petitions should be presented announced that orders would subsequently be issued when the number of them was ascertained.

This circular memorandum formed the subject of some correspondence, which, it is sufficient here to state, resulted in a ruling of the Government of India, No. 151, dated 17th March 1871, in which the correctness and legality of the circular memorandum were asserted.

Proceedings of revising officers reviewed.

13. The results of the proceedings of the revising officers will now be reviewed generally and severally with reference to—

I.—Revision of settlement records.
II.—Judicial cases.

14. It has been found during the preparation of this report that the number of judicial cases decided while the revision was in progress does not afford a sufficient basis from which to draw conclusions of much value as to the operation of the Act through the courts. Under these circumstances the Financial Commissioner has thought it best to embody in this report the returns of judicial cases instituted during the whole of the years 1870 and 1871, and notice of these cases will accordingly be made after the revision operations of each district have been separately reviewed. Separate statements of the judicial cases decided during the years 1870 and 1871, numbered II and III, are appended to this report. The former comprises results from February to the close of the year. This statement will not in every case correspond with the returns of judicial suits heard during the revision, as in every case the period of revision was not co-extensive with that of the statement. In reviewing the results in each district separately, notice will be taken of the judicial suits heard during the revision period; the whole results of the executive process, and of the judicial cases for the period during which revision was being carried on, as well as for the year 1871, will then be summarized, and general conclusions drawn.

Review of the effect of Section 11 in other districts.

15. This report deals primarily with the five districts where revision took place; but the opportunity has also been taken to review the effect of Section 11 of the Act in other districts,—separate statements, Nos. IV and V, having been compiled under the Financial Commissioner's order for all suits brought under this section in every district of the province up to the month of October 1871.

PART I.

District Results.

Amritsar district work reviewed.

16. The Extra Assistant Commissioner, Agha Kulbábid, has submitted a brief report on the revision effected under his superintendence.

There are 1,076 villages in the Amritsar district. In 637 of these revised entries have been made regarding the status of cultivators who lost their right of occupancy during the operations of the recent settlement. The number of entries so revised in these villages amounts to 11,951. The number of settlement misls on which the entry given in paragraph 10 of this report have been made is 868; while the title-deeds in the hands of proprietors and cultivators have had this entry recorded on them, or been otherwise revised with regard to the status of cultivators in the same villages. The Extra Assistant Commissioner reports that in about 6,000 holdings no alterations were made. It is supposed that this refers to the holdings of cultivators who had been degraded by the recent settlement operations to whom the right of occupancy was not restored during the revision.

Litigated cases.

17. The litigation caused by the introduction of the Act was not heavy during the revision. The following table shows the cases decided during that period :—

| Nature of claims. | Instituted. | Decided. | Sending. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rebuttal of presumption of right of occupancy, Section 6 | 153 | 43 | 110 |
| Claims to rights of occupancy, Section 5 ... ... | 163 | 28 | 135 |
| " for enhancement of rent, Section 11 ... ... | 15 | 8 | 7 |
| " for abatement of rent, Section 14 ... ... | 28 | 28 | 0 |
| Total ... | 359 | 107 | 252 |

Suits entertained prior to revision under what circumstances.

18. But prior to the revision suits had been entertained in the district courts under the following circumstances :—

Punjab Gazette Notification No. 912, dated 4th December 1868, declared the Amritsar district to be again under settlement. Thereupon suits for restoration of status were instituted in great numbers. The orders of Government in Secretary's No. 569, dated 14th April 1869, were to the effect that these petitions should be received and recorded, and a list prepared of them,—the petitioners being informed that they would be taken up and disposed of when revision proceedings were set on foot. When, however, the orders contained in Government letter No. 834, dated 25th June 1869, were promulgated, suits under the Act were heard and disposed of by selected officers; and Extra Assistant Commissioner Agha Kulbábid, who afterwards was employed for the revision, was the officer selected in the Amritsar district. The number of cases instituted during the remainder of 1869 was 370, of which 154 were decided by the Extra Assistant Commissioner. The whole of these petitions were brought under Sections 5 and 6 of the Act by tenants claiming restoration to the status of which they had been deprived at the recent settlement. During February, March, and April the number of cases of this nature instituted amounted to 1,746, while 1,925 such suits were decided during the same period. After April the majority of the suits still pending were treated on the executive side in the revision; the results of the judicial inquiries previously held must be added to those of the revision in order to obtain the total of cases disposed of. This gives nearly 13,000 cases in which the former status was restored to cultivators.

Suits for enhancement of rent.

19. It will be observed that suits for enhancement of rent were only instituted in very small numbers. There can be no doubt that the power given to proprietors by Section 11 of the Act was not at first understood; and this being the case, it would not be fair to gauge the future effect of the Act by the feeling of the proprietors during the revision, since that which they had to gain by it was not then appreciated. This feeling has notwithstanding been far from adverse, according to the opinions of the officers of the district. The Extra Assistant Commissioner makes the following remarks upon this subject :—

> "1. Tenants are generally satisfied with the revision, and are eagerly engaged in getting hold of their land and holdings.
> "2. Landlords consider that the rights of tenants recorded in former settlement have been established by the introduction of the Act. They, however, bring suits for ejectment of such tenants as had been put out of possession, but the suits of the kind are not very numerous as yet."

Deputy Commissioner's remarks.

20. The Deputy Commissioner on this subject makes the following remarks :—

"The general feeling, so far as it has come under my observation, is undoubtedly favorable to the Punjab Tenancy Act. It has done much to secure the contentment of the masses of the population, who do not ordinarily, or until hard pressed, give vent to their opinions. The rush which was made by the tenants to obtain reinstatement in their hereditary rights, of which they were only now beginning to feel the loss as the protective leases fell in, shows how deeply they valued them, and how radically they had been affected by the operations of the recent settlement."

Compensating clauses of the Act: Deputy Commissioner's remarks.

21. On the subject above referred to of the compensating clauses of the Act as regards proprietors, he adds: "It is probable that as the advantages conferred on proprietors by the Act become better known, the courts will be more resorted to by them. But in its present phase of working and effect of restoring the rights of hereditary tenants, the Act has excited no opposition. Whenever I have been in the district I have found no eagerness evinced on the subject, and the fact appears to be that the land-owners are not really averse to a hereditary tenure, as it secures to them permanent, and therefore better, tenants.

Gurdáspur district work reviewed.

22. The total number of villages in this district in which the revision of settlement records was effected is 2,250. In 1,030 of these cultivators have received back their rights of occupancy during the revision to the number of 10,578. On all the copies of settlement misls the prescribed entry has been made, and the title-deeds of each village corrected according to the instructions.

Judicial claims decided.

23. The number of judicial claims decided during revision was as follows:—

| Nature of claims. | Number of suits. |
|---|---|
| Claims to right of occupancy by tenants, Section 5 ... ... ... | 5 |
| " for rights of occupancy by tenants, Section 6 ... ... ... | 1,430 |
| Rebuttal of presumption of right of occupancy by landlords, Section 6 ... | 17 |
| Claims for enhancement of rent, Section 11 ... ... ... ... | 24 |
| " abatement of rent, Section 14 ... ... ... ... | 38 |
| Disputes regarding alienation, Section 34 ... ... ... ... | 2 |
| " " succession ... ... ... ... ... | 3 |
| TOTAL ... | 1,519 |

The number of cases pending at the close of the operations is not shown. As the revision lasted from February to November 1870, and the number of cases decided during the year only amounted to 1,797, this result may be accepted as embracing only all the cases heard under the Act up to the latter month.

Proprietors not fully aware of the privileges conceded to them.

24. Here again the proprietors do not seem to have been fully aware at first of the privileges conceded to them under the Act of bringing suits for the enhancement of rent. The remarks of the Extra Assistant Commissioner are for this reason the more intelligible. He says the provisions of the Tenancy Act are not sufficiently understood. Landlords and tenants have in many cases privately agreed as to the rent payable by the latter. The introduction of the Act has created a feeling of bitter animosity between landlord and tenant, which will probably subside as the people become accustomed to the change.

Deputy Commissioner's remarks.

25. The Deputy Commissioner says: "There can be no doubt that the changes made in the status of tenants by the present revision have caused feelings of bitter animosity between landlord and tenant, which, it is hoped, will gradually subside as the people become accustomed to the change."

Siálkot district work reviewed.

26. Corrections were made in the papers of all the villages in this district,—2,234 in number.

The Extra Assistant Commissioner reports that at the first settlement of this district 33,831 persons were recorded as having rights of occupancy in the settlement misl; of these 7,768 had abandoned their holdings previous to the recent revision of settlement.

At the latter settlement the remaining 26,063 were accounted for as follows:—

9,735 were accorded a perpetual lease,—1,896 by a judicial suit and 7,829 in a summary process; 16,328 persons received conditional lease for fixed periods,—1,059 by a judicial suit and 15,269 by a summary process.

Number of tenants deprived of their holdings, and number restored to original status.

27. After the completion of the settlement operations, 1,211 tenants were deprived of their holdings with their own consent in accordance with the provisions contained in the settlement papers; and 2,955 were judicially restored to their original status by the operation of the courts.

Number of persons in whose favor revised entries were made.

28. The Extra Assistant Commissioner considered himself precluded from making any summary corrections with regard to the following of these classes:—

|---|---|
| Those to whom perpetual leases had been accorded in judicial suits ... ... | 1,896 |
| Those to whom temporary leases had been accorded in judicial suits ... ... | 1,059 |
| Those who were deprived of their status by their own consent ... ... | 1,211 |
| TOTAL ... | 4,166 |

There remained 21,897 persons, in whose favor the revised entries were accordingly made.

No report received of the number of judicial suits instituted during the revision.

29. No report has been received of the number of judicial suits instituted during the revision. It is therefore not clear whether to any extent the ruling given in Financial Commissioner's circular memorandum No. 4171, dated 19th July 1870, was brought into operation for the restoration to their former status of those cultivators to whom in judicial suits temporary or permanent leases were accorded. The return of judicial suits instituted in accordance with the provisions of the Act in the Silákot district during the year 1870 are given in the subjoined table :—

| Nature of Claim. | No. of Suits instituted. | Decided in favor of Plaintiff. | Decided in favor of Defendant. | Pending. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| By tenants for declaration of status, Section 5 ... | 78 | 29 | 48 | 1 |
| By tenants for declaration of status, Section 6 ... | 556 | 204 | 302 | 50 |
| By landlords for rebuttal of presumption of occupancy, Section 6 ... ... ... | 143 | 60 | 79 | 4 |
| By landlords for enhancement of rent, Section 11 ... | 17 | 9 | 5 | 3 |
| Number of successions by collaterals, Section 36 ... | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| TOTAL ... | 795 | 302 | 435 | 58 |

With regard to the effect of the operations in this district, the Deputy Commissioner remarks :—

"I have mixed freely with the people in my district of late, and have visited most parts of it on circuit, and have as yet had no complaints brought forward to me by any (proprietors or cultivators) on the subject; neither have any of my assistants brought to my notice any such complaints or petitions.

Lahore district work reviewed.

30. The Extra Assistant Commissioner, Ghulám Nabbi Khán, has submited an exhaustive and interesting report on the operations of revision in the Lahore district, a translation of which by Mr. Barkley is herewith forwarded.

In 1,068 villages the work has been carried out; of 22,812 persons recorded in the first settlement as possessing right of occupancy, only 2,745 had been so recorded at the recent settlement, which gives 20,057 as the number who were deprived of this right at the recent settlement.

Of this number, 12,416 were summarily restored to their status during the revision of the papers; 931 had been previously restored to their status by judicial decisions, and the remaining 6,710 are accounted for as follows :—

|---|---|
| Suits dismissed ... ... ... ... ... | 193 |
| Left their holdings ... ... ... ... | 3,362 |
| Lost their lands by diluvion ... ... ... ... | 983 |
| Granted leases ... ... ... ... ... | 2,172 |
| TOTAL .. | 6,710 |

The Extra Assistant Commissioner reports, with reference to the last-named number, that, under instructions from the Commissioner of the division, all those tenants who had signed agreements with their landlords for leases for fixed periods were considered to be barred from the privilege of a summary revision, and referred to regular suits; and the 2,172 above entered represent the cases which had not been taken up by the Extra Assistant Commissioner when the Commissioner's instructions were received. But previous to this the leases had been disregarded by the Extra Assistant Commissioner, and in the case of 1,421 persons cancelled on the executive side, the tenants being restored to their status. These were not, however, cases decided judicially at settlement. These 1,421 cases are included in the 12,416 in whose favor entries were made without judicial enquiry.

Table showing litigated cases decided.

31. As regards judicial returns, the following table gives a complete result of all the litigation which took place under the Act up to the time of submitting the report. The cases decided by other judicial officers of the district are included in this statement.

| Nature of Claim. | No. Instituted. | Decided in favor of Plaintiff. | Decided in favor of Defendant. | Pending. |
| Suits by tenants for right of occupancy under Section 5 ... ... ... ... | 33 | 33 | ..... | ..... |
| Suits by tenants for right of occupancy under Section 6 ... ... ... ... | 518 | 518 | ... | ..... |
| Suits by landlords for rebuttal of presumption of right of occupancy under Section 6 ... ... | 24 | 6 | 18 | ..... |
| Suits by tenants for right of occupancy under Section 8 ... ... ... ... | 2 | 1 | 1 | ..... |
| Suits by landlords for enhancement of rent, Section 11 ... ... ... ... | 74 | 20 | 49 | 5 |
| Suits by tenants for abatement of rent under Section 14 ... ... ... ... | 12 | ..... | 11 | 1 |
| Suits by landlords for ejection on compensation, Section 19 ... ... ... ... | 3 | 1 | 2 | ..... |
| Suits regarding succession ... ... ... | 4 | 1 | 3 | ..... |
| Other suits ... ... ... ... | 6 | 4 | 2 | ..... |
| TOTAL ... | 676 | 584 | 86 | 6 |

Of the large numbers of suits in the second line, 518 were decided by the courts previous to the institution of revision, in all of which decrees were given. It will be seen that in none of these cases was an order adverse to the cultivators recorded. The fact is that all these cases, with the exception of 21 in which a judicial inquiry was instituted after the close of the revision, might have been decided executively in accordance with the orders subsequently followed.

In these 518 suits 931 persons were restored to their status as cultivators with right of occupancy.

The number of tenants thus restored, added to those who recovered their status under the summary revision, amounts in all to 13,347, or about two-thirds of the number, 20,057, who lost their status in the recent settlement.

Claims by landlords for enhancement of rent.

32. The Extra Assistant Commissioner reports that he at first refused to take up claims by landlords for enhancement of rent, on the ground that a revision of rents had taken place at the revised settlement, and that under section 13 of the Tenancy Act no claim for enhancement could be heard until five years had elapsed from the last enhancement. It was pointed out to the Extra Assistant Commissioner on appeal that section 13 applied only to cases in which decrees for enhancement had been passed under section 10 of the Act, and that by Rule 8 of the rules issued by the Financial Commissioner for the revision of tenant entries it was only intended that no alterations should be made in rents fixed by the Settlement Officer at the revised settlement except by decrees passed in suits brought under the Act. The result of this ruling is described in the Extra Assistant Commissioner's report as follows :—

"The number of cases has been increasing to such an extent that, as it were, cases of enhancement of rent may be said to be pending against all the hereditary cultivators in the district. It has been ascertained by scrutiny that at settlement the malikana to be paid to the owners by hereditary cultivators was fixed at from 1 anna to 12 annas on the rupee of Government revenue; but recently in the cases of enhancement of rent which have been decided it has often been awarded at the rate of one rupee per rupee of revenue. It is very probable that in many cases the rate will exceed this, and when proprietors are authorized by law to claim an increase of their share, it is not to be expected they will let the advantage slip."

Sections 37 to 40 of the Act have been, the Extra Assistant Commissioner observes, carefully kept in view, and rents have not been enhanced until a tenant has been compensated for his improvements.

Twenty-nine cases occurred in which a review of judgment was applied for by tenants who had received leases for a term of years in lieu of their right of occupancy in judicial decisions passed at the recent settlement.

In 20 suits the petition for review was admitted, the lease being set aside; 5 were dismissed, and 4 still pending.

Provisions of the Act are understood by the people.

33. The provisions of the Act are said to be generally understood by the people of the Lahore district. The Extra Assistant Commissioner anticipates that the passing of the Act will be for some time regretted by the proprietary class, but the enhancement of rent which proprietors can obtain under its provisions are a great salve to the wounds which the passing of the Act has caused them. He says that although the Act is very favorable to the tenant class, yet when they find that their rents can be so largely increased upon them, "their joy is turned into sorrow." He adds: "In short, in my opinion, the rights of both the proprietors and the tenants are equally well protected by the Act."

Gujránwála district work reviewed.

34. During the revision of the records of the Gujránwála district by Extra Assistant Commissioner Fakir Zahur-ud-din, 6,230 tenants who had been deprived of their rights of occupancy in the recent settlement were summarily restored to their former status. The number of villages in which these corrections have been made amounts to 786, out of 1,201 villages in the whole district. The settlement misls and title-deeds of the same villages have been duly corrected in accordance with the instructions.

Judicial cases instituted and disposed of.

35. The judicial cases instituted in consequence of the Punjab Tenancy Act during the year of revision are as follows,—no separate returns of the suits heard during the period of revision has been received :—

| Nature of Claim. | No. Instituted. | Decided | | Pending. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | In favor of Plaintiff. | In favor of Defendant. | |
| 1.—Suits by tenants for declaration of status under Section 5... | 77 | 24 | 39 | 14 |
| 2.—Ditto ditto Section 6... | 380 | 213 | 144 | 23 |
| 3.—Ditto by landlords for rebuttal of right of occupancy, Section 6 ... ... ... ... | 39 | 20 | 12 | 7 |
| 4.—Ditto ditto for enhancement of rent, Section 11 ... | 1 | ... | 1 | ... |
| 5.—Ditto by tenants for abatement of rent, Section 14 | 2 | 1 | 1 | ... |
| 6.—Ditto for ejectment of tenants with right of occupancy on payment of compensation, Section 19, Clause 2 ... | 11 | 9 | 2 | ... |
| 7.—Number of cases of alienation of rights of occupancy, Section 34 ... ... ... ... | 11 | 7 | 4 | ... |
| 8.—Number of cases in which landlords have obtained pre-emption ... ... ... ... | 10 | 3 | 3 | 4 |
| 9.—Number of successions by collateral, Section 36 ... | 8 | 4 | 2 | 2 |
| TOTAL ... | 539 | 281 | 208 | 50 |

Thus, combining the two results, 6,467 tenants have been restored to the status of which they were deprived in the recent settlement.

Judicial cases decided at the recent settlement.

36. It was found that at the revised settlement 73 had been decided judicially at the recent settlement in which tenants with rights of occupancy had been reduced to the position of tenants with leases for a term of years.

Only 3 petitions were presented for a review of judgment in these cases. The Deputy Commissioner remarks that the permission for such review being instituted does not seem to have been generally known.

Number of tenants whose status was reduced at the recent settlement.

37. The total number of tenants whose status was reduced at the recent settlement amounted to 10,451; of the 3,984 not accounted for above, 702 died childless, and 3,282 are said to have voluntarily surrendered their holdings. The Extra Assistant Commissioner considers that the revision of tenant entries could not well be otherwise than distasteful to the village proprietors; and Mr. Wood, the Deputy Commissioner, endorses this opinion. It will be observed that only in one case during this year was recourse had to the privilege conferred by section 11 of the Act for enhancement of rent. This provision does not appear to have been understood, and there is nothing remarkable under those circumstances in the opinions expressed by the officers above mentioned.

PART II.

General Results.

Number of tenants in the five districts restored to their former status.

38. Thus, in the five districts where revision has been effected, 63,072 tenants who were deprived of their right of occupancy by the recent settlement operations have been restored to their former status by a correction in the misls of 5,755 villages. The entry given in paragraph 10 of this report has been made on the records of 7,206 villages, and the title-deeds of proprietors and cultivators have been accordingly corrected in 6,904 villages. As the latter operation was not complete in the Lahore district when the return was submitted, it is probable that in all villages for which the former process has been effected the latter will also be carried out. In the other four districts the two processes have been carried on simultaneously in each village.

Number of tenants in Amritsar division with right of occupancy reduced to tenants-at-will.

39. It was alleged in the debate on the Punjab Tenancy Bill that in the Amritsar division alone there were 46,000 tenants with the right of occupancy who had been reduced to the position of tenants-at-will during the recent settlement. The number in that division who by the executive process alone have now been restored to the position amounts to 44,426.

It appears that these corrections have been fully and carefully carried out, and without inconvenience to the people. More than one-third of the number of corrections in the status of cultivators have been effected in the Siálkot district.

The numbers are as follow:—

|---|---|
| Amritsar ... ... ... ... | 11,951 |
| Gurdáspur ... ... ... ... | 10,578 |
| Siálkot ... ... ... ... | 21,897 |
| Lahore ... ... ... ... | 12,416 |
| Gujránwála ... ... ... ... | 6,230 |
| Total ... | 63,072 |

And to these must be added the number of those tenants to whom the status of cultivator with right of occupancy was decreed in a judicial decision.

Suits brought under the provisions of the Act.

40. A statement of suits brought under the provisions of the Act has been prepared, but must be accepted with some qualifications. The general results are as follows:—

Cases instituted during the earlier months of the year.

41. Among the suits by tenants for declaration of status under Section 6 a majority of cases were those instituted during the earlier months of the year, when it was not known that a restoration of the status of those who were deprived of it under the recent settlement operations would form an executive, and not a judicial, process.

Suits for declaration of status under Section 5.

42. The number of suits instituted by tenants for declaration of status under Section 5 cannot be accounted for in the several districts by any local influences. In Gurdáspur nearly half the total number of these cases took place. It will be observed that nearly half the number of those who sought thus to enhance the value of their status were successful.

Suits for rebuttal of presumptive right of occupancy.

43. Suits for rebuttal of presumptive right of occupancy did not reach in number more than 1 in every 14 villages where corrections were made, and not 1 per cent. on the number of tenants restored to their status.

Suits for enhancement of rent.

44. Suits for enhancement of rent, which are rightly considered by Extra Assistant Commissioner Ghulám Nabbi Khán as the means by which the landlords are compensated under the Act for the loss of their short-lived advantages, were instituted in very small numbers—not more than in the proportion of 1 to every 60 villages under revision; but in the case of the Lahore district the Extra Assistant Commissioner expressed his opinion that these suits will be largely resorted to. Further on, it will be seen that this anticipation was correct, and that the landlords of other districts were not slow to avail themselves of the same advantages.

Judicial suits subsequently entertained during the year 1871.

45. The judicial suits brought during revision operations having been considered under the head of each district separately and collectively for the five districts, those subsequently entertained during the year 1871 will now be reviewed, as intimated in paragraph 14 of this report. A statement of these cases is given among the Appendices to this report as No. III.

Four classes that call for remarks.

46. Four classes only of the suits therein detailed call for remarks, the remainder not being in sufficient numbers to establish any conclusions of value. These classes are,—suits by tenants for declaration of status under Sections 5 and 6 of the Act, suits by landlords for rebuttal of presumptive rights of occupancy under Section 6, and for enhancement of rent under Section 11. The number of pending suits in the last column but four of the statement corresponds with the number shown in the appropriate column of the statement for 1870,—with one exception, that the number of suits by tenants for declaration of status under Section 5 of the Act in the latter is 73, and in the former 71; and this is explained to be due to an error in the Gujránwála returns for the former year, as stated in the column of remarks.

Table showing the number of cases under these classes.

47. The following abstract shows the number of cases for each district under these four classes decided during the year:—

| | Amritsar. | | Sialkot. | | Gurdaspur. | | Lahore. | | Gujranwala. | | Total. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | For Plaintiff. | For Defendant. | For Plaintiff. | For Defendant. | For Plaintiff. | For Defendant. | For Plaintiff. | For Defendant. | For Plaintiff. | For Defendant. | For Plaintiff. | For Defendant. |
| Suits by tenants for declaration of status under Section 5 ... | 51 | 105 | 45 | 35 | 1 | 4 | ... | ... | 57 | 81 | 154 | 225 |
| Ditto ditto Section 6 ... | 19 | 8 | 87 | 69 | 193 | 105 | ... | ... | 95 | 123 | 394 | 305 |
| Suits by landlords for rebuttal of presumption of right of occupancy of tenant under Section 6 ... | 149 | 103 | 31 | 20 | 92 | 97 | 4 | 6 | 15 | 40 | 291 | 266 |
| Suits by landlords for enhancement of rent under Section 11 ... | 26 | 25 | 62 | 20 | 278 | 135 | 67 | 2 | 8 | 2 | 441 | 184 |

As might have been anticipated, the number of suits by tenants for declaration of status shows a small proportion to the number of similar suits decided during the year in which the revision was being affected. Most of the claims were then brought forward and disposed of. The total absence of such suits in the Lahore district would point to the completeness of the investigation made by Extra Assistant Commissioner Ghulám Nabi Khán, as it cannot fail to be noticed from a perusal of his report; but ordinarily in the case of each district the numbers of these suits diminished in each succeeding month, until towards the close of the year a minimum was arrived at.

Suits by landlords for rebuttal of right of occupancy.

48. The same process may be traced with regard to suits by landlords for rebuttal of right of occupancy; but the number of such cases slightly exceeded the number decided in the previous year, showing an increased appreciation of this provision of the Act.

Suits by landlords for enhancement of rent.

49. Further, when we consider the suits by landlords for enhancement of rent we find that the number decided was nearly eight times as large as that of the previous year. Moreover, the number of decrees granted to landlords out of the number decided bears a much larger proportion to the total number than is apparent with regard to any other class of suits, from which it may be inferred, not only that the people are aware of the privilege conceded to the landlords by Section 11 of the Act, but also that the courts are not slow to confer it.

Statements showing the number of such cases in which enhancement was decreed.

50. With regard to this subject the statements Nos. IV and V are appended, giving the number of suits for enhancement of rent in which enhancement was decreed for every district in the province, as intimated in paragraph 15 of this report. The results shown by these statements are not remarkable, but they show that in some parts of the country, besides those in which revision of entries has brought the Act to their doors, its provisions in respect to enhancement of rent are not wholly lost sight of by the landlords. Mr. Egerton has reason to believe from inquiries made by him in Siálkot and Gurdáspur, that the number of suits does not represent anything like the number of cases in which enhancement of rent has taken place. The figures in return No. V show in some degree the extent of the enhancement which has been decreed by the courts under the provisions of the Tenancy Act.

Number of tenants whose status has been restored.

51. The total number of tenants whose status has been restored, or declared to be that of cultivators with rights of occupancy, up to the close of 1871, for the five districts in which revision took place, is as follows:—

| | Persons. |
|---|---|
| By executive process ... ... ... ... | 63,072 |
| „ judicial ditto, 1870 ... .. ... ... | 4,357 |
| „ ditto, 1871 ... ... ... ... | 548 |
| TOTAL ... | 69,977 |

This result, combined with the increase of suits by landlords for enhancement of rent, leads to the following general conclusion, viz., that the effect of the Punjab Tenancy Act has been to re-establish to a very great extent the former status of cultivators, while, as a compensating element, the powers of enhancement of rent thereby conferred upon the landlords are being gradually brought into exercise, dispelling the notion that the provisions of the Act are entirely in the interests of the cultivators. If the power of enhancing the rent of tenants with right of occupancy during the period of settlement had been granted sooner, there would have been much less difference of opinion on the subject of these tenants.

Conclusion.

„ Fakír Zahur-ud-din.
„ Ghulám Nabbi Khán.

52. In conclusion I am to observe that the officers who were entrusted with the duty of revising the entries in the settlement records have performed their work well.

No discontent likely to arise from the operation of the Act.

53. There has been none of the extensive discontent which it was apprehended might arise from the operation of the Act; nor does the Financial Commissioner think it likely that any will hereafter arise.

Withdrawal of special appellate jurisdiction conferred on Financial Commissioner.
No. 912, dated 4th December 1868.
No. 1194, dated 4th October 1869.

54. The work of revision has been completed, and the greater number of the cases arising out of the revision have been decided. The Financial Commissioner considers therefore that the special appellate jurisdiction in cases relating to the status of tenants which was conferred on him by the Government notifications marginally noted may now be withdrawn.

Rules for carrying into effect the Punjab Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868) in districts recently settled.

The Punjab Tenancy Act is in force in all districts, and claims instituted under it will be disposed of by the ordinary civil courts, except in districts where the jurisdiction of the revenue courts, described in Section 21, Act XIX of 1865, has been continued or revived quoad cases under this Act, and districts where settlement operations are in progress.

2. The effect of the Act and of the orders of Government issued in connection therewith is that, as regards the rights of tenants, the records of the first settlement are presumably correct. The records of the recent settlements in the districts of Amritsar, Siálkot, Gurdáspur, Lahore, and Gujránwála must therefore be revised.

3. This revision is ordered by Government as an administrative matter. It is therefore not necessary to wait for tenants to petition for restoration to their former status. It should be made generally known that no such petitions are required, and that the entries of the record of the first settlement will be restored without them.

4. The settlement establishments having been withdrawn from the above districts, it has been determined by Government that the work of revision shall be carried out under the superintendence of selected Native Extra Assistant Commissioners, of whom one has been appointed for each district.

5. As regards occupancy rights (Chapter II of the Act), the duty of these officers will be to revise the entries made in the recent settlements,—to erase the invalid entries in red ink, and to make in each case a fresh entry in red ink, stating that the tenant has a presumptive right of occupancy under Section 6 of the Act, and to inform the parties interested, leaving it to the proprietor to take the necessary measures for rebutting the presumption of occupancy rights should he think fit to do so, and to the tenant to take the necessary measures for obtaining an authoritative declaration of his precise status as a tenant, viz., whether he belongs to class (1), (2), (3) or (4) of Section 5, or to the classes described in Sections 6 or 8.

6. The revising officers must not undertake the work of classification of tenants proprio motu.

7. Entries relating to the matters treated of in Section 16 of Chapter III, and in Chapters IV, V and VI of the Act, viz., commutation of rent, ejectment, relinquishment, leases, alienation and succession, and compensation for tenants' improvements, are also affected by the terms of the Act and of the Government orders, and, strictly speaking, should be revised in the same way as the entries affecting occupancy; but it has been determined by Government that it will be sufficient to record on each settlement misl in red ink, under the signature of the Extra Assistant Commissioner, both in the Government copy (or copies) and in the patwari's copy, an entry to the following effect:—

> "Nothing in this misl which relates to the subjects treated of in Section 16 of Chapter III, or in Chapters IV, V, and VI of the Punjab Tenancy Act, shall be considered valid if opposed to the entries made in the first regular settlement, unless it is supported by an agreement or a decree of court, or is valid under Section 45 of the Act."

8. With regard to Sections 10 to 15 of Chapter III, treating of "rent," it must be noted that, as the rates of rent of tenants with right of occupancy were fixed at the first settlement for the term of settlement only, and were therefore liable to revision when the assessment was revised, the enhanced rates of rent imposed at the revised settlement are protected by Section 45 of the Act, and are not to be altered without a decree.

9. In cases where the entry in the recent settlement is in accordance with a degree of court, or an agreement in writing between the parties of the nature described in Section 2 of the Act, no correction of the new record is to be made.

10. The correction of the entries of status of cultivators, and the insertion of the general note in the patwari's copy of the settlement misl, should be made simultaneously with the correction of the Government copy (or copies), and each revised entry should be signed by the Extra Assistant Commissioner.

11. The above procedure will provide for the correction of the official records of the settlement. But provision must also be made for the correction of the title-deeds in the hands of the cultivators and their landlords.

12. The correction both of the official records and of the extracts in the hands of the people should be effected according to patwaris' circles of villages.

Each patwari must collect the extracts from settlement records held by cultivators and their landlords, and must bring them with him to the court of the revising officer (Extra Assistant Commissioner). They will there be altered in accordance with the alterations made in the settlement records; the alterations will be attested and signed by the Extra Assistant Commissioner, or by his responsible subordinate, the qánúngo acting immediately under his orders, and will be restored to the parties under the orders of the Extra Assistant Commissioner.

13. No fee is to be charged for these alterations of extracts under any pretence whatever.

14. Any document supplied to the people by the settlement authorities, whether an extract of the above nature or an extract from other parts of the settlement record, which touches upon the subjects treated of in Section 16 of Chapter III, or Chapters IV, V, and VI, should have the above-quoted general remark recorded on it, and the meaning of the remark should be explained to the parties concerned. The procedure with regard to this operation will be the same as the above.

15. The Commissioners will direct the qánúngos, naib qánúngos and patwaris of each district to be placed under the orders of the revising officers.

16. The work of revision should be undertaken tahsil by tahsil, and there will be no objection to employing the whole staff of qánúngos and naib qánúngos of the district in supervising the correction of the records of a single tahsil if it is found convenient to make this arrangement.

17. It is of great importance that the rectifications which the Tenancy Act renders necessary should be made quickly and correctly. Any alterations which may be required in consequence of decrees passed in suits brought under the Act can be made when each decree is passed, and there is no need whatever to delay making the rectifications because it is anticipated that there will be numerous suits brought to set aside the record of the first settlement. With reference to paragraph 6 of letter No. 103, dated 4th February, from Secretary to Government, Punjab, to Financial Commissioner, the revising officers are not to consider themselves precluded from hearing suits brought under the Act. The work of rectification of the new settlement record is the work for which they are specially appointed, and the hearing of suits must not be allowed to interfere with this work; but with this proviso the revising officers should decide cases as they arise as promptly as possible.

18. Section 43 of the Act and the stamp clauses of Sections 17 and 40 having been repealed by the Court Fees' Act VII of 1870, the proper stamps for cases between landlord and tenant will be found in the last part of Section 8 of that Act and in Article 5 of Schedule II.

19. A selection of the correspondence on which the present orders are based will be circulated for information.

Report by MUNSHÍ GHULÁM NABI KHÁN, Extra Assistant Commissioner, on the revision of Settlement Records with regard to hereditary tenure of tenant, &c., under Act XXVIII. of 1868.

SECTION I.

INTRODUCTORY.

The revision of settlement records under Act XXVIII of 1868 was commenced about the month of December 1869, and as no other instructions than those contained in the Financial Book Circular No. 18 of the 23rd December 1868 had been till then issued as to the mode of carrying out the provisions of the Act, the procedure prescribed in that circular was followed.

2. It was provided in paragraphs 4 and 5 of the letter from the Secretary to Government, Punjab, subjoined to the above circular, that in revising the records the opportunity should be taken of classifying tenants having, or presumed to have, a right of occupancy under Sections 5 and 6 of the Act. But as this could not be satisfactorily ascertained without judicial inquiry, the applications of tenants for the restoration of occupancy rights which had already been received and had been collected in the office, as also those subsequently presented, were treated as regular suits, and this procedure was continued until the new rules were issued.

3. As the investigation of the hereditary tenure of the tenants thus depended on the presentation of applications by them,—on this becoming known to them they began to present their applications, and up to the date of the issue of the new rules with reference to revision in April 1870, 1,107 such applications were received.

4. On receipt of the new rules judicial inquiries in these cases were entirely discontinued. The applications already received from the cultivators, with the exception of those in which judicial investigations had been completed, were all filed on record, and the revision was carried out according to the new rules.

5. This process of revision was taken in hand on the 10th May 1870. The Shurrukpur tahsil was first taken up; and the patwaris and naib qánúngos were summoned and placed under the superintendence of Wali Rám, the Sadr Qánúngo, and the work was carried on under my general supervision. When the work of that tahsil was completed, the other tahsils were taken up successively, and the revision of the entire district was thus brought to a conclusion in August 1870.

6. A summary investigation was made with reference to each holding by inquiry from the patwari, and in special cases by examination of the rent-roll, &c., of past year; and further inquiry was made through the tahsildars as to whether the cultivator was recorded as hereditary at the previous settlement, or his legal heirs had remained in possession and continued to cultivate the land until the preparation of the statement of investigation into the rights of hereditary cultivators prepared at the present settlement. All those whose possession was found to be continuous had revision effected in their favor, whilst those who had ceased to be in possession before the preparation of that statement were not affected by the revision, and any tenant of the latter class who put forward his claim to revision was instructed to institute a regular civil suit.

7. The revision was effected in the following manner:—

1*st*.—An entry of the purport of Rule VII of the rules issued by the Financial Commissioner, given in the margin, was made on each of the settlement misls, i. e., that in the district office and that with the patwari. The following entry was made in red ink against each holding in the statement of the fields contained in each holding and against each field in the khasrah: "This tenant has the right of occupancy in the land under Section 6, Act XXVIII of 1868." These words, however, were not repeated in each individual instance, but as far as possible this entry was made once for all against one holding, and a reference to it was inserted against the remaining holdings. In the "extracts of khateonis" and "agreement of proprietors" given at settlement to the land-owners similar entries were made in red ink with reference to the cultivators. Wherever any change was made in a settlement file I attested it with my signature; the extracts of the khateonis were similarly attested by Wali Rám, Sadr Qánúngo.

Nothing in this misl which relates to the subjects treated of in Section 16 of Chapter 3, or in Chapter 45 and 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, shall be considered valid if opposed to the entries made in the first regular settlement, unless it is supported by an agreement or a decree of Court, or is valid under Section 45 of the Act.

SECTION II.

Tenants whose tenures were recorded as hereditary at the revision of settlement.

8. In Appendix A, columns 6 to 13, a detail is given of those tenants who at revision were recorded as having hereditary rights in accordance with the former settlement record; of those the rights of 931 persons (in columns 7 and 8) were ascertained by judicial investigation prior to the receipt of Financial Commissioner's instructions, as mentioned in paragraph 2 of this report.

9. In this class of suits the only point for investigation was to which of the classes described in Sections 5 and 6 of the Act the plaintiffs belonged. The proprietors who were the defendants utterly denied the truth of the claims preferred, without rebutting the presumption in their favor in the manner described in the latter part of Section 6 of the Act. None of the proprietors met the claims in these cases in this manner. The determination of the status of tenants in the cases above-mentioned should therefore be considered as sufficient and final, and no tenants should, except by appeal to a higher court, be allowed to institute a suit for the investigation of his tenure; but the proprietor may bring regular suits under the last portion of Section 6 to rebut the presumptive rights of occupancy awarded in favor of tenants under first portion of same section.

10. In column 9 are entered 1,421 tenants holding leases. These are the persons who on the investigation made into occupancy rights at the late settlement obtained leases from the proprietors for fixed periods and were recorded as tenants-at-will. At the commencement of the revision it was thought that no regard should be paid to those agreements, the proprietors being left to bring regular civil suits upon the leases granted by them if they thought proper to do so. It was, however, urged in one case by a proprietor that the deed executed by his tenant had been attested before the Settlement Officer, and that therefore under the latter part of Section 6 the tenant was not entitled to claim the right of occupancy in opposition to his own contract. The Commissioner being referred to on the point, considered the proprietor's objection valid owing to this, while all such cases in which revision had taken place were allowed to stand. Subsequently tenants who had executed such leases were excluded from the benefit of revision. Column 9 shows the number of tenants on lease who obtained the benefit of revision prior to the receipt of the above instructions.

11. Column 10 of the Appendix is very clear. In it are entered those tenants who were recorded as hereditary after the summary inquiry mentioned in paragraph 6 and in the manner described in paragraph 7.

SECTION III.

Tenants regarding whom no revision has taken place.

12. The following are the particulars of tenants excluded from the benefit of revision :—

I.—At the late settlement, besides the summary investigation into the rights of tenants effected by the aid of assessors, &c., regular suits were also instituted either by the proprietors against the tenants recorded as having rights of occupancy (prior to the preparation of the lists of tenants), or by the tenants who were deprived of rights of occupancy at the summary investigation to establish their occupancy rights. With reference to the second division of the latter part of Section 6 of the Act, no revision was made in favor of the tenants who had not succeeded in establishing their claims in such cases. A reference to column 15 will show that the number of such tenants was 193.

II.—Under the provisions of Section 6 of the Act the revision was made in those cases only in which the tenants had continuously occupied the land ever since the previous settlement; while the names of all those who appeared to have been out of possession at the time of the preparation of the list of hereditary tenants, or those who had subsequently given up the land and settled in some other village, or had died, were omitted. The number of such tenants, as per Appendix A, column 16, is 3,362.

III.—In column 17, Appendix A, 983 persons are shown whose land was carried away by the river after the previous settlement, and had remained under water until the late settlement. No revision could be made in such cases. They were left to be settled in case of dispute between the landlord and the tenant by a regular suit when the land was recovered.

IV.—It has been stated in paragraph 10 that it was directed by the Commissioner that those tenants who had obtained leases as tenants-at-will should not be admitted to the benefit of revision. Hence no revision has been made in such cases after the receipt of the order referred to, and the entries made at the present settlement have been allowed to stand. The number of such tenants, who are entered in column 18, was 217.

V.—It may be mentioned that the number of leases executed at the late settlement in the Kasúr tahsil exceeds by far the numbers in other tahsils. In column 5, Appendix A, the number of tenants deprived of rights of occupancy is shown to be 7,296. Of these there were 2,963 who obtained leases. The percentage of tenants who obtained leases is thus 40.

13. It appears from Appendix A that in Lahore district there were at the former settlement 22,802 hereditary tenants; of these 2,745 only were recorded as hereditary at the late settlement, and 20,057 were deprived of rights of occupancy. At the present revision 13,374 have been restored to their former position, and 6,720 have not been admitted to the benefit of revision. In other words, about two-thirds of the number recorded as hereditary cultivators at the former settlement have retained their status, and the remaining one-third have lost it.

SECTION IV.

Procedure adopted in cases instituted and decided under Act XXVIII of 1868.

14. Appendix B shows the cases which were filed after the revision under the provision of the Act by the proprietors against the tenants. The statement includes all such cases decided by judicial officers of the Lahore district; for though such cases are generally received and heard in my court, they are by no means exclusively restricted to it, but are also filed and heard in other courts.

15. The particulors of the single case entered in column 1 of Appendix B are as follows:—

On revision the tenant was entered in red ink as hereditary under Section 6 of the Act. The proprietor filed a suit on the ground that on a previous suit brought by him against the tenants the latter had agreed to quit the land and a decree had been passed. Accordingly, on investigation, the proprietor's statement was found to be correct, and a decree was therefore given in his favor under Section 2 of the Act, and the alteration made in the revision was set aside.

16. In column 5, Appendix B, are entered 24 cases; of these 6 are cases in which decrees were passed. In all these the proprietors' claims were admitted by the tenants. In 4 of them tenants agreed, the confession of judgment was owing to an agreement between the proprietors and the tenants that a portion of the land should be restored to the former, and the remainder retained by the cultivators as permanent occupants. Decree was accordingly passed in favor of the proprietors for the portion given up by the tenants. In the other 2 cases the tenants agreed to give up their claim to occupancy rights on condition of being allowed to cultivate the land for ten years. In the remaining 18 cases the plaintiff's claim could not be proved, as in these cases of the 30 years mentioned in the 1st clause of the 2nd part of Section 6 of the Act seven years belonged to the time of the Sikh Government, when the land was not of any great importance, and when there was little difference between the proprietary and non-proprietary class of cultivators. The jagirdars realized their demands from the cultivators, whether proprietors or not, by appraisement or division of crops. It is therefore very difficult now to ascertain what tenants were ejected from their holdings at the will of their landlords during that period. As regards the remaining 23 years, it has not been shown that any tenants by any sufficient precedent entitled to rights of occupancy were ejected from their holdings at the will of the proprietors. Clause 2 comprises cases in which tenants have voluntarily admitted at the revision of records or investigation of claims that they would resign their title to land, or that they would in future cultivate subject to the proprietor's will. In suits of this description wherever investigation was made it was ascertained that no tenant agreed before any Settlement Officer of his own free will to resign his occupancy rights. On the contrary, it appears that it was then currently rumoured that no cultivators would be allowed to retain hereditary rights, and therefore these men, considering that if they opposed the wish of the proprietors they would be ejected at once, contrived to retain possession by assenting to a postponement of the proprietor's claim; but such consent is clearly not what is contemplated by Clause 2 of Section 6 of the Act.

17. The following are the particulars of the case entered in column 9 of Appendix B. The village was a pattidari one, and the tenant, besides holding occupancy rights in the land in dispute, had also proprietary rights in the village. The proprietor (plaintiff) alleged that the land was village common before the previous settlement, and that it was allotted to him in a division then effected, and that therefore under the latter part of Section 9 the tenant had not acquired occupancy rights in the land. The case, however, was dismissed on the grounds that the land claimed is not village common, and that Section 9 applies to those cases only which do not fall under any of the previous Sections 5, 6, or 8, and accordingly in the present case, as the occupancy rights of the tenant had been admitted under Section 6, the plaintiff had no remedy under Section 9.

18. Suits for enhancement of rents under Sections 10 to 13 of the Act were more numerous than any other class, and are still being instituted. They will probably continue to be instituted in large numbers, as the proprietors of land, which was at the recent settlement declared to be held at their will, and which has now been restored to the cultivators under the Act, whose rights of occupancy they would find it difficult, if not impossible, under the provisions of the Act to set aside, will endeavour to obtain compensation by enhancement of rents.

19. At first I thought that the number of cases for the enhancement of rents would not be large, as I supposed that when Settlement Officers had awarded an enhanced rent, the proprietors would not be at liberty to sue for enhancement of from five to seven years afterwards, as it had been provided in Clause 8 of the Financial Commissioner's instructions issued with the sanction of Government, that any enhancement of rent made at the settlement should be considered valid under Section 45 of the Act. Although, from the terms of the rule above referred to, it is clear that it was intended to prevent tenants from bringing frivolous suits to set aside the decisions of Settlement Officers enhancing the rent, yet when it is read in connectionwith Section 45 of the Act, the natural conclusion is that no proprietor could until five years had elapsed claim enhancement of the rent rate; for Section 45 distinctly provides that all proceedings of officers of Government prior to the passing of the Act should be considered to be proceedings under the Act, so far as consistent with its provisions. If therefore the enhancement effected by Settlement Officers be considered to have been made in accordance with the Act, Section 13 of the Act will prevent the proprietors from bringing any suit for further enhancement within five years from the conclusion of this settlement. Two cases of this kind were filed in my court in which the Settlement Officer had increased the rent rate, and the proprietors, considering the enhancement awarded to be insufficient, applied for further enhancement. I dismissed these cases on the ground that a suit for enhancement would not lie until five years had elapsed, but on appeal my decision was overruled, and it was laid down that the rule, with instructions issued by the Financial Commissioner, simply meant that no alteration should be made in the course of the revision in the rent fixed by the Settlement Officers, and that it was in no way intended to debar any one from having recourse to regular suits. Since then the number of cases has been increasing to such an extent that, as it were, cases of enhancement of rent may be said to be pending against all the hereditary cultivators in the district. It has been ascertained by scrutiny that at settlement the malikana to be paid to the owners by hereditary cultivators was fixed at from 1 to 12 annas on the rupee of Government revenue, but recently in the cases of enhancement of rent which have been decided, it has often been awarded at the rate of one rupee per rupee of the revenue; and there is no limit to the rate at which enhancement may be awarded, as at present cases of enhancement of rent are decided in accordance with Clause 3, Section 11 of the Act, under which the rate can be increased to any amount which is not in excess of the rates paid by tenants-at-will holding similar land in the same or neighbouring villages, less the percentage specified in that clause, so that there is no limit to the rate at which rent may be fixed. It is very probable that in many cases the rate will exceed one rupee per rupee of the revenue, and when proprietors are authorized by law to claim an increase of their share, it is not to be expected that they will let the advantage slip.

20. It should also be noted that in dealing with applications for enhancement of rent in addition to Section 11 the provisions of Sections 37 to 40 were kept in view. For instance, where it appeared that the tenant had within the last 30 years constructed a masonry well or repaired an old one, or had dug a canal-cut, or had broken up waste or otherwise improved the land, inquiry was made as to the amount laid out by the cultivators upon such improvements. It was then considered within what period the amount laid out upon improvements could be made up by remitting the difference between the enhanced rate awarded and the former malikana, and the proprietor was then instructed to pay at once the whole amount laid out by the tenant upon improvements, in which case he should be entitled to receive the rent at the enhanced rate; or, if he did not do so, that the tenant should be entitled to hold at the former rate until he was compensated by the difference for his outlay, or until the proprietor should pay him the amount due as compensation, which, in consideration of his holding at the lower rate, would decrease year by year.

21. In column 14, Appendix B, decree is shown to have been given in 20 cases. Of these, two cases were decided on confession of judgment, the rule of malikana being fixed at 9 annas per rupee as Government revenue, by consent of both parties. The remaining cases were decided on the merits, besides th einvestigation in court,—commission being issued for local inquiry to the naib tahsildar, or in some cases to the sadr qánúngo, who were instructed to ascertain the annual produce of the land. The cases were then disposed of under Clause 3 of Section 11 of the Act, by comparison with the rate of rent paid by tenants-at-will. In column 15 49 cases are shown as dismissed. Of these, 45 cases are of the single village of Tat, and they were disposed of by the Assistant Commissioner of Kasúr in the earlier part of the inquiry. The remaining four cases were decided by this court. Of these, two cases are those which have been already mentioned in paragraph 19. In the other two cases defendant produced an agreement from the plaintiff fixing the rent, and therefore, with reference to the provisions of Section 2 of the Act, no enhancement could be decreed contrary to the terms of the agreement. In appeal in all the above cases, except the last two, in one of which no appeal was preferred, the Commissioner, after such further inquiry as was necessary, reversed the orders of the first court, and awarded an enhancement of rent.

22. Up to the present time only three suits, which are shown in column 17 of statement B, have been instituted by proprietors under Clause 2 of Section 19 of the Act to deprive tenants of rights of occupancy. In two of those the plaintiffs' claims were dismissed, it having been found that the cultivator had been in possession for more than 30 years. In the third case decree was given to the plaintiff, and after local inquiry compensation was fixed at Rs. 13-2-6 per ghumao. I believe this rate to be quite sufficient, considering that the land was simply barani (rain cultivation). The plaintiff has accepted this rate, and paid Rs. 361-8-0 for 27 ghumaos 4 kanals of land, but the tenant is altogether dissatisfied, and has appealed to the Commissioner's Court.

23. Only one suit was brought under Section 36 of the Tenancy Act to dispossess the collateral relatives of a deceased tenant with rights of occupancy. On inquiry it was found that the cultivation of the land had been commenced by the grand-father, present occupant, and cultivator of the deceased, and that after his death his sons jointly cultivated the land, and that it was only recently that the deceased and the present occupant, who were full cousins, separated their holdings. The suit of the plaintiff was therefore dismissed.

24. Out of the four cases shown in column 25, two were decided by Mr. F. D. O. Bullock, Assistant Commissioner, and two by Diwán Byjnáth, Honorary Extra Assistant Commissioner, and no further mention of these cases is necessary beyond this that, when the case was dismissed, the judgment of the court of first instance was reversed by Commissioner on appeal.

25. Appendix C includes all the suits instituted by the cultivators; columns 1 to 28 show those suits which were decided before the issue of the Financial Commissioner's rules for revision of settlement were judicially decided, as has been mentioned in paragraph 2 of this report; column 29 shows such applications as under the new rules were filed in the record office, without judicial inquiry, as explained in paragraphs 3 and 4 of this report.

26. Suits instituted by tenants after the revision of the settlement was completed are shown in columns 30 to 57. With reference to these, it need only be mentioned that the 21 cases in column 46 under Section 6 of the Act are those which are noticed in column 74 of this statement, and in column 6 of the second part of Statement C, and which will further be noticed in paragraph 29 and clause 1 of paragraph 33 of this report.

Column 50 shows two cases under Section 8 of the Tenancy Act. These were cases in which the cultivators, contrary to the entry in the record of the former settlement, claimed the right of occupancy on the ground of long possession. The facts of the case, in which decree was given in favor of the cultivator, were as follow:—

"The land of a nazul garden, known as Jowála Sing's garden, has since the Sikh government been always under the cultivation of Iláhi Buksh. Pír Buksh, Daliwálla, the lessee of the garden for life, ejected the cultivator. On inquiry the long possession of the plaintiff was established, and it was also found that in 1850 Mr. Raikes, Commissioner, had ordered that he should not be disturbed in his possession by any lessee; decree of the right of possession was therefore given in his favor under Section 8 of the Act. In the second case it was at first found plaintiff had no rights of occupancy, but on further inquiry being made by order of the appellate court, it was found that the cultivator had held adverse possession for 28 years, as he had never paid anything to the proprietor as rent beyond the Government revenue and the village expenses, and that 18 years ago he had constructed a masonry well in the land at his own expense. The right of occupancy was therefore admitted under Section 8, and his status was declared to be that of hereditary cultivators under Clause 1 of Section 6, except that he was protected from any action which might be brought by the proprietor under the latter part of Clause 2 of that Section.

27. In columns 58 to 69 are shown the suits instituted by cultivators complaining of excessive rents having been fixed by the Settlement Officers. All these applications were dismissed, as the causes of action were in neither of the two mentioned in Section 14 of the Act. Two suits were brought under Section 16 of the Act. In one of these the claim was dismissed, as the proprietor claimed commutation of a cash rent to a share in the produce without the defendant's consent, and contrary to the former settlement. The second case is still pending. It is one in which at the previous settlement payment in kind at one-fourth the produce was fixed; but the cultivator contends that he never paid a share of the produce, but has always paid cash. The proprietor claims payment of a share in the produce at the rate paid by tenants-at-will of similar land in the same and adjacent villages, less 15 per centum on Government revenue. As the defendant does not agree to pay rent in kind, inquiry is being made as to whether, after the previous settlement and up to the commencement of the present settlement, the rent was paid in kind or in money, and the case will be decided on the merits after this has been ascertained.

28. Of the three cases contained in column 70, one is a case in which a nephew claimed succession to the hereditary cultivation of his deceased uncle. Decree was given in favor of the claimant under Section 36, it having been found that the land was originally cultivated by the grand-father of the claimant, on whose death the claimant and his uncle had cultivated jointly. In the remaining two cases the claimants in one were the wife and the nephew of the deceased. No decree could be given in favor of either, as the wife has no right of succession under Section 36 of the Act, and as the conditions contained in that Section in regard to the rights of nephews were not fulfilled in the case of second claimant, it not being proved that the common ancestor of the claimant and the deceased had been in possession of the land. It was proved that the cultivation commenced with the deceased. In the third case it was proved before the Assistant Commissioner of Kassúr that the custom in the village Tat in which the land was situate was that on the death of a hereditary cultivator without issue the land lapsed to the proprietor; and as the hereditary cultivator had died before Act XXVIII of 1868 came into force, the claimant, who was his nephew, was excluded from the succession, and the land was brought under the personal cultivation of the proprietors, it was held that the plaintiff's claim could not be revived by the passing of the Act.

29. It has already been stated in paragraph 6 of this report that no revision of the records was made in the case of such cultivators as were found not to be in possession before the preparation of the statement of cultivator's rights. One of those cultivators brought a regular suit to establish his right. On inquiry it was found that shortly before the late settlement the cultivator had been ejected by the proprietor, and brought a suit for possession, in which he obtained a decree which was upheld on appeal. The cultivator had then applied for execution, but the proprietor having preferred a further appeal to the Financial Commissioner, execution had been postponed;—afterwards, when the investigation of the rights of tenants in the Settlement Department commenced, as he was out of possession, he was not recorded as having rights of occupancy. The tenant, considering that the occupancy rights of tenants generally had been set aside by the Settlement Department, and that there was therefore no chance of a hearing, took no action whatever. Under these circumstances his dispossession has been taken to be of the same sort as that of the other tenants whose occupancy rights were set aside at the time of settlement. He has therefore obtained a decree of right of occupancy under Section 6 of the Act against the proprietor. This case is shown in column 74 of statement C, Part I.

30. In statement C, Part II, are shown the regular suits instituted by hereditary cultivators after the completion of the revision. Further mention of these cases will be made in the succeeding paragraphs.

31. Since in the case of those cultivators who were ejected from the land held by them under the statement of investigation into the rights of cultivators prepared at the present settlement, and who have been restored under Section 6 of the Tenancy Act, in some of the earlier cases, as mentioned in paragraphs 3 and 4 of this report, they were reinstated; after judicial investigation they were put in possession on summary applications by way of execution of decree. But on further consideration it appeared that these judicial decisions, like the revision as a matter of course, related only to the maintenance of rights of occupancy and not to delivery of possession; and the cultivators were therefore directed to bring separate suits to obtain possession. The regular suits thus instituted are exhibited in columns 1, 2 and 3 of statement C, Part II. Out of the suits thus instituted, nine were dismissed under the following circumstances: In one case it appeared that two years before the late settlement the proprietor had ejected the cultivator, and that the cultivator had not sued for possession until now. As under Clause 4, Section 7 of Financial Commissioner's Book Circular No. 46 of 1860, only one year is allowed for suits brought by tenants to recover possession, and this does not appear to have been repealed by any subsequent Act or order, the claim of the tenant was dismissed as barred by limitation. In the second case it was found that the tenant had not been dispossessed, but that he sued owing to the proprietor's demanding that he should quit the land. The third case was dismissed by Mr. Macauliffe, Extra Assistant Commissioner, as during the inquiry made by the Settlement Department into the rights of cultivators the tenant (plaintiff in the present case) had admitted before Agha Muhammad, Superintendent of Settlement, that they had given up the land in the previous "har," and had asked that the land should be entered as being under the cultivation of the proprietor himself. The remaining six cases were dismissed for default.

32. Columns 5 to 8 contain the cases in which Settlement Officers had fixed a term for protection in the cultivation in favor of hereditary cultivators by a judicial decision, and in which review was applied for under Financial Commissioner's Circular No. 4171 of 19th July 1870. They also include suits in which review was granted under instructions from the Commissioner, where no protection had been granted by the Settlement Department, but the right of occupancy had been entirely set aside.

33. In column 6, 20 cases are shown in which review has been admitted. The judgments passed in these cases at the time of settlement were not in accordance with the law relating to the decision of civil suits then in force. In eighteen of these cases rights of occupancy were restored under Section 6 of the Tenancy Act, and the proprietors were informed that if they wished to eject the cultivators, they must prove one of the two states of circumstances mentioned in Clauses 1 and 2 of that Section. In two instances the proprietors expressed their readiness immediately to prove that within the last 30 years such cultivators in the same and adjacent villages had been ejected at the will of the proprietors. The cultivators maintained that their ancestors had settled as cultivators in the village along with the proprietors when it was originally founded, and that they had ever since been in possession. On investigation the cultivators clearly established their allegation, and the proprietors failed to prove what they had alleged. The defendants were accordingly declared to be tenants with rights of occupancy under Clause 3, Section 5 of the Tenancy Act. In five cases review was refused, as there was nothing in the original order opposed to law.

34. Only one case is shown in column 9. This was a case in which the land had been swept away by the action of the river after the previous settlement, and was thrown up again at the late settlement, when the proprietors took possession. The tenant sued for possession, but his suit was dismissed, as under the terms of the administration paper of the former settlement land lost by diluvion which had been in the occupancy of a tenant could only be claimed by him when again recovered in case he had remained in the village during the period in which the land had been in the bed of the river. In the present case the tenant had left the village, and after the land was swept away, and had not returned for three years.

35. From Clause 4 of paragraph 12 of this report it will appear that under Section 2 of Act XXVIII of 1868 rights of occupancy were not restored to certain tenants whose hereditary tenure had been set aside at the recent settlement, but who had obtained leases for terms of years instead when their rights were not recognized, as of course at the revision many of these had recourse to the civil court and instituted suits to set aside the contract contained in the lease as invalid on the ground that the Settlement Officer contemplated the ejection of all cultivators who did not enter into agreements for terms of years with the proprietors. The suits shown in column 14 were tried by me and by Mr. Bullock, and as it was found that at the settlement it was generally believed by the cultivators that rights of occupancy would altogether be set aside, and that on this account, in order to retain the land under their cultivation, they entered into leases, and that had they not been influenced by this fear or mistake, they would not have voluntarily abandoned their rights of occupancy, decree was accordingly given under Clause 2, Section 12 of the Punjab Civil Code, Part I. The percentage of hereditary cultivators who entered into leases with the proprietors at settlement was about 25.

36. In column 15 seven cases are shown as dismissed. In three of these it was found that at the settlement the proprietors sued to eject the tenants, and the tenants, agreeing to give up their hereditary rights, accepted leases protecting them for a term of years. Three cases were dismissed by Mr. Bullock on account of the suit not having been properly instituted.

In two other cases the tenants voluntarily agreed to give rent in kind to the proprietors at one-fourth produce, and as they had thus not succeeded in gaining what they had sued for, these suits are returned in the statement as dismissed, it having been deemed unnecessary to add a column for "Razinama" to the statement for two cases only.

V.—MISCELLANEOUS.

37. It was necessary that the landlords and tenants should understand the process of revision and the more important points of the Act. I have no doubt that both the parties, as far as they were capable of comprehending them, have well understood the points affecting their interests, as in the first place the patwaris came to the district head-quarters with the settlement files and khateonis, and were employed for some time in the work of revision; and this gave publicity to it throughout the district, and the proprietors and cultivators ascertained what had been done in the revision from the patwaris. Accordingly many of the tenants whose names were not retained in the list of hereditary tenants for the reasons given in paragraph 12 of this report presented petitions to be maintained in their tenures, and the proprietors likewise filed cases to set aside the hereditary rights of tenants under Clauses 1 and 2 of Section 6 and Section 9, and for the enhancement of rent under Section 11, and to eject tenants under Clause 2 of Section 19 of the Act. All this shows that the effect of the revision and of the Act are generally known to the people. Besides this, the proprietors and tenants who attended court from time to time were also made acquainted with any necessary particulars. Lastly, in January 1871, I went on tour in the district, and on my route inspected some villages in all the tahsils, except the Shurrukpur tahsil, where there are few hereditary tenants, and every halting place, and in the surrounding villages explained the nature of the revision which had been effected and the purport of Sections 5, 6, 8, 11, 14, 19, 32, 34, 36 and 37 of Act XVIII of 1868, in public assemblies. It thus appears that sufficient publicity has been given to the rules, and if further diffusion of this information be desired, explanations may be printed and given to each tenant and landlord.

38. As cases under the Tenancy Act have been heard in my court for more than a year, during which period I have had a great deal of business, and many cases connected with the Act, it is necessary that I should state to the best of my judgment the impressions produced in the minds of the people by the operation of the Act. The passing of the Act will for some time be regretted by the proprietary class, who had obtained an unexpected advantage, and have been at once deprived of it, especially by those who are most intelligent and disposed to reflection, and who by their ability and economy could make a profitable use of their proprietary rights. But when they come to take into account that formerly they usually received merely a nominal sum as malikana from the cultivators, i. e., in the proportion of one anna to the rupee of Government revenue, or a little more in some exceptional cases, and that by means of this Act instead of one anna they are beginning to receive varying amounts up to one rupee, and that there is no limit to still further enhancement, they will become contented as that of the entire proprietary body only those aim at cultivating their proprietary lands in person who had been absent from home in search of service at the commencement of British rule and for some time after, and who are therefore not in possession of so much land as they are themselves able to cultivate. These are comparatively few; and, leaving them out of account, the main object of the proprietors is to obtain an increased income from these lands, and to these the Act is very favorable. With regard to the tenants, although the Act is primâ facie exceedingly favorable to this class, yet when they learn that instead of one anna they may have to pay one rupee, their joy is turned into sorrow. Still when they consider that previously they were being deprived of all connection with the land and had ruin and banishment staring them in the face, and that they have now obtained the right of permanent occupancy, they will not be much dissatisfied with this increase of the malikana payable. In short, in my opinion, the rights of both the proprietors and the tenants are equally well protected by the Act.

* The revision or tenant entries and Settlement Records have been completed in the Gujranwallah tahsil; but 58 reports of patwaris for correction of names of hereditary cultivators remain to be disposed of

In the Wazirabad tahsil the work of revision and correction is completed; but 21 reports of patwaris for corrections of names of hereditary cultivators are pending. Sixty patwaris were employed.

In the Hafizabad tahsil the work of revision and correction of entries completed; only 21 reports as above are pending. All such will have to be enquired into on the spot, and are unconnected with the corrections shown in this Statement. Ninety-four patwaris have been employed

† All tahsils have been completed, with the exception noted in column VII. only. All will be completed in three weeks or a month's time, nor is there any necessity for any establishment: 1 Sadr Kanúngo, 2 Kanúngos, and 2 Naibs, and 272 patwaris (all in district) did the work which was concluded in all June.

‡ No remarks.

§ The whole of the work of revision has been completed.

‖ The revision of tenant entries in Settlement Records and revision of sanads in possession of proprietors and tenants is completed; but out of the sanads shown in column 6, 2,411 sanads are reported to have been lost by proprietors and tenants, and cannot therefore be revised.

In the total 21,897 entries corrected in the Sialkot district are included, of which the detail for each tahsil has not been furnished.

Minute by the Honorable R. H. DAVIES, Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab.

I HAVE purposely delayed reviewing the report of the Financial Commissioner, dated the 3rd April 1872, as I thought a better opinion could be formed of the working of Act XXVIII of 1868 after longer observation. But the Act having now been in force for six years, a sufficient experience of its operation has probably been obtained.

2. At the revised settlement, commenced in 1863, large numbers of cultivators in the districts of Siálkot, Amritsar, Gurdáspur, Lahore and Gujránwálah, recorded as hereditary at the first settlement, were recorded as tenants-at-will. The total number of hereditary tenants originally recorded is not given, but the following is the detail of those restored by revision of the record under the terms of the Act:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Siálkot | ... | 21,897 |
| Amritsar | ... | 11,951 |
| Gurdáspur | ... | 10,578 |
| Lahore | ... | 12,416 |
| Gujránwálah | ... | 6,230 |
| | | 63,072 |

3. The statistics are most complete for the district of Siálkot, where 33,831 tenants were at the first settlement recorded as hereditary. Of these no less than 7,768 had abandoned their holdings previous to the initiation of the second settlement. The remainder, 26,063, were entered as tenants-at-will.

4. The main object of the Act, namely, to set up, in respect of hereditary tenants, the record of the first settlement, was thus by process of summary revision to a great extent secured in the districts where it had been altered. In other districts the record remained intact, but the Act gave to proprietors therein the right to rebut the presumption attaching to the entries of hereditary tenancy.

5. While the Act was under discussion, much apprehension was expressed that this provision would lead to excessive litigation: but this is now proved to have been groundless. A return of the number of suits instituted from 1870 to the close of 1873-74 shows that there were, under Section 6 by landlords for rebuttal of presumptive right of occupancy, 2,907 suits, and of these 2,504 were in the districts of Amritsar, Gurdáspur, Siálkot and Lahore, where the record had been altered at the second settlement.

6. In contrast to these districts are those of Ambálah, Ludiánah, Jálandhar and Hoshiárpur, where, in the same period, suits under Section 6 numbered only 105.

7. I am personally aware that the entries of hereditary tenancy were, at the first settlement in Jálandhar and Ambálah, made under precisely the same rules as in the Bári Doáb; for I myself obtained from the Settlement Officers, Messrs. Wynyard and Pearson, the vernacular rules by which their establishments were guided, and prescribed them, without variation on this point, for the direction of my own. This course was in accordance with the orders of the Government of India, dated 31st March 1849, prescribing the instructions in force in the North-West Provinces as the "Revenue Code" of the Punjab. I attribute the greater litigation under Section 6 in the Amritsar, Gurdáspur, Siálkot and Lahore districts, as compared with those on the left banks of the Bias and Satlej, entirely to the modifications made in the tenant entries in the former at the second settlement. It is impossible for me to come to any other conclusion when I learn from the last Revenue Report* that there are in the Jálandhar district alone 18,174 tenants with a right of occupancy, 14,784 of whom pay cash rents fixed for the term of settlement, and thus furnish a strong provocation to the disturbance of their position to landlords really aggrieved by it; and that nevertheless only 14 suits have been instituted by landlords since the passing of the Act for the rebuttal of the presumption created by Section 6.

* "In 1868-69 cultivators with right of occupancy had increased to 18,146, holding about 59,000 acres, and there are now 18,174, holding 59,524 acres, * * * and 3,390 pay a share of the produce, the value of which fluctuates according to the character of the harvest and according to the prices of produce." Vide Commissioner's reports, page 23.

8. As the officer who commenced and completed the first and regular settlement, made after the annexation of the Punjab Proper, I endorse as perfectly correct the following statement by Sir James Hogg in his minute, dated 28th October 1869:—

"In 1849 the Punjab was annexed, and a regular settlement was then commenced. A regular settlement is a proceeding of great formality and publicity. It is the duty of the Settlement Officer to give notice to all parties interested in the land; besides which, the presence of the Settlement Officer, with his numerous staff in a district is a matter of notoriety, and all his orders are open to inspection. He fixes the amount the villages are to pay to the Government, and examines and records the rights and interests of all concerned. It appears from the proceedings that in consequence of the difficulty of ascertaining local usages, the Settlement Officers recorded a tenant who had been in possession 12 years or upwards as entitled to a right of occupancy, thereby declaring that he could not be evicted as long as he paid his rent, and further, that his rent could not be raised, except in a prescribed manner. The question arises why was that course adopted?

"We must look at the state of the Punjab at that time. It was then emerging from anarchy, and during the Sikh rule land was nearly valueless. Proprietors were subject to any exaction the Government chose to impose and were well pleased to get tenants, as the occupant was held liable to the imposition, while tenants subject to such arbitrary exactions attached little value to their holdings. When the rights of both proprietors and tenants were so dubious and insecure, it was not to be expected that they would appear before the Settlement Officers to urge their respective rights. It is stated by all the local authorities that there were special rights and privileges to which many tenants were entitled, under various local usages. Under these circumstances the Settlement Officers, anxious to maintain existing rights, thought that their safest and most equitable course would be to apply to the Punjab the 12 years' occupancy rule, which prevailed in the settled provinces, by express enactment, and the principle of which had been adopted in the settlement of the North-West Provinces; and it is not alleged that any objection to that course was taken during the progress of the settlement. Now when under British rule order and security have been established, and the value of land greatly increased, parties would fain repudiate what they agreed to 15 years ago. I am strongly of opinion that the rights of the parties, as recorded in the first settlement, ought to be maintained. That settlement was made by competent officers with the usual forms and publicity.

"All parties interested had an opportunity of being present if they chose.

"The settlement, when made, was duly approved by the Government."

9. I still regard the procedure followed as that best adapted to the circumstances of the time, and although it was subsequently set aside in the districts north of the Chenáb, it is stated (paragraph 303 of Settlement Report for Ráwalpindi) that after some tentative divergences "the practice at last resolved itself into this, that 12 years' clear occupancy prior to British rule, i. e., A. D. 1848-49, should under any circumstances constitute a title to an hereditary cultivating tenure."

10. I consider it satisfactory that there has been a gradual diminution year by year in the number of suits by landlords under Section 6. The figures are as follow:—

|---|---|
| 1870-71 ... ... ... | 1,454 |
| 1871-72 .. ... ... | 838 |
| 1872-73 ... ... ... | 423 |
| 1873-74 ... ... ... | 192 |

11. On the other hand, there has been an increase in the suits by tenants for rights of occupancy under Section 5, attributable to settlements being in progress in several districts:—

| 1870-71 ... ... ... | 1,351 |
| 1871-72 ... ... ... | 1,451 |
| 1872-73 ... ... ... | 1,745 |
| 1873-74 ... ... ... | 2,272 |

In his despatch No. 1, dated 28th October 1869, the late Secretary of State wrote—

"I am glad to observe that the clauses providing for augmentation of rent during the period of settlement are such as materially to mitigate the hardship of any mistakes which have occurred in granting rights of occupancy as against the landholder, when none such really existed."

12. On this point Mr. Egerton (paragraph 50 of his Report) observes—

"that the results shown by the statements giving the number of suits for enhancement of rent are not remarkable, but show that in some parts of the country, besides those in which revision of entries has brought the Act to their doors, its provisions in respect to enhancement of rent are not wholly lost sight of by the landlords."

He also thinks that the number of suits does not represent any thing like the number of cases in which enhancement has taken place.

13. The number of enhancement suits for the whole province is here given:

| 1870-71 ... ... ... ... ... | 109 |

| 1872-73 ... ... ... ... ... | 555 |
| 1873-74 ... ... ... ... ... | 461 |
| | 1,763 |

Considering the very prosperous state of the country generally this number cannot be considered large. In his Revenue Report for 1873-74 the Financial Commissioner remarks—

"One of the reasons why suits for enhancement are not more frequent is that the people consider themselves bound to abide by whatever rent was fixed at settlement, whether or no it was entered in the record and attested. Such entries, if made and attested previous to the passing of the Punjab Land Revenue Act of 1874, have the force of agreements under Section 2 of the Punjab Tenancy Act as regards the rate of rent for the term of settlement."

14. Although the number of enhancement suits is few and declining, the rate of increase on the original amount of rent is high, averaging, during the past year, 162 per cent. It may be inferred that while there exists at present no bitter or widespread contention about rent, landlords have acquired under the Act the power of raising rents in an equitable degree at any time, instead of, as formerly, only on the termination of a settlement.

15. The litigation which has taken place during the past four years under the other sections of the Act does not, as will be seen from the following statement, call for particular notice :—

|---|---|---|
| (1.) | Suits under Section 5 by tenants for rights of occupancy ... | 6,819 |
| (2.) | Suits to establish right of occupancy under Section 8, on other grounds than those mentioned in the previous sections of the Act ... ... ... ... ... | 938 |
| (3.) | Suits under Section 6 by landlords for rebuttal of presumptive right of occupancy ... ... ... ... | 2,907 |
| (4.) | Suits under Sections 10 and 11 for enhancement of rent ... | 1,763 |
| (5.) | Suits under Section 14 for abatement of rent ... ... | 272 |
| (6.) | Suits for arrears of rent when remission is allowed under Section 15 ... ... ... | 94 |
| (7.) | Suits under Section 18 to set aside award of division or appraisement of produce taken for rent ... ... | 563 |
| (8.) | Suits under Section 19 by landlords for ejectment of tenants with rights of occupancy (Section 19, clause 1) ... | 353 |
| (9.) | Suits under Section 19 by landlords for ejectment of tenants with rights of occupancy (Section 19, clause 2) ... | 233 |
| (10.) | Suits under Section 20 by landlords for ejectment of tenants without rights of occupancy ... ... ... | 2,952 |
| (11.) | Suits under Section 25 by tenants to contest notice of ejectment ... ... ... ... ... | 498 |
| (12.) | Suits under Section 26 by tenants on account of illegal ejectment ... ... ... ... | 1,035 |
| (13.) | Suits under other sections ... ... ... | 180 |

Besides the above, 2,968 suits, which have not been classified, were instituted in 1869.

16. In his Revenue Report for 1873-74 the Financial Commissioner states that in his opinion the Punjab Tenancy Act has worked well, and that the excitement which attended the discussion of its provisions six years ago has completely subsided. In this opinion I generally concur.

17. The thanks of the Government are due to the Financial Commissioner and to the officers marginally noted, who, under his orders, superintended the correction of the records.

THE JUTE TRADE AT DUNKIRK.

No. 63 (Statistics and Commerce), dated 26th November 1874.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India.

I forward herewith, for your Excellency's information, a copy of a report, which has been drawn up by the Vice-Consul at Dunkirk, on the jute trade at that place.

Dated 6th October 1874.

2. You will observe that the Dunkirk spinners desire that the attention of the Indian Government should be called to three special points, viz., the establishment of a Government scale of marks or brands, the frequent change of seed, and greater care in the preparation of jute for the market. I shall be glad to receive your remarks upon these suggestions; but with respect to the first, I must observe that the system of Government marks or brands attached to articles of trade has, in most cases, been found in this country to be inexpedient and not permissible.

3. Your Excellency will, no doubt, take such measures as may be most suitable for drawing the attention of the trade to the other points, which are of great importance.

A Report on the Jute Trade in the Vice-Consular District of Dunkirk, by Vice-Consul TAYLOR.

In the year 1845 the firm of Dickson & Co. established the first jute mill in this district, and worked it with a fair amount of success for several years. No statistics of the jute trade in its infancy are in existence, but it is a fact that until the year 1860 the Messrs. Dickson were without a rival. Between 1860 and 1865 no less than eight jute mills were erected in and around Dunkirk, chiefly by the energy and capital of Scotchmen. These mills operated successfully till 1866, when the trade received a very serious check. Two of the mills ceased spinning, and the remaining six suffered severely. In 1867 the trade began to revive, and down to the commencement of the Franco-German war the spinners who survived the disasters of 1866 made fair profits. The war between France and Germany almost completely paralyzed the operations of our jute spinners. At its termination the trade immediately revived again, and it has been fairly remunerative down to the spring of the present year 1874.

The jute imported into Dunkirk comes from London for the most part. The spinners would be glad to import direct from Calcutta if it were possible to do so successfully, but the lack of a sufficient depth of water to admit of the entrance of large vessels into the port of Dunkirk renders direct importation almost out of the question. To pay a ship-owner a fair profit a ship must carry a large cargo of jute, and this of course can be done only in vessels of large tonnage. The difficulty on account of the want of water at the entrance to the port is becoming greater every day, and in consequence ship-owners object strongly to sending vessels laden with jute to Dunkirk. Indeed, it is rapidly becoming the practice to insert the following clause in the charter parties to Dundee: "Available for the same freight as to London from all the ports on the Continent from Havre to Hamburg (Dunkirk excepted)." Last year one vessel of considerable tonnage arrived with a cargo of jute from Calcutta, but the experiment is not likely to be repeated until the authorities undertake to improve the condition of the port. They are said to be contemplating taking action in the matter, and we hope to see the entrance to the port deepened, so as to admit vessels drawing twenty feet of water, within a reasonable period from the present time. If this be done, London will cease to be the chief source from which the Dunkirk spinners draw their supplies.

An attempt is being made to establish an emporium for jute at Havre, and our spinners are inclined to look upon this attempt with favour, although the expense of transport from Havre is a little higher than from London. The rates from London are usually ten shillings per ton by steamer, and eight shillings by sailing vessels. Frequently spinners charter small sailing ships, and take the jute direct from the Indian ship in the London docks. From Havre the rates are twelve shillings per ton by steamer, and ten shillings in sailing vessels. The communication between Havre and Dunkirk is excellent, so that there is no difficulty on that score. The spinners cheerfully submit to the freights both from Havre and London, but they complain of being at the mercy of their agents, and this alone is sufficient to make them desire the direct importation of jute from Calcutta.

The imports and exports of jute, as shown in the tabular statement below, have varied considerably during the last ten years. From 1864 to 1866 we observe a fair rate of progress in the imports, whilst in 1865 the exports were almost nil, from which it may be presumed that the French market in that year was unusually good. In 1866 the trade received a serious check, and consequently we find a falling off in both imports and exports in the following year. In 1868 the trade partially revived, and remained fairly remunerative till the outbreak of the Franco-German war in 1870. Owing to that disastrous struggle, the years 1870 and 1871 were unusually bad. In 1872 and 1873, jute was imported largely, and the trade has been good down to the spring of the present year. The following table shows the imports and exports of jute at the port of Dunkirk during the last ten years:—

| Years. | Imports. | Exports. |
| | Kilos. | Kilos. |
| 1864 | 6,059,300 | 45,832 |
| 1865 | 8,357,714 | 405 |
| 1866 | 11,391,455 | 178,435 |
| 1867 | 11,030,150 | 134,824 |
| 1868 | 11,221,188 | 29,593 |
| 1869 | 10,849,384 | 24,555 |
| 1870 | 9,604,737 | 32,846 |
| 1871 | 8,447,449 | 142,503 |
| 1872 | 13,685,260 | 172,157 |
| 1873 | 15,265,140 | 241,576 |
| 1874 | 5,665,812 | 154,675 |

(the first seven months.)

In comparing the first six months of the present year with the corresponding period of 1873, a marked falling off in the imports for the current year is observable. In the first half of the year 1873 the imports were 7,318,020 kilogrammes, whereas up till the end of June of this year the imports did not exceed 5,238,154 kilos.

The jute spinners at the present time complain of a restricted market and a generally depressed state of trade. The depression complained of does not appear to be traceable to any special cause affecting this branch of industry only. It is so great, however, that one firm has ceased to spin jute, and two others are said to be existing on the profits of former years.

Our spinners are well supplied with capital and machinery, but as regards labour there is much to be desired. The present rate of wages is by no means high, and consequently factory hands are not easily obtained. Those to be had, too, are not of the highest order, possessing neither the intelligence nor the working capabilities of the Scotch labourers of Dundee. Notwithstanding this, the cost of production at Dunkirk compared with that in Scotland is so much lower that our spinners are able to export to Dundee with a small profit. When it can be done to advantage, the Dunkirk spinners readily seek a foreign market in order to keep down the stock and to keep up the prices at home.

The duties on the importation of jute are very trifling, and offer no impediment to the trade. During the government of M. Thiers an attempt was made to impose much higher duties, but it was met with such vigorous opposition on the part of those interested that it failed completely. It is now thought that no change will be made in the import duties until 1877, when the existing treaties with Austria and Italy come to an end. At the present time England enjoys the privilege of the most favoured nation.

Notwithstanding the depression so much complained of by our spinners, there are six jute mills in operation at Dunkirk at the present time. These mills consume on the average about two hundred and twenty-eight thousand kilogrammes (or, say, two hundred and twenty tons) of jute per week. The following table shows the average weekly consumption of each firm :—

| | Kilos. |
| Messrs. Kyd Brothers (two mills) ... ... ... | 92,000 |
| Messrs. Cuenin & Son ... ... ... ... | 40,500 |
| Messrs. Vancauwenbergh & Co. ... ... ... | 36,000 |
| Messrs. Ravineh & Co. ... ... | 33,000 |
| Messrs. Guibet & Co. ... ... ... ... | 27,500 |
| TOTAL ... | 229,000 |

The Messrs. Dickson, who established the first jute mill in Dunkirk, have recently abandoned that branch of their trade, and now confine themselves to the spinning of flax. It may be remarked here that the management of most of these mills is in the hands of Englishmen and Scotchmen.

Messrs. Vancauwenbergh and Messrs. Cuenin are manufacturers as well as spinners.

It cannot be doubted that jute has a great future in store for it in spite of the present unsatisfactory condition of the trade. Every day it is becoming more largely employed in the manufacture of silk, linen, and cloth. Its presence is readily detected in these textiles from its lack of durable qualities, but none the less is it made use of to the great profit of the manufacturer. It is now extensively consumed by carpet manufacturers, who, by its help, are able to produce a cheap, if not a durable, article. At Dunkirk the demand for coarse bags is very considerable, owing to the exportation of beetroot, sugar, and corn in large quantities from this port, and in supplying this demand jute finds its most legitimate employment.

The establishment of a Government scale of marks or brands, a frequent change of seed, and greater care in the preparation of jute for the market, are the three chief points to which the Dunkirk spinners would respectfully call the attention of the Indian Government. There is but one opinion with respect to the innumerable marks or brands employed in the jute trade. New ones appear almost every day, and the result is that even the most experienced persons are unacquainted with the half of those in use. The native merchants find their advantage in the present confusing practice, and tax their ingenuity to discover under how many different brands they can classify their crop. To obviate this difficulty, our spinners suggest that the Indian Government should establish a scale of marks which all the native traders should be forced to adopt. In the Russian flax trade this has already been done with success, and it is thought that a similar system applied to the jute trade would be equally successful. The jute plant is said to be becoming impoverished from the bad system of cultivation pursued by the native cultivators. They appear to be entirely ignorant of the advantages which would result from a frequent change of seed. Again, the colour of the jute sent to market is growing worse and worse every year. This is owing to the careless treatment it receives at the hands of the growers. Apparently, the same water is used throughout the whole steeping process which the jute undergoes, and the result is the bad colour complained of by our spinners. These points are respectfully recommended to the attention of the Indian Government.

SUBSCRIPTION TO BENGAL FAMINE FUND BY INDIAN IMMIGRANTS IN TRINIDAD.

No. 2823.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce,—dated 31st December 1874.

Read the following despatch from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 62, dated 26th November 1874:—

Despatch from the Secretary of State for India, to the Government of India,—No. 62, dated 26th November 1874.

Dated 2nd November 1874.

I forward herewith, for the information of Your Excellency in Council, copy of a letter from the Colonial Office, and of a despatch from the Government of Trinidad, announcing a subscription of £62-17-9½ to the Bengal Famine Relief Fund by Indian immigrants in that colony.

2. I am confident that the sympathy evinced by these immigrants towards their countrymen at a period of severe trial will be very gratifying to Your Excellency in Council.

Letter from JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE, Esq., to the Under Secretary of State for India,—dated 2nd November 1874.

No. 206, 8th October 1874.

I am directed by the Earl of Carnarvon to transmit to you, to be laid before the Marquis of Salisbury, a copy of a despatch from the Governor of Trinidad, reporting the subscription of a sum of money by the Indian immigrants in that island in aid of the Indian Famine Relief Fund.

Despatch from J. SCOTT BUSHE, Esq., to the Right Hon'ble the Earl of Carnarvon,—No. 206, dated 8th October 1874.

I have the honor to report for Your Lordship's information that a subscription amounting to £62-17-9½ has been raised among the coolie labourers on 18 estates in the colony for the relief of their suffering brethren in India, and I have instructed the Emigration Agent at Calcutta to pay over this sum (which has been deposited in the treasury here) as a contribution to the Famine Relief Fund.

As an act of generosity the circumstance reflects credit on the individual contributors; while viewed in connection with the working of the immigration system, it is, I think, gratifying to see that these people are not only alive to the necessities of their poorer countrymen, but are also sufficiently sensible of their own bettered condition to be induced to spare something, however small, from their earnings for the relief of those necessities.

RESOLUTION.—The Government of India have received with much gratification this substantial proof of the sympathy felt by the Indian immigrants in Trinidad for the distress of their fellow-countrymen in India, and are glad to find in it also evidence of the prosperous condition of the donors in the colony where they have settled. As, however, relief operations in Bengal have now closed and no more subscriptions towards the Famine Relief Funds are required, the Governor General in Council will await a reference to the subscribers in Trinidad as to the purpose to which they would wish their charity to be devoted.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 31st DECEMBER 1874.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Rain has fallen in fair quantity in the southern districts of Madras: slight showers are reported from the Southern Mahratta Country, Coorg, and parts of the Punjab and Oudh: it is much wanted in the Deccan districts of Bombay, in the districts of the Punjab where none has fallen, and in the North-Western Provinces. Prospects however continue generally good. In Bengal the rice harvest progresses as before, and the spring crops are flourishing.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Madras— (Dec. 31st) | | |
| Kistna (31st) | ... | No rain; canal supply sufficient—4 feet 3 inches of water over anicut; later dry crops alone suffering from grub and insufficiency of water in parts; paddy being cut; cholum produced ½ in Repalee taluk; prices stationary; mild small-pox and fever prevalent—the latter fatal in the jungle taluks; cattle healthy except in three taluks; pasture sufficient; markets well supplied locally. |
| Trichinopoly (30th) | ... | Favourable rain throughout the river-valley; no other change of importance. |
| Malabar (31st) | 2·05 | Season favourable for second crop cultivation; supply of grain sufficient from local and foreign sources; slight fever and small-pox—the former in hilly tracts; cattle healthy; pasture good; prices stationary. |
| Tanjore ,, | 0·07 at Nagapatam, elsewhere very slight. | Freshes in rivers decreasing; no fresh supply to tanks; no water over upper and lower anicuts; cultivation of wet and dry crops continues in some parts; standing crops good; a few dry and wet crops yield a fair harvest; pasture sufficient; prices stationary; markets well supplied; public health generally good; small-pox here and there; one death from cholera in Negapatam taluk; cattle disease in Tanjore taluk—some loss. |
| Kurnool ... | . | No report received. |
| Bombay— (Dec 31st) | | |
| Sindh. | | |
| Hyderabad ... | ... | Young wheat and other rabi crops healthy; rabi sowings still continue; all kharif harvesting over, save cotton, which is being picked; fever abating; weather colder; cattle disease continues. |
| Upper Frontier ... | ... | Weather mild and cloudy; kharif harvest completed; wheat and barley still being sown. |
| Shikarpur ... | ... | Severe frosts, but no damage reported; crops healthy; weather cloudy; rain expected. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Bombay—continued. | | |
| Gujarat. | | |
| Ahmedabad ... | ... | No change. |
| Surat ... | ... | Rabi tolerably well; fever in Pardee. |
| Broach ... | ... | Kharif crops mostly harvested; no change in the state of rabi crops; weather cold; health generally good. |
| Kaira ... | ... | Crops, weather and health good. |
| Khandesh and Nasik. | | |
| Khandesh ... | ... | Rabi crops withering in some talukas for want of moisture; cotton brisk—rate 43: cattle disease and fever prevailing in some talukas. |
| Nasik ... | ... | No change since last report. |
| Konkan. | | |
| Tanna ... | ... | Weather cool; public health good; fever in Mahim, Wada, Shahpur, Moorbaur, Kalian and Bhewndi talukas; cough in Wada taluka; rabi crop good in Moorbaur, Bassein and Bhewndi talukas; middling in Shapur and Kalian talukas, but not good in Kurjut taluka, and has slightly suffered in Wada taluka. |
| Deccan. | | |
| Poona ... | ... | Standing rabi crop doing well, excepting in Bhimthadi, where it is dying for want of moisture in many places; a fall of rain has been very anxiously looked for in almost all the talukas; a few cattle died in a village in Bhimthadi; climate and public health good. |
| Ahmednuggur ... | ... | Crops withering for want of rain, and have suffered in some places from severe cold; health good. |
| Sholapur ... | ... | Cotton, toor and rabi crops generally damaged by cold weather everywhere, especially in Kurmala and Sangola; rain wanted; health good. |
| Satara ... | .. | Early crops nearly all harvested; late crops promise average harvest for want of rain; weather cloudy and warm; slight fever and bowel complaint in Walwa, and ague in Pahtun. |
| Southern Mahratta Country. | | |
| Belgaum ... | ·5 | Rabi crops thriving; fever in Sumpgaon, Gokak and Uthni; cattle disease in some parts of Uthni. |
| Dharwar ... | ·35 | No change. |
| Kaladgi ... | ... | Rabi crops middling, except jowari, which is slightly blighted in Bijapur, Sindgi and Bagewari; eleven deaths from fever in Judi taluka. |
| Kanara ... | ... | Prospects of second crop satisfactory; fever, small-pox and cattle disease slightly prevalent. |
| Kathiawar and Gaekwar's Territory. | | |
| Rajkot ... | ... | Rabi crops promising; weather cold; public health good. |
| Wudwan ... | ... | Weather cloudy; a few drops of rain fell on Saturday last; health indifferent; cattle disease in Luctor taluka; state of crops the same as before. |
| Baroda ... | ... | Cotton and rabi prospects good, but will partially suffer from cloudy weather during the week; public health good. |
| Karachi ... | ... | Kharif crops almost all harvested; late rabi sowings continue as flooded lands dry up; fever and colds prevalent; cattle disease in some talukas, but nothing serious. General Remarks.—Rabi prospects good, except in the Deccan, where rain is much wanted. |
| Bengal— (Dec. 29th) | | |
| Burdwan ... | Nil | Slightly cloudy; weather warmer. Late rice nearly harvested. Prospects of spring crops good. |
| Bankura ... | " | Weather cool and dry. Haimunta, or late rice, almost all reaped. Winter crops generally doing well. |
| Beerbhoom ... | " | Weather milder than last week. State and prospects of crops good. Harvest nearly home. Cold-weather crops doing well. |
| Midnapore ... | " | Weather clear and cold. Harvest of late rice still progressing. No change since last report. |
| Hooghly ... | " | Weather clear throughout. Wind from north. Prospect of rice where planted out is good; that of cold-weather crops very good. |
| 24-Pergunnahs ... | " | Weather dry and cool. The harvest of the late rice continues. Cold-weather crops doing well. |
| Nuddea ... | " | Seasonable weather. The state and prospects of the crops continue satisfactory. |
| Moorshedabad ... | " | Seasonable weather. Wheat wants rain; other crops going on well. |
| Dinagepore ... | " | Bright and cold weather. An excellent winter crop is being cut; prospects of other crops are good. |
| Maldah ... | " | Weather fair. The reaping of the late rice is still going on. Mustard has begun to ripen. The prospects of the cold-weather crops are good. |
| Rajshahye ... | " | Fine weather, cold with north wind. State of the crops generally unchanged. The cold-weather sowings have been completed. Sugarcane and kalai pulse are being cut with good results. The fall in prices continues. |

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,

HOME DEPARTMENT.

CORRESPONDENCE CONCERNING THE ALLEGED NANA DOONDHOO PUNT, OF BITHOOR.

Dated Fort William, the 15th December 1874.

From—D. FITZPATRICK, ESQ., Deputy Secretary to the Govt. of India, Legislative Dept.
To—ARTHUR HOWELL, ESQ., Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of India, Home Dept.

I HAVE the honour to report that on the receipt of your No. 1393, dated 11th ultimo, I proceeded immediately to Cawnpore and subsequently went on to Gwalior with a view to investigating the case of Jumna Dass, the man supposed to be the Nana, and his attendant Pemraj.

2. As the charge against both the accused rested entirely on the allegation that the former was in fact the Nana Doondhoo Punt, it seemed clear that it was to the question of his identity with that person I ought first to apply myself, and I accordingly at once entered upon it with the very able assistance of Mr. H. Goad, the police officer specially deputed by the Government of the North-Western Provinces in this matter.

3. The result of the inquiry we have made, shortly stated, is that the attempt to identify the prisoner Jumna Dass with the Nana has utterly failed, and that in consequence I have felt it to be my duty to advise Mr. Goad to apply for the discharge of both the prisoners. This he did on the 10th instant, and his application was at once acceded to by the Magistrate (Mr. Clarmont Daniell).

4. As matters have turned out there has been, contrary to what was at first apprehended, so little in the way of conflict in the evidence, that I deem it unnecessary to trouble you with any minute discussion of it, and shall accordingly confine myself to the following brief remarks.

5. Not one of the witnesses examined has positively declared the man Jumna Dass to be the Nana.

Colonel Mowbray Thomson.
Baba Aptieh.
Unna Bhut.
Dada Bhut.

The nearest approach to an identification is to be found in the statements of the persons named in the margin.

6. The statement of Colonel Mowbray Thomson is of course above suspicion; but it must be remembered that celebrated as Colonel Thomson's name is in connection with the Cawnpore rebellion, he appears to have seen the Nana but twice; and I may add that his recollection of that person was so faint in the year 1862 that he then wrote to the Magistrate of Cawnpore saying that he did not think he could recognize the Nana if put before him. This being so, it is no matter for surprise that Colonel Thomson should decline, as he does, to express any positive opinion.

7. The circumstance that Colonel Thomson found on the prisoner a mark which he had before seeing him stated that he would expect to find on the Nana would undoubtedly be one of great importance if the other evidence in the case left room for any doubt, but in the face of the evidence to which I shall presently refer it cannot be looked upon as anything more than an accidental coincidence.

8. Baba Aptieh, though he positively identified the prisoner as the Nana before Colonel Osborne, has since considerably modified his statement. He now can say no more than that the prisoner appeared to him to be the Nana, and he explains his former positive assertion by saying that he saw the prisoner only from a distance and was ill at the time.

9. Unna Bhut has completely withdrawn the positive statement he made before Colonel Osborne. He now goes no farther than to say that the prisoner is like the Nana, particularly about the forehead.

10. As for Dada Bhut, he clearly desires to convey the impression that he believes the prisoner to be the Nana, but all attempts to get a direct statement from him on the point have failed. For reasons with which it is unnecessary to trouble you here, I regard the evidence of this witness with much suspicion.

11. Any account of the evidence bearing in favour of the identity would be incomplete if it omitted to notice the so-called identification by the Maharaja Scindiah which has been so much dwelt on, especially in the newspapers; but the truth is His Highness has never professed to recognize the prisoner as the Nana. All he has said amounts only to this, that from the knowledge displayed by the prisoner of the circumstances of an interview which took place between the Nana and the Maharaja before the mutiny of 1857, and in particular from the prisoner's being aware that a sword of a peculiar description (termed a "Sosun putta") was presented to the Nana at that interview, he "infers that the prisoner must be" the Nana. But such facts, though useful auxiliaries to other evidence leading the same way, do not of themselves warrant the inference drawn. The circumstance of a sword of the description referred to having been presented must of necessity have been known to several persons besides the Nana, and any one designing to personate the Nana would have little difficulty in obtaining a knowledge of it.

12. I may add that since an interview he had with the prisoner in our presence on the first instant, at a time when the case was much more developed, the Maharaja has been much shaken and seems to admit that he was misled.

13. In concluding my remarks on this part of the case, I ought to mention that two witnesses named Roshun Khan and Mahomed Mookeem examined by Colonel Osborne, and who may be termed witnesses in favour of the identity, were unfortunately forgotten when we were at Gwalior, and we accordingly had not the advantage of hearing their statements from their own mouths; but as neither of them professed actually to identify the prisoner as the Nana, it did not, seeing the absolutely conclusive nature of the other evidence, seem worth while to delay the application for discharge by sending for them to Cawnpore.

14. Such is the evidence that might be adduced in favour of the identity. Against it we have the evidence of the twenty-seven witnesses named in the margin, almost all of whom seem highly competent to speak on the point. Some of these witnesses say the prisoner is like the Nana, others say he is not, but all agree in declaring most positively that he is not the man.

J. N. Tresidder, Deputy Surgeon General.
John Power, Judge of Moradabad.
Mussamut Adla.
Suddack Wrestler.
Nana Narain Rao.
Mundey Gunga Poote.
Kesho Rae Baid.
Cheddie Mistree.
Sarasheo Shastree.
Jogul Kishore.
Hoormusjee Bazoon Moodi.
Jewan Singh.
Hillalloodeen.
Noor Mohummud.
Deen Mohummud.
Ruggoonundun Sehae.
Ram Newaz.
Luchmun Singh.
Buldeo Singh, Ressaldar.
Gunput Rao.
Ram Chand.
Dada Bhut.
Ruggonath Rao.
Govind Pundit.
Ruggonath, son of Balkishen.
Dada Mahajun.
Buldeo Singh, son of Esaree Singh.

We considered the evidence of the first eighteen of these witnesses amply sufficient. The remaining nine were subsequently examined at the request of the Maharaja.

15. The conclusion at which I have arrived on the evidence of these witnesses is strongly confirmed by the circumstance that, while the Nana ought now to be over 50 years of age, the prisoner is, in the opinion of Dr. Norman Chevers and the other Medical Officers who have examined him, not more than about thirty-five, forty-five being the utmost limit which any of them think it within the range of possibility that he could have attained.

16. This conclusion is further confirmed by the following circumstances:

1stly.—That the Nana is clearly shown to have worn an ear-ring of the description termed bhik balee which the medical officers are unanimously of opinion must have left a mark in the upper rim of his ear, while no trace of such a mark can on the most minute examination with lenses be detected on the prisoner.

2ndly.—That Kesho Rae Baid states that the Nana had sustained a considerable loss of tissue by sloughing from a virulent disease, while the prisoner shows no sign of having suffered in this way.

17. Finally, notwithstanding what has been said by some persons to the contrary, the prisoner's entire appearance, bearing and mode of speaking are unmistakeably those of a person of a very low rank of life. I myself was quite startled on first going into his cell at finding the sort of person I had before me, and I subsequently observed the same effect produced on General Daly when he first saw him. Mr. Goad, who is as competent to form an opinion on a matter of this sort as a Native would be, assured me that from the first moment he met the prisoner on his way up from Gwalior he felt satisfied that he could not be the man: I may add that Mr. Goad judged from his accent that he was a native of the country about Benares, and this he has since declared himself to be.

18. Under the circumstances, I have deemed it unnecessary, for the purposes of the question we are now considering, to institute any special enquiry as to the Marathi signature affixed to the letter which the prisoner sent to the Maharaja; but I may mention that Nana Narain Rao, when shown that signature, stated without one moment's hesitation that it was not the hand-writing of the Nana; and indeed any person can see for himself that it is altogether of a different character from the signatures of the Nana on the Government Promissory Notes produced from the Loan Department. The prisoner, I may add, states that he can neither read nor write the Marathi character.

19. In conclusion, I have only to say that the prisoner (Jumna Dass) has entirely withdrawn the statement he originally made before Colonel Osborne, and has given us a detailed history of his life which he describes as having been from his eleventh year that of a wandering fakeer of the most ordinary description. I await the instructions of the Governor General in Council as to any further enquiries regarding him that it may be deemed advisable to make.

No. 1648, dated Fort William, the 31st December 1874.

From—ARTHUR HOWELL, ESQ., Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

To—D. FITZPATRICK, ESQ., Deputy Secretary to the Govt. of India, Legislative Dept.

I AM directed to acknowledge your letter of the 15th instant, reporting the result of your investigation into the case of the man arrested at Gwalior as the Nana Doondhoo Punt, of Bithoor, and of Pemraj, his attendant.

2. The Government of India entirely concur in your conclusion that the man is not the Nana.

3. The report of your proceedings will be published in the Gazette of India for general information. And I am desired to convey to you the thanks of the Government of India for the care you have taken in conducting the investigation. I am further to acknowledge the services rendered by the officers attached to the Government of the North-Western Provinces, particularly Mr. C. Daniell, Magistrate of Cawnpore, and Mr. H. B. Goad, District Superintendent of Police, and also of Dr. Chevers who was specially deputed from Calcutta to aid you in your enquiries.

4. Instructions will be given as to the disposal of the prisoner as soon as the Government of India receive a reply to a communication which they have addressed to His Highness the Maharaja Scindia upon the subject.

C. U. AITCHISON,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.—ACCOUNTS.

Fort William, the 2nd January 1875.

No. 18.—The following Report and Resolution are published for general information:—

No. 160, dated 1st December, 1874.

From—H. A. MANGLES, Esq., Officiating Comptroller General,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

I have the honor to submit the annual report on the working of the Money Order Department during the year ending 31st March 1874.

2. The appendices which have hitherto accompanied this report have not been submitted this year in accordance with the instructions conveyed in your No. 3600, dated 15th December 1873.

3. The total number of offices open during the year under report was 307, viz.:—

|---|---|
| Lower Provinces of Bengal | 59 |
| North-Western Provinces | 37 |
| Oudh | 12 |
| Punjab | 34 |
| Central Provinces | 20 |
| British Burmah | 13 |
| Political and other Treasuries under Government of India | 8 |
| Bombay | 36 |
| Madras | 69 |
| Berar | 11 |
| Mysore | 8 |
| TOTAL | 307 |

4. At the close of last year there were 300 offices open; seven more were added during the year under report, viz.:—

|---|---|
| Tura | in Bengal. |
| Balaghat | in Central Provinces. |
| Mozuffergurh | in the Punjab. |
| Erode, Tindivanum, Badagara, and Juggiapettah | in Madras. |

Of the above, Tura, Mozuffergurh, Badagara, and Juggiapettah are re-opened offices, the others are new.

5. Fourteen offices were closed, viz.:—

|---|---|
| Deoghur and Rajmehal | in Bengal. |
| Borhanpore | in Central Provinces. |
| Malligaum | in Bombay. |
| Chiploon | |
| Dissa | |
| Mhow | |
| Nundgaum | |
| Rajahpore | |
| Vingorla, and | |
| Hooblee | |
| Arrungabad | in Berar. |
| Jaulnah | |
| Linsoogoor | |

Two hundred and ninety-three offices therefore remained open at the close of the year.

6. The reduction is due to the small amount of business transacted and to the want of proper facilities at sub-treasuries.

7. The following is a summary of transactions during the year:—

| | 1872-73. | 1873-74. |
|---|---|---|
| No. of Offices open during the year ... | 366 | 307 |
| No. of orders issued | 2,69,435 | 2,45,879 |
| Amount of ditto | 1,29,21,632 | 1,07,20,239 11 4 |
| No. of orders paid | 2,68,268 | 2,45,685 |
| Amount of ditto | 1,29,37,545 | 1,07,65,722 4 10 |
| Commission | 1,46,462 | 1,23,151 |
| Lapsed orders | 8,784 | 10,304 |
| Changes | 87,719 | 66,769 |
| Profits | 67,612 | 66,825 |

8. The falling off is probably attributable to the greater use by the public of currency notes which are now more easily procurable than they used to be in all parts of India, and which are used, it is believed, to a considerable extent for remittance purposes by all classes of the population.

9. The following table shows the increase or decrease in the number of orders issued and paid, as compared with last year:—

| | | Issues. | | Payments. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | No. | Amount. | No. | Amount. |
| | | | Rs. | | Rs. |
| Lower Provinces, Bengal | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 10,960 | 6,04,827 | 13,897 | 8,54,178 |
| North-Western Provinces | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 1,481 | 2,42,323 | 2,363 | 3,82,527 |
| Oudh | Increase | ... | ... | 4,759 | 89,150 |
| | Decrease | 1,747 | 1,53,545 | ... | ... |
| Punjab | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 313 | 1,42,984 | 1,205 | 1,76,025 |
| Central Provinces | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 1,776 | 2,27,839 | 433 | 38,120 |
| British Burmah | Increase | 401 | 19,806 | 99 | ... |
| | Decrease | ... | ... | .. | 2,289 |
| Political and other Treasuries under Government of India | Increase | 886 | ... | 257 | 16,270 |
| | Decrease | ... | 8,797 | ... | ... |
| Bombay | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 2,430 | 2,91,286 | 4,364 | 4,00,402 |
| Madras | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 2,568 | 2,35,343 | 2,907 | 2,40,604 |
| Berar | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 1,878 | 2,58,816 | 932 | 1,27,779 |
| Mysore | Increase | ... | ... | ... | ... |
| | Decrease | 1,690 | 55,436 | 1,597 | 55,318 |

10. The total numbers and values of orders issued and paid have already been shewn in para. 7; the following statements give the detailed results for a series of years:—

No. I.

11. The average amount of each Money Order issued in each province during the past three years is given below :—

| | 1871-72. | 1872-73. | 1873-74. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Lower Provinces, Bengal ... ... ... ... | 53 | 49 | 44 |
| North-Western Provinces ... ... ... ... | 40 | 38 | 33 |
| Oudh ... ... ... ... ... | 46 | 42 | 35 |
| Punjaub ... ... ... ... ... | 44 | 41 | 37 |
| Central Provinces ... ... ... ... ... | 54 | 49 | 40 |
| British Burmah ... ... ... ... ... | 58 | 56 | 56 |
| Political and other Treasuries under Government of India ... | 45 | 43 | 39 |
| Bombay ... ... ... ... ... | 59 | 55 | 49 |
| Madras ... ... ... ... ... | 49 | 44 | 39 |
| Berar ... ... ... ... ... | 60 | 76 | 69 |
| Mysore ... ... ... ... ... | 46 | 40 | 41 |

12. The average is in one case more, in one case equal, and in all the others less than in the previous year, which shews that money orders are being less and less used for large remittances. The high average prevailing in Berar last year has somewhat fallen. Its existence is probably due to the almost total want of notes in the Province, which compels officials and others to use money orders for the remittance of their savings, &c., to places where Banks exist.

13. The amount of orders lapsed to Government during the year is detailed as follows :—

|---|---|
| Lower Provinces, Bengal ... ... ... ... ... | 1,674 |
| North-Western Provinces... ... ... ... ... | 1,904 |
| Oudh ... ... ... ... ... ... | 1,001 |
| Punjaub ... ... ... ... ... ... | 1,895 |
| Central Provinces ... ... ... ... ... | 966 |
| British Burmah ... ... ... ... ... | 564 |
| Political and other Treasuries under Government of India ... ... | 572 |
| Bombay ... ... ... ... ... ... | 1,165 |
| Madras ... ... ... ... ... ... | 284 |
| Berar ... ... ... ... ... ... | 211 |
| Mysore ... ... ... ... ... ... | 68 |
| TOTAL ... | 10,304 |

14. The statement given below shows the excess of receipts or payments in each province :—

| | Excess of receipts over payments. | Excess of payments over receipts. |
|---|---|---|
| | Rs. | Rs. |
| Lower Provinces, Bengal ... ... ... ... | ... | 6,40,695 |
| North-Western Provinces ... ... ... ... | ... | 7,43,124 |
| Oudh ... ... ... ... ... ... | ... | 6,98,628 |
| Punjab ... ... ... ... ... | 1,53,509 | ... |

| Mysore ... ... ... ... ... ... | 75,835 | ... |
| TOTAL ... | 25,50,710 | 25,96,193 |

15. The excess of payments over receipts in so many provinces is due to the falling off of the general business of the department in those provinces.

16. The following statement shows the annual progress of transactions since the institution of the Department, the annual charge on superior and inferior establishments being retrospectively added to column 10, as requested in Financial Resolution on last year's report :—

19. It will be seen that the charges of 1873-74 are less than those of 1872-73 by Rs 30,174. Against this saving, however, must be set the additional cost of extra clerks allowed to certain treasuries which amounted during the past year to Rs. 3,660.

20. The cash profits of the year are Rs. 8,438 in excess of last year, Rs. 58,387 net having been received in 1872-73, against Rs. 66,825 in 1873-74. The figures shewn for the year 1872-73 in last report were inclusive of Rs. 9,225 which should have been deducted on account of percentages for pension on superior and inferior establishments. The curtailment of departmental expenditure and the discontinuance of payment of commission to agents ought to have produced better results, but against this saving must be set the great decrease in receipts for commission, no less than Rs. 23,311 having been short credited on this account in 1873-74.

21. The losses written off during 1873-74 amounted to Rs. 62 only. Next year a heavier charge is anticipated, as several long pending cases have lately received the final orders of Government.

22. There has been but one case of embezzlement in the year under report, involving a loss to Government of Rs. 1,300 by means of skilfully forged orders presented at the Calcutta Office, the details of which were fully reported in my No. 152, dated 19th September last.

23. Endeavours are now being made to reconcile the difference between the balance of money orders outstanding as per departmental registers and the balance as per imperial books alluded to in para. 38 of last year's report. There is still an excess of Rs. 60,000 shewn by the Money Order Office returns, the figures being—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Total receipts as per money order journals from 1862-63 | ... | Rs. 8,57,83,333 |
| Total payments as per money order journals from 1862-63 | ... | „ 8,53,70,823 |
| Outstanding balance as per money order registers | ... | 4,12,510 |
| Balance as per imperial books of 31st March 1874 | ... | 3,52,078 |
| Difference | ... | Rs. 60,432 |

The details of the book balances are now being thoroughly examined by two clerks deputed from the Money Order and Central Accounts Offices. The result will be duly reported.

OBSERVATIONS.—The Money Order Offices in active operation decreased during the year from 300 to 293. The reduction is due to closure of offices where the business was insignificant, or where proper facilities could not conveniently be arranged.

The number of orders issued (245,879) fell below the number issued last year (269,435) by 23,556 (8·7 per cent.), and the amount of such orders, Rs. 1,07,20,240) fell below the amount of orders issued last year (Rs. 1,29,21,632) by Rs. 22,01,393 (17 per cent.)

The number of orders paid (245,685) was less than the number paid last year (268,268) by 22,583 (8½ per cent.), and their amount (Rs. 1,07,65,722) less than the amount paid last year (Rs. 1,29,37,545) by Rs. 2,17,21,823 (16·8 per cent.)

The revenue of the Department (Rs. 1,33,595) was less than the revenue last year (Rs. 1,55.331) by Rs 21,716 (14 per cent.) The expenditure, including percentage for pensions and furlough allowances and extra allowances to clerks (Rs. 70,430), was less than the like expenditure in 1872-73 (Rs. 96,944) by Rs. 26,514 (27 per cent.), and the net profits (Rs. 63,165) exceeded the net profits of the foregoing year (Rs. 58,337) by Rs. 4,828 (8¼ per cent).

The profits shown for the year 1872-73 in the 7th paragraph of the report (Rs. 67,612) differ from those entered in the table contained in the 16th paragraph and used in the foregoing comparison (Rs. 58,387) by Rs. 9,225 the amount of the percentage chargeable in 1872-73 for pensions and furlough allowances. Again, to the charges for 1873-74 entered in paragraphs 7 and 16 of the Comptroller General's report (Rs. 66,720) the sum of Rs. 3,660 has been added, being the amount paid to clerks in the interior for money order duties during the year. Both these discrepancies are explained in paragraphs 19 and 20 of the report, but it would have been better if they had been eliminated from the tabular comparisons which, as they stand, are vitiated.

The profit of the year is larger than it has been in any year excepting 1870-71, and the charges are less than they have been since 1866-67. This is owing to the discontinuance of the payment of commission to the agents in the interior. In other respects, however, the transactions of the Department show a considerable retrogression—the number and value of orders issued and paid being much less than during the years 1871-72 and 1872-73. This is attributed to the free general supply of currency notes to the public which was practicable while the cash balances were high. When currency notes are available for remittances, people prefer to use them rather than pay commission for money orders. In harmony with this explanation is the fact that the value of the transactions of the Department has decreased much more than their number—the average value of each order issued having decreased from Rs. 48 to Rs. 43½. This is so far satisfactory; the Money Order Department is designed to facilitate petty remittances, not to supersede mercantile methods of remitting large sums.

The decrease in the business of the Department and in the average value of each order appears to be general in all provinces. The average value in Berar (Rs. 69) continues much in excess of that in any other province. The explanation given (the comparative absence from Berar of currency notes) hardly seems sufficient to account for this; the transactions in the province are, however, unimportant.

The statement contained in paragraph 16 shows a net profit of Rs. 4,00,248 upon the entire operations of the Department since the year 1862-63. But, as remarked last year, nothing is debited to the Department for rent of Government buildings, interest on capital employed in the business, superintendence, and the movement of funds.

It would be difficult, perhaps impossible, to value these items in figures, and it has not been thought worth while hitherto to attempt it. But the real profit of the Department is probably very small, too little indeed to warrant the maintenance of the Department except for the convenience that it affords to the public.

It is satisfactory to learn that there has been only one instance of embezzlement this year.

The Governor General in Council is glad to know that the differences between the imperial books and those of the Department have been reduced to only Rs. 60,000. Efforts must not be relaxed until the remaining differences are thoroughly accounted for.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd December 1874, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in six weeks:—

No. 18 OF 1874.

A Bill for the better administration of law in the Panjáb.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Panjáb Laws Act, 1872, and thereby to provide for the establishment of Rural Police and for the more efficient administration of law in the Panjáb; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Panjáb Laws Amendment Act, 1874:"

Commencement.

It shall come into force on the passing thereof:

Construction.

And it shall be read with and taken as part of the Panjáb Laws Act, 1872.

Addition to Act IV of 1872.

2. The said Panjáb Laws Act shall be read as if the following sections were inserted next after section thirty-nine thereof:—

Power to establish village-watchman system and to make rules.

"39A. The Local Government may establish a system of village-watchmen in any part of the territories under its administration and not comprised within the limits of a municipality, and in furtherance of this object may from time to time make rules to provide for the following matters:—

(a) the definition of the limits of watchmen's beats;

(b) the determination of the several grades of watchmen, and the number of each grade to be appointed to each beat;

(c) the appointment, suspension, dismissal and resignation of watchmen of each grade;

(d) the equipment and discipline of, and the control and supervision over, such watchmen;

(e) the conferring upon them and the exercise by them of any powers and the enjoyment by them of any protection or privilege, which may be exercised and enjoyed by a police officer under any Act for the time being in force;

(f) the performance by them of such duties as to the Local Government may seem fit, whether duties of the nature ordinarily imposed by law on police officers, or duties connected with the public health or the collection of information in any branch of administration;

(g) the exercise of authority over, and the rendering of aid to, such watchmen, by the headmen of the villages comprised in their respective beats;

(h) the performance, by the headmen of the villages comprised in the beat, of any of the duties of a village-watchman in aid of or substitution for such watchman;

(i) the exercise, by such village-headmen, of any of the powers, and the enjoyment by them of any privilege or protection, of a village-watchman for the purposes referred to in clauses (g) and (h) of this section;

(j) the determination of the rate at which, and the mode in which, watchmen shall be paid, and of the mode in which their pay, the expenses of their equipment, and other charges connected with the village-watchman system shall be provided for, whether out of cesses or funds already leviable or available in the villages comprised in the beat, or by a special tax in money or

grain to be imposed on any class of persons residing or owning property in or resorting to such villages or partly in one of these ways and partly in the other;

(k) the collection with or without the aid of the village-headmen, and by any process available for the realization of the land-revenue, of any tax imposed under clause (j) of this section, and the application of, and the mode of accounting for, the same;

(l) the efficient working of the village-watchman system generally.

"Provided—

2ndly, that the rules to be made under clause (j) of this section shall include provisions for ascertaining and placing on record, and, as far as conveniently may be, giving effect to, the views and opinions of the headmen of such beat on the matters therein referred to.

Obligation to assist watchmen and headmen.

"39B. Every person is bound to render to a village-watchman or village headman discharging the duties of a police officer under the rules made hereunder all the assistance which he is bound to render to a police officer.

Person obstructing watchman or headman may be arrested without warrant.

"Any person who obstructs such watchman or headman in the discharge of such duties may be arrested without warrant by a police officer or by any village-headman or watchman empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

Power to direct local taxation for payment of police enrolled under Act V of 1861.

"39 C. Whenever it seems to the Local Government expedient that the duties of watch and ward and other internal police service of any town or village not comprised within the limits of a municipality or within the limits of a village-watchman's beat as defined under the power conferred by section thirty-nine A, should be performed by police officers enrolled under Act V of 1861, the Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, direct that the said service shall be so performed and that the charges for the time being fixed by such Government on account of such service shall be defrayed by taxes to be levied in such town or village.

Issue of notice of taxes proposed to be levied.

"39 D. When the Local Government has, under section thirty-nine C, directed that taxes shall be levied in any town or village, the Deputy Commissioner may from time to time issue a public notice in such town or village explaining the nature of the taxes he proposes to levy.

Objections to taxation.

"Any inhabitant of such town or village objecting to the taxation thus proposed may, within fifteen days from the publication of such notice, send his objection in writing to the Deputy Commissioner.

Procedure thereon.

"After the expiry of fifteen days from the publication of the notice, the Deputy Commissioner may submit to the Local Government a report of the proposal made by him, the objections (if any) urged thereto and his opinion on such objections, and no such tax shall be levied until it has, upon such report, been approved by the Local Government.

Power to fix rates of tax.

"39 E. When any such tax has been so approved by the Local Government, the Deputy Commissioner may from time to time, subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe, determine the rates at which it is to be levied.

Power to make rules for collection of taxes.

"39 F. The Local Government may from time to time make rules to provide for the collection of such taxes by any process available for the realization of the land-revenue, and to regulate the application and mode of accounting for the same.

Indemnity-clause.

"39 G. All taxes and collections which have been hitherto levied for the purposes of village and town police shall be deemed to have been levied in accordance with law."

Substitution of new section for section 50.

3. Section 50 of the said Panjáb Laws Act is repealed and in lieu thereof there shall be read the following:—

Power to make rules regarding matters mentioned in sections 43 to 49.

"50. The Local Government may issue rules as to the matters mentioned in sections forty-three to forty-nine inclusive, and may from time to time cancel or alter any such rules.

"All existing rules upon such matters shall, unless and until the Local Government otherwise direct, be deemed to have been issued under and in conformity with this section.

Conditions of validity of rules made under this Act.

"50 A. No rules made by the Local Government under any power conferred by this Act shall be valid unless—

(a) they are consistent with the laws for the time being in force in the Panjáb;

(b) they are published in the Local Gazette;

(c) previous to such publication they are sanctioned by the Governor General in Council.

Penalties for breach of such rules.

"50 B. The Local Government may, in making any rule under any of the powers conferred by this Act, attach to the breach of it, in addition to any other consequences that would ensue from such breach, a punishment on conviction before a Magistrate not exceeding six months' imprisonment or 300 rupees fine, or both."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

From correspondence which has recently taken place between the Government of India and the Government of the Panjáb, it has become apparent that the position of the village chaukídár in the Panjáb, as regards his duties, powers, pay, appointment, dismissal and punishment, rests upon practice and that there is no sufficient legal power to mould the system according to the exigencies of time and place.

The main object of the present Bill is to place on a legal basis a system which has existed and has in the main worked efficiently, and to the satisfaction of all concerned from our first occupation of the province.

The definition of the position and functions of the village-watchman involves of necessity the definition of the police-duties of the village-headman, whose nominee and servant he virtually is, and in subordination to whom, if the village-police system is to be efficient, he must always work.

The duties which the present Bill goes to impose on village-headmen are, perhaps, in some particulars more extensive than those which at this moment can legally be required of them; but they are, it is believed, little, if at all, in excess of what the general opinion of the country would expect from men in their position, and what, as a matter of fact, the best of them at this moment undertake.

The present opportunity has been taken to provide for the raising of funds to defray the charges of police in certain kasbahs or towns which have outgrown the village-system, and yet are not sufficiently advanced to be formed into municipalities.

Here, again, the Bill does no more than put an existing and long-established system on a legal footing.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd December 1874, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month:—

No. 19 OF 1874.

A Bill to remove doubts as to the rights and liabilities of certain Native Soldiers.

Preamble.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the rights and liabilities of certain Native Soldiers who have been enrolled without having been attested, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Validation of enlistment of Native soldiers.

1. Every person who has for the space of six months been in the receipt of military pay and been borne on the rolls of any Regiment, Corps, Depôt, Ordnance Establishment, or Department of Her Majesty's Indian Army (of which the last pay statement, if produced, shall be evidence), shall be deemed to have been duly enlisted, enrolled and attested, and shall not be entitled to claim his discharge on the ground of illegality or irregularity in his enlistment, enrolment or attestation, or on any other ground save such as may be recognised by the orders and customs of the service.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

It has lately been discovered that certain men now serving in the Native Army were not duly attested on enlistment, and doubts have consequently been raised as to their rights and liabilities.

The present Bill, which is framed on the model of section 59 of the English Mutiny Act, has accordingly been prepared. It simply declares that every soldier who has for six months received pay and been borne on the rolls, shall be deemed to have been duly enlisted, enrolled and attested.

2. In compliance with the wishes of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William and Bombay, we have reproduced in the Bill itself the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure to which as introduced it merely referred. We have thus, we hope, made the Bill a complete Code of that branch of the law to which it relates. The Bill as now amended is divided into sixteen chapters, relating respectively to the following subjects:—

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.
„ II.—Of Sessions.
„ III.—Of Procedure on Commitments.
„ IV.—Of the Commencement of the Trial.
„ V.—Of Juries.
„ VI.—Of the Trial.

CHAPTER VII.—Of Evidence.
" VIII.—Of the Charge to the Jury.
" IX.—Of the Verdict and the Discharge of the Jury.
" X.—Of the Sentence.
" XI.—Of Previous Convictions or Acquittals.
" XII.—Of Criminal Lunatics.
" XIII.—Of Prosecutions in certain Cases.
" XIV.—Of Bail.
" XV.—Of Security for keeping the Peace.
" XVI.—Miscellaneous.

In Chapter I, we have defined "Advocate General" to include a Government Advocate, and we have added definitions of 'Prosecutor,' "European British subject" and "Offence." We have also declared that words referring to acts done shall include illegal omissions.

In Chapter III, we have empowered the Court to amend the charge on the application of the prosecutor.

We think that irregular commitments should not be validated when, during the enquiry, the prosecutor has objected to the jurisdiction of the committing Magistrate.

We think that the person committed should not be entitled to a copy of the depositions unless he demands it a reasonable time before the case comes on for trial.

In Chapter V, Section 36 (as to the trial of European British subjects and Natives jointly charged), we have provided that the Native shall be committed only when the committing Magistrate thinks that he ought to be tried.

We have declared (in accordance with Act X of 1872, Section 407) that in the Presidency towns no person shall be summoned as a juror more than once in six months, unless the number cannot be made up without him. And we have provided for summoning supplemental jurors when, during the continuance of the session, it appears that a sufficient number has not been summoned. We have, we hope, made it clear that the total number of peremptory challenges on behalf of the accused shall never exceed eight, whatever may be the number of persons charged. We have required the foreman to ask from the Court information required by any juror.

We have empowered the High Court to make rules as to locking-up juries, and provided that, subject to such rules, the presiding Judge may order whether the jurors shall be kept together under the charge of an officer or allowed to return to their respective homes.

We think that the jury should decide all questions which according to law, whether written or unwritten, are questions of fact, and we have altered accordingly the clause of the Bill which corresponds with section 257 of the Code.

In the section relating to the issue of commissions to take evidence, we have supplied a defect in the Code of Criminal Procedure, which does not provide for the case of the witness being in a Native State.

In the clause relating to the conviction of the accused on his own admission, we have provided that such conviction may be had, whether the offence admitted is the offence charged or not.

We have omitted the direction that the Court shall question the accused after the close of the case for the prosecution.

We have endeavoured to make the section of the Bill, which corresponds with the section of the Code as to sentences on escaped convicts, express what we believe to have been the intention of the legislature.

We have expressly saved the provisions of the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

We have authorised the Advocate General to enter up a nolle prosequi.

We have made several verbal amendments in the sections transferred from the Code.

In the schedule of repeals we have inserted Act XVIII of 1859 (to amend the law relating to offences declared to be punishable on conviction before a Magistrate), and we propose to repeal the whole of 9 Geo. IV, c. 74, except the preamble and Sections 1, 7, 8, 9, 25, 26 and 56.

We think that the Bill should be republished with this report.

THE SCHEDULE.—Enactments repealed.

A Bill to regulate the Procedure of the High Courts in the exercise of their original criminal jurisdiction.

[AS AMENDED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE.]

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the procedure of the High Courts in the exercise of their original criminal jurisdiction; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The High Courts' Criminal Procedure Act, 1875:"

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India.

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the first day of March 1875.

Repeal of enactments.

2. The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the said schedule, but not so as to revive any practice thereby abolished.

And all rules made under any of the said enactments shall be deemed to have been made under this Act, so far as they are consistent herewith.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"High Court."

"High Court" includes all High Courts established or to be established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, Chapter 104, the Chief Court of the Panjáb, and such other Courts as the Governor-General in Council may, from time to time, declare to be invested with the powers of a High Court under this Act:

"Chief Justice."

"Chief Justice" includes also the Senior Judge of a Chief Court:

"Advocate General."

"Advocate General" includes also a Government Advocate:

"Clerk of the Crown."

"Clerk of the Crown" includes any officer specially appointed by the Chief Justice to discharge the functions given by this Act to the Clerk of the Crown; and

"Magistrate."

"Magistrate" includes also a Police Magistrate in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay.

"European British Subject."

"European British Subject" means—

(a) all subjects of Her Majesty born, naturalized or domiciled in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland or in any of the European, American or Australian colonies or possessions of Her Majesty, or in the colonies of New Zealand, the Cape of Good Hope and Natal;

(b) the children and grandchildren of any such person by legitimate descent.

"Prosecutor."

"Prosecutor" includes every person conducting a prosecution on behalf of Her Majesty.

"Offence."

"Offence" denotes anything made punishable by any law for the time being in force; and words which refer to acts done extend also to illegal omissions.

CHAPTER II.

OF SESSIONS.

Time of holding sittings.

4. For the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, every High Court shall hold sittings on such days and at such convenient intervals as the Chief Justice of such Court from time to time appoints.

Place of holding sittings.

5. The High Court shall hold its sittings at the place at which it now holds them, or at such other place (if any) as the Governor General in Council in the case of the High Court at Fort

William, and as the local Government in the case of the other High Courts, may direct. But it may, from time to time, in the case of the High Court at Fort William, with the consent of the Governor General in Council;

all other cases, with the consent of the local Government, hold sittings at such other places within the local limits of its appellate jurisdiction as the High Court appoints.

Notice of sittings.

Such officer as the Chief Justice directs shall give notice beforehand in the local official Gazette of all sittings intended to be held for the exercise of the original criminal jurisdiction of the High Court.

CHAPTER III.

OF PROCEDURE ON COMMITMENTS.

Cases tried by High Courts to be tried under this Act.

6. All cases committed to the High Court and tried by it shall be tried subject to the provisions of this Act.

Consideration and amendment of charge.

7. When any person is committed for trial before a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, or if there be not a Clerk of the Crown, a Judge of the High Court, shall, on receipt of the charge, peruse and consider it, and may, if it appear necessary or expedient so to do, alter or redraw the same, having regard to the rules as to the form of charges contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Charge to be recorded.

Copy of charge.

The charge, with such alterations (if any), shall be recorded in the High Court, and a copy of such charge shall be given to the person gratis, if he demands it.

Copies of depositions.

8. The person charged shall also be entitled to a copy of his own examination before the committing Magistrate and to copies of the examinations of witnesses upon whose depositions he has been committed, and of all other depositions (if any) taken against him and returned into the High Court, if he demands them a reasonable time before the case comes on for trial and pays for the same a reasonable sum not exceeding one anna for each folio of ninety words.

The Court may for any special reason remit any such payment.

How Court may deal with charge.

9. If a prisoner is committed to the Court without any charge at all, the clerk of the crown, or if there be not a clerk of the crown a judge of the High Court, may draw up a charge having regard to the rules referred to in section seven. If a prisoner is committed upon a charge which the Court, upon reference to the proceedings before the committing Magistrate, considers improper, the Court may draw up a charge for any offence or offences which it considers to be proved by the evidence taken before the committing Magistrate.

Prisoner may apply for amendment.

10. Any accused person may apply to the Court for an amendment of the charge made against him; and in considering whether any error in a charge did in fact mislead the accused person, the Court shall take into account the fact that he did or did not make such an application.

Court may amend charge.

11. The Court may, upon the application of the accused person, or of the prosecutor, or upon its own motion, amend or alter any charge at any stage of the proceedings before the verdict of the jury is delivered. Such amendment shall be explained to the accused person.

When trial may proceed immediately after amendment.

12. If the amendment or alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused person in his defence, it shall be at the discretion of the Court, after making such amendment or alteration, to proceed with the trial as if the amended charge had been the original charge.

When new trial may be directed or trial suspended.

13. If the amendment or alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused person in his defence, the Court may either direct a new trial, or suspend the trial for such period as may be necessary to enable the accused person to make his defence to the amended or altered charge; and, after hearing his defence, the Court may, if it thinks fit, further adjourn the trial, to admit of the appearance of any witness whose evidence the Court may consider to be material to the case, or whom the accused person may wish to be summoned in his defence.

Prosecutor and accused person may recall witnesses.

14. In all cases of amendment or alteration of a charge during the trial, the prosecutor and accused person shall be allowed to recall and examine any witness who may have been examined.

Previous sanction to be obtained if offence in amended charge require it.

15. If the offence stated in the amended or altered charge be one for which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained; unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the amended or altered charge was founded.

Joinder of Charges.

Separate charges for distinct offences.

16. There must be a separate charge for every distinct offence of which any person is accused, and every such charge must be tried separately, except in the cases hereinafter excepted.

Illustration.

A is accused of a theft on one occasion, and of causing grievous hurt on another occasion. A must be separately charged and separately tried for the theft and the causing grievous hurt.

More offences than one of same kind may be charged within a year of each other.

17. When a person is accused of more offences than one of the same kind, committed within one year of each other, he may be charged and tried at the same time for any number of them not exceeding three.

EXPLANATION.—Offences are said to be of the same kind under this section if they fall within the provisions of section nineteen.

Trial of more than one offence.

18. I. If in one series of acts, so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with and tried for every such offence at the same time.

One offence falling within two definitions.

II. If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being, by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with each of the offences so committed; but he must not receive a more severe punishment than could be awarded for any of such offences.

Acts severally constituting more than one offence, but collectively coming within one definition.

III. If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with every offence which he may have committed; but he must not receive for such offences, collectively, a punishment more severe than that which might have been awarded for any one of such offences, or for the offence formed by their combination.

Illustrations.

To paragraph I.

(a.). A rescues B, a person in lawful custody, and in so doing causes grievous hurt to C, a constable in whose custody B was. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, offences under sections 225 and 333, Indian Penal Code.

(b.) A has in his possession several counterfeit seals with the intention of committing several forgeries. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, the possession of each seal for a distinct forgery under section 473, Indian Penal Code.

(c.) A, with intent to cause injury to B, institutes proceedings against him, knowing there is no just or lawful ground for such proceedings. A also, in the course of the proceedings, falsely charges B with having committed an offence. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, two offences under section 211, Indian Penal Code.

(d.) A, with intent to injure B, brings a false charge against him of having committed an offence. On the trial, A gives false evidence against B. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, offences under sections 211 and 194 or 195, Indian Penal Code.

(e.) A, knowing that B, a female minor, has been kidnapped, wrongfully confines her and detains her as a slave. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, offences under sections 368 (read with 367) and 370, Indian Penal Code.

(f.) A, with six others, commits the offences of rioting, grievous hurt to B, and of assaulting C, a public servant engaged in suppressing the riot. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, offences under sections 147, 325 and 152, Indian Penal Code.

(g.) A criminally intimidates B, C and D at the same time. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, each of the three offences under section 506, Indian Penal Code.

(h.) A intentionally causes the death of three persons by upsetting a boat. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, three offences under section 302, Indian Penal Code.

To paragraph II.

(i.) A commits mischief by cutting down a tree in a Government forest. The tree overhangs the bank of a river and falls into the stream. A commits theft by having severed the tree and by floating it down the river to his village, where he sells it. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 426 and 379, Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries him may not inflict a more severe sentence than if it had convicted him under section 379 only.

(j.) A wrongfully strikes B with a cane. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 352 and 323 of the Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries him may not inflict a more severe sentence than if it had convicted him under section 323 only.

(k.) A wrongfully kills a buffalo worth sixty rupees belonging to B, and then takes away the carcase in a manner amounting to theft. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 429 and 379, Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries him may not inflict a more severe sentence than if it had convicted him under section 429 only.

(l.) Several stolen sacks of corn are made over to A and B, who know they are stolen property. A and B thereupon assist each other to conceal the sacks at the bottom of a grain-pit. A and B may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 411 and 414, Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries them may not inflict a severer sentence than if it had convicted them under one of those sections only.

(m.) A uses a forged document in evidence, in order to convict B, a public servant, of an offence under section 167. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 471 (read with 466) and 196 of the Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries him may not inflict a severer sentence than if it had convicted him under one of those sections only.

To paragraph III.

(n.) A commits house-breaking by day with intent to commit adultery, and commits, in the house so entered, adultery with B's wife. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 454 and 497, Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries him may not inflict a severer sentence than if it had convicted him under section 497 only.

(o.) A robs B, and, in doing so, voluntarily causes hurt to him. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 323, 392 and 394 of the Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries him may not inflict a severer sentence than if it had convicted him under section 392 or 394 only.

(p.) A entices B, the wife of C, away, and then commits adultery with her. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 498 and 497, Indian Penal Code; but the Court which tries him may not inflict a severer sentence than if it had convicted him under section 497 only.

Where it is doubtful what offence has been committed.

Illustration.

A is accused of an act which may amount to either theft, receiving stolen property, criminal breach of trust, or cheating. He may be charged separately with theft, criminal breach of trust, and cheating, or he may be charged with having committed either theft, or criminal breach of trust, or cheating.

When a person is charged with one offence, he can be convicted of another.

20. If, in the case mentioned in section nineteen one charge only is brought against an accused person, and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence, for which he might have been charged under the provisions of that section, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed, although he was not charged with it.

Illustration.

A is charged with theft. It appears that he committed criminal breach of trust, or receiving stolen goods. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust, or receiving stolen goods, though he was not charged with it.

When offence proved included in offence charged.

21. When a person is charged with an offence, and part of the charge is not proved, but the part which is proved amounts to a different offence, he may be convicted of the offence which he is proved to have committed, though he was not charged with it.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged, under section 407, Indian Penal Code, with criminal breach of trust in respect of property entrusted to him as a carrier. It appears that he did commit criminal breach of trust under section 406 in respect of the property, but that it was not entrusted to him as a carrier. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust under section 406.

(b.) A is charged with murder. He may be convicted of culpable homicide, or of causing death by negligence.

What persons may be charged jointly.

22. When more persons than one are accused of the same offence, or of different offences committed in the same transaction, or when one person is accused of committing any offence, and another of abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, they may be charged and tried together, or separately, as the Court thinks proper, and the provisions hereinbefore contained shall apply to all such charges.

Illustrations.

(a.) A and B are accused of the same murder. A and B may be charged and tried together for the murder.

(b.) A and B are accused of a robbery, in the course of which A commits a murder with which B has nothing to do. A and B may be tried together on a charge, charging both of them with the robbery, and A alone with the murder.

(c.) A and B are both charged with a theft, and B is charged with two other thefts committed by him in the course of the same transaction. A and B may be both tried together on a charge, charging both with the one theft, and B alone with the two other thefts.

Effect of errors.

23. No error, either in the way in which the offence is stated, or in the particulars required by the Code of Criminal Procedure to be stated, and no omission to state the offence, or to state those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the person accused was in fact misled by such error or omission.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit;" the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d.) A is charged with the murder of Khodá Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e.) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January, and Khodá Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that muder) on the 21st January. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khodá Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

Entry on unsustainable charge.

24. When any charge, or portion of a charge, recorded as aforesaid appears to a Judge of the High Court, at any time before the commencement of the trial of the person charged, to be clearly unsustainable, he may make on the charge an entry to that effect.

Effect of entry.

Such entry shall have the effect of staying proceedings upon the charge or portion of the charge (as the case may be), but shall not operate as an acquittal of the person charged.

When irregular commitments may be validated.

25. If any Magistrate, not being empowered by law, commits an accused person to take his trial before a High Court, the Court may, after perusal of the proceedings, accept the commitment if it considers that the accused person has not been prejudiced, unless objection was made on behalf either of the accused person or of the prosecution to the jurisdiction of the committing Magistrate during the inquiry and before the order of commitment.

If such Court considers that the accused person was prejudiced, or if such objection as aforesaid was so made, it shall quash the commitment, and direct a fresh inquiry by a competent Magistrate.

Custody pending direction as to place of trial.

26. Pending the directions of the Court as to the place of trial, every person committed for trial shall (if not admitted to bail) be committed by the Magistrate for intermediate custody to the criminal jail in which he can be most conveniently confined.

Procedure thereafter.

If the trial be directed to be held at the ordinary place of sitting of the Court, the Magistrate shall bind over the person charged to appear and take his trial at such place of sitting, or shall commit him to the jail at such place.

If the Court direct that the person charged be tried elsewhere than at its ordinary place of sitting, the Magistrate shall bind him over to appear and take his trial at the place so directed, or shall, if necessary, cause him to be removed to the criminal jail at or nearest to the place at which he is directed to be tried.

Intermediate custody of European British subjects.

27. The Court may direct that all European British subjects committed or bailed for trial by it within certain specified districts or during certain specified periods of the year, shall be tried at the ordinary place of sitting of the Court, or direct that they shall be tried at a particular place named, and may also order that they shall, if not bailed, be committed for intermediate custody to a particular jail, being one of the jails appointed by the Government for the reception of such prisoners.

CHAPTER IV.

OF THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE TRIAL.

Commencement of trial.

28. When the Court is ready to commence the trial, the accused person shall be brought before it, and the charge shall be read and explained to him, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty of the offence charged, or claims to be tried.

Plea of guilty.

29. If the accused person pleads guilty, the plea shall be recorded, and he may be convicted thereon.

Refusal to plead or claim to be tried.

30. If the accused person refuses to, or does not, plead, or if he claims to be tried, the Court shall proceed to choose jurors as hereinafter directed, and to try the case.

Right of accused to be defended.

31. Every person accused of an offence may of right be defended by any advocate of a High Court.

Any such person may, with the permission of the Court (but not otherwise), employ any person not being an advocate, attorney or pleader, to assist him in his defence.

CHAPTER V.

OF JURIES.

(a) Of Juries generally.

Trials to be by jury.

32. All trials under this Act shall be by jury; and, notwithstanding anything contained in section sixty-four of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in all criminal cases transferred to a High Court under that section or under the Letters Patent of any High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, Chapter 104, the trial may, if the High Court so direct, be by jury.

Number of jurors.

33. The jury shall consist of nine persons, who shall be chosen by lot from the persons summoned to act as jurors.

Successive trials by same jury.

34. Subject to the right of challenge hereinafter mentioned, the same jury may try as many accused persons successively as the Court thinks fit.

Majority of jurors for trial of European British subjects.

35. If before the first juror is called and accepted, any European British subject charged as aforesaid requires to be tried, by a mixed jury, the majority of the jurors shall consist of Europeans or Americans, or both Europeans and Americans.

Trial of European British subject and Native jointly accused.

36. In any case in which a European British subject is accused jointly with a person not being a European British subject, and such European British subject is committed for trial before a High Court, the person so jointly accused shall (if the committing Magistrate thinks that he ought to be tried), also be committed for trial before such High Court, notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Such persons may be tried together, and the procedure on the trial shall be the same as it would have been had the European British subject been tried separately.

Provisions for European British subject requiring majority of Europeans in jury.

37. Provided that if before the jury is empannelled the European British subject requires the majority of the jurors to consist of Europeans or Americans, or both Europeans and Americans, and the person not being a European British subject requires that he shall be tried separately by a jury of which at least one-half shall consist of persons not being Europeans or Americans, the latter person shall be tried separately.

Native may claim separate trial.

(b) Of Juries in the Presidency Towns.

Trials before special jury.

38. Every person tried in Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, shall be tried before a special jury

(a) if charged with having committed an offence punishable with death, or

(b) if in any other case a Judge of the High Court so directs.

Jurors' book.

39. The jurors' book for the year current when this Act comes into force, shall be taken as containing a correct list of persons qualified and liable to serve as jurors under this Act; and those persons whose names are entered in the said book as being privileged to serve on special juries only shall be deemed to be persons privileged and liable to serve only as special jurors under this Act during the year for which the said list has been prepared.

Number of special jurors.

40. The names of not more than two hundred persons shall at any one time be entered in the Special Jurors' list.

Exemption of special jurors.

41. All persons whose names are entered in the special jurors' list shall be exempted from serving on any other than special juries, but so long only as their names are contained in such list.

Lists of common and special jurors.

42. The Clerk of the Crown shall, before the first day of April in each year, and subject to such rules as the High Court from time to time prescribes, prepare

(a) a list of all persons qualified and liable to serve as common jurors;

(b) a list of persons qualified and liable to serve as special jurors only.

Regard shall be had, in the preparation of the latter list, to the property, character and education of the persons whose names are entered therein.

No person shall be entitled to have his name entered in the special jurors' list, merely because he may have been entered in the special jurors' list for a previous year.

The Governor General in Council may exempt any salaried officer of Government from serving as a juror.

Discretion of officer preparing lists.

43. The Clerk of the Crown shall, subject to such rules as aforesaid, have full discretion to prepare the said lists as seems to him to be proper, and there shall be no appeal from, or review of, his decision.

Publication of lists.

44. Preparatory lists of persons qualified or liable to serve as common jurors and as special jurors, respectively, signed by the officer by whom the same have been prepared, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the fifteenth day of April next after their preparation.

Revised lists of persons qualified or liable to serve as common jurors and special jurors, respectively, signed as aforesaid, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the first day of May next after their preparation.

Copies of the said lists shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house.

Number of jurors to be summoned.

45. Out of the persons named in the revised lists aforesaid, there shall be summoned for each sessions at least twenty-seven of those who are qualified and liable to serve on special juries, and fifty-four of those who are qualified and liable to serve on common juries.

No person shall be so summoned more than once in six months unless the number cannot be made up without him.

Supplementary summons.

If, during the continuance of any sessions, it appears that the number of persons so summoned is not sufficient, such number as may be necessary of other persons qualified and liable to serve as aforesaid shall be summoned for such sessions.

Failure of jurors to attend.

46. Any person so summoned who without lawful excuse fails to attend as required by the summons, or who having attended departs without having obtained the permission of the Judge, or fails to attend after an adjournment of the Court after being ordered to attend, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt and be liable by order of the Judge to such fine as he thinks fit, and, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment in the civil jail until the fine is paid.

Peremptory challenges.

47. Challenges without cause shown shall be allowed to the number of eight on behalf of the Crown and eight on behalf of the person or all the persons charged.

Challenges on cause.

The following and no others shall be good causes of challenge, whether on behalf of the Crown or by the person or persons charged:—

(a) Some personal objection, such as alienage, infancy, old age, or deficiency in the qualification required by any law or rule having the force of law for the time being in force:

(b) Some presumed or actual partiality in the juror:

(c) A previous conviction of the juror of a non-bailable offence under the Indian Penal Code, or of a similar offence under any other law in force in British India:

(d) Inability to understand English when spoken.

Trial of challenges.

48. The Judge before whom a person charged is about to be tried shall try any challenge, other than a challenge without cause shown; and if the Judge allow the challenge, the juror shall be set aside.

The decision of the Judge as to any challenge shall be final.

Powers of Presidency High Courts as to jurors.

49. Save as herein provided, the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay shall retain all their present powers respecting the summoning, empannelling, qualification, challenging, and service of jurors, and shall have power to make such rules on these subjects (consistent with the provisions of this Act) as seem to it to be proper.

All rules relating to jurors now in force in the same High Courts shall (so far as they are consistent with this Act) remain in force until repealed or altered by new rules made under this section.

(c) Of Juries in the Mofussil.

Summoning jurors.

50. Whenever a High Court has given notice of its intention to hold sittings at any place (other than the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay) for the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, the Court of Session at such place shall, subject to any direction which may be given by the High Court, take and cause to be taken the measures prescribed by sections 407, 409, 410 and 411 of the Code of Criminal Procedure for the summoning of jurors.

Military jurors.

51. In addition to the persons so summoned as jurors, the said Court of Session shall, if it think needful, after communication with the Commanding Officer, cause to be summoned such number of Commissioned and Non-Commissioned Officers in the military service, resident within ten miles of its place of sitting, as the Court considers to be necessary to make up the juries required for the trial of European British subjects charged with offences before the High Court as aforesaid.

All Commissioned and Non-Commissioned Officers so summoned shall be liable to serve on such juries notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure; but no Commissioned or Non-Commissioned Officer shall be summoned whom his Commanding Officer desires to have excused on the ground of urgent military duty, or for any other special military reason.

Juries for trial of European British subjects.

52. The juries for the trial of European British subjects as aforesaid shall be formed in the manner required by the Code of Criminal Procedure and by this Act from the persons summoned in accordance with sections 50 and 51.

Names of jurors to be called.

53. As each juror is chosen, his name shall be called aloud, and, upon his appearance, the accused person shall be asked if he objects to be tried by such juror.

Objections to jurors.

Objection may then be made to such juror by the accused person, or by the prosecutor, and the grounds of objection shall be stated.

Grounds of objection.

54. Any objection made to a juror on any of the following grounds, if made out to the satisfaction of the Court, shall be allowed:—

(a) his holding any office in or under the Court or the local Court of Session;

(b) his executing any duties of Police or being entrusted with any Police functions;

(c) his having been convicted of any offence against the State, or of any fraudulent or other offence which, in the judgment of the Court, renders him unfit to serve on the jury;

(d) his having by habit or religious vows, relinquished all care of worldly affairs;

(e) his standing in the relation of husband, master, servant, landlord or tenant, to the person alleged to be injured or attempted to be injured by the offence charged, or to the person accused;

(f) his being in the employment of any of such persons;

(g) his being plaintiff or defendant in any civil suit against any of such persons;

(h) his having complained against, or having been accused by, any of such persons in any criminal prosecution;

(i) any circumstance which, in the judgment of the Court, is likely to cause prejudice against, or favour to, any of such persons, or which renders such person improper as a juror.

Decision of objection.

55. Any objection made to a juror shall be decided by the Court, and such decision shall be final.

Supply of place of juror against whom objection allowed.

56. If the objection be allowed, the place of such juror shall be supplied by any other juror attending in obedience to a summons; or, if there be no such other juror present, then by any other person present in the Court whose name is on the list of jurors, or whom the Court considers a proper person to serve on the jury, provided no objection to such other juror or person be made and allowed under section 54.

Juror to understand language in which evidence is given or interpreted.

57. The Judge shall not allow any person to serve on the jury, unless such person understands the language in which the evidence is given or interpreted.

(d) Of the Foreman.

Foreman of jury.

58. When the jury has been completed, they shall appoint one of their number to be foreman.

It shall be the duty of the foreman to preside in the debates of the jury, to deliver the verdict of the jury, and to ask any information from the Court that may be required by the jury or any of the jurors.

If a majority of the jury do not agree in the appointment of a foreman, he shall be appointed by the Court.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE TRIAL.

Examination of witnesses.

59. The prosecutor shall then open his case, and the witnesses shall be examined, cross-examined and re-examined according to the law for the time being relating to the examination of witnesses.

Examination of accused before Magistrate to be evidence.

60. The examination of the accused person before the committing Magistrate shall be given in evidence at the trial.

Examination of accused.

61. The Court may from time to time, at any stage of the trial, examine the accused person.

Accused not punishable for refusal to answer.

The accused person shall not be liable to any punishment for refusing to answer, or for answering falsely, questions asked under this section, but the Court shall draw such inference as seems just from such refusal or false answer.

No oath or affirmation shall be administered to the accused person.

Defence.

62. When the examination of the witnesses for the prosecution and the examination of the accused person are concluded, the accused person shall be asked whether he means to call witnesses. If he says that he does not, the prosecutor may sum up his case. The Court may then, if it thinks that there are no grounds for proceeding, direct the jury to return a verdict of acquittal.

If the Court considers that there are grounds for proceeding, it shall call on the accused person to state his grounds of defence and produce his witnesses.

The accused person, or his Counsel may then state the case for the defence, and may examine the witnesses, if any, produced for the defence, and at the conclusion of such examination may sum up his case.

Prosecutor's right of reply.

63. If any evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused person, the prosecutor shall be entitled to reply.

View by jury.

64. Whenever, in the opinion of the Court, it is proper and convenient that the jury should view the place in which the offence charged is said to have been committed, or any other place in which any other transaction material to the inquiry in the trial took place, an order shall be made to that effect, and the jury shall be conducted in a body, under the care of an officer of the Court, to such place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court. Such officer shall not suffer any other person to speak to, or hold any communication with, any of the jury.

Locking-up jury.

65. The High Court may from time to time make rules as to keeping the jury together during a trial lasting for more than one day, and, subject to such rules, the presiding Judge may order whether and in what manner the jurors shall be kept together under the charge of an officer of the Court, or whether they shall be allowed to return to their respective homes.

Postponement of trial. Adjournment.

66. The Court may, in its discretion, postpone the hearing of the case; and may, from time to time, adjourn the trial, if it considers that such adjournment is proper and will promote the ends of justice.

Jury to attend at adjourned sitting.

67. If a trial is adjourned, the jury shall be required to attend at the adjourned sitting, and at every subsequent sitting, until the conclusion of the trial.

Power to prescribe mode in which evidence shall be taken down.

68. The Court may, if it think fit, from time to time, by general rule prescribe the manner in which evidence shall be taken down in cases coming before the Court in the exercise of its ordinary or its extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction, and the Judges of such Court shall take down the evidence or the substance thereof in accordance with the rule (if any) so prescribed.

Evidence of jurors.

69. If a juryman is personally acquainted with any relevant fact, it is his duty to inform the Judge that such is the case, whereupon he may be examined, cross-examined and re-examined, in the same manner as any other witness.

Interpreter.

70. When the services of an interpreter are required by the Court for the interpretation of any evidence or statement, he shall be bound to state the true interpretation of such evidence or statement.

CHAPTER VII.

OF EVIDENCE.

Evidence of medical witness.

71. The examination of a Civil Surgeon or other medical witness, taken and duly attested by a Magistrate, may be given in evidence in any criminal trial, although the person examined is not called as a witness.

Court may summon medical witness.

The Court may summon such Civil Surgeon or other medical witness, if it sees sufficient cause for doing so.

Report of Chemical Examiner.

72. Any document purporting to be a report from the Chemical Examiner, or Assistant Chemical Examiner to Government, upon any matter or thing duly submitted to him for examination or analysis and report, in the course of any criminal trial, or in any preliminary inquiry relating thereto, may, if it bears his signature, be used as evidence in any criminal trial.

Genuineness of signature may be presumed.

The Court may presume that the signature of any such document is genuine, and that the person signing it held the office which he professed to hold at the time when he signed it.

Admission of accused.

73. If, after the commencement of the trial, the accused person admits before the Court the commission of an offence, the Court may convict him on his own admission, whether such offence is the same as the offence of which he is accused, or not.

Record of evidence in absence of accused.

74. If an accused person abscond, and after due pursuit cannot be arrested, the Court may, in his absence, examine the witnesses (if any) produced on behalf of the prosecution and record their depositions; and any such deposition may, on the arrest of such person, be put in on his trial for the offence with which he is charged if it is not practicable to procure the attendance of the deponent.

Evidence given at preliminary inquiry.

75. When a witness is produced, the evidence (if any) given by him before the committing Magistrate may, in the discretion of the presiding Judge, be treated as evidence in the case, if it was duly taken in the presence of the accused person.

EXPLANATION.—This section shall not authorize the Court to refer to the record of the evidence given by a witness who is absent, except in the cases in which such evidence may be referred to under the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, or other law in force for the time being upon the subject of evidence.

Commissions.

When a commission may issue.

76. Whenever it appears that the attendance of a witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, the Court may dispense with his personal attendance.

Mode of issuing commission.

The Court may direct a commission to the Magistrate of the District, or to a Magistrate of the first class, in whose jurisdiction such witness may be. The Magistrate to whom the commission is directed shall proceed to the place where such witness is, or shall summon such witness before himself. Such Magistrate shall take the evidence of such witness in the same manner, and shall have for this purpose, and may exercise, the same powers as in trials of warrant cases.

Where witness is in a Native State.

When the witness is in the territories of any Native Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, the commission may be directed to any Justice of the Peace or other officer in the service of the Crown resident in such territories; and the provisions of the second clause of this section shall apply to such Justice of the Peace or officer.

Where witness is in a Presidency Town

If the witness is within the local limits of the ordinary original criminal jurisdiction of any of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay, the commission may be directed to any Police Magistrate within such limits, and such Magistrate shall have the like power to compel the attendance and examination of witnesses as he possesses for that purpose in cases pending before him.

Prosecutor and accused may examine witness.

The prosecutor and the accused person may forward interrogatories, upon which the officer to whom the commission is directed shall examine the witness, or the prosecutor may appear personally before the officer to whom the commission is directed, or the prosecutor or accused person may so appear by authorized agent.

Return of commission.

After any commission issued under this section has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the deposition of the witness examined thereunder, to the Court out of which it issued; and the commission, the return thereto, and the deposition of such witness may be used as evidence in the case and shall form part of the record.

Tender of Pardon to obtain Evidence.

Court may direct tender of pardon.

77. The Court may, with the view of obtaining on the trial the evidence of any person or persons supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in, or privy to, any offence mentioned in column 7 of the fourth schedule annexed to the Code of Criminal Procedure as triable exclusively by the Court of Session, instruct the committing Magistrate to tender, or itself may, at any time before judgment, tender, a pardon to such person or persons, on condition of his or their making a full, true and fair disclosure of the whole of the circumstances, within his or their knowledge, relative to the crime committed and every other person concerned in the perpetration thereof.

Any person accepting a tender of pardon under this section shall be examined as a witness in the case, under the rules applicable to the examination of witnesses.

Such person, if not on bail, shall be detained in custody pending the termination of the trial.

Commitment of person to whom pardon has been tendered.

78. When a pardon has been tendered under section 77, if it appears to the Court that any person who has accepted such tender has not conformed to the conditions under which it was made, either by wilfully concealing anything essential, or by giving false evidence, the Court may commit, or direct the commitment of, such person, for trial for the offence in respect of which the pardon was so tendered, or for any other offence of which he may appear to have been guilty in connection with the same matter.

The statement made by a person under pardon, which pardon has been withdrawn under this section, may be put in evidence against him.

Of securing the Attendance of Witnesses and the Production of Documents.

Procedure for obtaining attendance of witnesses.

79. The following procedure shall be pursued in order to obtain the attendance of witnesses before the Court.

Power to summon material witness or examine person present.

80. The Court may, at any stage of any proceeding, inquiry or trial, summon any witness, or examine any person in attendance though not summoned as a witness, and it shall be its duty to do so if the evidence of such person appears essential to the just decision of the case.

When warrant of arrest may issue in first instance.

81. If the Court has reason to believe that any witness whose attendance is required will not attend to give evidence without being compelled to do so, it may, instead of issuing a summons, issue a warrant of arrest in the first instance.

Procedure when warrant cannot be served.

82. If such warrant cannot be executed, and the Court considers that the witness is absconding or concealing himself for the purpose of avoiding the service thereof, it may issue a proclamation, requiring his attendance to give evidence at a time and place to be named therein, to be affixed on some conspicuous part of his ordinary place of abode.

If the witness does not attend at the time and place named in such proclamation, the Court may order the attachment of any moveable property belonging to such witness, to such amount as seems reasonable, not being in excess of the amount of costs of attachment and of any fine to which he may be liable under the provisions of the next following section.

Such order shall authorize the attachment of any such moveable property within the jurisdiction of the Court by which the order was made; and if any such moveable property be without the jurisdiction of the said Court, such order when endorsed by the Magistrate of the District in which such property is situated shall authorize the attachment of the property last aforesaid.

Release of attached property of witness appearing and satisfying Court.

83. If the witness appears and satisfies the Court that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the execution of the warrant, and that he had not notice of the proclamation in time to attend at the time and place named therein, the Court shall direct that the property attached be released from attachment, and shall make such order in regard to the costs of the attachment as the Court thinks fit.

Sale of property of witness not appearing or not satisfying Court.

If such witness does not appear, or, appearing, fails to satisfy the Court that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the execution of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as aforesaid, the Court may order the property attached, or any part thereof, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying all costs incurred in consequence of such attachment, together with the amount of any fine which may be imposed upon such witness under the provisions of section 172 of the Indian Penal Code.

If the witness pays to such Court the costs and fine as aforesaid, his property shall be released from attachment.

Arrest of person disobeying summons.

84. If any person summoned to give evidence neglects or refuses to appear at the time and place appointed by the summons, and no reasonable excuse is offered for such neglect or refusal, the Court, upon proof of the summons having been duly served, may issue a warrant under its seal to bring such person before it to testify as aforesaid.

Right of accused as to examination and summoning of witness.

85. The accused person shall be allowed to examine any witness not previously named by him, if such witness be in attendance; but he shall not, except as provided in section thirteen, be entitled of right to have any witness summoned other than the witnesses summoned by the Magistrate by whom he was committed or held to bail for trial.

Procedure for obtaining production of document required as evidence.

86. Whenever the Court considers that the production of any document is necessary or desirable for the purposes of any investigation or judicial proceeding, the Court may issue a summons to the person in whose possession or power such document is believed to be, requiring him to attend and produce such document at the time and place stated in the summons.

87. If there is reason to believe that the person to whom the summons is addressed will not produce the document as directed in the summons, the Court may issue a search-warrant for the document in the first instance.

When warrant for search for documents may issue.

88. The Court may, if it thinks fit, impound any document produced before it, or may, at the conclusion of the proceedings, order such document to be returned to the person who produced it.

Power to impound document produced.

89. If a witness refuses to answer any question which is put to him or to produce any document in his possession or power which the Court requires him to produce, and does not offer any just excuse for such refusal, he shall be deemed guilty of contempt of Court.

Procedure in case of refusal to answer or produce documents.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE CHARGE TO THE JURY.

90. When the case for the defence and the prosecutor's reply, if any, are concluded, the Court shall proceed to charge the jury, summing up the evidence for the prosecution and defence, and laying down the law by which the jury are to be guided.

Charge to jury.

91. It is the duty of the Judge to decide all questions of law, and especially all questions as to the relevancy of facts which it is proposed to prove, the admissibility of evidence, or the propriety of questions asked by parties or their agents, which may arise in the course of the trial; and, in his discretion, to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence, whether it is or is not objected to by the parties;

Duty of Judge.

to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial;

to decide upon all matters of fact which it may be necessary to prove in order to enable evidence of particular matters to be given;

to decide whether any question which arises is for himself or for the jury; and upon this point his decision shall be final.

The Judge may, if he thinks proper, in the course of his summing up, express to the jury his opinion upon any question of fact, or upon any question of mixed law and fact, relevant to the proceeding.

Illustrations.

(a.) It is proposed to prove a statement made by a person not called as a witness, under circumstances which render evidence of his statement admissible.

It is for the Judge, and not for the jury, to decide whether the existence of those circumstances has been proved.

(b.) It is proposed to give secondary evidence of a document, the original of which is alleged to have been lost or destroyed.

It is the duty of the Judge to decide whether the original has been lost or destroyed.

CHAPTER IX.

OF THE VERDICT AND THE DISCHARGE OF THE JURY.

92. After the Judge has finished his charge, the jury may retire to consider their verdict.

Retirement to consider.

It shall be the duty of an officer of the Court not to suffer any person other than a juror to speak to, or hold any communication with, any member of such jury.

93. It is the duty of the jury—

Duty of jury.

(a) to decide which view of the facts is true, and then to return the verdict which under such view ought, according to the direction of the Judge, to be returned;

(b) to determine the meaning of all technical terms and words used in an unusual sense, which it may be necessary to determine, whether such words occur in documents or not;

(c) to decide all questions which according to law are to be deemed questions of fact;

(d) to decide whether general, indefinite expressions do or do not apply to particular cases, unless such expressions refer to legal procedure, or unless their meaning is ascertained by law, in either of which cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide their meaning.

Illustrations.

(1.) A is tried for the murder of B.

It is the duty of the Judge to explain to the jury the distinction between murder and culpable homicide, and to tell them under what views of the facts A ought to be convicted of murder, or of culpable homicide, or to be acquitted.

It is the duty of the jury to decide which view of the facts is true, and to return a verdict in accordance with the direction of the Judge, whether that direction is right or wrong, and whether they do or do not agree with it.

(2.) The question is, whether a person entertained a reasonable belief on a particular point. Whether work was done with reasonable skill, or due diligence.

Each of these is a question for the jury.

94. When the jury have considered their verdict, the foreman shall inform the Court what is their verdict, or what is the verdict of a majority.

Foreman to communicate verdict.

95. The jury shall return a verdict on all the charges on which the accused is tried, and the Court may ask them such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is.

Verdict to be given on each charge.
Judge may question jury.

96. If the jury are not unanimous, the Judge may require them to retire for further consideration. After such a period as the Judge considers reasonable, the jury may deliver their verdict, although they are not unanimous.

Procedure where jury differ.

97. A verdict of guilty or not guilty, as the case may be, shall be delivered either when the jury are unanimous in their opinion, or when as many as six are of one opinion and the Judge agrees with them.

Verdict when to be delivered.

98. When the jury are satisfied that they will not be unanimous, but six of them are of one opinion, the foreman shall so inform the Judge.

Discharge of jury in default of unanimity or majority of six with Judge's concurrence.

If the Judge disagrees with the majority, he shall then discharge the jury.

If there are not so many as six who agree in opinion, the Judge shall, after the lapse of such time as he thinks reasonable, discharge the jury.

Discharge of jury in case of sickness of juror or prisoner.

99. The Judge may also discharge the jury whenever by reason of illness a juryman becomes incapable of attending through the trial or the prisoner becomes incapable of remaining at the bar.

Re-trial of prisoner after discharge of jury.

100. Whenever the jury is discharged, the prisoner shall be detained in custody or on bail (as the case may be) and shall be tried by another jury unless the Judge considers that he should not be re-tried, in which case the Judge shall make an entry to that effect on the charge, and such entry shall operate as an acquittal.

Power to reserve questions.

101. When any person has in a trial before a Judge of the High Court acting in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, been convicted of an offence, the Judge, if he thinks fit, may reserve for the decision of a Court, consisting of two or more Judges of the High Court, any question of law which has arisen in the course of the trial of such person and the determination of which would affect the event of the trial.

Procedure when question reserved.

If the Judge reserves any such question, the person convicted shall, pending the decision thereon, be remanded to jail, or, if the Judge think fit, be admitted to bail, and the High Court shall have power to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such question, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the High Court seem fit.

Withdrawal of remaining charges, on conviction on one of several charges.

102. When more charges than one are preferred against the same person, and when a conviction has been had on one or more of them, the prosecutor may, with the consent of the Court, withdraw, or the Court of its own accord may direct the withdrawal of, the remaining charge or charges.

CHAPTER X.

OF THE SENTENCE.

Form and direction of warrant of commitment.

103. Every warrant for the commitment of a person to custody shall be in writing and signed and sealed by the Judge who issues it.

Provisions of Criminal Procedure Code, ss. 303, 304, 305 applied in Mofussil.

104. In the case of a High Court holding its sittings elsewhere than in the towns of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, sections 303, 304 and 305 shall apply to the officers therein mentioned.

Levy of fine.

105. Whenever an offender is sentenced to pay a fine, the Court may issue a warrant for the levy of the amount by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the offender, whether or not the offence be punishable with fine only, and whether or not the sentence direct that, in default of payment of the fine, the offender shall suffer imprisonment.

Such warrant may be executed within the jurisdiction of the Court, and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the offender without the jurisdiction of the said Court, when endorsed by the Magistrate of the District in which such property is situate.

Cases to which section applies.

This section shall not apply to cases in which any special procedure is laid down, by any special or local law in force for the time being for the recovery of any fine, but shall apply to cases in which no such procedure is laid down, and to all fines not levied when this Act comes into force, but which might have been levied under this section if it had been in force when they were imposed.

Payment of fine in compensation.

106. Whenever the Court imposes a fine under any law in force for the time being, or confirms in appeal or on revision a sentence of such fine, or a sentence of which such fine forms a part, the Court may order the whole or any part of the fine to be paid in compensation,

(a) for expenses properly incurred in the prosecution;

(b) for the offence complained of, where such offence can, in the opinion of the Court, be compensated by money.

Such payment shall be made, as the Court thinks fit, to or for the benefit of the complainant, or the person injured, or both.

In any subsequent civil proceedings relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum which may have been awarded under this section.

Imprisonment in default of payment of fine.

107. In every case punishable under any law in force for the time being with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment, the High Court shall be guided by the provisions of sections 64 and 65 of the Indian Penal Code in awarding the period of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine.

Execution of sentences of whipping.

108. Sentences of whipping shall be executed in manner provided by the Code of Criminal Procedure, sections 311, 312 and 313.

Sentence in cases of simultaneous conviction of several offences.

109. When a person is convicted, at one trial, of two or more offences punishable under the same or different sections of any law for the time being in force, the Court may sentence him, for the offences of which he has been convicted, to the several penalties prescribed by such enactment or enactments, which such Court is competent to inflict; such penalties, when consisting of imprisonment or transportation, to commence the one after the expiration of the other:

Maximum term of imprisonment.

Provided that in no case shall such person be sentenced to imprisonment for a longer period than fourteen years.

Currency of sentence on escaped convicts.

110. When sentence of death or whipping is passed on an escaped convict, the Court shall direct the new sentence to take effect without waiting for the expiration of the sentence from which he has escaped.

When any other sentence is passed on an escaped convict severer than the sentence from which he has escaped, the Court shall also direct the new sentence to take effect without waiting for the expiration of the sentence from which he escaped.

When the new sentence is not severer than the sentence from which he has escaped, the Court shall direct the new sentence to take effect after such convict has suffered imprisonment or transportation, as the case may be, for a further period equal to that which, at the time of his escape, remained unexpired of his former sentence.

When the former sentence on the escaped convict is or includes transportation for life and the Court does not sentence him to death, the new sentence shall direct that he be, as soon as practicable, sent back to the place from which he escaped.

EXPLANATION.—For the purpose of this section—

(a) a sentence of transportation shall be deemed severer than a sentence of imprisonment:

(b) a sentence of imprisonment with solitary confinement shall be deemed severer than a sentence of imprisonment without solitary confinement; and

(c) a sentence of rigorous imprisonment shall be deemed severer than a sentence of simple imprisonment with or without solitary confinement.

Sentence on offender already sentenced for another offence.

111. When sentence is passed on a person actually undergoing sentence of imprisonment or transportation, and the sentence is for imprisonment or transportation, the Court shall direct such imprisonment or transportation to commence at the expiration of the imprisonment or transportation to which he has been previously sentenced;

or, if he is undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, and the sentence on such subsequent conviction be for transportation, the Court may direct the sentence to commence immediately, or at the expiration of the imprisonment to which such person has been previously sentenced:

Proviso.

Provided that nothing in this section shall be held to excuse such person from any part of the punishment to which he is liable upon such former or subsequent conviction.

Confinement of youthful offenders in reformatories.

112. When any person under the age of sixteen years is sentenced to imprisonment for any offence, the Court may direct that such offender, instead of being imprisoned in the criminal jail, shall be confined in any reformatory established by the Local Government as a fit place for confinement, in which there are means of suitable discipline and of training in some branch of useful industry, or which is kept by a person willing to obey such rules as the Government prescribes with regard to the discipline and training of persons confined therein.

All persons confined under this section shall be subject to the rules so prescribed.

Sentence of death.

113. When any person is sentenced to death, the sentence shall direct that he be hanged by the neck till he is dead.

Postponement of capital sentence on pregnant woman.

114. If a woman sentenced to death be found to be pregnant, the High Court shall order the execution of the sentence to be postponed, and may commute the sentence.

Order for disposal of property regarding which offence committed.

115. When the trial is concluded, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of any property produced before it, regarding which any offence appears to have been committed.

Any order under this section may be in the form of a reference to a Magistrate, who shall in such case deal with the property as if it had been seized by the Police and the seizure duly reported to him.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the term 'property' includes not only such property as has been originally in the possession or under the control of any party, but also any property into or for which the same may have been converted or exchanged, and anything acquired by such conversion or exchange, whether immediately or otherwise.

Expenses of complainants and witnesses.

116. Subject to any rules that may be passed by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the Court may order payment, on the part of Government, of the reasonable expenses of any complainant or witness attending for the purpose of any trial before such Court under this Act.

CHAPTER XI.

OF PREVIOUS CONVICTIONS OR ACQUITTALS.

Person once convicted or acquitted not to be tried for same offence.

117. A person who has once been tried for an offence and convicted or acquitted of such offence, shall, while such conviction or acquittal remains in force, not be liable to be tried again for the same offence, nor on the same facts for any other offence for which a different charge from the one made against him might have been made under section 19, or for which he might have been convicted under section 20.

A person convicted or acquitted of any offence may be afterwards tried for any offence for which a separate charge might have been made against him on the former trial under section 18, paragraph I.

A person convicted or acquitted of any offence in respect of any act causing consequences which, together with such act, constituted a different offence from that for which such person was acquitted or convicted, may be afterwards tried for such last-mentioned offence, if the consequences had not happened, or were not known to the Court to have happened, at the time when he was acquitted or convicted.

A person convicted or acquitted of any offence in respect of any facts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction, be subsequently charged with and tried for any other offence which he may have committed in respect of the same facts, if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is tried upon a charge of theft as a servant and acquitted. He cannot afterwards be charged with the same theft as a servant, or, upon the same facts, with theft simply or with criminal breach of trust.

(b.) A is tried upon a charge of murder and acquitted. There is no charge of robbery; but it appears from the facts that A committed robbery at the time when the murder was committed; he may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, robbery.

(c.) A is tried for an assault and convicted. The person afterwards dies. A may be tried again for culpable homicide.

(d.) A is tried under section 270 of the Indian Penal Code for malignantly doing an act likely to spread the infection of a disease dangerous to life and is acquitted. The act so done afterwards causes a person permanently to lose his eyesight. A may be charged, under section 325, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to that person

(e.) A is charged before the Court of Session and convicted of the culpable homicide of B. A may not afterwards be tried for the murder of B on the same facts.

(f.) A is charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, voluntarily causing hurt to B. A may not afterwards be tried for voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, on the same facts, unless the case comes within paragraph three.

(g.) A is charged by a Magistrate of the second class with, and convicted by him of, theft of property from the person of B. A may be subsequently charged with, and tried for, robbery on the same acts.

(h.) A, B and C are charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, robbing D. A, B and C may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, dacoity, on the same facts.

Previous conviction to be set out in charge.

118. If the accused person has been previously convicted of any offence, and if it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which is to be awarded, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If it is omitted, it may be added at any time before sentence is passed, but not afterwards.

Previous conviction or acquittal how proved.

119. A previous conviction or acquittal may be proved against an accused person by an extract certified under the hand of the officer having the custody of the records of the Court in which such conviction or acquittal was had, to be a copy of the finding and sentence.

CHAPTER XII.

OF CRIMINAL LUNATICS.

Procedure in case of person committed being lunatic.

120. If any person committed for trial appears at his trial to the Court to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Court shall, in the first instance, try the fact of such unsoundness of mind, and if satisfied of the fact, shall give a special judgment that the accused person is of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence; and thereupon the trial shall be postponed.

The trial of the fact of the unsoundness of mind of the accused person shall be deemed to be part of his trial before the Court.

Release of lunatic pending investigation or trial.

121. Whenever an accused person is found to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Court, if the offence of which he is accused be bailable, may release him on sufficient security being given that he shall be properly taken care of, and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance when required.

Custody of lunatic.

If the offence be not bailable, or if the required bail be not given, the Court shall report the case to the Local Government, and the accused person shall be kept in safe custody in such place as the Local Government directs.

Resumption of trial.

122. Whenever a trial is postponed under section 120, the Court may at any time resume the trial, and require the accused person, if detained in custody, to be brought before the Court; or, if he has been released on security, may require his appearance.

The surety of such person shall be bound, at any time, to produce him to any officer whom the Court appoints to inspect him; and the certificate of such officer shall have the same effect as the certificate of an Inspector General of Prisons or the Visitors of Lunatic Asylums, granted under section 128.

Procedure on accused appearing before Court.

123. If, when the accused person appears or is again brought before the Court, it appears to such Court that he is in a fit state of mind to make his defence, the inquiry shall proceed, or he shall be put on his trial, as the case may require.

If it appears that the accused person is still of unsound mind, and incapable of making his defence, the Court shall again act according to the provisions of section 121.

Finding in case of acquittal on ground of being lunatic.

124. Whenever any person is acquitted upon the ground that, at the time at which he is charged with having committed an offence, he was, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act charged, or that he was doing what was wrong or contrary to law, the finding shall state specially whether such person committed the act or not.

Person so acquitted to be kept in safe custody.

125. Whenever such finding states that the accused person committed the act charged, the Court before which the trial was held shall, if the act charged would, but for the incapacity found, have amounted to an offence, order him to be kept in safe custody, in such place and manner as the Court thinks fit, and shall report the case for the order of the Local Government.

The Local Government may order such person to be kept in safe custody in a Lunatic Asylum or other suitable place of safe custody.

Lunatic prisoners to be visited by Inspector General.

126. When any person is confined under the provisions of section 121 or 125, the Inspector General of Prisons, if such person is confined in a jail, or the Visitors of the Lunatic Asylums or any two of them, if he is confined in a Lunatic Asylum, may visit him in order to ascertain his state of mind; and he shall be visited once at least in every six months by such Inspector General or by two of such Visitors as aforesaid; and such Inspector General or Visitors shall make a special report to the Local Government as to the state of mind of such person.

Procedure where lunatic prisoner is reported capable of making his defence.

127. If such person is confined under section 122 and such Inspector General or Visitors as aforesaid shall certify that, in his or their opinion, such person is capable of making his defence, he shall be taken before the Court, at such time as it appoints, and the Court shall deal with him under the provisions of section 123; and the certificate of such Inspector General or Visitors as aforesaid shall be receivable as evidence.

Procedure where lunatic confined under section 125 is declared capable of being discharged

128. If such person is confined under the provisions of section 125, and such Inspector General or Visitors as aforesaid shall certify that, in his or their judgment, he may be discharged without danger of his doing injury to himself or to any other person, the Local Government may thereupon either order him to be discharged, or to be detained in custody, or to be transferred to a public Lunatic Asylum, if he has not been already sent to such an Asylum; and may appoint a commission, consisting of a judicial officer not below the grade of a Sessions Judge and two medical officers, whereof the chief medical officer attached to the Lunatic Asylum shall be one.

The said commission shall make formal inquiry into the state of mind of such person, taking such evidence as is necessary, and shall report to the Local Government, who may order his discharge or detention as to it may seem fit.

Delivery of lunatic to care of relative.

129. Whenever any relative or friend of any person detained under the provisions of section 125 is desirous that he shall be delivered over to his care and custody, the Local Government, upon the application of such relative or friend, and on his giving security to the satisfaction of such Government that the person detained shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, may order that the person detained be delivered to such relative or friend.

Whenever such person is so delivered, it shall be upon condition that he shall be subject to be inspected by such officer, and at such times as the Local Government directs.

The provisions of sections 126 and 128 shall apply to persons detained under the provisions of this section; and the certificate of the inspecting officer appointed under this section shall be dealt with as a certificate of the Inspector General of Prisons or the Visitors of Lunatic Asylums, under the said sections.

Procedure where accused does not understand the proceedings.

130. If an accused person, though not insane, cannot be made to understand the proceedings, the Court may proceed with the trial; and if such trial results in a conviction, the Court shall pass thereon such order as it thinks fit.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF PROSECUTIONS IN CERTAIN CASES.

Prosecutions for offences against the State.

131. A complaint of an offence punishable under chapter VI of the Indian Penal Code, except section 127, or punishable under section 294 A of the said Code, shall not be entertained, unless the prosecution be instituted by order of, or under authority from, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, or some officer empowered by the Governor General in Council to order or authorize such prosecution, or unless instituted by the Advocate General.

Prosecution of Judges and public servants.

132. A complaint of an offence of which any Judge or any public servant not removeable from his office without the sanction of the Government is accused as such Judge or public servant, shall not be entertained against him, except with the sanction or under the direction of the Government, or of some officer empowered by the Government, or of some Court or other authority to which he is subordinate, and whose power so to sanction or direct such prosecution the Government does not think fit to limit or reserve.

No such Judge or public servant shall be prosecuted for any act purporting to be done by him in the discharge of his duty, unless with the sanction of the Government.

Sanction when to be given.

The sanction must be given before the commencement of the proceedings.

In this section the expression 'Government' means either the Local Government or the Governor General in Council; and the expressions 'Judge' and 'public servant' have the meanings assigned to them respectively by the Indian Penal Code.

Prosecution for contempts of the lawful authority of public servants.

133. A complaint of any offence described in chapter X of the Indian Penal Code, not falling within section 435 or 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, shall not be entertained in any Criminal Court, except with the sanction or on the complaint of the public servant concerned, or of his official superior.

The prohibition contained in this section shall not apply to the offences described in sections 189 and 190 of the Indian Penal Code.

Prosecution for certain offences against public justice.

134. A complaint of an offence against public justice, described in section 193, 194, 195, 196, 199, 200, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211 or 228 of the Indian Penal Code, when such offence is committed before or against a High Court, shall not be entertained in any Criminal Court, except with the sanction of the Court before or against which the offence was committed.

Prosecution for certain offences relating to documents given in evidence.

135. A complaint of an offence relating to documents, described in section 463, 471, 475 or 476 of the Indian Penal Code, when the document has been given in evidence in any proceedings in any High Court, shall not be entertained against a party to such proceedings, except with the sanction of the Court in which the document was given in evidence.

Nature of sanction necessary.

136. The sanction referred to in sections 133, 134 and 135 may be expressed in general terms, and need not name the accused person.

Such sanction may be given at any time, and a sanction under any one of the three last preceding sections shall be deemed sufficient authority for the Court to amend the charge to one of an offence coming within either of the two remaining sections, if the facts disclose such offence.

EXPLANATION.—In cases under this chapter, the report or application of the public servant or Court shall be deemed sufficient complaint.

Procedure in cases mentioned in sections 133, 134 and 135.

137. When the Court is of opinion that there is sufficient ground for inquiring into any charge mentioned in sections 133, 134 and 135, such Court, after making such preliminary inquiry as may be necessary, may either commit the case itself, or may send the case for inquiry to any Magistrate having power to try or commit for trial the accused person for the offence charged.

Such Magistrate shall thereupon proceed according to law; and the Court may send the accused person in custody, or take sufficient bail for his appearance before such Magistrate; and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such trial or inquiry.

The Magistrate receiving the case may, if he is authorised to make transfers of cases, transfer the inquiry to some other competent Magistrate, instead of completing the inquiry himself.

Prosecution for adultery.

138. A complaint of an offence under section 497 of the Indian Penal Code shall not be instituted, except by the husband of the woman, or by any person under whose care she was living at the time when the adultery was committed.

Prosecution for enticing away a married woman.

139. A complaint of an offence under section 498 of the Indian Penal Code shall not be instituted, except by the husband of the woman, or by the person having care of such woman on behalf of her husband.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF BAIL.

Power to direct admission to bail.

140. The Court may in any case direct that an accused person shall be admitted to bail, or that the bail required by a Magistrate be reduced.

Procedure to compel payment of penalty by accused.

141. Whenever, by reason of default of appearance of the person executing the personal recognizance, the Court is of opinion that proceedings should be had to compel payment of the penalty mentioned in the recognizance, it shall proceed to enforce the penalty, by issuing a warrant for the attachment and sale of the moveable property belonging to such person, which may be found within the local limits of its ordinary original jurisdiction.

Such warrant may be executed within such limits, and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the accused person, without such limits, when endorsed by the Magistrate of the District in which such property is situate.

Procedure to compel payment of penalty by sureties.

142. Whenever, by reason of default of appearance by the person bailed, the Court is of opinion that proceedings should be had to compel payment of the penalty mentioned in the recognizance of the surety or sureties, it shall give notice to the surety or sureties to pay the same, or to show cause why it should not be paid.

If such penalty be not paid, and if no sufficient cause for its non-payment be shown, the Court shall proceed to recover the penalty from such surety or sureties, by issuing a warrant for the attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to him or them which may be found within the local limits of the ordinary original jurisdiction.

Such warrant may be executed within such local limits; and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the surety or sureties without such limits, when endorsed by the Magistrate of the District in which such property is situate.

If such penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, such surety or sureties shall be liable to confinement, by order of the Court, in the civil jail, during a period not exceeding six months:

Remission of part of penalty.

Provided that the Court may, at its discretion, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned in the recognizance of the party or witness, or of the surety or sureties, and enforce payment in part only:

Court may direct Magistrate to levy sum forfeited.

The Court may direct any Magistrate to levy the amount due on a forfeited bail-bond executed in respect of attendance before such Court.

Deposit instead of bail.

143. When any person is required to give bail, the Court may permit him to deposit a sum of money or Government promissory notes to such amount as it may fix in lieu of such bail.

CHAPTER XV.

OF SECURITY FOR KEEPING THE PEACE.

Personal recognizance to keep the peace in cases of conviction.

144. Whenever a person accused of rioting, assault, or other breach of the peace, or with abetting the same, or with assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, is convicted of such offence, and the Court is of opinion that it is just and necessary to require such person to give a personal recognizance for keeping the peace, the Court may, in addition to any other order passed in the case, direct that the person so convicted be required to execute a formal engagement, in a sum proportionate to his condition in life and the circumstances of the case, for keeping the peace during such period as it may appear proper to fix in each instance, not exceeding three years, with a provision that, if the same be not given, he shall be kept in simple imprisonment for any time not exceeding three years, unless within such period he executes such formal engagement as aforesaid.

If the accused person be sentenced to imprisonment, the period for which he may be required to execute a recognizance, and the imprisonment in default of executing such recognizance, shall commence when he is released on the expiration of his sentence.

Security to keep the peace.

145. Whenever it appears necessary to require security for keeping the peace, in addition to the personal recognizance of the party so convicted, the Court empowered to require a personal recognizance may require security in addition thereto, and may fix the amount of the security-bond to be executed by the surety or sureties; with a provision that, if the same be not given, the party required to find the security shall be kept in simple imprisonment for any time not exceeding three years.

146. Whenever a person is convicted of an offence attended with criminal force, and it appears to the Court that, by such criminal force, any person has been dispossessed of any immoveable property, the Court may order such person to be restored to possession.

Power to restore possession of immoveable property.

No such order shall prejudice any right over such immoveable property which any person may be able to show in a civil suit.

CHAPTER XVI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

147. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the Prisoners' Testimony Act, 1869, or the Prisoners Act, 1871.

Saving of Acts XV of 1869, and V of 1871.

148. The Advocate General may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, exhibit to the local High Court, against persons subject to the jurisdiction of the said Court, informations for all purposes for which Her Majesty's Attorney-General may exhibit informations on behalf of the Crown in the Court of Queen's Bench or Exchequer.

Advocate General may exhibit informations.

Such proceedings may be taken upon every such information as may lawfully be taken, in case of similar informations filed by Her Majesty's Attorney-General in England, so far as the circumstances of the case and the course and practice of proceeding in the said High Courts respectively will admit.

All fines, penalties, forfeitures, debts and sums of money recovered or levied under or by virtue of any such information shall belong to the Government of India.

149. Upon charges preferred by the Advocate-General or by any Magistrate or other officer specially empowered by the Government in this behalf, persons committed to custody or held to bail shall be deemed to have been brought before the High Court in due course of law, and (subject to the provisions herein contained as to the amendment and alteration of charges, and subject also to the provisions of section 24) shall be tried upon the charges so recorded.

Effect of charge preferred by Advocate General.

150. At any stage of any proceeding under this Act, before the return of the verdict, the Advocate General may, if he think fit, inform the Court on behalf of Her Majesty that he will not further prosecute the defendant upon the information or charge; and thereupon all proceedings on such information or charge against the defendant shall be stayed, and he shall be discharged of and from the same. But such discharge shall not amount to an acquittal.

Power to enter nolle prosequi.

151. Whenever it appears to the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay that the direction hereinafter mentioned will promote the ends of justice, it may direct the transfer to itself of any particular case from any criminal court situate within the local limits of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction, and the High Court shall have power to determine the case so transferred, and to quash or affirm any conviction or other proceeding which may have been had therein, but so that the same be not quashed for want of form, but on the merits only.

Power of Presidency High Court to transfer to itself cases from Police Magistrates.

152. Every High Court in the exercise of its original Criminal Jurisdiction shall be deemed an open and public Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them.

Criminal Courts to be open.

But the presiding Judge may, if he thinks fit, order that, during the trial of any particular case, no person shall have access to, or be, or remain in, the room or building used by the Court, without the consent or permission of the Court.

153. In the case of offences which may lawfully be compounded, injured persons may compound the offence out of Court, or in Court with the permission of the Court.

Compounding offences.

Such withdrawal from the prosecution shall have the effect of an acquittal of the accused person.

154. Every Judge of a High Court shall, by virtue of his office, be a Justice of the Peace within and for the whole of British India.

Judges of High Courts to be Justices of the Peace virtute officii.

155. Cases pending, when this Act comes into force, in any High Court in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction shall be decided, as far as may be, according to the procedure provided in this Act.

Pending cases.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Tuesday, the 5th January 1875.

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, G. M. S. I., presiding.
The Hon'ble B. H. Ellis.
Major-General the Hon'ble Sir H. W. Norman, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble Arthur Hobhouse, Q. C.
The Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, C. S. I.
The Hon'ble Sir W. Muir, K. C. S. I.
The Hon'ble John Inglis, C. S. I.
The Hon'ble R. A. Dalyell.
The Hon'ble H. H. Sutherland.
The Hon'ble J. R. Bullen Smith.
The Hon'ble Sir Douglas Forsyth, K.C.S.I.

NEW MEMBER.

The Hon'ble SIR DOUGLAS FORSYTH took his seat as an Additional Member.

DISTRESSES (PRESIDENCY TOWNS) BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE said that, instead of the first two items in the list of business, he wished now to present a Supplementary Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to regulate Distresses for Rents in the Presidency Towns. The publication of the former Report of the Select Committee and the observations made in Council had elicited some new suggestions, and the Committee had found it desirable to make further alterations. He desired to allow some further time to elapse before asking the Council to take the Committee's Reports into consideration.

INDIAN LAW REPORTS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE also presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to diminish the multitude and improve the quality of Law Reports and to extend the area of their authority.

HIGH COURTS CRIMINAL PROCEDURE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE also presented a further Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to regulate the procedure of the High Courts in the exercise of their Original Criminal Jurisdiction. He said that this was a Bill which the Council would remember was framed on the principle of applying a great many of the clauses of the Criminal Procedure Code to the High Courts in the exercise of their original criminal jurisdiction. In the Bill as introduced, the clauses of the Criminal Procedure Code were referred to merely by the numbers they bore in the Code. But owing to representations received from the High Courts of Calcutta and Bombay, which he was informed by his hon'ble friend, Mr. Dalyell, were concurred in by the highest judicial authority in Madras, the Committee had thought it right to alter the principle upon which the Bill was framed; and, instead of referring to the sections of the Code by their numbers, the Bill now set them out in extenso, making the alterations necessary in consequence of differences between the High Courts and the Courts of Session. That made the Bill very much larger and to a certain extent different from what it originally was. MR. HOBHOUSE had no doubt, from the work the Committee had to do in the matter, that the High Courts were perfectly right in urging upon the Committee to do what they had done, and the work would by this means be more complete than by incorporating merely by reference the clauses of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

But the amount of alteration was substantial, and it would not be safe to go on with the Bill without a republication for a sufficient time, in order that the learned Judges might send in such suggestions as occurred to them. The Committee therefore recommended that the Bill be republished and not be brought again before the Council before a sufficient time should have elapsed.

OUDH LAWS, INLAND CUSTOMS, PANJÁB LAWS AND OUDH LAND REVENUE BILLS.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE also moved that the Hon'ble Sir Douglas Forsyth be added to the Select Committees on the following Bills :—

For declaring what laws are in force in Oudh.

For regulating Inland Customs Duties on Salt and Sugar, and for other purposes.

For the better administration of the law in the Panjáb.

To consolidate and define the law relating to the settlement and collection of Land Revenue in Oudh.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Tuesday, the 19th January 1875.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 7th JANUARY 1875.

GENERAL REMARKS.—There have been slight falls of rain in Satara, Chota Nagpore, the Patna Division, and several districts of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. In the Punjab the showers were confined to Umballa and the Delhi Division, and to only one or two districts in the Central Provinces. Falls are also reported from Bhurtpoor, Gwalior, and Mysore, and a heavy fall of more than an inch from Assam. Heavy falls are also believed to have occurred in Bengal subsequent to the date of the report. Want of rain is still much felt in the Deccan districts of Bombay and in the greater part of the Punjab. Prospects are however generally satisfactory.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Madras— | | |
| Kistna (Jan. 7th) | ... | No rain; canal supply sufficient; four feet two inches of water over anicut; later dry crops suffering from want of rain, but recovering from grub; other crops good; castor, dry and wet paddy harvested in some taluks; outturn three-fourths; markets well supplied locally; prices steady; mild small-pox general; fever fatal in jungle taluks; cattle healthy only in a few taluks; pasture sufficient. |
| Kurnool (6th) | ... | Season favourable; no rain; standing crops good; second crop paddy being sown; markets well supplied; prices generally stationary; water and pasture abundant; fever in several taluks. |
| Trichinopoly " | ... | No rain; season favourable and no change of importance. |
| Malabar (7th) | ... | No rain; harvesting of second crop begun in some places; markets well supplied; prices steady; fever and small-pox slightly prevalent; cattle healthy; pasture good. |
| Tanjore " | .. | No rain; freshes in rivers decreasing; no fresh supply to tanks; water over upper and lower anicuts none; cultivation of wet crops almost over, that of a few dry crops continues in some parts; standing crops good; harvest some dry and wet crops yielded satisfactory; markets well supplied; prices tending to fall; public health generally good; small-pox here and there, one death by cholera in Negapatam; cattle disease in Sheally; pasture sufficient. |
| Bombay— (Jan. 6th) | | General Remarks.—Prospects satisfactory. |
| Sindh. | | |
| Kurrachee ... | ... | No change; rain still holds off. |
| Hyderabad ... | ... | State of crops same as before; weather changing; fever increasing in consequence; no change in cattle disease. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Bombay—continued. | | |

| Upper Frontier ... | ... | Rabi crops thriving; rain wanted; weather mild; fever decreasing. |
| Gujarat. | | |
| Ahmedabad ... | ... | Rabi crops progressing well. |
| Surat ... | ... | Spring crops progressing favourably; fever in Pardee and Ulpar. |
| Broach ... | ... | Kharif crops completely harvested; rabi crops generally good, excepting til, jowar, and cotton, which have suffered in some places from cloudy weather and want of later rains; fever slightly prevailing. |
| Kaira ... | ... | Crops, weather, and health good. |
| Khandesh and Nasik. | | |
| Khandesh ... | ... | State of rabi and cotton crops unchanged; traffic increasing; water-supply failing at Juljaum; cattle disease and fever still continue. |
| Nasik ... | ... | No improvement in rabi crops, which are suffering from want of rain in some talukas and slightly blighted in others from cold and heavy dew; fever and cattle disease prevailing slightly. |
| Konkan. | | |
| Tanna ... | ... | Weather hot; public health good; fever in Dhanoo, Wada, Shahpur, and Bhewndi talukas; cough in Wada taluka; rabi crops good in Bassein and Kurjut talukas, and middling in almost all other talukas. |
| Deccan. | | |
| Poona ... | ... | State of rabi crops same as before; weather and public health good. |
| Ahmednuggur ... | ... | Rain wanted; crops withering; health good. |
| Sholapur ... | ... | Prospects of standing kharif and rabi crops unaltered; no disease. |
| Satara ... | ·38 | Kharif crops harvested; rabi crops average from want of rain; weather cold; ague in Pahtun. |
| Southern Mahratta Country. | | |
| Belgaum ... | ... | Rabi crops good, except in portions of Chikodee and Uthni, where wheat and gram have been partially injured by insects; fever in Sumpgaum, Uthni, and Gokak; cattle disease in Uthni. |
| Dharwar ... | ... | Outturn of early crop estimated to be equal to ten annas in the rupee; late crop good, except in Karazghi, Ranibednur, and Hangat; blight has appeared in cotton of these talukas and in Bankapur and Petha Mundargi; public health good in Ranibednur; in other talukas same as before; cattle disease decreasing. |
| Kaladgi ... | ... | Kharif harvested except toor; rabi fair; cotton middling; fever prevalent, except in Bagulkot. |
| Kanara ... | ... | Prospects of second crop continue satisfactory; fever, small-pox, and cattle disease prevalent. |
| Kathiawar and Gaekwar's Territory. | | |
| Rajkot ... | ... | Rabi crops promising generally; weather cold; health good. |
| Wudwan ... | ... | Weather fair; health indifferent; cattle disease in Luctor taluka decreasing; state of crop same as before. |
| Baroda ... | ... | Cotton-picking commenced; rabi crops fair; public health good. |
| | | General Remarks.—No change; rain much wanted for rabi crops in the Deccan; prospects fair elsewhere. |
| Bengal— (Jan. 5th) | | |
| Burdwan ... | Nil | Rain would do spring crops good. Rice harvest nearly finished; outturn middling. |
| Bankura ... | " | Weather dry and cool. The haimunta, or late paddy, is being thrashed. State and prospects of the winter crops continue satisfactory. |
| Beerbhoom ... | " | Weather mild. State and prospects of crops good; harvest nearly home. Cold-weather crops doing well. |
| Midnapore ... | " | Cold and clear weather, light dews beginning to fall. No signs of rain. The harvest is still progressing, and, except in the east, is nearly finished. Experiments show that even in the irrigated area affected by the cyclone the outturn does not exceed 10 annas. |
| Hooghly ... | " | Clear throughout; wind from the north. Prospect of rice where planted out is good; that of cold weather crops very good. Amun, or late rice, is nearly reaped. |
| 24-Pergunnahs ... | " | Weather dry and cool. The harvest of the late rice continues. Spring crops doing well. |
| Nuddea ... | " | Seasonable weather; rain would now do good, but the prospects of the cold weather crops are generally very good. |
| Moorshedabad ... | " | Seasonable weather; slightly warmer than during the past week. Amun, or late rice, almost all harvested; outturn about 12 annas. The cutting of black pulse is in progress; outturn is expected to be below the average. The standing crops are reported to be promising. The price of common rice at eleven stations of the head-quarters sub-district is on an average 19·8 seers per rupee. It is cheapest at Kalliangunge, where it is 25 seers; but dearest at Bhurutpore, where it is 17·8 seers. |
| Dinagepore ... | " | Weather bright and cold. Gathering of the winter crop nearly finished. Other crops doing well. |
| Maldah ... | " | Fair and cold weather. Kalai pulse is being reaped, and mustard is beginning to ripen. Haimunta, or late rice, reaping still going on. Prospects of the cold-weather crops are fair. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Bengal—continued. | | |
| Rajshahye ... | Nil. | Weather clear and warm for the time of year. The state of the growing winter crops continues to be promising. Kalai pulse and sugarcane are being cut. The late unusually heavy inundation, and the long continuance of deep water, has destroyed some of the late rice cultivated in the beels in the interior of the district; some portion of it is now being cut. |
| Rungpore ... | " | Weather clear and cold, with light winds. Mustard is in flower, and promises well. Harvesting of the amun, or late rice, is going on rapidly; the crop is a good one. Prospects of cold-weather crops are favourable. |
| Bogra ... | " | Weather unchanged. State and prospects of crops same as last week. |
| Pubna ... | " | Fine, cool, and seasonable weather. No rain. Harvesting of amun, or late rice, moong, kalai, and arahur pulses, still going on. The matore and khesaree pulses, rye, linseed, wheat, and barley seedlings, promise well. Harvesting of sugarcane and turmeric not yet commenced. |
| Julpigorie ... | " | Weather fine and favourable. Harvest operations almost brought to a close. Produce abundant, and prices very low. |
| Dacca ... | " | Weather warm for the time of the year. State of crops favourable. |
| Patna ... | Slight | Slight rain on the morning of the 4th January. Prospect of the cold-weather crops favourable in all parts of the district, and bumper crop expected. |
| Gya ... | Nil. | Cool and fine weather. The late rice crop has nearly been harvested. The prospect of the cold weather crop is excellent. |
| Shahabad ... | " | Weather fair and cold. Cold weather crops promise well. |
| Tirhoot ... | " | Weather cold and dry, with westerly wind. The rice crops have been harvested, and in some places the outturn is more than the average. The prospects of the cold weather crops are good. |
| Sarun ... | " | Weather cold and seasonable, with westerly wind. The prospects of the cold weather crops continue excellent. A shower of rain will much benefit the crops, and will ensure a full harvest. In some places the crops are being irrigated. Indigo fields are still being prepared for the next year's crop. Poppy plant is everywhere doing well. Prices of common rice, Indian-corn, barley, and gram, have slightly risen owing to falling off in the supply in the markets. |
| Chumparun ... | " | Weather continues fine and cold. The prospects of the cold weather crop are favourable. No important change to report. |
| Monghyr ... | " | Fine and cold weather; a few drops of rain on Tuesday. State and prospects of crops excellent. |
| Bhágalpur ... | " | No change since last week, e. g., nothing could be more satisfactory than the state of the cold-weather crops, and the outturn of the late rice crop. |
| Purneah ... | " | Seasonable weather; rather warmer than last week. No change in the prospects of the crops from last week. Great demand for laborers for cutting the crops. |
| Sonthal Pergunnahs ... | " | Weather fine; not very cold. Paddy nearly all cut. Cold-weather crops good. A little rain would do good in some places. |
| Cuttack .. | " | Cold and foggy in the early part of the week; warmer the last three days, with clouds and threatening rain. The prospects of the cold-weather crops continue excellent, and the heavy rice crop is now being reaped with an excellent outturn. |
| Balasore ... | " | Weather fine. Harvesting of rice crop progresses rapidly; outturn good. General prospects of crops satisfactory. |
| Lohardugga ... | Slight | A very few drops of rain. Weather cloudy and warmer than last week. The cold-weather crops, especially surgoojah (oilseed) and sursoo (mustard), and orid pulse, are reported to be excellent in all parts of the district. The prospect of the rahar pulse crop is also very good, though accounts are received from Palamow of damage apprehended from excessive dews. |
| Maunbhoom ... | Nil. | Rather warm during the past week, but sky cloudless, and no rain is usual about this time of the year. Harvest all but completed, and outturn generally good. The condition and prospects of the crops on the ground are favourable. |
| | | PUBLIC HEALTH. |
| | | Burdwan: fever as before, a few cases of cholera. 24-Pergunnahs: a few cases of cholera reported from thannas Baraset, Hobra, Kalaroa, and Bhangore; it has abated in Barripore and Diamond Harbour sub-divisions; fever decreasing at Barripore. Moorshedabad: cholera in Barwa, Bhurutpore, and Soojagunge, and fever in some villages at Jungepore. Rajshahye: public health good. Pubna: fever decreasing. Furreedpore: cholera reported in Ainpore. Patna: health excellent. Tirhoot: public health good. Sarun: general health good. Balasore: health of district favourable. Hazáribagh: small-pox hanging about the station itself. Maunbhoom: public health good. |
| | | General Remarks.—Light showers have fallen in two or three districts during the week. The prospects of the cold-weather crops continue favourable, but rain is desired in many places. The rice harvest is progressing rapidly with very good results, and is nearly complete in some districts. Sugarcane and certain of the pulses are also being successfully harvested. |
| N. W. P.— | | |
| Meerut (Jan. 6th) | ... | Slight rain, more wanted. |
| Agra ... | ... | No report received. |
| Allahabad (Jan. 6th) | ... | Very slight fall of rain; across Jumna crops looking well. |
| Bareilly " | ·2 | Rabi prospects good. |
| Benares " | ... | Slight showers; condition of crops continues favourable. |
| Jhansi " | ... | Weather cloudy; no rain; rabi prospects declining. |
| Moradabad ... | ... | Rain reported on 2nd and 3rd instant. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Punjab— | | |
| Hissar (Jan. 6th) ... | ·1 | Crops doing well; health generally good. |
| Delhi " ... | ·1 | Health good. |
| Umballa " .. | ·1 | Crops and health good. |
| Jullundur " ... | ... | Rain much wanted; health good. |
| Lahore " ... | ... | Rain much wanted; crops fair; health good. |

Fort William, the 11th January 1875.

No. 1.—The following Statute is published for information:—

37 & 38 VIC., CHAP. 27.

An Act to regulate the Sentences imposed by Colonial Courts where jurisdiction to try is conferred by Imperial Acts.

[30TH JUNE 1874.]

Whereas by certain Acts of Parliament jurisdiction is conferred on Courts in Her Majesty's Colonies to try persons charged with certain crimes or offences, and doubts have arisen as to the proper sentences to be imposed upon conviction of such persons, and it is expedient to remove such doubts:

Be it enacted &c.:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited for all purposes as "The Courts (Colonial) Jurisdiction Act, 1874".

Definition of term "colony."

2. For the purposes of this Act,—

The term "colony" shall not include any places within the United Kingdom, the Isle of Man, or the Channel Islands, but shall include such territories as may for the time being be vested in Her Majesty by virtue of an Act of Parliament for the Government of India, and any plantation, territory, or settlement situate elsewhere within Her Majesty's dominions, and subject to the same local Government; and for the purposes of this Act, all plantations, territories, and settlements under a central legislature shall be deemed to be one colony under the same local Government.

At trials in any Colonial Courts by virtue of Imperial Acts, Courts empowered to pass sentences as if crimes had been committed in the colony.

3. When, by virtue of any Act of Parliament now or hereafter to be passed, a person is tried in a Court of any colony for any crime or offence committed upon the high seas or elsewhere out of the territorial limits of such colony and of the local jurisdiction of such Court, or if committed within such local jurisdiction made punishable by that Act, such person shall upon conviction be liable to such punishment as might have been inflicted upon him if the crime or offence had been committed within the limits of such colony and of the local jurisdiction of the Court, and to no other, anything in any Act to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always, that if the crime or offence is a crime or offence not punishable by the law of the colony in which the trial takes place, the person shall on conviction be liable to such punishment (other than capital punishment) as shall seem to the Court most nearly to correspond to the punishment to which such person would have been liable in case such crime or offence had been tried in England.

An Act to amend the Law relating to the Registration of Births and Deaths in England, and to consolidate the Law respecting the Registration of Births and Deaths at Sea.

[7TH AUGUST 1874.]

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Acts relating to the registration of births and deaths in England, and to consolidate the law respecting the registration of births and deaths at sea :

Be it enacted &c. :—

* * * *

Registration of Births and Deaths at Sea.

Registration of births and deaths at sea.

37. The provisions of this Act, save as is herein expressly provided, shall not apply to the registration of births and deaths on board a vessel at sea, with respect to which the following provisions shall have effect :—

(2.) Where a ship which is not a British ship carries passengers to or from any port of the United Kingdom as the port of destination or the port of departure of such ship, the provisions of this section shall apply to the captain or master of or other person having the command or charge of such ship, in like manner as if it were a British ship.

(3.) Where the said return is directed by the Board of Trade (whether the ship is British or foreign) to be delivered upon the arrival of the ship, or the discharge of the crew, or otherwise, at any port or place out of the United Kingdom, the Board of Trade may, if they think fit, direct that the return, instead of being delivered to the Registrar General of Shipping and Seamen, shall be delivered, and the same shall accordingly be delivered if such port or place is within Her Majesty's dominions, to the Shipping Master or Collector of Customs at such port or place, and if it is a foreign port or place, to the principal British Consular Officer at the said foreign port or place, and such Shipping Master, Collector, or Officer shall send the same, as soon as may be by post or otherwise, to the Registrar General of Shipping and Seamen.

(4.) Where it appears from any such return that the father of any child so born, or if the child is a bastard, the mother of such child, was a Scotch or Irish subject of Her Majesty, or that any person whose death is mentioned in such return was a Scotch or Irish subject of Her Majesty, the Registrar General of Shipping and Seamen shall from time to time send a certified copy of so much of the return as relates to such birth or death to the Registrar General of Births and Deaths in Scotland or Ireland, as the case may require.

(5). The Registrar General of Shipping and Seamen shall from time to time send to the Registrar General of Births and Deaths in England a certified copy of every other such return, or of that part of every such return which is not so sent to the Registrar General of Births and Deaths in Scotland or Ireland.

(6). A captain of or other person having charge of one of Her Majesty's ships shall, upon the arrival of any such ship in any port of the United Kingdom, or at such other time as the Commissioners of the Admiralty may from time to time direct, deliver or send, in such manner and form as the said Commissioners may from time to time direct, a return of the facts recorded in pursuance of this section to that Registrar General of Births and Deaths to whom a copy of such return would, if the ship were a merchant ship, be sent under the provisions of this section by the Registrar General of Shipping and Seamen.

(7). Every Registrar General of Births and Deaths to whom a copy of any return or a return is sent in pursuance of this section shall cause the same to be filed and preserved in or copied in a book to be kept by him for the purpose, and to be called a marine register book, and such book shall be deemed to be a certified copy of a register book within the meaning of the Acts relating to the registration of births and deaths in England, Scotland, and Ireland respectively.

(8). Every captain or master of or other person having charge of a ship who fails to comply with this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds for each offence; and such penalty may be recovered in the same courts and places and in the like manner, and when recovered shall be applied in like manner, as a penalty under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

(9). This section shall extend to all places and persons within British jurisdiction.

(10). Terms in this section shall have the same meaning as in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT.

PROCLAMATION.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN,

BE IT KNOWN that Whereas an attempt has been made at Baroda to poison Colonel R. Phayre, C. B., the late British Resident at the Court of His Highness the Guikwar, and evidence has been adduced to the effect that His Highness Mulhar Rao Guikwar instigated the said attempt to administer poison to Colonel Phayre;

And Whereas to instigate such attempt would be a high crime against Her Majesty the Queen and a breach of the condition of loyalty to the Crown under which Mulhar Rao Guikwar is recognized as ruler of the Baroda State, and moreover such an attempt would be an act of hostility against the British Government, and it is necessary fully and publicly to enquire into the truth of the charge and to afford His Highness Mulhar Rao Guikwar every opportunity of freeing himself from the grave suspicion which attaches to him;

And Whereas in consequence thereof it is necessary to suspend Mulhar Rao Guikwar from the exercise of power and to make other arrangements for the administration of the Baroda State:

It is hereby notified that from this date the Viceroy and Governor General of India in Council temporarily assumes the administration of the Baroda State, and delegates all the powers necessary for the conduct of the administration to the Agent to the Governor General and Special Commissioner at Baroda. The administration will be conducted as far as possible in accordance with the usages, customs, and laws of the country.

All Sirdars, Inamdars, Zemindars, and inhabitants of the Baroda territories, and all officers and persons whatsoever in the civil and military service of the Baroda State, or liable to be called upon for such service, are hereby required to submit to the authority of and render obedience to the said Agent to the Governor General and Special Commissioner during such time as the State may be under the administration of the British Government.

In accordance with the gracious intimation made to the Princes and Chiefs of India that it is the desire of Her Majesty the Queen that their Governments should be perpetuated, and the Representation and Dignity of their Houses should be continued, a Native Administration will be re-established in such manner as may be determined upon after the conclusion of the enquiry and after consideration of the results which such enquiry may elicit.

By Order of the Viceroy and Governor General of India in Council,

C. U. AITCHISON,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

FORT WILLIAM,
The 13th January 1875.

NOTIFICATIONS.—JUDICIAL.

The 9th January 1875.

No. 5 J.—Under Section 3 of Act XI of 1872 (The Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872), the Governor General in Council hereby appoints the Officer for the time being in charge of the Salween District to exercise all the powers of a Political Agent under the above Act for the territories of Chiengmai, Lakon, and Lampoonchi belonging to Siam.

No. 6 J.—Whereas by virtue of authority duly acquired in that behalf by agreement with the Siamese Government, the Governor General in Council has, within the territories of Chiengmai, Lakon, and Lampoonchi belonging to Siam, jurisdiction to try and punish Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty (holding passports from the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah or from such Officer as the Chief Commissioner may appoint in that behalf) for offences committed by them within the territories aforesaid;

And whereas the Governor General in Council has, as aforesaid, jurisdiction to investigate and decide within the said territories civil suits between British subjects and between Siamese subjects as plaintiffs and British subjects (holding passports as aforesaid) as defendants;

And whereas it is expedient to delegate the said powers in manner hereinafter appearing: The Governor General in Council, in the exercise of the powers vested in him by Sections 4 and 5 of Act XI of 1872 (The Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872,) hereby notifies as follows:

The Officer for the time being in charge of the Salween District may, within the said territories of Chiengmai, Lakon, and Lampoonchi, exercise, for the trial and punishment of the persons aforesaid, the powers of a Deputy Commissioner under Section 36 of Act X of 1872 (The Code of Criminal Procedure).

Within the said territories, and subject to the rules regulating civil procedure for the time being in force in British India, so far as they may be applicable, such Officer may investigate and decide all civil suits between the parties aforesaid.

The Commissioner of the Tenasserim Division for the time being may exercise over the proceedings of such Officer, under the powers above delegated to him, the same powers of appeal, superintendence, and revision as he may exercise over the proceedings of the Officer for the time being in charge of the Salween District, and the Judicial Commissioner of British Burmah may exercise similar powers of appeal, superintendence, and revision over the proceedings of the Commissioner of the Tenasserim Division.

"The Notifications Nos. 68 C. P. and 69 C. P., dated 21st November 1872, are cancelled from 1st January 1875."

REVENUE.

The 14th January 1875.

No. 6 R.—The following Regulation is published for general information:—

Punjab Frontier Regulation, No. 12.

Whereas it is expedient to permit certain assignees of land revenue in the Trans-Indus districts of the Punjab to continue to collect the land revenue in kind instead of in cash:

And whereas a draft of the following Regulation, together with the reasons for proposing the same, has been proposed to the Governor General in Council by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, and has been considered and approved by the Governor General in Council, such Regulation is now published for general information, as having the force of law under Statute 33 of Victoria, Chap. III, Section I.

1. This Regulation may be called the Punjab Frontier Jaghire Revenue Collection Regulation, 1874. It extends to the districts of Peshawur, Kohat, Bannu, Dera Ishmael Khan and Dera Ghazi Khan.

2. The said Lieutenant-Governor may by order permit any assignee of land revenue in any part of the abovenamed districts to collect the whole or any specified part of the land revenue assigned to him in kind instead of in cash from the proprietary cultivators in his jaghire estates, provided that such assignee of land revenue has heretofore been permitted to collect in kind the whole or such part as aforesaid of the said revenue.

3. The permission mentioned in the last section may be granted irrespective of the acquiescence of the said proprietary cultivators. But the share of the produce so to be collected by the jagirdar shall be specified by the order granting the permission and shall be the estimated equivalent of the cash assessment fixed on the principles of assessment of the land revenue prescribed for the time being in the districts abovenamed.

4. The said Lieutenant-Governor may at any time at his discretion cancel any permission granted under Section 2.

5. No Court shall take cognizance of any claim to set aside any order for the time being in force permitting an assignee of land revenue to collect revenue in kind, or specifying the share of the crop which he may collect as such assignee.

The Hymns of the Rig-Veda, in the Samhita and Pada Text, Deva-Nagri Character, by Professor F. Max Müller, M. A., in two Volumes. Price, Rs. 24; packing and postage, Re. 1-12.

 The Rig-Veda, the oldest book of Indian literature, has very properly been made one of the principal class-books for those who study Sanskrit in the schools and colleges in India, and though at present a scholar-like knowledge of the Vedic hymns is in the examinations required of the more advanced students only, yet, as soon as editions, translations, grammars, and dictionaries shall have rendered the study of these ancient documents more accessible, I doubt not that the time will come when no one in India will call himself a Sanskrit scholar, who cannot construe the hymns of the ancient Rishis of his country.—Extract from Preface.

Beautifully illustrated with numerous colored plates.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

PROPOSED CONSTRUCTION OF A FACTORY IN CALCUTTA FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF CEMENT.

No. 720 I, dated 7th August 1874.

From—COLONEL H. W. GULLIVER, Offg. Joint Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept., Irrigation Branch,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, P. W. Dept.

I am directed to forward herewith a rough estimate for the construction of a factory in Calcutta for the manufacture of Portland cement. There is an annually increasing demand for this article for Government works, and it will be seen from the Chief Engineer's note, attached hereto, that a very large saving will probably be made.

2. I am to ask the approval of the Government of India to the project, on receipt of which the detailed estimates will immediately be prepared.

3. Copy of Mr. Dejoux's report* accompanies.

* Under cover of Colonel Stoddard's No. 1761, dated 27th June 1874.

Dated 7th August 1874.

Note by COLONEL H. W. GULLIVER, R. E., Offg. Chief Engineer, Bengal Irrigation Branch, on the proposal to construct a factory in Calcutta for the manufacture of Portland cement.

From the report of the experiments made by Mr. Dejoux, it is evident that Portland cement of a fair character can be made in Calcutta.

The only doubtful point appears to be whether a continuous supply of chalk would be obtained from England at the rate set down, from Rs. 11 to 13 per ton ; but it appears probable that it can be, as one of the largest firms in Calcutta consulted by Mr. Dejoux has expressed its willingness to enter into a contract for the delivery of it.

Taking Mr. Dejoux's estimate, the cost of the buildings will be Rs. 52,605, but he has only allowed 5 per cent. for contingencies, which on such a rough calculation is scarcely sufficient, and I should make it 10 per cent. both in that and the estimate for tools and plant.

The cost of the land is not shown in the estimate for the buildings, but as an annual charge in the working expenses. When the detailed estimates are prepared, it may be considered whether it is cheaper to purchase the land and increase the capital charge, or to pay the rent.

The cost of establishment has not been entered. Mr. Dejoux, in his calculation of working expenses, has put down 10 per cent. for supervision and contingencies ; but this is not more than enough for contingencies only in such a case.

I have added 25 per cent. on the cost of establishment for share of pensions, as I note has been done in the Tidal Canal statement returned by the Government of India to this office. I should therefore make the estimate as follows :—

| | Rs. |
|---|---|
| Buildings ... ... ... ... | 55,100 |
| Erecting machinery ... ... ... ... | 4,400 |
| | 59,500 |
| Establishment, at 25 per cent. ... ... ... | 14,875 |
| Pensions, at 6¼ per cent. ... ... .. ... | 3,719 |
| | 78,094 |
| Tools and plant ... ... ... ... | 31,905 |
| | 1,09,999 |
| Or nearly ... ... ... ... | 1,10,000 |
| Interest while under construction, 4½ per cent. ... ... | 4,950 |
| | 1,14,950 |

Allow that the capital amounts to Rs. 1,20,000.

Cost of turning out 100,000 cubic feet of Portland cement :—

| | Rs. |
|---|---|
| Mr. Dejoux's estimate, including the rent of land, amounts to | 95,205 |
| Establishment, at 25 per cent. ... .. .. | 18,800 |
| Pensions, 6¼ per cent. ... ... ... | 4,700 |
| Interest on capital Rs. 1,20,000 ... ... ... | 5,400 |
| | 1,24,105 |

Or, per barrel of 5 cubic feet, nearly Rs. 6-8.

The cost of English cement is Rs. 12-4, so that the saving by manufacturing on the spot would be Rs. 5-12 per barrel, or on the 100,000 cubic feet (20,000 barrels) it is proposed to manufacture, Rs. 1,15,000 ; so that, if these calculations are correct, the cost of the factory should be recovered in the first year.

The Chief Engineer of Irrigation in the North Western Provinces has already enquired when it will be possible to supply him; so that the demand will probably increase largely.

I have only one addition to propose, which is, that, with the prospect of increase in the demand, it would be advisable to secure the land for doubling the factory in the first instance, otherwise it may rise in value when it may be required.

---

No. 1761, dated the 27th June 1874.

From—Colonel J. F. Stoddard, Superintending Engineer, South-Western Circle,

To—The Officiating Chief Engineer, Bengal Irrigation Branch.

I have the honor to forward a report received from Mr. P. Dejoux on the proposed manufacture of cement in Calcutta.

Mr. Dejoux's experiments have now reached such a point that there seems to be no shadow of a doubt that cement quite as good as the best "Portland" can be made in Calcutta at a price varying from one-third to three-eighths of that at which Portland cement is now procurable.

For the present it might perhaps be advisable to limit the manufacture to the quantity which will be required by Government, say, 75,000 cubic feet, or 15,000 casks per annum.

Taking the larger of the two estimates made by Mr. Dejoux, and the present market price of Portland cement, there will be a difference of Rs. 7½ per cask in favor of the Calcutta article, or 1½ lakhs of rupees' saving per annum.

Even allowing the saving for the first four years to be only 1 lakh of rupees per annum, the entire cost of the building, plant, and establishment, will be paid off in the very first year.

No. 462, dated the 25th June 1874.

From—P. Dejoux, Esq., Executive Engineer, Cement Experiments Division,

To—Superintending Engineer, South-Western Circle.

With reference to paragraph 9 of my letter No. 402, dated 27th February last, I have the honor to forward herewith a report on the proposed manufacture in Calcutta of cement equal to Portland cement.

2. This report is divided into the following heads, viz.:—

Part I.—Description of Portland cements and experiments.

Part II.—Sketch of process of manufacture.

Part III.—Probable cost of cement to be made in Calcutta, and comparison of it with the price of English Portland cement imported to India.

Part IV.—Rough estimate of buildings and tools and plant required for the cement factory.

Part V.—Statement of experiments on the tensile strength of the cement.

---

Report on the proposed manufacture in Calcutta of artificial cement, equal to English-Portland cement.

PART I.

1. Definition of Portland cement.—Portland cement consists of chalk and clay mixed in certain proportions, and burnt to a degree approaching incipient vitrification.

2. Definition of ordinary artificial cement.—Ordinary artificial cement is made with a mixture of clay and slaked lime burnt to a low temperature.

3. Materials obtainable in Calcutta.—The materials which can be obtained in Calcutta are pale-blue and dark-blue clay, of which an unlimited supply can be found, and ghooting, Sylhet limestone, or chalk from Akyab.

4. Clay.—Both analysis of Calcutta blue clays and experience show that it can be used for the manufacture of either Portland or ordinary artificial cement.

5. Limestones.—The ghooting limestones vary much in composition and contain generally too much clay, and as they are naturally very hard to reduce when unburnt into fine powder, they could only be used in the manufacture of ordinary artificial cement.

The Sylhet stone is a very nearly pure carbonate of lime, but too hard to be pulverized; therefore only slaked lime could be used.

This lime is very extensively used in Calcutta, and costs Rs. 90 to 110 per 100 maunds, but the lime of the market not having been prepared sufficiently carefully, contains a large percentage of impurities, and could not consequently be used for cement manufacture.

The raw limestones imported from Sylhet will cost, including delivery in Calcutta, Rs 85 per 100 maunds.

6. Akyab chalk.—The chalk from the coast of Akyab is a kind of very hard chalk, which is rather expensive to grind. Its cost will be Rs. 70 per 100 maunds.

7. Ghooting or Sylhet lime expensive for artificial cement.—With such materials in hand, some of them, as ghooting or Sylhet lime, requiring double calcination, the cost of the cement would have been rather expensive; and further, if ordinary artificial cement had been manufactured, the result would have given a cement of strength much inferior to Portland.

8. Substitute for the above in imported English chalk.—Numerous experiments having confirmed this opinion, I tried to use a cheaper substitute for Indian limes, and this consists in chalk imported from England as ballast.

9. Quantity of such import in 1873.—The import list of chalk shows the import during the year 1873 of 5,030 tons, which is about the quantity that will be required for cement manufacture.

10. Price of chalk.—Enquiries from some of the Calcutta firms lead to the conclusion that chalk could always be imported at a price not exceeding Rs. 11 per ton, or Rs. 40-12 per 100 maunds, and generally lower.

11. Positive manufacture of cement, equal to Portland in Calcutta.—Soon after this important point was ascertained, I commenced a series of experiments on mixtures of English chalk and Calcutta blue clays, and am glad to say that after a certain time I obtained a satisfactory result, answering fully to the desired object of Government, "that a cement of the quality of English Portland" can be made in Calcutta at a cost of very nearly one-third of the price paid for Portland imported from England, which is now sold at Rs. 12-4 per cask.

12. Chemical composition of Portland cement.—The composition of the mixture for Portland cement is about the same as intermediate limes (chaux limites of M. Vicat), and it is by calcination to a high temperature that the dangerous properties of the intermediate limes disappear entirely, and thus the best hydraulic cement known is produced.

13. Analyses of raw mixtures.—As I have not as yet seen in any treatise on Portland the analysis of raw mixture, but only analysis of cement when calcined and ground, I consider it will be useful to publish the seven following analyses (of the former), which I selected from those conducted by me:—

| | A. | B. | C. | D. | E. | F. | G. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Clay ... ... ... ... | 20·50 | 21·80 | 22·20 | 22·80 | 23·50 | 24·00 | 24·60 |
| Sand ... ... ... ... | 1·20 | 1·00 | 1·40 | 1·00 | 1·00 | 1·30 | 1·40 |
| Oxyde of iron ... ... ... | 0·85 | 0·90 | 1·40 | 0·70 | 0·80 | 0·90 | 0·90 |
| Carbonate of lime ... ... | 75·75 | 74·50 | 73·00 | 73·60 | 72·50 | 71·45 | 70·70 |
| Ditto of magnesia ... ... | 0·70 | 0·80 | 0·80 | 0·90 | 0·90 | 0·95 | 1·00 |
| Alkalis ... ... ... | 1·00 | 1·00 | 1·20 | 1·00 | 1·30 | 1·40 | 1·40 |
| TOTAL ... | 100·00 | 100·00 | 100·00 | 100·00 | 100·00 | 100·00 | 100·00 |

The best is D, but the two limits after which Portland cement, of even inferior quality, cannot be manufactured are A and G.

These analyses correspond in bulk with the following proportions of English chalk and Calcutta blue clay:—

| | PARTS OF | |
|---|---|---|
| | Chalk. | Clay. |
| A ... ... ... ... ... | 6 | $1\frac{3}{8}$ |
| B ... ... ... ... ... | 6 | $1\frac{1}{2}$ |
| C ... ... ... ... ... | 6 | $1\frac{5}{8}$ |
| D ... ... ... ... ... | 6 | $1\frac{3}{4}$ |
| E ... ... ... ... ... | 6 | $1\frac{7}{8}$ |
| F ... ... ... ... ... | 6 | 2 |
| G ... ... ... ... ... | 6 | $2\frac{1}{8}$ |

14. Analyses of Calcutta clays.—The analyses of Calcutta pale-blue and dark-blue clays, as also of English chalk, are as follow:—

| Materials. | Composition. | |
|---|---|---|
| Pale-blue clay ... ... | Silica ... ... ... | 88·00 |
| | Alumina ... ... | |
| | Free sand ... ... | 2·20 |
| | Oxyde of iron ... ... | 3·90 |
| | Carbonate of lime ... ... | 3·00 |
| | Ditto of magnesia ... | 1·40 |
| | Alkalis ... ... | 1·50 |
| | TOTAL ... | 100·00 |

| | Materials. | Composition. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Dark-blue clay ... ... | Silica ... ... ... | 91·00 |
| | | Alumina ... ... | |
| | | Free sand ... ... | 1·00 |
| | | Oxyde of iron ... ... | 1·80 |
| | | Carbonate of lime ... ... | 3·80 |
| | | Ditto of magnesia ... | 0·60 |
| | | Alkalis... ... ... | 1·80 |
| | | TOTAL ... | 100·00 |
| Analysis of English chalk. | Chalk from England imported to Calcutta. | Clay ... ... ... | 1·00 |
| | | Sand ... ... ... | 0·40 |
| | | Oxyde of iron ... ... | Traces. |
| | | Carbonate of lime ... ... | 98·60 |
| | | TOTAL ... | 100·00 |

15. Erratum to General Gilmore's treatise on limes and cements.—I take this opportunity of rectifying a mistake which I found in the valuable treatise of General Gilmore on limes and cements.

In page 90 it is stated that the proportions of clay for Portland cement are—

By weight.—100 lbs. of pure dry chalk to 137½ of blue clay, being equivalent to 4 of chalk to 5½ of clay.

By measure.—1 cubic foot of stiff chalk paste to 1½ cubic feet of fresh blue clay.

These proportions may be applicable for the manufacture of Roman cement, but evidently contain too much clay for Portland cement. The correctness of this opinion is proved at page 89, in which General Gilmore gives an analysis by M. Vicat on a sample of burnt cement from the manufactory of White & Sons, with the following results :—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Lime ... ... ... ... ... | 68·03 | |
| Silica ... ... ... ... ... | 20·67 | 31·97 |
| Alumina ... ... ... ... ... | 10·43 | |
| Oxyde of iron ... ... ... ... | 0·87 | |
| TOTAL ... | 100·00 | |

which is equal to—

68·03 of lime.
31·97 „ clay.

Not estimating certain small losses, which, however, inevitably must take place, it is to be admitted that the effect produced by calcination is only the total expulsion of the carbonic acid contained in the chalk, but 68·03 of lime must combine with 53·53 of carbonic acid for forming a carbonate of lime, of which the weight will be 121·66.

Therefore, theoretically speaking, the composition of the raw mixture was—

|---|---|
| Carbonate of lime or chalk ... ... ... | 121·66 |
| Clay ... ... ... ... ... | 31·97 |
| TOTAL ... | 153·63 |

|---|---|
| Chalk ... ... ... ... ... | 79·2 |
| Clay ... ... ... ... ... | 20·8 |

or, in weight 4 of chalk to 1 of clay, instead of 4 of chalk to 5½ of clay, as stated by General Gilmore. I obtained nearly the lastnamed result in the composition of the raw Portland cement made in Calcutta.

16. Description of the experiments: Washing the mixture.—The chalk and clay were first separately pulverized and put in certain proportions into a reservior, then water was added so as to make a thin paste, which was well agitated by means of wooden shovels in such a manner as to cause perfect homogeneity.

Analysis of the mixture.—On the following day, after the deposit of the mixture, a small quantity of it was taken and analysed, and then, as analysis showed, either more clay or more chalk was added.

Drying the mixture.—On the mixture proving correct, the superfluous water was let out every day by means of alternative plugs inserted on the side of the reservoir.

Mixture made into balls.—The mixture was then allowed to dry till it acquired the consistence of a stiff paste, and then balls of 2 inches in diameter were made and dried in the sun.

Loading the kiln.—When sufficiently dried, the sample kiln, of which a drawing was sent with my letter No. 5, dated 15th November 1871, was loaded with these balls, 9 inches of wood being first laid at the bottom of the kiln, and then alternative layers of 3 inches of coke and 6 inches of balls.

The proportion of coke necessary was ascertained by experience, and is equivalent to 7½ cubic feet of coke for 10 cubic feet of balls.

Fire was then put, and the drawing-hole left open until the fire appeared at the top of the kiln, and then either entirely shut or left with a small opening, according to the state of the weather.

Duration of calcination.—The calcination took an average of 16½ hours.

Unloading the kiln.—When cool, the kiln was unloaded by withdrawing the fire-bars, and then the well-burnt balls were picked out, broken into small pieces and so pulverized as to pass through a sieve of 3,600 meshes per square inch.

Grinding the cement.

Testing the cement.—The cement was then tested, first by making three cakes with the addition of the least possible quantity of water and working it well with a small trowel, and then one, which I will call No. 1, was put into a tumbler and immersed; another, No. 2, when sufficiently dry, was disposed of in the same way; and the last one, No. 3, left in a dry place.

The time at which No. 1 was immersed was carefully noted, and the time of its setting ascertained by means of Vicat's needle, that is to say, that the cement was considered set when it could support, without any sensible depression, the weight of 10½ ounces (avoirdupois) on an area of one-twenty-fourth of an inch.

After 24 hours, samples 2 and 3 were carefully examined.

When the proportion in the mixture was found correct, the dry sample was of grey color, without stains or brown specks, and the water sample free of cracks, and the setting under water took place after a time varying from 3 to 9 hours.

But on the contrary, when there was too much clay, the samples set very quckly—at times as quick as 5 minutes, and remained sound under water; while the dry sample showed a brown color, and after a few days their hardness did not increase.

In case of too much lime, the water samples cracked and gave way.

17. Sample bricks.—When the proportions of clay and chalk were found correct, sample bricks were at first made after the cement was ground for four or five days; but I eventually found that it was much better to leave the cement exposed to air, but under cover, for a fortnight before making the sample bricks.

Bricks were made in gun-metal moulds, and then pressed out of them by a press, and left for 24 hours before immersion in water.

Test of sample bricks.—When they were to be tested, they were taken out of the water 24 hours previously, and then their tensile strength was ascertained by Adie's machine.

Statement A gives the results thus obtained.

An abstract (B) of some tests made at the Mint by Mr. Sills, Executive Engineer, Public Works Department, shows that this cement can be very well compared with the average of Portland cement imported to India.

Weight of cement.—The weight per bushel when put slowly into the measure, without being either shaken or pressed, is 111 lbs., and when shaken down hard, 144 lbs.

Samples of clay cement (raw and burnt) and sample bricks accompanied my letter No. 402, dated 27th February 1874.

PART II.

18. The experiments having been made on a scale large enough so as not to leave any doubt about the feasibility of good Portland cement being manufactured in Calcutta, I feel now no hesitation in proposing the construction of a cement factory for the manufacture of 20,000 casks = 100,000 cubic feet a year.

This quantity has been reckoned according to the import list, which shows that, from the 1st January 1872 to the 31st December 1873, 51,957 casks of Portland cement were imported from England to Calcutta, of which the largest number were for Government works.

19. I will now submit a sketch of the process I purpose adopting.

System of manufacture.—After having tried both the English wet and the German dry systems of manufacture, as described by Mr. Lipowitz, I am of opinion that the dry system, even with its peculiar advantages, is too complicated for adoption in India, as it requires, more machinery and greater care, and besides involves difficulty and expense in the correction of the mixture, as will be seen from the following explanation:—

Supposing that, by the use of the wet system, too much clay has been put in the mixture, such excess could easily be ascertained by analysis of that mixture in the reservoir.

Or, if a reservoir contains a mixture over-clayed, and another in which lime is in excess, the mistake could easily be corrected by mixing their contents in certain proportions.

Or, even admitting that both of them contain too much clay or too much lime, a certain quantity of one of these materials can be passed through the wash-mill and added proportionally, and the extra cost of labor will be comparatively little.

But, on the contrary, in the dry system, if a mixture is not correct, the analysis can be made only after the mixing process is complete,—that is to say, after it comes out of the pug-mill,—and the whole process of mixing in the cylindrical vat and passing through the edge-runners and pug-mill must be repeated.

Wet system to be adopted.—The wet system is evidently much more simple and better applicable to India, and I would therefore adopt it.

20. Site of factory.—The factory should be constructed alongside of the river bank or the circular canal, as thereby the carriage of chalk and fuel would be both easy and as cheap as possible.

It must also be in such a place where the blue clay can be extracted easily.

The most convenient place (on the river bank) would be either at Howrah, Cossipore, or Dhappa, along the canal.

Breaking the raw material.—The clay and chalk will be separately ground in an ordinary soorkee-mill, so as not to exceed the size of a pea.

This process is not generally carried out in England, but I believe will only slightly add to the cost, considering the softness of both materials; lead to more correctness in measuring the quantities, and enable the wash-mill to work quicker; and the mixture besides will have more chance of becoming perfectly homogeneous.

Washing the materials.—When ground, the clay and chalk will be put in due proportions in the wash-mill.

I will select a wash-mill of the same sort as that described by Mr. Reid, and which can wash from 40 to 50 tons of chalk and clay per day of 10 hours.

Reservoirs.—The mixtures will be taken from the wash-mill to the reservoirs by descending drains; the reservoirs will be 80 × 50 feet each, made in brick work, but plastered with cement. Each reservoir will be provided with a sluice, so as to regulate the passage of superfluous water.

When the reservoirs are filled, the materials will be mixed by means of small agitators worked by hand, so as to procure perfect homogeneity.

Testing the mixture.—A small quantity of the mixture from each reservoir will be dried on a hot iron plate, burnt in the experimental kiln, and when ground, tested in the manner described above in paragraph 17, and then an analysis will be made of it, but it will not be necessary to proceed further with it, beyond separating the clay and sand, which can easily be done in a short time.

But if the contents of some reservoirs are over-clayed, they may then be mixed in known proportions with those containing excess of lime; or some clay or lime passed through the wash-mill may be added to those requiring it, and fresh analysis must be made until the proportions are found correct. Then the water will be let out of the reservoir.

Upon the mixture being found sufficiently consolidated, it will be removed to the drying ground; the natural heat here will be quite sufficient to do without drying plates (as done elsewhere).

When the mixture is dried sufficiently to a consistent paste, balls or cakes will be made, and afterwards taken to the kiln.

Kilns.—I will use kilns built on the principle, but on a larger scale, of my experimental kiln, and they will be able to hold 30 tons of materials each.

Loading the kilns.—Movable iron-bars will be inserted at the bottom of the kiln, firewood placed on them, then large pieces of coke, and then alternative layers of coke and raw cement.

Burning the cement.—The regulation of the fire must be. attended to very carefully, as being one of the most important parts of the manufacture.

Unloading the kiln.— When the kiln is quite cool, the cement will be removed by drawing the movable bars.

Selection of materials.—The clinker or burnt cement presents, when well burnt, a dark greenish appearance; some parts not well burnt are yellow, which may be mixed with the clinker, but every part presenting a dirty white appearance must be rejected; these last parts, when left exposed to air, crack between time varying from 24 to 48 hours and fall in powder.

Breaking the burnt cement.—A stone-breaker, or an American cracker, or Carr's disintegrator, will be used to reduce the cement into small pieces.

Grinding the cement.—The cement will be ground first into coarse powder by edge-runners, and then in horizontal mill-stones, and so pulverized as to pass through a sieve of 60 meshes to the lineal inch, or 3,600 to the square inch.

Storing the cement.—The cement when prepared will be left under a shed well ventilated for not less than a fortnight, and then packed if required.

Packing the cement—Strong gunny bags will answer very well for packing the cement. These should be 3 feet in length and 1 foot in diameter, so as to hold 2½ cubic feet.

Such bags are easily borne and do not burst under the weight of cement as larger bags will do.

PART III.

Probable cost of the Portland cement to be manufactured in Calcutta.

21. Raw materials.—For manufacturing 20,000 casks of cement = 100,000 cubic feet, 6,000 tons of raw materials will be required, as follows:—

4,500 tons of chalk.
1,500 ditto clay.

22. Chalk.—The average price of chalk delivered at the factory will not exceed Rs. 11 per ton, and there will be every probability of its being lower if the following precautions be taken:—

The contract should be given for one or two years, and the contracting firm bound to deliver 400 tons a month, but with the option of taking advantage of the fluctuation of freight and supplying accordingly either, say, a moiety at a time, or the whole quantity, as may best suit it.

However, as one of the largest firms in Calcutta has expressed willingness to take any contract for the supply of chalk at a higher rate than the one abovementioned (which I believe to be the average), viz., Rs. 13 per ton, I make two estimates of the price, viz., 1 at Rs. 11, and the other at Rs. 13, per ton.

23. Clay.—The cost of extracting the clay has been estimated at Rs. 5 per 100 cubic feet = 1 rupee per ton.

24. Coke.—The quantity of coke necessary for the calcination of the cement will be 800 tons, at 8 annas per maund = Rs. 13-8 per ton.

25. Coal.—The coal for the engines will amount to 300 tons, at 5 annas per maund = Rs. 8-8 per ton.

26. Labor.—Mr. Lipowitz states that for 20,000 casks a year, the cost of labor will be Rs. 8,000 in Germany.

But in his process the amount of labor is in excess of the wet system, and I therefore think that Rs. 7,200 a year will be sufficient, as will be seen from the following details:—

| | | Rs. |
|---|---|---|
| Engine drivers, 2, at Rs. 15 per month | | 30 |
| Firemen, 2, at Rs. 8 per month | | 16 |
| Head mistry for soorkee and wash mills, 1, at Rs. 15 per month | | 15 |
| Ditto for reservoirs, 1, at Rs. 15 per month | | 15 |
| Ditto for kilns, 1, at Rs. 15 per month | | 15 |
| Ditto for stone-breaker, edge-runners and horizontal-mill, 1, at Rs. 15 per month | | 15 |
| TOTAL | | 106 |
| Coolies for loading and unloading wagons, &c. | 20 | |
| Ditto for soorkee mill | 4 | |
| Ditto for wash-mill | 4 | |

or, in round numbers, Rs. 600 per month × 12 = Rs. 7,200 per year.

27. Land rent.—The land may be purchased, but if taken on lease for a certain number of years, or in perpetuity, the area required, viz., 16 beegahs, may be had at a price not exceeding Rs. 150 per month, and probably cheaper.

Percentage added to total expenditure.—I have added Rs. 10 per 100 to the total expenditure for supervision, contingencies, &c.

ESTIMATE No. 1

| Coal, 300 „ at Rs. 8-8 „ | 2,550 |
| Labor at Rs. 600 per month × 12 | 7,200 |
| Oil, grease, &c. | 1,200 |
| Bags for cement | 3,000 |
| Land rent, at Rs. 150 per month × 12 | 1,800 |
| | 77,550 |
| Supervision, contingencies, &c., at Rs. 10 per 100 | 7,755 |
| TOTAL | 85,305 |

Note.—The cost for 100,000 cubic feet of Calcutta Portland cement will be Rs. 85,305, or 13 annas 8 pie per cubic foot; or for 5 cubic feet, equal to an ordinary cask of English Portland cement weighing 400 lbs., Rs. 4-4-4.

Taking the actual market price of imported Portland cement at Rs. 12-4 per cask, the cost of the cement to be manufactured in Calcutta will be nearly one-third.

ESTIMATE No. 2.

| | Rs. |
|---|---|
| Chalk, 4,500 tons, at Rs. 13 per ton | 58,500 |
| Clay, 1,500 „ at Re. 1 „ | 1,500 |

| Labor at Rs. 600 per month × 12 | 7,200 |
| Oil, grease, &c. | 1,200 |
| Bags for cement | 3,000 |
| Land rent, at Rs. 150 per month × 12 | 1,800 |
| | 86,550 |
| Supervision, contingencies, &c., at Rs. 10 per 100 | 8,655 |
| TOTAL | 95,205 |

Note.—The cost for 100,000 cubic feet of Calcutta Portland cement will be Rs. 95,205, or 15 annas 3 pie per cubic foot; or per 5 cubic feet, equal to an ordinary cask of English Portland cement weighing 400lbs., Rs. 4-12-3.

Taking the actual market price for Portland cement at Rs. 12-4 per cask, the cost of the cement to be manufactured in Calcutta will be nearly three-eighths.

N. B.—If from the 100,000 cubic feet of cement to be manufactured yearly, Government orders the sale to the public of, say, 30,000 cubic feet = 6,000 casks, at the low rate of even Rs. 8 per cask, a profit of Rs. 22,375 may be effected, and applied towards the redeeming of the capital invested for the construction of the factory.

P. DEJOUX,
Exe. Engr., Cement Experiments Division.

No. 3 P. W., dated Fort William, the 7th January 1875.

From—The Government of India,

To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

We have the honor to forward for your Lordship's information the accompanying correspondence from the Government of Bengal, having reference to the proposed construction of a factory in Calcutta for the manufacture of cement.

2. It will be perceived from Mr. Dejoux's letter that cement, equal, if not superior, to that known as "Portland," can be manufactured in this country at about half the cost for which that cement can be imported: this fact is worth consideration when taken in connection with the fact that considerable quantities of Portland cement are used on Government works in this country, and that the demand appears to be yearly increasing.

3. But bearing in mind that the value of Mr. Dejoux's process is largely dependent on the continued importation of chalk in present quantities, and at present prices, it seems to us advisable, before establishing a factory for the article in this country, to make the matter publicly known in the hope that either the manufacture may be undertaken by private enterprise, or that it may lead to a reduction in price.

4. We have accordingly directed the publication of the papers in the Gazette of India, and we request that your Lordship will cause inquiries to be made of some of the large building firms in England, as to whether more advantageous terms cannot be obtained in the event of Government giving large orders, or contracts, for all the Indian Government requirements in England.

5. Should these means fail to bring about the desired reduction, we can then re-consider the expediency of the proposal of the Government of Bengal to establish a factory for the manufacture of the cement in this country.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, AGRICULTURE, AND COMMERCE.

REVENUE ADMINISTRATION OF THE CENTRAL PROVINCES FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

No. 693, dated the 17th August 1874.

From—A. O. HUME, ESQ., Secy. to the Govt. of India,
To—The Chief Commisssioner of the Central Provinces.

I am directed to acknowledge your Officiating Secretary's letter No. 2660—131, forwarding with your review the report on the revenue administration of the Central Provinces for the year 1873-74.

2. In reply, I am to express satisfaction at the generally favorable results attained, and the large proportion of the land revenue realized within the year.

3. As regards coercive processes, while admitting that on the whole great moderation has been exhibited in recourse to them, the President in Council concurs with you that further information in regard to some districts would have been desirable. That in the Mandla district alone it should have been found necessary to imprison 190 defaulters, whilst in the other thirteen districts only 222 persons altogether were imprisoned; and again that in two districts, Bhandara and Balaghat, there should have been 314 cases of distraint of personal property in realization of the Government demand, and only 148 such cases in all the other twelve districts; —are facts that required careful investigation and fuller explanation than has been furnished. In both the lastnamed districts rice is very extensively cultivated, and possibly in the adoption of coercive measures the local authorities may not have made sufficient allowance for the failure of the staple crop. You are, however, fully alive to the necessity of carefully watching the proceedings of local officers in these respects and further comment is unnecessary.

4. The improved prospects of the Murwara and Hatta tahsils are noted with satisfaction, and the promised recommendations in regard to Bijeragogarh will be awaited.

5. As regards forests, some progress seems to have been made towards a rational and economical system of management; but this subject need not be further noticed here, and I am only to add that your views as expressed in paragraphs 21 to 24 of the report meet generally with His Excellency's concurrence.

6. In regard to the pandhri-tax, the arrangement whereby 85 per cent. of the tax-payers have been absolutely exempted and only a loss of 35 per cent. of revenue incurred seems very judicious.

7. It is noted that the total number of the sales of whole estates or shares therein has fallen from 792 in 1872-73 to 676 in the year under report: this is so far satisfactory; but on this point further remarks are reserved pending your promised report on the transfers of landlords' properties in the Central Provinces.

8. The question of the extinction of absolute occupancy rights is another subject to which much importance is attached, and in regard to which full and trustworthy information will shortly be required. It will be sufficient to remark here that if these tenures are being extinguished deliberately and on any large scale by the malguzars refusing to make the customary grain advances, it may become a question whether Government should not interfere to provide facility for these ryots to obtain such advances elsewhere. The State has purposely confirmed to one section of the community certain rights and privileges, and it should not be in the power of any other section deliberately to nullify them. This seems to be doubly important in the present case, in which the rights conferred probably represent far less than what their holders were equitably entitled to or would have received had the true nature of the existing tenures been thoroughly understood when the recent settlement was made.

9. As regards patwaris, the correct maintenance of whom is so important to the welfare of the agricultural classes, it is hoped that no pains will be spared to secure better results than would seem on the whole to be at present achieved.

10. Much as he regrets it, His Honor in Council is not surprised at the small extent to which advances for improvements have been taken. It is probably, as stated by the Commissioner of Nagpur, "repellant to native feeling to draw upon the future for present improvements." In fact, it is only in quite recent times that the more enlightened Governments have come to consider themselves entitled to do this, and a certain amount of what may be termed financial education will be necessary before native landholders or any large proportion of them can be brought to recognize the propriety or wisdom of borrowing money for permanent improvements; and this must be the work of time.

11. In conclusion, I am to convey to you the thanks of His Honor the President in Council for the able report which records the successful revenue administration of the Central Provinces during the past year.

---

No. 65, dated India Office, London, the 10th December 1874.

From—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,
To—The Government of India.

The despatch of your Excellency in Council dated 18th August, No. 18 of 1874, forwarding a report on the revenue administration of the Central Provinces for the year 1873, has been considered by me in Council.

2. The report may be regarded on the whole as satisfactory. The season, unfavorable for rice crops, was very suitable for other grains, and may be pronounced to have been of average fairness for general agricultural operations. Prices throughout the provinces in no instance pressed with severity on the poorer classes, except perhaps in the Bilaspur district of the Chattisghar division, which is inhabited by a rice-consuming population. Here the price of rice rose from 52 to 28 seers per rupee, but this, though causing some distress, compares favorably with 1869, when, under a similar failure of rain, the price of rice was 12 seers for the rupee.

3. The general health of the people, notwithstanding a visitation of small-pox in some districts, is pronounced by the Chief Commissioner to have been unusually good.

4. The revenue returns of the year present the following results:—

| | Rs. |
|---|---|
| Demand ... ... ... ... ... ... | 60,45,328 |
| Collections ... ... ... ... ... ... | 60,30,559 |
| Balance ... | 14,769 |

In comparison with the returns of the previous year, the demand is a little more, and the realization a little less. Of the balance of the present year, the sum of Rs. 6,449 has been remitted, the remission consisting, with an insignificant exception, of a reduction of jumma granted under the sanction of Government to the Patehra Raja, with the view of assisting him in freeing his estate from debt.

6. It is satisfactory to find that the Chief Commissioner is able this year to submit a much more favorable report of the tahsils of Murwara and Hatta, the condition of which in the former year attracted the grave attention of the Government of India and of the late Secretary of State in Council. With respect to Hatta, there is now, in the opinion of the Chief Commissioner, no ground for future anxiety. The condition of the pargana of Bijeragogarh, in the Murwara tahsil, is stated to be still doubtful, and the question of a reduction of jumma is under the consideration of the local authorities.

6. The statement of revenue from the forests exhibits a marked increase. The return from the reserved forests shows an increase from Rs. 73,705 to Rs. 104,027, that from the unreserved forests, from Rs. 407,968 to Rs. 464,339; or a total advance from Rs. 481,673 to Rs. 568,367. The reserved forests are under the management of the Forest Department; the unreserved are controlled by the Deputy Commissioners. It has been the aim of the Chief Commissioner with respect to the latter to preserve the forests rather than to enhance the revenue; nevertheless the care bestowed on the first object has in a few years nearly doubled the receipts under this head.

8. The statements of the Chief Commissioner relative to the pandhri-tax are very satisfactory. It would appear that the incidence of the tax is now only on those who, as a rule, are in a position to pay it, and who contribute in no other form to the imperial revenues.

9. The Chief Commissioner, in the course of his review, discusses the following subjects:—

I.—Proprietary and occupancy mutations.

II.—Revenue litigation.

III.—Patwaris' papers.

The first of these subjects is of the very greatest importance, and is still under the special consideration of the authorities. The actual transfers of estates during the year under review have been considerably less than in the previous year, and there is some reason to believe that the same estates are continually transferred and re-transferred. The Chief Commissioner does not think that sufficient data have yet been collected to enable him to form a decisive opinion. He apparently at present leans to the conclusion that the transfer of lands from the agricultural to the banking class is a remote, and perhaps imaginary, contingency.

10. The questions of whether the rights of absolute occupancy ryots are in a course of extinction, and whether resort should not be had to artificial means to arrest the progress of such extinction, have attracted the attention both of your Lordship's Government and of my predecessor in Council. The Chief Commissioner has called for further returns embodying more accurate information of these vexed questions, but in this instance also he would seem to doubt whether eventually there will be any real ground for anxiety. I shall await with interest the result of this reference.

11. The statements of the Chief Commissioner with respect to revenue litigation do not, in his opinion, show that there is any prevalence of a general feeling of antagonism between landlords and tenants. Complaints of exaction, and suits connected with ejection, are stated not to be numerous. The courts having immediate cognizance of revenue suits appear to give satisfaction, appeals being few, and reversal of decisions comparatively infrequent. I observe that the Revenue Bill for this province, which is to supersede in it the operation of Act X of 1859, has been made the subject of special consideration.

12. Patwaris' papers are stated to have been filed with fair punctuality, and some improvement, it is added, has taken place with respect to their accuracy. I fully concur with your Excellency in Council as to the great importance to the agricultural classes of the correct maintenance of these papers, and I trust that no pains will be spared by the local authorities to improve the imperfect results already obtained.

13. In conclusion, I would record my opinion that the revenue administration of these important provinces, as exhibited in this report, reflects much credit on the zeal, judgment, and ability of Mr. Morris, the Chief Commissioner, and of the officers serving under him.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 14th JANUARY 1875.

GENERAL REMARKS.—A good fall of rain throughout Bengal is reported: it was heaviest in the central and lightest in the western districts, and has done much good to the spring crops. Rain has also fallen in Assam, and rain with hail in Allahabad. Elsewhere none has fallen. It is still much wanted in the Deccan districts, the Punjab, the Meerut and Bundelkhand divisions of the North-Western Provinces, and parts of the Central Provinces. Prospects are however still fair in most places, and excellent in Bengal.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Madras— | | |
| Kistna (Jan. 14th) | ... | No rain; canal supply sufficient; four feet over anicut; some of the later dry crops suffering from want of rain and from grub; other crops good; outturn of castor and paddy in Vinukonda full; green gram half; markets well supplied locally; prices steady; mild small-pox and fever general; latter fatal in Bezwarrah; cattle generally unhealthy; pasture sufficient. |
| Kurnool (13th) | ... | No rain; season favourable; standing crops generally good; second crop paddy being sown; markets well supplied; prices generally stationary; water and pasture abundant; severe fever in several taluqs; cattle generally healthy; no water over Sunkesala anicut. |
| Tanjore (14th) | ... | No rain; water in rivers scanty; no fresh supply to tanks; water over anicut none; cultivation of wet crops almost over; that of a few dry crops continues in some parts; standing crops good harvest; some dry and wet crops yield satisfactory; markets well supplied; prices steady; public health generally good; small-pox here and there; cattle healthy; pasture sufficient. |
| Trichinopoly (13th) | ... | No rain; water-supply sufficient; condition of crops good; outturn up to average; public health good; pasture ample. |
| Malabar (14th) | ... | No rain; harvesting of second crop begun; markets well supplied; prices steady; fever and small-pox slightly prevalent; the former especially in hilly parts; cattle healthy; pasture withering. |
| Bombay— (Jan. 13th) | | General prospects satisfactory. |
| Sindh. | | |
| Shikarpur ... | ... | Crops healthy; weather continues warm; without rain; no other change. |
| Hyderabad ... | ... | State of crops same as before; weather unseasonably mild; public health improving; cattle disease in three talukas still continues. |
| Upper Frontier ... | ... | No change; weather mild; fever continues. |
| Gujarat. | | |
| Ahmedabad ... | ... | No change. |
| Surat ... | ... | Spring crops progressing; fever in Mandvee. |
| Broach ... | ... | State of crops same as before; cotton reaped in some places; public health generally good. |
| Kaira ... | ... | Rabi crops progressing favourably; cotton good. |
| Khandesh and Nasik. | | |
| Khandesh ... | ... | State of rabi crops unchanged; cotton supplies increasing; trade active; rate 47; cattle disease and fever continue. |
| Nasik ... | ... | No change. |
| Konkan. | | |
| Tanna ... | ... | Weather warm during the day; cold during the night; public health good; fever prevailing in Mahim, Wada, Shahpur, and Moorbaur talukas, and slightly in Dhanoo, Callian, and Bhewndi talukas; guinea-worm in Wada taluka; rabi crops same as before in Kurjut taluka; good in Mahim, Moorbaur, Bassein, and Bhewndy talukas; and middling in Dhanoo, Wada, Shahpur, and Callian talukas. |
| Deccan. | | |
| Poona ... | ... | Standing rabi crops doing well, excepting in talukas of Bhimthadi, Seeroor, and Indapur, accounts from which are not satisfactory; climate and public health good. |
| Ahmednuggur ... | ... | Crops of inferior land withering for want of rain; health good. |
| Sholapur ... | ... | Except toor and cotton all kharif reaped; harvest average; rabi not promising anywhere; health good. |
| Satara ... | ... | Early crops all harvested; late ones promise average harvest for want of rain; ague in Pahtun. |
| Southern Mahratta Country. | | |
| Belgaum ... | ... | Rabi crops good, except in portions of Uthni, where rats have damaged crops; cattle disease in Uthni abated; cotton crops Chikodee partially injured by locusts. |
| Dharwar ... | ... | No material change. |
| Kanara ... | ... | Prospects of second crop fair; fever, small-pox, and cattle disease slightly prevalent. |
| Kaladgi ... | ... | Rabi middling in Bagulkot and Moodebihal; promising in Badami and Hungund; wheat and gram good in Bijapur; fever in all talukas, except Bagulkot and Indi. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Bombay—continued. | | |
| Kathiawar. | | |
| Rajkot ... | ... | Rabi crops good; weather cold; public health good. |
| Wudwan ... | ... | Weather and health indifferent; state of crops same as before. |
| | | General remarks.—Prospects good; rain still much wanted in the Deccan. |
| Bengal— (Jan. 12th) | | |
| Burdwan ... | ·45 | Rain fell at Raneegunge 1·03, Bood-bood ·97, Culna ·13, Jehanabad nil, Cutwa 2·3. Damage reported from hail in Cutwa and North Bood-bood, otherwise prospects as before. |
| Bankura ... | ·15 | Weather cloudy; during the 4th and 5th slight rain fell almost all over the district. The state and prospects of the winter crops continue satisfactory. The rain has done good to them. |
| Beerbhoom ... | 1·01 | Character of weather uncertain. Rain has fallen in the district. State and prospects of crops good in every respect. |
| Midnapore ... | 0·31 | Somewhat cloudy, but little rain, and cool. Harvest nearly got in. Account of the cold-weather crops favourable. |
| Hooghly ... | ·05 | Cloudy and drizzling rains on the 5th, otherwise clear and cold; wind chiefly from north. Main rice crop reaped; a fair crop, except in two thanas. Other crops good and fair. Water required for potatoes, onions, and for drinking and bathing purposes. |
| 24-Pergunnahs ... | 1·35 | A sharp storm on the 5th accompanied by heavy rain and hail. The cutting of the late rice progressing rapidly. The hail and rain on the 5th did some slight damage to the rice in Diamond Harbour, that had been cut, but not carried; and to the vegetable crops in part of Busseerhaut sub-division. In other parts of the district the rain has benefited the cold-weather crops. |
| Nuddea ... | 1·17 | About an inch of rain has fallen almost everywhere. Tobacco has been slightly injured by the rain, but all other crops are flourishing. |
| Moorshedabad ... | 1·78 | Rain on the evening of the 4th and during the 5th instant. Since the rain it has been slightly colder. The rain during the week has greatly improved the cold-weather crops: it appears to have been general. In Jungypore the mangoe season promises well. Prices almost stationary, except common rice, which has fallen a little. |
| Dinagepore ... | ·5 | Seasonable rain has fallen. Unusually good crops, such as the district has not had for some years. Reaping in full progress. |
| Maldah ... | 0·90 | The first two days cloudy; rain on the night of the 4th and day of the 5th; the rest cloudy and fair alternately. Rain fell during the week, and did a good deal of good to all the cold-weather crops, except mustard, some of which being in flower has been damaged by the rain. |
| Rajshahye ... | 2·14 | There was a heavy fall of rain on the 4th and 5th. Weather cloudy and warm, giving probability of more rain. The heavy rain of the week has not, so far as is reported, materially affected the growing cold-weather crops; but to a small extent, in parts, the ripe ears of paddy have been knocked off. The injury from this cause is unimportant. Slight damage to mustard crops that were in flower is reported from Nattore. The condition of all crops is promising. |
| Rungpore ... | 0·38 | Some rain has fallen during the week; since then the weather is fine and cold. The cutting of the amun, or late rice crop, is still going on. Prospects of the cold-weather crops are favourable. |
| Bogra ... | 1·70 | Rain has fallen in the district. Weather cloudy and foggy in the morning, especially somewhat cold. A slight shock of earthquake was felt about 9 o'clock on the 6th instant. A bumper rice crop mostly cut. |
| Pubna ... | 1·07 | Fine, cold, and seasonable weather. Storm of thunder and lightning with heavy rain on the night of the 4th, and rain during the 5th instant. The harvesting of amun, or late rice, is finished; that of kalai and moong pulses is going on. Sugarcane and turmeric nearly ripe. |
| Jalpáiguri ... | ·50 | Rain has fallen in the district. Weather cold. Harvesting nearly completed. The rain has, to some slight extent, it is feared, affected tobacco, early surso (mustard), and kalai (pulse). |
| Dacca ... | 0·57 | Seasonable weather. Some rain has fallen. Prospects of crops favourable. |
| Patna ... | 0·78 | Slight showers in the first part of the week. Great benefit to backward rabi or cold-weather crops. Outturn of paddy reported favourable from all parts of the district. |
| Gya ... | 0·14 | In the beginning of the week the weather was cloudy, and rain fell on the 4th and 6th instant: on the last day it was attended with a slight fall of hail. The harvesting of the rice crop is nearly over. Such an abundant harvest has not been seen for many years. The cold-weather crop, which has been considerably benefited by this timely rain, looks very promising. |
| Tirhoot ... | 1·04 | Rain has fallen during the week. Weather cold. The rain that fell during the week has been beneficial to the cold-weather crops, which are everywhere promising. The state of the country and the people is quite satisfactory. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Chumparun ... | ·25 | Mornings very foggy, days cloudy, and nights clear. Rain fell on the 4th instant. Recent rain will bring forward winter crops, and give sufficient moisture for spring crops. |
| Monghyr ... | ·58 | Weather cold, mornings misty. Some rain has fallen during the week. The rain makes the prospects of the cold-weather crops even more favourable than they were. |
| Bhágalpur ... | ·40 | Rain on 5th and 6th instant. Over an inch in Soopool; severe hail in the south, but crops not much damaged, as there was but little cold-weather crops. Cold-weather crops still promise to be very fine. |
| Purneah ... | 0·61 | Very cloudy. Rain in the commencement of the week. There will be a 16-anna return from the aughani, or late rice crop. The recent rain has been beneficial to the cold-weather crops, which promise very well. The state of the crops is everything that can be desired. |
| Southal Pergunnahs ... | 1·31 | Rain fell in the district. At Deoghur ·48, Rajmehal a few drops, Jamtara ·71. Hail in many places. A little damage done to mustard in Rajmehal. Paddy nearly all cut; everything else doing very well. |
| Cuttack ... | Nil | Rather warm for the time of year. Winter crops coming on well. Late rice crop being reaped. |
| Balasore ... | ·65 | Weather occasionally cloudy, with one or two slight showers of rain. Harvesting of rice crop coming to a close. General prospects of crops good. |
| Lohardugga ... | ·26 | Some rain has fallen in the district; cold again since the rain. Cold-weather crops cut to a great extent and reported excellent, both in the Sudder sub-division and in Palamow. |
| Maunbhoom ... | 0·27 | Some rain has fallen in the district. Weather seasonable. All the rice has now been cut. The cold-weather crops promise well. |
| | | Public Health. |
| | | Burdwan: fever as before. 24-Pergunnahs: cholera is abating in thanas Busseerhat, Hosnabad, Bhangore, Bankipore, and Mothoorapore, but continues in thanas Kallygunge and Devipore. Moorshedabad: cholera has greatly abated in the Sudder sub-division. Rajshahye: public health good. Pubna: fever on the decrease. Furreedpore: health good, excepting at Ainpore, whence an outbreak of cholera is reported. Patna: health good. Sarun: general health good. Cuttack: public health good. Balasore: a few cases of small-pox. Lohardugga: general health good; small-pox reported here and there. |
| | | General Remarks.—There was more or less rain throughout Bengal in the week ending 12th instant. The hail-storm that visited Calcutta on the 5th instant seems to have been widespread, but the hail does not appear to have done serious damage anywhere, while the rains have been seasonable and done appreciable good to the cold-weather crops, which are doing well everywhere. Slight injury is reported here and there from the hail to crops in flower or ear, but in very limited areas only. The harvesting of the late rice is not yet complete, but is progressing rapidly, and the outturn is excellent. Spring rice is being sown in parts of Orissa. In Hooghly water is still required in places, both for agriculture and domestic purposes. |
| N. W. P.— | | |
| Meerut (Jan. 13th) | ... | No more rain; want of rain felt. |

Order books to be corrected accordingly.

No. 70 of 1875.—The under-mentioned Officer is permitted to proceed to Europe on furlough on private affairs:—

Lieutenant Colonel (Brevet Colonel) Herbert Raban, of the Bengal Staff Corps, Deputy Inspector General of Police, Lower Provinces,—for two years, under Rule IX of the Regulations of 1868.

The 19*th January* 1875.

No. 71 of 1875.—With the sanction of Her Majesty's Government, the Right Honorable the Governor General in Council is pleased to notify that from the 1st April 1875, the following rates of pay will be allowed to all Majors of Royal Artillery and Engineers serving in India, and that from the same date, the special command allowances of Rs. 250 and Rs. 100 per mensem now given to officers commanding Heavy and Garrison batteries will cease.

2. Majors of Horse and Foot Artillery, with their batteries, will draw Rs. 929-6-4 and Rs. 759-3-0 respectively per mensem. This, in assimilation with the rule in force out of India, will include a battery command allowance, which is fixed at Rs. 50 per mensem.

3. When absent from their batteries, except upon privilege leave, Majors of Artillery will cease to draw this command money, which will be drawn by the Officer actually in command of the battery.

4. These rates of pay will cover the command and charge of any armament to which the battery may be attached, whether of Horse, Field, Heavy, Mountain, or Siege Artillery, or the armament of a fort.

5. Majors with Field Heavy and Mountain batteries will draw horse allowance in addition as at present.

6. Majors of Royal Engineers, when not in receipt of any staff salary or command money, will draw Rs. 709-3 per mensem, (the same as Majors of Foot Artillery, less the command allowance) and when in receipt of a consolidated pay, with pay proper, will draw for the latter Rs. 182-10 per mensem, instead of Rs. 140 as at present.

7. Majors of Royal Artillery and Engineers in receipt of staff salaries, will draw Rs. 640-14 per mensem, as allowed to Majors of other branches who draw staff salaries.

No. 72 of 1875.—In continuation of G. G. O. No. 71 of 19th January 1875, the Right Honorable the Governor General in Council is pleased to notify that, with the approval of Her Majesty's Government, the following contract allowances hitherto drawn with Head Quarters of Brigades and all Batteries of Royal Artillery serving in India, Horse, Field, Garrison, Heavy and Mountain, British and Native, will cease from the 1st April 1875, from which date the supply and repairs of all articles of equipment hitherto provided for by these allowances will be effected in accordance with the practice in force in Her Majesty's Service in England and in the Colonies; viz., allowances for repair of guns and wagons, carts, harness, saddlery, leather ammunition and store boxes, lascar pâls, medicines and stable requisites, gun contingent allowance, shoeing and linegear, grampots, cavessons, petty stores.

2. Materials for repairs will be issued by the Ordnance Department, the repairs being executed by the battery artificers without extra payment, and any sums expended for petty supplies locally procured, for fuel and other contingencies, will be charged in monthly contingent bills.

3. Detailed instructions for the future regulation of these services will be issued hereafter.

4. The following sums will be allowed monthly for stationery and repairs of arms:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Garrison Batteries ... ... | Rs. | 45 |
| Field, Heavy and Mountain Batteries... | " | 50 |
| Batteries of Horse Artillery ... | " | 55 |

5. An allowance of * per mensem will be given for shoeing each horse attached to batteries and head quarters of brigades. For mountain batteries, in which few of the mules are regularly shod, there will be no allowance, and the amount expended in shoeing will be recovered in contingent bills.

6. The repairs of tents with batteries, in which an allowance is now drawn for this purpose, will be effected in accordance with G. G. O. No. 1085 of 1873.

7. Country veterinary medicines will be supplied by the Commissariat Department half-yearly on indents countersigned by the inspecting veterinary surgeon.

8. An allowance of 1½ annas per maund for grinding gram, barley, or other grain, issued to horses and mules, will be given to cover all petty charges incurred in preparing the food.

9. Officers commanding native field and mountain batteries of the Punjab Frontier Force, the field batteries of the Hyderabad Contingent, the Scinde and Guzerat Mountain Trains, will receive a staff salary of 250 rupees a month in addition to staff corps pay of rank; Officers commanding the garrison battery of the Punjab Frontier Force, and the garrison battery at Aden will receive a staff salary of 150 rupees a month in addition to staff corps pay of rank. Officers commanding native batteries of any description will be required to vacate their appointments on promotion to the substantive rank of Major.

No. 73 of 1875.—The services of Surgeon J. Armstrong, of the Medical Department, are placed at the disposal of the Department of Revenue, Agriculture, and Commerce from the 24th instant.

 The Rig-Veda, the oldest book of Indian literature, has very properly been made one of the principal class books for those who study Sanskrit in the schools and colleges in India, and though at present a scholar-like knowledge of the Vedic hymns is in the examinations required of the more advanced students only, yet, as soon as editions, translations, grammars, and dictionaries shall have rendered the study of these ancient documents more accessible, I doubt not that the time will come when no one in India will call himself a Sanskrit scholar, who cannot construe the hymns of the ancient Rishis of his country.—Extract from Preface.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

Enactments repealed.

An Act to regulate Distresses for Rents in the Presidency Towns.

Preamble.

FOR the purpose of regulating distresses for rents in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I. Preliminary.

Short title.
Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Distress Act, 1875," and it shall come into force at once.

It extends to every place within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdictions of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay;

Local extent.

But nothing herein contained applies—

(a) to any rent due to Government;

(b) to any rent which has been due for more than twelve months before the application mentioned in section six.

2. The enactments specified in the second schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule.

Enactments repealed.

All appointments made and securities given under any of the said enactments shall be deemed to be respectively made and given under this Act.

The reference to Act No. VII of 1847 made in Act XXIII of 1850, section three, shall be read as if made to this Act.

3. In this Act, "Court of Small Causes" means the Court of Small Causes for the time being established by law in Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

"Court of Small Causes" defined.

II. Bailiffs and Appraisers.

4. The Judges of the Court of Small Causes may appoint four or more persons to be bailiffs and appraisers for the purpose of this Act, and may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, fix such remuneration for the services of such officers as the said Judges think fit, and may suspend or remove them.

Appointment of bailiffs and appraisers.

5. The persons so appointed shall give security to be approved by the said Judges faithfully to discharge the duties of their office, and they shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Security to be given by appointees.

III. Issue of Distress-Warrants.

6. Any person claiming to be entitled to arrears of rent of any house or premises to which this Act extends, or his duly constituted attorney, may apply to any Judge of the Court of Small Causes for such warrant as hereinafter mentioned.

Application for distress-warrant.

The application shall be supported by an affidavit or affirmation to the effect of the form (marked A) in the first schedule hereto annexed.

7. The Judge may thereupon issue a warrant under his hand and seal and returnable within six days, to the effect of the form contained in the same schedule (marked B) addressed to any one of such bailiffs.

Issue of distress-warrant.

The Judge may at his discretion, upon personal examination of the person applying for such warrant, decline to issue the same.

IV. Of the making of Distresses.

8. Every distress under this Act shall be made after sunrise and before sunset, and not at any other time.

Time for distress.

9. The bailiff directed to make the distress may force open any stable, out-house, or other building, and may also enter any dwelling-house, the outer door of which may be open and may break open the door of any room in such dwelling-house for the purpose of seizing property liable to be seized under this Act.

What places bailiff may force open.

Provided that he shall not enter or break open the door of any room appropriated for the zanánâ or residence of women, which by the usage of the country, is considered private.

10. In pursuance of the warrant aforesaid the bailiff shall seize the moveable property found in or upon the house or premises mentioned in the warrant and belonging to the person from whom the rent is claimed (hereinafter called the debtor), or such part thereof as may in the bailiff's judgment be sufficient to cover the amount of the said rent, together with the costs of the said distress.

Property which may be seized.

Provided that the bailiff shall not seize—

(a) things in actual use; or

(b) tools and implements not in use; where there is other moveable property in or upon the house or premises sufficient to cover such amount and costs; or

(c) the debtor's necessary wearing apparel; or

(d) goods in the custody of the law.

11. The bailiff may impound or otherwise secure the property so seized in or on the house or premises chargeable with the rent.

Impounding distress.

12. On seizing any property under section ten, the bailiff shall make an inventory of such property and shall give a notice in writing to the effect of the Form in the first schedule hereto annexed (marked C) to the debtor, or to any other person upon his behalf in or upon the said house or premises.

Inventory.

Notice of intended appraisement and sale.

The bailiff shall, as soon as may be, file in the Court of Small Causes copies of the said inventory and notice.

Copies of inventory and notice to be filed.

V. Of Applications to discharge Distresses, and of Compensation.

13. The debtor, or any other person alleging himself to be the owner of any property seized under this Act, may, at any time within five days from such seizure, apply to any Judge of the said Court to discharge or suspend the warrant, or to release a distrained article, and such Judge may discharge or suspend such warrant or release such article accordingly, upon such terms as he thinks just,

Application to discharge or suspend warrant.

and any of the Judges of the said Court may in his discretion give reasonable time to the debtor to pay the rent due from him.

Upon any such application the costs attending it and attending the issue and execution of the warrant shall be in the discretion of the Judge, and shall be paid as he directs.

Claim to goods distrained made by a stranger.

14. If any claim be made to, or in respect of, any property seized under this Act, or in respect of the proceeds or value thereof, by any person not being the debtor, the Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, upon the application of the bailiff who seized the property, may issue a summons calling before the Court the claimant and the person who obtained the warrant.

And thereupon any suit which may have been brought in the High Court in respect of such claim shall be stayed, and any Judge of the High Court, on proof of the issue of such summons and that the property was so distrained, may order the plaintiff to pay the costs of all proceedings in such suit after the issue of such summons.

And a Judge of the Court of Small Causes shall adjudicate upon such claim and make such order between the parties in respect thereof and of the costs of the proceedings as he thinks fit; and such order shall be enforced as if it were an order made in a suit brought in such Court.

The procedure in Courts of Small Causes in cases under this section shall conform, as far as may be, to the procedure in an ordinary suit in such Courts.

Power to award compensation to debtor or claimant.

15. In any case under section thirteen or section fourteen the Judge by whom the case is heard may award such compensation by way of damages to the applicant or claimant (as the case may be) as the Judge thinks fit, and may for that purpose make any enquiry he thinks necessary;

and the order of the Judge awarding or refusing such compensation shall bar any suit in respect of injury caused by the distress.

Power to transfer to High Court cases involving more than Rs. 1,000.

16. In any application under section thirteen or any claim under section fourteen, if the value of the subject-matter in dispute exceeds one thousand rupees, the applicant or claimant may apply to the High Court, to transfer the case to itself, and the High Court on being satisfied that it is expedient that the case should be disposed of by itself, may direct the case to be transferred accordingly, and may thereupon alter or set aside any order passed in the case by a Judge of the Court of Small Causes, and may make such order therein as the High Court thinks fit.

Every application under this section shall be made within seven days from the date of the seizure of the subject-matter in dispute.

In granting applications under this section, the High Court may impose such terms as to payment of or giving security for costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

The procedure in cases transferred under this section, shall conform as far as may be to the procedure in suits before the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction; and orders made under this section may be executed as if they were made in the exercise of such jurisdiction; and every such order awarding or refusing compensation shall bar any suit in respect of injury caused by the distress which gave rise to the case wherein such order was made.

VI. Appraisement and Sale of Distress.

Appraisement.

17. In default of any order to the contrary by a Judge of the Court of Small Causes, or by the High Court, any two of the said bailiffs may, at the expiration of five days from a seizure of property under this Act, appraise the property so seized, and give the debtor notice in writing to the effect of the Form in the first schedule hereto annexed (marked D).

Notice of sale.

The bailiffs shall file in the same Court a copy of every notice given under this section.

Sale.

18. In default of any such order to the contrary, the distrained property shall be sold on the day mentioned in such notice, and the said bailiffs shall on realizing the proceeds pay over the amount thereof to the Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, and such amount shall be applied first in payment of the costs of the said distress and then in satisfaction of the debt; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned to the debtor:

Application of proceeds.

Provided that the debtor may direct that the sale shall take place in any other manner, first giving security for any extra costs thereby occasioned.

VII. Miscellaneous.

Costs of distresses.

19. No costs of any distress under this Act shall be taken or demanded except those mentioned in the part of the first schedule hereto annexed (marked E).

The Judges of the Court of Small Causes may apply the sum so raised as costs towards the payment of the contingent charges and remuneration of the said bailiffs as appears to the said Judges expedient.

Account of costs and proceeds.

20. The Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes shall keep a book in which all sums received as costs upon distresses made under this Act, and all sums paid as remuneration to the said bailiffs, and all contingent charges incurred in respect of such distresses shall be duly entered.

He shall also enter in the said book all sums realized by sale of the property distrained and paid over to landlords under the provisions of this Act.

Bar of distresses except under this Act.

21. No distress shall be levied for arrears of rent, except under the provisions of this Act;

Penalty for making illegal distresses.

and any person, except a bailiff appointed under section four, levying or attempting to levy any such distress shall, on conviction before a Magistrate of Police, be liable to be punished by fine not exceeding five hundred rupees and imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, in addition to any other liability he may have incurred by his proceedings.

[First Publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 19th January 1875, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. II OF 1875.

An Act to diminish the multitude and improve the quality of Law Reports, and to extend the area of their authority.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to diminish the multitude and expense of the law reports published in British India, and to improve their quality, and to extend the local limits of the authority of properly reported decisions of the High Courts of Judicature established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, cap. 104:

And whereas with a view to furthering these objects, the Governor General in Council proposes to authorize the publication of reports of cases decided by the said High Courts, to be called the Indian Authorized Law Reports; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Law Reports Act, 1875:"

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council notifies in this behalf in the Gazette of India.

Limits of authority of authorized reports extended.

2. Every judgment delivered on or after such day by any of the said High Courts (whether by a Judge sitting alone, or by a Division Court, or by a Full Bench) and reported in the said Indian Authorized Law Reports, shall have the same authority in all subordinate Courts beyond the limits of the appellate jurisdiction of such High Court as independently of this Act it would have within such limits.

Authority given only to authorized reports after passing of Act.

3. No Court shall be bound to hear cited, or shall receive or treat as an authority binding on it, the report of any case decided by any of the said High Courts on or after the said day, other than a report published under the authority of the Governor General in Council.

Authority of judicial decisions.

4. Save as provided by section two, nothing herein contained shall be construed to give to any judicial decision any further or other authority than it would have had if this Act had not been passed.

WORKS ERECTED AT DEOLEE BY THE MEN OF THE DEOLEE IRREGULAR FORCE.

Circular No. 5, Public Works, dated Fort William, the 11th January 1875.

From—CAPTAIN G. T. SKIPWITH, Assistant Secretary,

To—The Government of India, Public Works Department.

I am directed to forward, for general information, the accompanying copies of papers with a lithograph sketch descriptive of works executed at Deolee by the men of the Deolee Irregular Force under the orders of Colonel J. D. MacDonald.

Enclosure to Circular No. 5, Public Works.

Memorandum by LIEUTENANT-COLONEL J. M. WILLIAMS, Superintendent of Works, Ajmere and Mhairwarra, on the various works executed at Deolee by the men of the Deolee Irregular Force under the supervision of COLONEL J. D. MACDONALD, Commanding,—Dated Nusseerabad, the 21st February 1874.

The majority of the works executed by the Deolee Force have already received the commendations of high authorities, and it is only needful for me to add my testimony to their being at the present time in a state of perfect preservation owing to the quality of the work employed in their original construction, and to the subsequent attention bestowed upon them. Amongst these are—

1st.—The "Nek Chal" embankment.

2nd.—Bathing ghât, weir, and guard-room.

3rd.—Chowkeedar's hut in cemetery.

4th.—Hindoo temple on Clay's Island.

5th.—Out-offices to hospital: this last erected for the Public Works Department at contract rates.

It is much to be regretted that, in consequence of the "Nek Chal" being outside the limits of the cantonment, a difficulty has arisen regarding the provision of funds for an ornamental weir on the northern face of the embankment, which was designed by Mr. Gael, formerly Assistant Engineer, Public Works Department, at Deolee.

This weir, I understood, was designed to aid one of the existing weirs, the discharge over which in heavy floods threatens its foundation, the soil not being good. It will be a matter of lasting regret should the embankment on which so much care and taste has been displayed be destroyed in consequence. Its destruction would moreover prove a most serious loss to the station.

There are two buildings which have been lately built, and which, not having been previously reported upon, leave room for further remark than those abovementioned—

1st.—The "Hall of Justice."

2nd.—The bathing-shed for the hospital of the Deolee Force.

The "Hall of Justice" has been constructed by Colonel MacDonald as his orderly-room, in which also he conducts his duties as Cantonment Magistrate. It is built in a picturesque spot in his garden in front of his residence, and has been most tastefully constructed. The roof rests on a front and rear wall, pierced with artistically designed arches for the doors and windows, and at the sides on two columns. The space between the columns and end walls are filled with handsomely-designed trellis work executed in chunam. The painted windows in the front consist of single slabs of slate cut through in elaborate and handsome patterns. The centre and also the walls in several places are further decorated with various heraldic devices from designs by Lieutenant Neville, 14th Bengal Lancers, and Lieutenant Montague James, 3rd Bombay Cavalry, carved on slate and emblazoned. Amongst these are the arms of the Deolee Irregular Force, of the Agent, Governor General and Political Agents, of Colonel MacDonald and of other officers connected with the station. The ceiling is of lathe and plaster perfectly executed, and is colored a pale-blue in panels; the panels being enclosed by a narrow gold beading. The blending of the colors in the decorations is almost effective and pleasing.

The bathing-shed adjoining the hospital is an uncovered enclosure. The side walls are pierced with gothic arches, which are filled with the same perforated work in chunam above referred to in describing the "Hall of Justice." The entrances are at each end through gothic arches, and over the main arch facing the entrance to cantonment is inscribed on a scroll in gothic letters "Siste Viator," then several similar scrolls with appropriate mottos inscribed on various parts of the walls.

Water is supplied from a well, and flows into a handsomely designed cistern, which is constructed at one end of the room, and the drainage is perfectly effected. The privacy of the shed, in addition to that caused by the arches having been filled in with the perforated work, is further secured by a luxuriant growth of creepers.

In addition to the several works already enumerated, there are also under construction a pucka ghât or landing-place on Clay's Island and the church: this last will form the subject of a separate report.

Having always been an advocate for the employment of regimental labor, it has afforded me much pleasure to see how successfully and persistently it has been employed at Deolee for the last eight years. That it has been so cordially rendered by the men is most creditable to them, and deserving of all praise, and its results will prove a lasting monument to the energy and taste of Colonel MacDonald, and the interest he has taken in his men. This alone could have elicited from them the spontaneous exertions by which Colonel MacDonald's projects have been so successfully executed.

Memorandum by LIEUTENANT-COLONEL J. M. WILLIAMS, Superintendent of Works, Ajmere and Mhairwarra, on the Church which is being built at Deolee,—Dated Jussakhera, the 12th March 1874.

The church is being built entirely under Colonel MacDonald's supervision by the men of the Deolee Irregular Force, and stands in a central position in the cantonment of Deolee in a portion of the compound belonging to the Presbyterian Mission.

There are no plans, sections or elevations of the building, which is unfortunate, since during my short visit to Deolee of one day I was unable to get out proper plans, and was obliged to depute an officer to send me a plan and section, which I enclose.

Colonel MacDonald has been guided throughout by the illustrations contained in a book of ecclesiastical architecture which he possesses, and has certainly been very happy in the combinations he has formed.

The building has reached the height shown in the accompanying section, and is built of coarse rubble masonry in lime mortar, well and solidly put together. The windows, of which there are eight in the body of the church and three in the chancel, to be filled with whole slabs of slates cut through in appropriate handsome patterns by men of the Deolee Force. One window, the central one in the chancel, had already been so filled on the occasion of my visit: in its centre is an illuminated scroll bearing the words "Faith, Hope, and Charity." The effect is exceedingly pleasing, and, next to stained glass, is more effective than anything I have previously seen. To prevent dust entering through the opened carved work, the windows will be protected with a covering of perforated zinc.

Colonel MacDonald proposes to place a pointed roof of slabs on the building slightly above the present level of the walls, and above this, for the sake of coolness, and to prevent leakage, inverted ghurras or chatties, bringing the surface nearly, if not quite, to the appearance of flat roofs. I suggested that the building would be more in keeping with its style of architecture if he does not conceal the pitch of the roof, which he need not do if he places one layer of small inverted chatties over the whole surface of the slabs, and then covers them with terracing.

The walls are to be finished off with a battlemented parapet in early English style, and the buttresses with facials in keeping with the parapet.

The building has cost in material up to the present Rs. 2,100, and with chowkeedar's house and improvements to the ground, it may be approximately estimated to cost Rs. 3,000 more.

The church will accommodate about 30 sittings, which are ample for the station. In a military station the Government grant for a church providing this number of sittings would be from Rs. 2,500 to 3,000, and if this amount can be granted in the present instance, it will prove a great boon to the station, and enable Colonel McDonald to complete the church in as thorough a manner as he desires.

It was certainly a most spirited and enterprising undertaking of Colonel MacDonald to commence the building with only the local subscriptions to depend upon, and that these have been so readily forthcoming, speaks volumes for the confidence all have in his ability to carry out the work successfully.

[The plans and sections referred to have not been printed.]

NOTE ON JUTE MANUFACTORIES IN HOLLAND.

The provinces in Holland in which there are jute manufactories are North Brabant, North Holland, Utrecht, Friesland, Overyssel, and Dreuthe.

In North Brabant there are nine factories, which use from 460,000 to 467,000 kilogrammes of jute annually. Two are at a place called Boxtel, one at Geldrop, five at Goirle, and one at Helmond. At Boxtel the factories are worked by steam. In North Brabant the jute is used for making grain and meal sacks, for paper hangings, and for packing cloth; none for coffee bags.

In North Holland there are six factories, using 214,500 kilogrammes of jute a year; one at Amsterdam, three at Goven, and two at Naarden. Of this quantity, 185,000 kilogrammes are used for coffee bags; and at Goven 9,500 kilogrammes are used up for making covering cloths for cows.

In Utrecht there are four factories, two at the town of Utrecht, one at Rhenen, and one at Amersfoort. They work up from 251,550 to 251,650 kilogrammes of jute a year; of which only 20,000 are used for coffee bags at Amersfoort. About 230,000 kilogrammes are worked up also at Amersfoort for making onion, sugar and meal sacks, rough cloth* coverings for cows, and common carpets.

* Interwoven with flax: the warp of linen, and the woof of jute threads.

In Friesland there are three factories, using 46,425 kilogrammes of jute—at Dokkum, Horlengen, Weststellingward; at the latter place 13,000 kilogrammes are used for coffee bags.

In the province of Overyssel there are six factories, but a great deal of jute is also worked by hand in the houses of the work-people for pack cloth. The whole quantity annually used is 3,593,000 kilogrammes, of which 1,921,500 is for coffee bags. The rest is made into meal sacks, packing cloth, mattresses, stair carpets and salt and potato sacks. At Enschede and Goor all the jute work is done in the houses by hand. At Holten there is a factory, at Oldenzael three, at Steenwyk one, and the largest of all is at Ryssen, where 2,500,000 kilogrammes of jute are annually used.

In the province of Dreuthe, there are two factories at Norg and two at Vledder, using 240,666 kilogrammes of jute, of which 236,000 are for coffee bags.

Altogether there are 32 jute manufactories in Holland, besides the hand-weaving in the houses of the work-people. The quantity of jute annually worked up is from 4,006,141 to 5,120,241 kilogrammes, of which from 2,375,500 to 2,680,000 are used for coffee bags; and from 2,430,641 to 2,439,741 for other purposes.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 21st JANUARY 1875.

General Remarks.—There has been no rain in Madras, Mysore, the Central Provinces, Berar, Central India, and Rajputana. Slight rain has fallen in the Deccan districts of Bombay, several districts of Bengal, Benares and Allahabad in the North-Western Provinces, Fyzabad in Oudh, and Rawalpindi and a few other places in the Punjab. The heaviest falls have been in Assam and the eastern districts of Bengal. Prospects continue universally good, although the want of rain is complained of in parts of the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and the Deccan districts of Bombay.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Madras— | | |
| Kistna (Jan. 21st) | Nil | Canal supply sufficient; three feet seven inches over anicut: later dry crops suffering from grub, bad weather, and want of rain in parts; other crops fair: markets well supplied locally: mild small-pox general; fever virulent: cattle healthy, only in three taluks pasture diminishing. |
| Kurnool (20th) | " | Season favourable; no rain: standing crops good; second crop paddy being sown: markets well supplied; prices falling in Nundil, rising in Nandikotcoor, and stationary elsewhere: water and pasture abundant: fever generally prevalent: no water over Sunkesala anicut. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Madras—continued. | | |
| Tanjore (21st) | Nil | Water in rivers scanty, no supply to tanks; water over anicuts none: cultivation of wet crops over that of a few dry crops continues in some parts; standing crops good; harvest of some wet and dry crops completed, yield satisfactory: market well supplied; prices steady: public health generally good; small-pox here and there; one death by cholera in Combaconum: cattle disease in Sheally, some loss; pasture sufficient. |
| Trichinopoly (20th) | " | Water sufficient; Cauvery beginning to fall low: crops in good order; outturn generally up to average: public health good: pasture ample. |
| Malabar (21st) | " | Harvesting of second crop in progress: markets well supplied; prices steady: fever and small-pox slightly prevalent: cattle disease in Walluvanad; pasture withering. |
| Bombay— (Jan. 20th) | | General prospects satisfactory. |
| Sindh. | | |
| Kurrachee ... | ... | Rabi crops looking splendid; ahur (mustard) still being sown on Manchar lands: weather colder. |
| Shikarpur ... | ... | Rabi crops generally doing well, but want of rain, sharp frosts on nights of 15th, 16th, and 17th, injured the more advanced rape crops. |
| Hyderabad ... | ... | Cotton all picked—heavy outturn: rabi crops looking very well: slight fever in low-lying districts: weather changeable: state of cattle disease the same as before. |
| Gujarat. | | |
| Ahmedabad ... | ... | No change. |
| Surat ... | ... | Spring crops progressing: fever in Pardi. |
| Broach ... | ... | Cotton and til being reaped; other standing crops and public health generally good. |
| Kaira ... | ... | Cotton-picking commenced: crops and public health good: weather very cold. |
| Khandesh and Nasik. | | |
| Khandesh ... | ... | State of crops and public health the same as before: cotton good; demand brisk; rate 49. |
| Nasik ... | ... | Rabi crops good in some talukas, but partially blighted from want of moisture and heavy dews in others, where loss is estimated at four annas in the rupee: excepting slight fever, public health good. |
| Konkan. | | |
| Tanna ... | ... | Weather cool: public health good; fever prevailing in Mahim, Wada, and Shahpur talukas, and slightly in Bhewndy taluka; ague in Moorbaur taluka; guinea-worm and cough in Wada taluka: rabi crops good in Mahim, Shagur, Bhewndy, and Bassein talukas, but middling in Dhanoo, Moorbaur, and Kullian talukas: rabi crop especially good in Kurjut taluka. |
| Deccan. | | |
| Poona ... | 0·06 | Rabi crops continue in the same condition as before: climate and public health good. |
| Ahmednuggur ... | ... | Crops slightly damaged by cold: health good. |
| Sholapur ... | ... | No change. |
| Satara ... | ... | State of late crops the same as before; in Kurar oomari crops injured by blight: weather cloudy and chilly: ague in Pahtun. |
| Southern Mahratta Country. | | |
| Belgaum ... | ... | Rabi crops good; cotton indifferent: fever in some talukas: murrain has disappeared. |
| Dharwar ... | ... | Wheat injured in Petta Moondurgi; state of other late crops the same as before; cotton and health unchanged. |
| Kanara ... | ... | Sowing operations for second rice crop commenced; sugarcane being reaped produce middling; fever prevalent. |
| Kaladgi ... | ... | No change. |
| Kathiawar and Gaekwar's Territory. | | |
| Rajkot ... | ... | Rabi crops and public health good; weather windy and very cold. |
| Wudwan ... | ... | Cold wind and occasional frost in Chotila district: crops the same as before: health good. |
| Baroda ... | ... | Cotton-picking continues; rabi crop fair: public health good. |
| | | General remarks.—Rabi crops are very good in Sindh; poor in the Deccan; fair elsewhere: rain in the Deccan still required: kharif outturn good. |
| Bengal— (Jan. 19th) | | |
| Burdwan ... | Nil | Weather cloudy and windy. Late rice harvested. Prospects of cold-weather crops good. |
| Bankura ... | " | Weather dry. The state and prospects of the winter crops continue satisfactory. |
| Beerbhoom ... | " | Bright and dry weather. Harvest home. Cold-weather crops doing well. |
| Midnapore ... | " | Foggy in morning and less cold than before. Harvest nearly all in. Cold-weather crops fair. |
| Hooghly ... | " | Clear throughout; wind from north and south-west. Prospects of cold-weather crops fair, but water required. |
| 24-Pergunnahs ... | 0·05 | Cool and occasionally cloudy. The harvest of the late rice is almost completed. Cold-weather crops doing well. |
| Nuddea ... | Nil. | Weather rather warm for the time of the year. Some damage was done to crops in parts of the Chapra and Nakasipara thanas by hail in the week before last, otherwise crops of all sorts have been progressing favourably on the whole. |
| Moorshedabad ... | " | Bright and seasonable weather. Nights cold. Cold-weather crops continue to promise well. Aous, or early rice cultivation, is proceeding. The price of rice has risen slightly. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects |
|---|---|---|
| Dinagepore ... | Nil | A very slight fall of rain last Monday; weather cold and foggy. The cutting of the winter crops not quite finished yet; the harvest has been above the average. Late rain has done good to cold-weather crops. Mustard, though sown late, is looking well. |
| Maldah ... | " | There has been some rain during the week in a few localities. Generally it has been dry and cool. The winter crop of rice has turned out well; the other crops are promising. The late rains have done some damage in a few places. The kalai pulse is turning out well. |
| Rajshahye ... | " | Clear and fine weather. No rains during the week. The condition of the cold weather crops continues to be most promising. The kalai pulse harvest is nearly completed; and there is a fine mustard crop on the higher lands, almost ready for cutting. |
| Rungpore ... | " | Weather cold and somewhat cloudy, with fogs in the morning. Reaping of the amun or late rice crop is nearly finished. Cold-weather crops are doing well. |
| Bogra ... | " | Weather fair. Cold in the morning and evening. State and prospects of crops excellent. Reaping of the amun or late rice not finished as yet. |
| Pubna ... | " | Weather fine and seasonable; occasionally cloudy and foggy. No rain; harvesting of kalai pulse nearly finished, and of sugarcane and turmeric commenced; the outturn does not appear as good as it was expected. Matore and khesari pulses and rye are in flower. Cheena millet is being sown. |
| Jalpáiguri ... | 0·12 | Weather cloudy and cold. Some rain has fallen. All crops promise well. |
| Dacca .. | Nil | Weather cool and fine. Clouds still hanging about. Crops very good, mustard crops especially. |
| Patna ... | " | Seasonable weather. Paddy nearly harvested; moosoor pulse slightly injured by the late heavy fog. Prospect of cold-weather crops otherwise excellent. |
| Gya ... | " | Weather cool. The rubbee or cold weather crops continue in flourishing condition. |

 The Rig-Veda, the oldest book of Indian literature, has very properly been made one of the principal class-books for those who study Sanskrit in the schools and colleges in India, and though at present a scholar-like knowledge of the Vedic hymns is in the examinations required of the more advanced students only, yet, as soon as editions, translations, grammars, and dictionaries shall have rendered the study of these ancient documents more accessible, I doubt not that the time will come when no one in India will call himself a Sanskrit scholar, who cannot construe the hymns of the ancient Rishis of his country.—Extract from Preface.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

Enactments repealed.

An Act to regulate Distresses for Rents in the Presidency Towns.

Preamble.

FOR the purpose of regulating distresses for rents in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay,

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I. Preliminary.

Short title.
Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Distress Act, 1875," and it shall come into force at once.

Local extent.

It extends to every place within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdictions of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay;

But nothing herein contained applies—

(a) to any rent due to Government;

(b) to any rent which has been due for more than twelve months before the application mentioned in section six.

Enactments repealed.

2. The enactments specified in the second schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule.

All appointments made and securities given under any of the said enactments shall be deemed to be respectively made and given under this Act.

The reference to Act No. VII of 1847 made in Act XXIII of 1850, section three, shall be read as if made to this Act.

"Court of Small Causes" defined.

3. In this Act, "Court of Small Causes" means the Court of Small Causes for the time being established by law in Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

II. Bailiffs and Appraisers.

Appointment of bailiffs and appraisers.

4. The Judges of the Court of Small Causes may appoint four or more persons to be bailiffs and appraisers for the purpose of this Act, and may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, fix such remuneration for the services of such officers as the said Judges think fit, and may suspend or remove them.

Security to be given by appointees.

5. The persons so appointed shall give security to be approved by the said Judges faithfully to discharge the duties of their office, and they shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

III. Issue of Distress-Warrants.

Application for distress-warrant.

6. Any person claiming to be entitled to arrears of rent of any house or premises to which this Act extends, or his duly constituted attorney, may apply to any Judge of the Court of Small Causes for such warrant as hereinafter mentioned.

The application shall be supported by an affidavit or affirmation to the effect of the form (marked A) in the first schedule hereto annexed.

Issue of distress-warrant.

7. The Judge may thereupon issue a warrant under his hand and seal and returnable within six days, to the effect of the form contained in the same schedule (marked B) addressed to any one of such bailiffs.

The Judge may at his discretion, upon personal examination of the person applying for such warrant, decline to issue the same.

IV. Of the making of Distresses.

Time for distress.

8. Every distress under this Act shall be made after sunrise and before sunset, and not at any other time.

What places bailiff may force open.

9. The bailiff directed to make the distress may force open any stable, out-house, or other building, and may also enter any dwelling-house, the outer door of which may be open and may break open the door of any room in such dwelling-house for the purpose of seizing property liable to be seized under this Act.

Provided that he shall not enter or break open the door of any room appropriated for the zanáná or residence of women, which by the usage of the country, is considered private.

Property which may be seized.

10. In pursuance of the warrant aforesaid the bailiff shall seize the moveable property found in or upon the house or premises mentioned in the warrant and belonging to the person from whom the rent is claimed (hereinafter called the debtor), or such part thereof as may in the bailiff's judgment be sufficient to cover the amount of the said rent, together with the costs of the said distress.

Provided that the bailiff shall not seize—

(a) things in actual use; or

(b) tools and implements not in use; where there is other moveable property in or upon the house or premises sufficient to cover such amount and costs; or

(c) the debtor's necessary wearing apparel; or

(d) goods in the custody of the law.

Impounding distress.

11. The bailiff may impound or otherwise secure the property so seized in or on the house or premises chargeable with the rent.

Inventory.

12. On seizing any property under section ten, the bailiff shall make an inventory of such property and shall give a notice in writing to the effect of the Form in the first schedule hereto annexed (marked C) to the debtor, or to any other person upon his behalf in or upon the said house or premises.

Notice of intended appraisement and sale.

Copies of inventory and notice to be filed.

The bailiff shall, as soon as may be, file in the Court of Small Causes copies of the said inventory and notice.

V. Of Applications to discharge Distresses, and of Compensation.

Application to discharge or suspend warrant.

13. The debtor, or any other person alleging himself to be the owner of any property seized under this Act, may, at any time within five days from such seizure, apply to any Judge of the said Court to discharge or suspend the warrant, or to release a distrained article, and such Judge may discharge or suspend such warrant or release such article accordingly, upon such terms as he thinks just,

and any of the Judges of the said Court may in his discretion give reasonable time to the debtor to pay the rent due from him.

Upon any such application the costs attending it and attending the issue and execution of the warrant shall be in the discretion of the Judge, and shall be paid as he directs.

Claim to goods distrained made by a stranger.

14. If any claim be made to, or in respect of, any property seized under this Act, or in respect of the proceeds or value thereof, by any person not being the debtor, the Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, upon the application of the bailiff who seized the property, may issue a summons calling before the Court the claimant and the person who obtained the warrant.

And thereupon any suit which may have been brought in the High Court in respect of such claim shall be stayed, and any Judge of the High Court, on proof of the issue of such summons and that the property was so distrained, may order the plaintiff to pay the costs of all proceedings in such suit after the issue of such summons.

And a Judge of the Court of Small Causes shall adjudicate upon such claim and make such order between the parties in respect thereof and of the costs of the proceedings as he thinks fit;

and such order shall be enforced as if it were an order made in a suit brought in such Court.

The procedure in Courts of Small Causes in cases under this section shall conform, as far as may be, to the procedure in an ordinary suit in such Courts.

Power to award compensation to debtor or claimant.

15. In any case under section thirteen or section fourteen the Judge by whom the case is heard may award such compensation by way of damages to the applicant or claimant (as the case may be) as the Judge thinks fit, and may for that purpose make any enquiry he thinks necessary;

and the order of the Judge awarding or refusing such compensation shall bar any suit in respect of injury caused by the distress.

Power to transfer to High Court cases involving more than Rs. 1,000.

16. In any application under section thirteen or any claim under section fourteen, if the value of the subject-matter in dispute exceeds one thousand rupees, the applicant or claimant may apply to the High Court, to transfer the case to itself, and the High Court on being satisfied that it is expedient that the case should be disposed of by itself, may direct the case to be transferred accordingly, and may thereupon alter or set aside any order passed in the case by a Judge of the Court of Small Causes, and may make such order therein as the High Court thinks fit.

Every application under this section shall be made within seven days from the date of the seizure of the subject-matter in dispute.

In granting applications under this section, the High Court may impose such terms as to payment of or giving security for costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

The procedure in cases transferred under this section, shall conform as far as may be to the procedure in suits before the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction; and orders made under this section may be executed as if they were made in the exercise of such jurisdiction; and every such order awarding or refusing compensation shall bar any suit in respect of injury caused by the distress which gave rise to the case wherein such order was made.

VI. Appraisement and Sale of Distress.

Appraisement.

17. In default of any order to the contrary by a Judge of the Court of Small Causes, or by the High Court, any two of the said bailiffs may, at the expiration of five days from a seizure of property under this Act, appraise the property so seized, and give the debtor notice in writing to the effect of the Form in the first schedule hereto annexed (marked D).

Notice of sale.

The bailiffs shall file in the same Court a copy of every notice given under this section.

Sale.

18. In default of any such order to the contrary, the distrained property shall be sold on the day mentioned in such notice, and the said bailiffs shall on realizing the proceeds pay over the amount thereof to the Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, and such amount shall be applied first in payment of the costs of the said distress and then in satisfaction of the debt; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned to the debtor:

Application of proceeds.

Provided that the debtor may direct that the sale shall take place in any other manner, first giving security for any extra costs thereby occasioned.

VII. Miscellaneous.

Costs of distresses.

19. No costs of any distress under this Act shall be taken or demanded except those mentioned in the part of the first schedule hereto annexed (marked E).

The Judges of the Court of Small Causes may apply the sum so raised as costs towards the payment of the contingent charges and remuneration of the said bailiffs as appears to the said Judges expedient.

Account of costs and proceeds.

20. The Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes shall keep a book in which all sums received as costs upon distresses made under this Act, and all sums paid as remuneration to the said bailiffs, and all contingent charges incurred in respect of such distresses shall be duly entered.

He shall also enter in the said book all sums realized by sale of the property distrained and paid over to landlords under the provisions of this Act.

Bar of distresses except under this Act.

21. No distress shall be levied for arrears of rent, except under the provisions of this Act;

Penalty for making illegal distresses.

and any person, except a bailiff appointed under section four, levying or attempting to levy any such distress shall, on conviction before a Magistrate of Police, be liable to be punished by fine not exceeding five hundred rupees and imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, in addition to any other liability he may have incurred by his proceedings.

[Second Publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 19th January 1875, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. II OF 1875.

An Act to diminish the multitude and improve the quality of Law Reports, and to extend the area of their authority.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to diminish the multitude and expense of the law reports published in British India, and to improve their quality, and to extend the local limits of the authority of properly reported decisions of the High Courts of Judicature established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, cap. 104:

And whereas with a view to furthering these objects, the Governor General in Council proposes to authorize the publication of reports of cases decided by the said High Courts, to be called the Indian Authorized Law Reports; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Law Reports Act, 1875:"

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council notifies in this behalf in the Gazette of India.

Limits of authority of authorized reports extended.

2. Every judgment delivered on or after such day by any of the said High Courts (whether by a Judge sitting alone, or by a Division Court, or by a Full Bench) and reported in the said Indian Authorized Law Reports, shall have the same authority in all subordinate Courts beyond the limits of the appellate jurisdiction of such High Court as independently of this Act it would have within such limits.

Authority given only to authorized reports after passing of Act.

3. No Court shall be bound to hear cited, or shall receive or treat as an authority binding on it, the report of any case decided by any of the said High Courts on or after the said day, other than a report published under the authority of the Governor General in Council.

Authority of judicial decisions.

4. Save as provided by section two, nothing herein contained shall be construed to give to any judicial decision any further or other authority than it would have had if this Act had not been passed.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 28th JANUARY 1875.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Frosts have somewhat injured the rabi crops in parts of Bombay and Sindh, and some districts in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, but prospects are generally favourable in all these provinces, except in the Deccan districts, where the accounts of the rabi are not encouraging. In the Punjab there has been no rain, and prospects are unfavourable owing to the continued drought. In the Hooghly district also drought is complained of, but rain has since fallen there. Rain has also fallen in most other parts of Bengal, and the prospects of the cold weather crops are on the whole favourable, while the rice harvest now nearly completed is generally excellent. In all other provinces the crops are reported to be in good condition. No report received from British Burma and Nepal.

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Madras— | | |
| Kistna (Jan. 28th) | ... | Rain at Masulipatam 96 cents; slight drizzling in some taluks; three feet water over anicut; some later dry crops suffering from grub and want of rain in parts; other crops good; castor, tobacco, and chillies harvested in Palnad; outturn three-fourths; markets well supplied locally; prices slighthly falling in Bapetla and Bezwada, elsewhere steady; small-pox fatal only in Vessinapetta; fever virulent; cattle generally unhealthy; pasture diminishing. |
| Kurnool (27th) | ... | Rain 0·036 inch at Kurnool on one day, none elsewhere; crops in good order; second crop paddy being sown; markets well supplied; prices steady; water and pasture abundant; fever and cattle disease in several taluks; no water over Sunkesala anicut. |
| Tanjore (28th) | ... | Rain in Negapatam ·02 inch, elsewhere scanty; water in rivers very little; no supply to tanks; no water over anicuts; cultivation of wet crops over, that of a few dry crops continues in some parts; crops in good order; harvest of wet and some dry crops, yield satisfactory; markets well supplied; prices slightly falling; public health generally good; small-pox in some places; two deaths by cholera in Negapatam; cattle disease in Sheally, some loss; pasture sufficient. |
| Trichinopoly (27th) | ... | Slight rain in parts of the district; no other change of importance. |
| Malabar (28th) | ... | No rain; harvesting of second crop in progress; markets well supplied, prices steady; fever and small-pox slightly prevalent; cattle disease slight in Wallewanad; pasture withering. |
| | | General prospects satisfactory. |
| Bombay— (Jan. 27th) | | |
| Sindh. | | |
| Kurrachee ... | ... | Early rabi crops coming into ear; rain again expected; weather cold, with strong breeze from the north; fever continues. |
| Hyderabad ... | ... | Rabi crops still looking well; public health generally good; weather fine; nights very cold; cattle disease continues in three talukas. |
| Shikarpur ... | ... | Rain much required; rabi sowing still continues in several talukas, and every available piece of land is brought under cultivation; severe frosts experienced, but slight damage only to rape crops; cattle disease has disappeared, except among goats. |
| Upper Frontier ... | ... | Weather continues cold; rain wanted; no decided change in state of crops. |
| Gujarat. | | |
| Ahmedabad ... | ... | Slight blight in Duskroee taluka, owing to heavy frost; no other change. |
| Surat ... | ·03 | Early crops harvested; rabi crops have slightly suffered in four talukas from cold; fever in Mandvee. |
| Broach ... | ... | Picking of cotton progressing; til almost reaped; other rabi crops good; fever in Ahmood taluka. |
| Kaira ... | ... | Rabi crops thriving well; cotton good; cold severe. |
| Khandesh and Nasik. | | |
| Khandesh ... | ... | No improvement in rabi crops; cotton unchanged; rate 46 to 50; public health improving. |
| Nasik ... | ... | A thin crust of ice was found in water exposed in vessels on morning of 21st, which did considerable damage to rabi crops and fruit trees in several places; excepting a few cases of cold and fever, public health good. |
| Konkan. | | |
| Tanna ... | ·15 | Weather cool; public health good; rain 15 cents on 20th; fever in Wada, Shahpur, Mahim, Moorbaur, and Bhewndy talukas, and guinea-worm in Wada taluka; rabi crops especially good in Shahpur, middling in Dhanoo, Moorbaur, and Kallian talukas, and good in Mahim, Bhewndy, and Bassein talukas. |
| Deccan. | | |
| Poona ... | ·03 | Slight fall of rain in Mawul and Khed; prospects of rabi crops generally same as before; climate and public health good. |
| Ahmednuggur ... | ... | Crops good where there is moisture; cotton-picking mostly finished; health good. |
| Sholapur ... | ... | Rabi middling only in good soil; no disease. |
| Satara ... | ... | State of rabi crops same as before; potatoe plantation on banks of the Yenna tank and Mahableshwar blighted; ague in Pahtun, and cough at Khandalla. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Bombay—continued. | | |
| Southern Mahratta Country. | | |
| Belgaum ... | ... | State of rabi crops same as before; cotton indifferent; fever in some talukas. |
| Dharwar ... | ... | Wheat and exotic cotton unhealthy in Nawalgoond; grain and other late crops promising; slight improvement in public health in Nawalgoond; cattle disease decreasing in Dharwar taluka. |
| Kanara ... | ... | Prospects of second rice crop good; fever in Koompta, Honore, Sircky, and Yellapoor; cattle disease in Koompta, Honore, Sircky, and Hullial; small-pox slightly prevalent in Honore. |
| Kaladgi ... | ... | Kharif all reaped except toor; rabi middling; rats damaging crops in Bagewaree and Shindgi. |
| Kathiawar and Gaekwar's Territory. | | |
| Rajkot ... | ... | Rabi crops promising; picking of cotton in progress; weather cold; health good. |
| Wudwan ... | ... | Frost has injured cotton and wheat in Chotila district, and wheat in Wudwan; weather not cold as before; health indifferent in Drangdla. |
| Baroda ... | ... | Cotton-picking continues; rabi prospects and public health good. General remarks.—Prospects good, but the accounts of rabi from the Deccan are still discouraging. |
| Bengal— (Jan. 26th) | | |
| Burdwan ... | 0·91 | Weather favourable, but slightly cloudy. Rainfall at Raneegunge ·15, Cutwa ·40, Culna 1·07, Bood-bood ·43, Jehanabad nil. Late rice harvested; prospects of winter crops fair. Telegraphed on the 27th January: a further rainfall of ·9 inch. |
| Bankura ... | 0·01 | Cloudy during the 18th, 19th, and 20th instant. Pretty heavy rain in the north and slight rain in the rest of the district. The state and prospects of the winter crops continue satisfactory; the rain has done good to them. |
| Beerbhoom ... | 0·35 | Weather uncertain. State and prospects of the crops continue good. |
| Midnapore ... | 0·25 | Cold and cloudy weather. Rice harvest almost all quite in. Cold-weather crops good, with slight exception. |
| Hooghly ... | 0·61 | The weather was rainy on one day; at present cool and dry. North wind. The cold-weather crops which are still in the ground are suffering from drought. The kalai (pulse) crop was a failure. The potato crop which has been got in was, however, a good one. Telegraphed on the 27th January: a further rainfall of ·27 inch. |
| 24-Pergunnahs .. | Nil. | Cloudy in the morning during the first four days of the week, and very cold during the last three days. Slight showers have fallen in several parts of the district. The harvest of amun, or late rice, is all but over. The light rain in parts has benefited the cold-weather crops, but slightly injured tobacco. A further rainfall of ·18 inch on the 26th January 1875. |
| Nuddea ... | 0·25 | Some rain has fallen; cold since the rain fell. The recent rain is said to have done some harm to gram and tobacco. Other crops, as a rule, have derived great advantage. The coarsest rice sells at from Re. 1-14 to Rs 2-4 per maund. |
| Moorshedabad ... | 0·08 | The beginning of the week was cloudy and cold. A few drops of rain fell on Wednesday. The prospects of the cold weather crops continue good. In Jungipore the gram in one thana is said to have been damaged by insects, while the weather continued cloudy. Rice is rather dearer in the Sudder sub-division. |
| Dinagepore .. | 0·04 | There has been rain in parts of the interior. Weather cold and cloudy, with east wind. Reaping of the rice finished; cold-weather crops doing well. Mustard will be rather a short crop, having been sown late. |
| Maldah ... | Nil | Slight rain; generally dry and cold weather. The late rice crop is being still harvested, and is everywhere good. Kalai pulse is also being harvested, and is good. The cold-weather crops generally are promising. Boro or spring rice is being sown. |
| Rajshahye ... | 0·09 | Cloudy weather, with very slight rain in parts on two days; otherwise fine and clear weather. No change in the favourable prospects of the crops. Prices of the last amun, or late paddy, are stationary, ranging from 22 to 28 seers for the rupee in different parts. |
| Rungpore ... | Nil | Weather cold and fine. Rice harvest nearly finished. Cold-weather crops doing well. |
| Bogra ... | 0·10 | Cloudy in the morning for some days at the beginning of the week; afterwards fair. Cold in the morning and evening. Some rain has fallen. Reaping of the rice continues; a good outturn expected. |
| Pubna ... | 0·22 | Cloudy and rainy on the 19th and 20th instant; the rest of the week fair. Harvesting of arhur and kalai pulses nearly finished, and of mustard commenced. The rain has improved the barley and wheat crops. Prospects of the matore and khesaree pulses and oil-seed crops good. Sowing of cheena millet going on. |
| Jalpiguri ... | 0·07 | Cloudy during the first part of the week. The mornings and evenings were cloudy. A little rain. No change in the prospects of the crops since last week. |
| Dacca ... | 1·06 | Heavy rain on Monday and a little on Tuesday; since then very cold. State of crops, very little damage done by rain; the good will outweigh the harm. Telegraphed on the 28th instant:—A further rainfall of ·08 inch. |
| Patna ... | Nil | Weather bright and seasonable; cold-weather crops continue to progress well. |
| Gya ... | ·21 | Weather cold, and at times cloudy; rain fell on the 20th instant. The prospects of the cold weather crops continue very favorable. |

| Presidency or Province and District. | Rainfall for week preceding. | State of agricultural prospects. |
|---|---|---|
| Shahabad ... | 0·10 | Cloudy at the beginning of the week; slight rain fell on the morning of the 20th instant; since then the weather has cleared and become much colder. Prospects of crops very good. The slight rain has done some good. No reports from the sub-divisions of Bhubboah and Sasseram. The hail has caused damage, the amount of which is not yet fully ascertained. |
| West Tirhoot ... | 0·7 | Weather cold, with west wind; some rain has fallen. Prospects of the cold weather crops are excellent up to date. The harvest of the rice crop is now over, and the outturn is good, say 12 to 14 annas. |
| Sarun ... | 0·34 | Cloudy on the 20th and 21st instant. Slight showers on the 20th, within the jurisdiction of thanas Chupra, Manjhi, Pursa, Digwara, in the Sudder sub-division, and Burragaon and Sewan, in the Sewan sub-division. Very cold, with west wind prevailing. The prospects of the cold weather crops are generally favourable; wheat and barley in ear. In consequence of the cloudy state of the weather, slight injury to mustard from labi insects has been reported. Poppy doing well. Indigo fields are ready for sowing Prices stationary. |
| Chumparun ... | Nil | Cloudy and clear alternately. State and prospects of crops excellent. |
| Monghyr ... | " | Weather cold and fine. State and prospects of crops are as good as could be desired. |
| Bhágalpur ... | 0·06 | Slight rain. All crops very fine. Telegraphed on the 28th instant a fall of a few drops of rain on the night of the 24th idem. |
| Purneah ... | Nil | Weather cold. Very slight rain reported from the two sub-divisions. The state and prospects of the cold weather crop remain very satisfactory, as mentioned in the previous reports. No change. |
| Sonthal Pergunnahs ... | " | Weather very much colder since Tuesday, when rain fell in other parts of the district. Outturn of late rice reported excellent everywhere. Wheat and barley doing well in Godda. Mustard excellent everywhere. |
| Cuttack ... | " | Weather in Cuttack hot and oppressive. Rain expected. Reported "moderately cold" at Kendraparah, and cold at Jajipore. Prospects of crops remain good. |
| Balasore ... | " | Slight showers of rain; weather windy. Rice crop harvested with good results. Cold weather crop ready for gathering. (A few cases of small-pox and cholera in the north of the district.) |
| Lohardugga ... | 0·13 | The weather has been cloudy at first, and clear afterwards. Crop reports continue favourable from all parts. Palamow report states:—"rabi crops are extremely good, although a good fall of rain is to be wished for." |
| Maunbhoom ... | 0·26 | Weather favourable. Some rain has fallen, and more is required for indigo and other crops. |
| | | PUBLIC HEALTH. |
| | | Burdwan: health unaltered. 24-Pergunnahs: cholera prevailing in thanas Nyhatty, Bassirhat, Hosnabad, Bankipore, Devipore, Mathoorapore, and Diamond Harbour; it has abated in thanas Protapnagur and Bhangore; fever continues to decrease at Barripore. Moorshedabad: public health continues good. Rajshahye: public health good. Pubna: public health improved. Furreedpore: sickness abating everywhere. Patna: health good. Gya: health of the people good. Monghyr: general health very good. Cuttack: public health good generally; but fever is said to be somewhat prevalent in the Jajipore sub-division. Balasore: a few cases of cholera and small-pox in the north of the district; general health satisfactory. Hazaribagh: there are still some cases of small-pox about Hazaribagh. Lohardugga: reports of small-pox more frequent, otherwise health good. Singbhoom: district is very healthy. |
| | | General Remarks.—There was rain in almost every district of Bengal during the week under notice. The fall was heavy for this season of the year in some districts and was accompanied with hail in others, but little injury is reported, while the rain has benefited the cold-weather crops upon the whole. The harvesting of the rice crop is drawing to a close, and the outturn as a whole is excellent. Some of the pulses and sugarcane are being harvested. In a few places the early rice and cheena millet crops are being sown with advantage. Cold-weather crops are progressing favourably upon the whole, but Hooghly is suffering from drought. |

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Tuesday, the 19th January 1875.

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, G. M. S. I., presiding.
The Hon'ble B. H. Ellis.
Major-General the Hon'ble Sir H. W. Norman, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble Arthur Hobhouse, Q. C.
The Hon'ble E. C. Bayley, C. S. I.
The Hon'ble Sir W. Muir, K. C. S. I.
The Hon'ble John Inglis, C. S. I.
The Hon'ble R. A. Dalyell.
The Hon'ble H. H. Sutherland.
The Hon'ble J. R. Bullen Smith.
The Hon'ble Sir Douglas Forsyth, K. C. S. I.

DISTRESSES (PRESIDENCY TOWNS) BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE moved that the Reports of the Select Committee on the Bill to regulate Distresses for Rents in the Presidency Towns be taken into consideration. He said that the Committee had made two separate reports, and he took the opportunity on one occasion of explaining to the Council what was the subject of the first report. The second report related to a new introduction into the Bill, in consequence of a valuable suggestion received from the Association of Attornies, of a clause to provide for the transfer to the High Court of cases in which the value of the property distrained exceeded one thousand rupees. They pointed out that under this Bill Small Cause Courts would have, or might have, to deal with large amounts of money; that the property distrained was sometimes very considerable; that we should in effect be enlarging the pecuniary jurisdiction of Small Cause Courts a good deal, and that it would be more satisfactory in such cases to enable them to be removed to the High Court. The Committee had therefore inserted a section to that effect, and that was the subject of their second report. He did not know, after what had been already said about the Bill, that he need do more now than give the Council a summary of the alterations it made in the present law. He had already explained that it swept away a great deal of antiquated law, and relieved the statute-book of several statutes which contained a great deal of matter that was of no use, as much as was useful in them being comprised in the Bill. The alterations made by the Bill were these: First, the Committee provided that no distraint should be made for rent due for more than twelve months. That suggestion had been received from the Government of Madras, who had sent in a very thoughtful and carefully considered letter on the subject of this Bill. There seemed to be no such thing as a distraint for rent in Madras, and the Government of Madras thought, and a great many excellent lawyers thought, that the whole system of distresses for rent was a mistake, and that it would be far better to abolish the system altogether. MR. HOBHOUSE was not prepared to do that. The system prevailed largely in Calcutta, and also existed in Bombay; and he thought the Council ought not to interfere with it. That it did not prevail in Madras was a subject of congratulation; but he was not prepared to bring the law in Calcutta and Bombay into conformity with the practice in Madras.

The next alteration made by the Committee was to make it clear that the property to be seized should be the property of the debtor. There were sometimes cases which gave rise to disputes and to much hardship, where the property seized was the property of some person wholly unconnected with the rent for which the distress was issued. The Committee also provided that certain articles should be exempted from distress. Such articles were now exempted in cases of execution by law, and in practice they were usually exempted from distresses for rent. We did not take a coat off a man's back, and therefore the Committee had provided that things in actual use—a man's necessary wearing apparel and the like—which were protected from being seized in execution, should also be exempted in distresses for rent. That also had been suggested to them by the Government of Madras.

Then the Bill proceeded to deal with claims and disputes which arose out of distresses. The Committee had given to the Court which decided all other questions on the subject of the distress, namely, the Small Cause Court, power to adjudicate claims of third parties, and claims for damages or compensation where the distress was unlawful. Then there was the last alteration to which MR. HOBHOUSE had already referred, that when a distress exceeded a certain value, there should be power to transfer the case to the High Court.

These were the alterations in the law which the Bill proposed to make.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE also moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

INDIAN LAW REPORTS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE also moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to diminish the multitude and improve the quality of Law Reports, and to extend the area of their authority, be taken into consideration, and said:—"As it is now some ten months since this matter was before the Council, it will probably be necessary that I should remind them of what has taken place, and recapitulate very briefly the objects and scope of the measure now proposed. It is the more necessary to do so, because there has been an amount of controversy raised in the papers sent in to the Select Committee akin to the controversy raised at this table; controversies, as I shewed before, quite unwarranted by anything comprised in this Bill, and to a very great extent irrelevant to it, and relevant only to a plan contemplated by the Executive Government, or to other plans erroneously attributed to it.

"Before explaining what it was that the Council were asked to do, I told them that it was only a small portion of a larger plan contemplated by the Government of India for improving the condition of the Law Reports. I explained the function of a Law Report, and shewed how it passed into and became part of the general law of the land; how important, therefore, it was to exercise judgment in the selection of cases to be reported, and to issue them with some stamp of authenticity upon them, so that only that which is useful and accurate should be looked on by the lawyer as a necessary part of his library; but that in this country the matter had been left to private speculation with only some pecuniary assistance given by Government; that consequently the public interest, which is to have nothing but good reports of nothing but useful precedents, had become entirely subordinated to the commercial interest of the publishers, which is to have the largest price at the smallest expense and trouble to themselves: that owing to the fact that all reports are received as of equal authority, one man's publications must be bought just as much as another's; and that the consequence was that we have reports bulky, expensive, and to a great extent useless, which nevertheless the profession are compelled to buy. Such is the result of the combination of the two prevailing principles; first, that law reporting is a fit subject for commercial speculation, and next that Law Reports are to be treated as binding authorities from whatsoever source they emanate.

"All this I proved in detail by evidence and authorities of various kinds; and I stated that the Government would attempt to apply a remedy by taking the business of reporting in the High Courts under their own supervision. If that were done, and done with reasonable efficiency, there would at any rate be a set of reports bearing some stamp of authority upon them, and they would be published by those who might be trusted not to allow commercial motives to outweigh their sense of the public interest. If, again, the Bar would use for the purpose of citation in Court, and the Bench would receive as authorities, only the authorized reports,—a thing entirely within their power,—the professional man, who did not desire to buy others, would not be compelled to do so.

"But such a scheme as that requires no legislation, and I explained that there were only two points on which the authority of the legislature was invoked, and that on one of those points I could hardly say that it was actually requisite.

"The point I have just referred to is that which is embodied in the third section of the Bill, which I will read to the Council.

'No Court shall be bound to hear cited, or shall receive or treat as an authority binding on it, the report of any case decided by any of the said High Courts on or after the said day, other than a report published under the authority of the Governor General in Council.'

"Now that is only what the Courts, or at least the superior Courts, may now do for themselves if so minded. It is what the Bombay High Court, who object to this measure, say is the right thing to be done as between better conducted and worse conducted reports; such publications, for instance, as the Bengal Law Reports and the Calcutta Weekly Reporter. It is what they tell us they are themselves prepared to do as between those two publications, if only the Calcutta High Court will lead the way. But such things have been said over and over again, and occasionally Judges have been found who have tried to work the experiment. But they have never succeeded. There has not been sufficient unanimity or persistence in the attempt, and there is no reason to suppose that there will be more now, if each Court or Judge is left to act entirely on his own motion. With a declaration of the legislature to support them, there will at least be a better chance. And we may by such a declaration free subordinate Courts from the terror and oppression of the numbers of obscurely reported cases with which it is said they are bombarded, so that they shall not be blamed if they refuse to receive those imperfect reports as binding authorities. Such a provision, therefore, as the one under consideration, may strengthen the hands of those who desire to have good reports and good ones alone to guide them. And if we should succeed in supplying that essential article, a good report, and I always say we shall fail unless we do supply it, we may possibly succeed in getting it received as the only authoritative exponent of judicial law, however much others may be used for other purposes. I repeat that we may easily fail; we certainly shall fail unless the Bench and the Bar are disposed to act in the spirit of this section; but I ask the Council to pass it as embodying a principle which even opponents admit to be sound, and as giving some aid to those who desire to improve the present condition of law reporting in India.

"The other object for which the action of this Council is invoked, is not necessarily mixed up with any particular system of reporting; for it would, at least in my opinion, be desirable even if we had no such scheme of reporting as that now contemplated; and again the scheme may work well enough without any such new law. But it is connected with some system of reporting, though not with any particular system, and it naturally falls to be considered when we are dealing with the subject. It relates only to the geographical area within which the decisions of the superior Courts are to be accepted as binding authorities. At present a High Court—say the Court of Madras—may place an interpretation on a general law—say the Penal Code—and that interpretation will have no binding force out of the province. A Bengal Magistrate may disregard it or know nothing whatever about it, and vice versâ the Madras Magistrate is a stranger to the Bengal decisions. The reason for that state of things is to be found in the history of the country. The different presidencies had originally a very loose connection with one another, and when Crown Courts were established for them, the law which those Courts administered in common with one another was confined to the presidency towns or to the British people. At the present day all parts of British India are bound up much more closely together: they are subject to a common authority in India, both executive and legislative, and there are great Codes of Law enacted for the whole community. It is now therefore a decided drawback that when a valuable exposition of a portion of that general law has been made by one of the superior Courts, the whole community should not have the full benefit of it.

"I will mention a case which happened soon after I came to India, and which first drew my attention to the existence of this anomaly. It did not arise in connection with law reporting, and it illustrates the remark I made just now, that this portion of the Bill may rest on its own merits, independently of any particular system, and in connection with any system of reporting.

"There are many actions committed by men, which, according to circumstances, may be crimes of a deep dye, or venial offences, or mere personal vices, hardly to be classed among crimes at all. Yet for the legislature to distinguish accurately between such cases is quite impossible. The law must use some general expressions which, if they are to be very rigidly and literally interpreted, might have the effect of subjecting to severe punishment actions which ought only to be punished very lightly, or ought not to be punished by the hand of any human ruler at all. Such is the case with portions of the Penal Code. One section of it in particular, if its language be construed quite literally, visits with the liability to fine and to ten years' imprisonment, an action which in its simplest form is extremely common, which rather bears the character of a vice than of a crime, and so has usually been left by all laws other than ecclesiastical laws to carry its own chastisement with it. But under some circumstances this same action may be a crime of a most odious character, and one affecting society in a vital point. Well, it happened that a person who had committed this action in one of its simpler forms was charged before a Madras Magistrate and sentenced to a severe punishment. On appeal the High Court of Madras reversed this sentence, pronouncing a most sensible judgment, cutting down the literal meaning of the section, putting a reasonable interpretation on it, and confining its operation to what would be really grave offences. Afterwards, a similar case occurred in another province; and again the Magistrate convicted the accused and sentenced him to severe punishment. The Magistrate probably knew nothing of the Madras decision; but if he did know, he was entitled to disregard it, and he preferred the literal construction of the Code. Now, that is a serious matter. Draconian laws invariably bring the whole law into contempt, and set the sympathies of people to work against the law and in favour of offenders. The subject-matter is one on which accurate distinctions cannot be attained by the legislator, and on which I for one think that if we attempt to alter the Penal Code, we are quite as likely to mar it as to mend it. It is one, therefore, eminently fitted for judicial exposition, which can introduce a number of shades and qualifications unattainable in a statute. The thing wanted, therefore, is to bring the Madras decision home to the subordinate Courts in other Provinces, but that, as the law and practice at present stand, is impossible.

"Now I appeal confidently to all who hear me, and ask them whether it is not an inconvenient—not to say an absurd—thing, that a decision by the High Court of Madras on a very important Statute which affects the whole of British India alike, and which touches human actions of very frequent occurrence, should be received as law in Madras, and that, directly it reaches the boundaries of that province, its authority should cease? Is it not clearly right that the whole of British India should have the benefit of an interpretation placed by a Court of the highest rank on a law passed by this Council for the whole of British India? Surely such a decision should be co-extensive with the law, and should carry with it whatever authority its own intrinsic merits and the degree of its harmony with other decisions of co-ordinate Courts may entitle it to have.

"This object, then, is aimed at by section 2 of our Bill, which I will now read:—

'Every judgment delivered on or after such day by any of the said High Courts (whether by a Judge sitting alone, or by a Division Court, or by a Full Bench) and reported in the said Indian Authorized Law Reports, shall have the same authority in all subordinate Courts beyond the limits of the appellate jurisdiction of such High Court as independently of this Act it would have within such limits.'

"The Council will observe that, in this section and also in section 4, we carefully guard against giving to judicial decisions any more binding quality of authority than they have now. All we seek to do is to extend the area of their authority, and we do it by connecting it with our scheme for reports, and so securing that the decision which is to have this extended authority shall not be one reported at haphazard, but shall be as accurately given and in as useful a shape as a responsible reporter can make it.

"Well, but it may be asked whether this object requires legislation. I will not say that in any strict legal sense it does. It would, I suppose, be competent for the Courts here to say that they would receive one another's decisions as binding equally with their own, and in process of time such a practice would be recognized law, just as much as it is now law that the decision of a superior Court shall bind the Courts subordinate to its jurisdiction. Just in the same way the Courts of the United States have ruled that English decisions are binding authorities there, and that practice has passed into the law of the country; while the English Courts only receive the United States' decisions for purposes of instruction and not as binding authorities. But having regard to the history that I have referred to, and the long course of practice resulting from it, I say that that which is legally possible is practically impossible, and that unless the legislature does it, the thing will not be done at all.

"The main objection raised to this proposal is one which was indicated by my hon'ble friend, Mr. Dalyell, when the Bill was introduced, and I answered it at the time. But as it has been brought forward again in some quarters entitled to the highest respect, I will again give an answer to it, and in somewhat more detail.

"It has been objected to this Bill that it provides no machinery to prevent contradictory rulings. But I never heard of anything that could prevent them. As long as we have independent minds giving decisions on the same subject, so long we shall have contradictory rulings. It does not seem to me desirable, if it were possible, to prevent such a result, nor, if it were desirable, would it be possible.

"It is quite true, then, that it is no part of our scheme to prevent contradictory rulings. It is also true that, when the ruling in one presidency may be quoted as binding authority in another, contradictory rulings are likely to be brought to a direct issue with one another more quickly than before. But that I look upon as one of the advantages to be gained. See the effect of the present system. You may now have two streams of decision at variance with one another, running on side by side in two contiguous territories nominally subject to the same Code of Law, and in which there is no reason why the same law should not prevail. Referring, for instance, to the cases under the Penal Code which I have just stated, we find a class of actions which may be committed with legal impunity in Madras, and just over the border may be the subject of severe punishment. And yet the Penal Code is the law in both places. Referring, again, to an instance I quoted on a former occasion, we find two adverse currents of decision going on in Bengal and in the North-Western Provinces under the same section of the Rent Act; going on for several years, until one of the High Courts alters its views and adopts the views of the other. I say that it is much more for the benefit of the public that when such differences arise, as arise they must, they should be brought face to face, and that each Court should be compelled to revise its work in the light and under the pressure of the other's decision. Of course, if the difference of opinion is found to be final and irreconcileable, it must be settled by some superior authority: either by the Privy Council, which may operate on some cases, or by the legislature, which can operate on all. But, as I have just been showing, there are many cases in which a judicial exposition, if it can be got, is far better than an utterance by the legislature, and in which, therefore, the legislature would only act when its action was found to be absolutely necessary. And in other cases the legislature is not wise enough to know in which direction to settle a dispute until it has been threshed out by a sufficient number of judicial controversies, a point which I illustrated on a former occasion by reference to the history of provisional committees in England. It is therefore in every respect better that the contradictory interpretations of a law common to all India should be brought into collision with one another in a direct, open, and speedy way, than that they should exist in the more embarrassing form of conflicting laws for places intended and supposed to be under the same law.

"But then it is said; how is an inferior Judge to guide himself? how he is to act when he finds the decision of his own appellate superior conflicting with that of another High Court? I answer that Judges are appointed to settle doubts, and that he must act as other reasonable men act when they find themselves in the presence of a doubtful and debateable question. I know how I should act. The conflict of authority might come to me in many different shapes. It might come on a point on which I myself had a very clear opinion that my own Appellate Court was wrong, and that it would on reconsideration adopt the conflicting judgment. In that case I should follow my own opinion. It might come on a point on which I could form no very decided opinion. In that case I should follow my own Appellate Court. I might find that the opinion of one Court was that of a single Judge not assisted by Counsel, and very briefly delivered; while that of the other was given by a number of Judges, unanimous in opinion, assisted by careful arguments of Counsel, and delivered in a carefully reasoned judgment. In that case I should follow the weightier judgment. I might find that my own Appellate Court had delivered its opinion deliberately, and after full consideration of the conflicting decision. In that case I should follow my own Appellate Court. Many other cases might be put in which a man would be guided one way or another by various circumstances. But no serious practical difficulty that I see would arise: certainly none which English Judges are not in the habit of encountering, and which Indian Judges may not now have to encounter, when the Divisions of their own Appellate Courts have differed in opinion.

"There is another class of objections put forward, which, if I really have understood them aright, are somewhat surprising. We are told that there are different schools of law and different customs prevailing in different parts of the country, and that it will be very dangerous if a decision given with reference to one school and one set of customs is to be quoted as binding authority for another. No doubt it would be very dangerous: but I cannot make out how the danger is increased by this Bill. Nobody supposes that a decision about a promissory note will be quoted as an authority in a horse-cause, though the Court which pronounced it has equal authority in both cases: why then should we suppose that a decision relating only to Hindús will be applied to Muhammadans, or that one relating only to Sunnis will be applied to Shiás, or that one relating only to the Benares school will be applied to the Bengal school, or that one relating only to Bengal customs will be applied to Bombay customs? Local and personal laws and customs are not divided according to the local area of the jurisdiction of the High Courts. The Calcutta High Court, for instance, has Hindús and Muhammadans, Shiás and Sunnis, different schools of law and different local customs, within its jurisdiction. For each set of litigants it decides according to their own law. I have not heard that any confusion is thereby created because the Calcutta decision is authoritative throughout the whole of Bengal. Why then should any confusion be created by giving it precisely the same quality of authority in Bombay? The long and the short of the matter is, that if the law is the same for the two places, there must be conflicts of opinion about it, and then it is better to bring them to issue as quickly as may be; but if it is not the same, no conflict can occur.

"Such, then, is the Bill as the Select Committee presents it to the Council; and before I go on to speak of the plan with which it is connected, I will mention what alterations have been made in Committee. There are only two, and neither is important. One is, that instead of making it come into force on a given day, we say that it shall be brought into force by notification. The reason is that arrangements have to be made with the staffs of reporters. I am not aware of any difficulty in the way of such arrangements, but there has been some delay in making them, and we thought it would be more convenient not to bring the Act into operation until they were concluded. The other is that the Bill as introduced contained a definition of the expression 'Subordinate Court,' which affected the highest Courts of Appeal in the Panjáb and elsewhere. It was not necessary; it has been objected to, and it has been struck out. The clause being gone, I do not argue about the soundness of the objections; for I have so much still to say that I avoid all unnecessary matter.

"Now, I have been very particular in explaining to the Council the precise extent and character of the contents of the Bill, because they will find that the somewhat emphatic opinions which have been expressed against it are really not directed to anything contained in it, but to a scheme that it is connected with, and to a very erroneous conception of that scheme. The main objection really is to any interference at all by Government with the present system of reporting; and that, under the notion that our object is, not the simple one of getting fewer and better reports, but the very ambitious one of getting a control over the substance of the law by means of reports. And though I have shown that the scheme may well go on without the Bill, and that the only piece of legislation in the Bill strictly so called is to be desired independently of the scheme, yet, connected as the two actually are together, I cannot be surprised if those who object to the scheme endeavour to tack their objections on to the provisions of the Bill.

"Now it might, perhaps, be sufficient on this part of the case to say that the Council have on two occasions accepted the principle of some legislation in connection with a scheme for the supervision of law reporting by Government. When I moved for leave to introduce the Bill, I detained the Council a long time, and I have no doubt they were very weary of me, while I proved in detail the case for interference by Government; and there was no opposition to the introduction of the Bill. When I introduced the Bill and moved to refer it to a committee, there was opposition, and if the Council then incurred any danger, it was not for lack of warning. My hon'ble friend, Sir George Campbell, then occupied that empty chair, and he set forth his objections with all the force of rhetoric of which he was so great a master. The Bill was a revolutionary Bill; it was an unconstitutional Bill; it set up an irresponsible judge over responsible judges; it placed an enormous power in his hands; and in short it would be a very wrong thing to send it into committee. Nevertheless, the Council did send it into committee. I conceive that, if any principle was decided on these two occasions, it was the principle that Government was right in attempting to take the supervision of law reporting into their own hands, and that assistance in some shape should be given to them. At the same time I always feel that in this assembly we discuss matters under great disadvantages, and that on many subjects the communications made to Select Committees have more of the essentials of a public discussion than anything which takes place at this table during the two first stages of a Bill. For this reason, though the previous decisions of the Council are certainly not to be disregarded, yet I am very reluctant to use them as preventing further debate when the ground-work of the measure is attacked from without. I therefore think it right to acquaint the Council with the principal objections made to the whole scheme of reporting under the supervision of Government. I will only ask you to bear in mind the arguments I adduced in its favour and the answer I made to objections advanced here—topics which I have no intention of discussing all over again.

"Neither will I detain the Council by reading the opinions of those who think the measure a right and good one. I will only say that the High Court of Calcutta and some eminent district officers in Bengal approve of its principle; and that the only body in India which has actual experience in the business of law reporting, namely, the Calcutta Council, has cordially acted with the Government from the outset of the scheme. I will now refer to the objections, and first I take those which come from Madras.

"The High Court of Madras have not sent in any collective opinion. But I hold in my hand a Minute written by Mr. Justice Innes, who first states the objection arising from the differences of local laws—an objection I have already dealt with. He then proceeds thus—

'Nor do I believe that the evil aimed at will in the least degree be diminished. The Government Reports will be so scanty that the Profession and the public will demand more, and the demand will certainly be followed by the supply. It is useless for the law to say that the High Court shall not be bound to receive anything as authoritative but what is in the Government authorized Reports, if other Reports are still sold and consulted, and though not publicly quoted, still used as guides to a decision.

'The Government Reporters under a Central Editor, practically uncontrolled, will determine what to report and what to leave unreported. Important decisions adverse to and disapproved of by the Government may thus be excluded. Nor does there appear to be the smallest guarantee for the qualifications of the Reporters being equal to the delicate duties they will have to perform. I strongly disapprove of the Bill.'

"Mr. Justice Kindersley writes thus:—

'I object strongly to the third section, which places it in the power of the Government to exclude from the law any decision of which it disapproves. The matter is quite beyond the proper scope of legislation; and in my opinion the Act cannot fail to be mischievous.'

"And the Government of Madras say as follows:—

'His Excellency strongly deprecates the institution of the office of Central Editor with the powers of control and selection suggested for him. He is of opinion that, if a High Court interprets the law contrary to the intention of the legislature, the proper remedy is for the latter to pass a declaratory Act.'

"Now the Council will observe that Mr. Justice Innes makes two objections to the whole plan. The first is, that it will fail in checking the multitude of reports. I have already said that in my opinion it may easily do so, and certainly will, if treated hostilely by the Bench and the Bar; and I think that such a failure will be the worst that can come of the attempt we are about to make. The second objection is, that the scheme will not fail; it will not only not fail, but will be so terribly efficacious that no rival will exist in its presence; that the Government will become the sole mouth-piece of judicial law, and will be able to mould it as they please. And in this objection Mr. Justice Kindersley and the Government of Madras express their concurrence.

"Now, I wholly agree with Mr. Justice Kindersley in thinking that to place it in the power of the Government to exclude from the law any decision of which it disapproves is strongly objectionable, and is a matter quite beyond the scope of legislation; and with the Government of Madras in thinking that the proper remedy for inconvenient decisions (at least when they are final) is legislation. But I do not see how those opinions constitute any objection to the scheme of this Government, because it is absolutely certain that no such operations as they imply are contemplated, or will be attempted, or could succeed if they were attempted. But before I go further into the matter, I will read the opinion of the High Court of Bombay, who have enlarged somewhat more upon it—

'We agree in the opinion of the Government of India that it is desirable to diminish the quantity and improve the quality of the reports published for forensic use in British India; but while perfectly satisfied of the excellence of the intentions and single-mindedness of the Government of India in the matter, we think that the proposed legislation is unnecessary, objectionable in principle and unprecedented.

'Law reporting is, in a certain sense, a branch of legislation. Decisions in the Superior Courts of Justice in the United Kingdom and its Colonies, which endure the test of time and free discussion, no doubt become additions to the law; but it does not thence follow that law reporting should be, in any respect whatever, under the superintendence of the most frequent litigant in the Courts of this country, namely, the Government itself, or that the Reporters should be nominated or controlled by that litigant. A proposition more completely contrary to sound principle than that the Reporters should be either under the influence or control of Government, it is difficult to conceive. It is most undesirable to leave room for the belief that Government has secured to itself, or its nominees, the power of preparing or suppressing the reports of decisions which it may suppose to be hostile to its interests or policy. It may be said that it is not to be supposed that Government would stoop to make an improper use of such opportunities. We ardently hope that would be so; but if there be any part of the Brtish Empire in which such a power would be objectionable, it is in India, where the Government is more completely despotic than in any other country under British rule, and where it has not always the most favourable construction placed upon its acts. The legislators, in the case of what Bentham styles 'Judge-made law,' are the Courts, and if the circumstances of this country at present are such that law reporting cannot flourish as a private enterprise, and ought to be supported at the expense of the State, and, with a view to improvement in quality and diminution in quantity, to be placed under some control or superintendence, it manifestly should be placed under the control or superintendence of the Courts, and not of the Government. The tribunals which pronounce the decisions must know best whether or not they are correctly reported, and to what extent it is desirable that they should be reported.

'Honourable and pure as we are assured that the motives of the present Government of India must have been in introducing this Bill, and suggested, as legislation on the subject of law reporting very probably was, by persons not members of Government, yet it is manifest that, as regards law reporting, Government is in the position of Cæsar's wife, and that no Government, present or future, ought to be subjected either to the temptation or the suspicion of being able to suppress the publication of decisions adverse to it or involving principles which it may deem likely, at some future time, to be inconvenient. The nomination and dismissal of the Reporters ought to rest, as does that of all other officers of the High Courts under the Charters, with the Chief Justice of each High Court, and should not be vested in Government, nor ought it to take any part in the preparation or selection of the cases to be reported. Those who are acquainted with the earlier or later history of British India are not unfamiliar with the exhibition, by executive officers of Government, of jealousy of the Courts of law of this country, and it is an untoward, although of course merely a fortuitous, coincidence, that while Government, at the suggestion of such officers, is, on the one hand, seeking, so far as may be, to exclude by legislation the jurisdiction of Courts of law in matters of revenue, it is, on the other hand, by legislation also, essaying the establishment of a monopoly of all authentic law reporting, whereby (although we cannot suppose its intention to have been so) it will be empowered to suppress at pleasure the publication of the decisions in such Government cases as may still remain within the cognizance of those Courts, and as may be obnoxious to Government. It is said that it is in its Legislative Department that the Government of India is to undertake this new charge; but it is not and could not be asserted that the Legislative Council itself will exercise any supervision in the matter; and it would be wholly unsuitable that it should take any part in it. Law-reporting under this Bill would in fact be in the hands of nominees of the Executive Government, and the circumstance that the chief of those nominees might also be named by that Government to assist the Legislative Council in the performance of its duties, would not remove any one of the objections which exist to the proposed scheme.'

"Then the Government of Bombay, in forwarding this opinion, say as follows:—

'I am to state that these Reports seem to His Excellency in Council to raise many weighty arguments against the measure, and that he is constrained to express his entire concurrence in the objections taken to the centralization in one series of Reports of the decisions given in all parts of India, and to the right of control over the acts of the Reporter, which it is proposed to vest in the Executive Government, instead of in the Courts of law.'

"From that last expression 'instead of in the Courts of law,' I gather that the Bombay Government are labouring under a mistake. There is no control vested in the Courts of law; it is proposed to vest it, though not by this Bill, in the Government instead of in nobody.

"But to go on with the main objection as stated by the learned Judges. I accept with all sincerity their disclaimer of imputing any sinister motive to the Government. But then, what is the meaning of all this that I have been reading? Spotless as we are, what is the danger to be feared from us? Either all this must mean nothing at all, or it must mean that we are going to do a very wrong thing; that, being the most frequent litigants in the country, we shall be tempted, and, in spite of all our purity and innocence, shall fall; that we shall garble reports; that we shall palm off our base coin upon the public as the true issue of the judicial mint.

"Now, if I were of a querulous disposition, I should complain a little of our friends in Madras and Bombay, that they have dealt us somewhat hard measure, for while they impute to us schemes of daring ambition, they do not credit us with as much common sense or worldly wisdom as would suffice to conduct the business of a retail haberdasher. I will not avail myself of the generosity of the Bombay High Court, but will suppose that, instead of being spotless as snow, we are very leopards or Ethiopians, and that we entertain nefarious designs of advancing our own interests through right and through wrong. What is it supposed that we shall do? First, it must happen that some evilly-disposed branch of Government finds that an inconvenient decision has been passed against it: the matter is of importance, but it is not advisable to appeal, nor to attempt any alteration of the law. But the bright idea occurs to them, that if they can only prevent the case from being reported, it will do them some good, though they must obey the decree, and though they must know that the same point, when it occurs again, will probably be determined the same way. So they apply to the Editor of the Reports, and the two conspire together to suppress the decision, though otherwise worthy to be reported and sent up by the Reporter as such. All this is done to gain what? Just the barest chance that the decision may be forgotten, and that when the same point happens to occur again, it will come before another Court who may decide it another way. But what is the risk run? If the decision is of the slightest importance, will the Court, the Bar, the vakíls, and the public forget all about it? The chances are a hundred to one against it. And then, what will become of our scheme? It will immediately become known that we are using reports to give onesided views of the law; the character of our reports will be blown upon; nobody will be content with authorised reports, because they cannot be trusted to give the really important cases; and reporting on the commercial principle will, by our own folly, be fixed on a firmer basis than ever. In fact, it is a matter of the greatest surprise to me how such an objection can be made otherwise than in the heat of debate and on the spur of the moment; and I feel it difficult to address myself with due gravity to so chimerical an apprehension.

"Well then it is objected that the scheme of the Government is not embodied in the Bill.; but that objection does not proceed from any one who is friendly to the scheme. Members of Council have in their hands copies of some rules intended to shadow forth the sort of way in which the Government proposed to start the work of supervision. They will observe that the whole thing depends very much on the relations between the Editor, the Reporters, and the Judges, which must be adjusted from time to time, perhaps at short intervals. At the present moment circumstances point to our learned Secretary as the fittest person to be Editor; but whether that can be a permanent arrangement cannot be told till after actual experiment. In fact it is a new thing, and there is no part of it which it may not be necessary to mould afresh according to circumstances. There is not the least reason why a process of pure administrative detail should be embodied in a law, and if I were asked how to ensure failure for the scheme, I should say that the best plan was to make it rigid and inflexible by law.

"Now I come to the only alternative scheme proposed by those who object so strongly to ours. It will be remembered that the Bombay High Court agree with us that it is desirable to diminish the quantity and improve the quality of the Law Reports. They only object to our method, and they say that the proper course is for the High Courts themselves to undertake the supervision of the reports. They write as follows:—

'We think that the statements of facts and of the arguments, and the head or marginal notes, should be submitted to and revised by the Judges who have presided in each reported case, as well as the judgments, which are, and for a long time past have been, so submitted and revised; and under this being done, we think that the reports should be stated on the title-page to be published under the authority of the Court. The first of the above alterations will subject the Judges to some additional labour, but it is a duty which we are perfectly willing to undertake. Looking to the position of the Editor of the Reports as an officer of the Court, we have no doubt that we have full power to make those alterations in the system at present existing here, and that the Reporter will be perfectly ready to carry our views into effect.'

"Well, that is a proposal often made and never, so far as I know, acted on with any persistency. We cannot make the Judges do this work. We have no such offer from any other High Court, and from what I learn from conversation with Judges here, I do not believe that they would, or properly could, undertake the business. And I must say that I feel a little sceptical about the time at the disposal of the Bombay High Court, with all their good-will. I hear of them sometimes in connection with other things besides Law Reports. I remember their making an application for an additional Judge on account of the arrears of business, which application was successful. I am not sure that there are no arrears now. I observe that their letter on this very subject concludes in these terms:—

'We must apologise for the delay in replying to your Excellency's communication as to the Bill, the subject of our letter. The pressure of our ordinary business is such that we have much difficulty in finding time to write upon new projects of legislation.'

"The letter is a very full and very able one, and it must have cost thought and time; but I fancy that it is a less laborious business than the supervision of a volume of reports. Therefore I cannot help feeling my doubts. At the same time, if the Judges of that Court will be so good as to give attention to the matter, and find that their more immediate business leaves them leisure for it, I most freely and frankly admit that it is sure to be better done than it could possibly be otherwise: their assistance will, I am sure, be most heartily welcomed; and the Editor will probably enjoy almost a sinecure as regards the Presidency of Bombay.

"Indeed, the Bombay Judges give us to understand that their reports are even now to a great extent supervised by them and are on a par with the best reports elsewhere. They may be very good, and if so, it is certain that there will be exceedingly little interference with them. But I still think they would be better for some amount of supervision, and will give an illustration of the way in which I conceive that supervision would work.

"I have not to consult Indian reports very often, and it so happens that, of the Bombay reports, I have only looked at one since I read the letter of the High Court. I wanted to ascertain the exact terms of the decisions on a particular point, and this case was mentioned in a text-book as bearing on it. Well, I read the head-note, which made the decision refer to quite a different point. On dipping into the report, however, I found that the head-note did not state as being decided the point which really was decided, but did mention as the decision that which was only a dictum not necessary for the decision: and I further found that the statements of fact by the Reporter and by the Judge were at variance. Now, those are matters in which supervision would be of use. We are told that unless the Editor has understanding of the special matter reported on, he cannot supervise a report. I think he can usefully do so if he is familiar with reports, and keeps before his eyes the points to be attended to in framing them. In the case in question, I had no special knowledge of the subject; but I could see that neither the head-note nor the statement of facts corresponded with the judgment. If I had been Editor, I should have sent the report back to have a proper head-note affixed, and to have the facts correctly ascertained and stated. How much of such supervision is desirable will be found out by experiment, and it will differ in different places and at different times.

"But I will not pursue the scheme into further detail. I have presented to the Council the main features of the case. I can see that there is dislike and suspicion of the Government plan in some quarters, but I cannot see that there are any valid grounds for it. And I trust that the Council will be of the same opinion."

The Hon'ble MR. DALYELL was prepared to admit that the hon'ble mover of the Bill had, in the observations which he had made, in a great measure met many of the objections which had been advanced against this Bill. But still, when we remembered the high quarters from which those objections emanated, and the very forcible manner in which they had been urged, he thought the Council were bound to exercise the very greatest caution before committing themselves to the measure, and to satisfy themselves that the advantages to be gained by passing this Bill would largely counterbalance the difficulties which, he could not help feeling, must inevitably occur if it became law in its present shape. His hon'ble friend was correct in telling us that most of the objections had been levelled rather at the Government plan of operations under the Bill, than at the provisions of the Bill itself. But he questioned whether his hon'ble friend was equally correct in the opinion which he apparently held that that plan could be carried out without this Bill. No doubt the Government could establish a system of law reporting under a central editor without any enactment on the subject, and it would possibly be within their competence to take under their immediate superintendence the present staff of reporters which was attached to the several High Courts; but the reports published under such a system would have no more authority than the present reports, and two out of the three objects of the Bill would fail to be secured. Under such a plan the reports might be improved in quality, but they would neither be diminished in quantity, nor would the area of their authority be extended. He very much questioned whether it would be worth while to carry out such an expensive plan for the purpose of securing so very partial and probably problematical a benefit. His hon'ble friend had reminded the Council that when the Bill was introduced their late colleague Sir George Campbell had spoken of it in no flattering terms. He had characterized it as a little Bill, but not an innocent Bill, and as one the importance and effect of which was in inverse ratio to its length. He and other members of the Council had also then expressed the opinion that some indication of the mode in which the Bill was intended to be carried out should be given in the Bill itself. The Bill gave power to the Executive Government to authorize the publication of certain reports, which would then be placed in a superior position to all other reports, inasmuch as the subordinate Courts would not be obliged to permit the quotation of any reports other than these authorized reports. But nothing was said in the Bill as to the mode in which these reports would be authorized, or under what provisions or restrictions (or, as Sir George Campbell expressed it, "safe-guards") this power was to be exercised. It was evident that the effect of the Bill would depend entirely upon the mode in which these reports would be authorized, and MR. DALYELL still thought that the Bill was defective in leaving these matters to be determined in the rules which were to be drawn up by the Executive Government, instead of making distinct provision regarding them in the Bill itself. When we remembered this omission in the Bill, he thought the Council would agree with him that the objections which had been raised, although they did not apply to the Bill itself, but rather to the plan or rules under which the provisions of the Bill were to have effect, were deserving of careful consideration.

So far as he was concerned, however, he had some doubts whether even the Bill itself in its present form was altogether unobjectionable. He questioned whether the Government should take this power to which he had referred—whether, in fact, law reporting in this country should in any way be under the control of the Government? The days of personal Government had passed away, at any rate in the greater part of the country. The reign of law had commenced, and he for one was decidedly of opinion that anything which could possibly be interpreted as an interference with the decisions of the law Courts should be avoided. He submitted that, if this power of giving special authority to certain reports were taken, and was exercised, as it must be, by devolving the duty upon some official or set of officials in the ordinary employment of the Government, it would be quite possible, and not at all improbable, that the outside public might suppose that some sort of interference with the decisions of the Courts was to be attempted. The Council were aware that the subordinate Courts were bound by the decisions of the superior Courts. Now if the persons who reported these decisions of the superior Courts were under the control of the Executive Government and not under the orders of the Judges who pronounced the decisions, there was no safe-guard that some judgment which contained views adverse to those entertained by the Executive would not be omitted from the reports, and a control be thus exercised over the decisions of the subordinate Courts on the same subject. His hon'ble friend laughed at the idea of anything of the kind occurring, and MR. DALYELL did not suppose that it would occur; but still it would be possible, and some of the public might think that it did take place. At any rate, it might often happen that a decision would not be reported in such a manner as to give it that precise bearing which was intended by the officer pronouncing the judgment. When his hon'ble friend asked permission to introduce the Bill, he gave some instances of the power of the law reporter in England. He told us that we had not, in the reports of Lord Ellenborough's decisions, what that learned Judge had decided, but what his reporter, who afterwards became Lord Campbell, had selected. If our reporters were altogether independent of the Judges, we might find ourselves in the same position in India. We might find in our law reports, not what the High Courts decided, but what the reporters, aided by the central editor, selected. His hon'ble friend would no doubt reply that it would be very easy to provide in the rules that the Judge pronouncing the decision should have some control over the report. But MR. DALYELL's answer to that would be that the rules might at any time be altered without any legislative sanction being required.

As far as he could recollect, in the original scheme which had been proposed for the improvement of the law reports, it was intended that the Judges should take a much more active part than appeared in the plan which was now set forth; and in spite of what his hon'ble friend had said that day, MR. DALYELL still thought that the only way of getting over the whole difficulty would be to induce the High Courts to become responsible for their own law reports. He could not help thinking that they would do so if the Bill were framed somewhat differently; if instead of giving the Executive Government the power of determining what should be authorized reports, the Bill merely declared that the reports issued by the authorized Reporter of each High Court, and no others, should be binding on the Courts below. A Bill in this shape would have the double advantage of clearing up the doubt, whether at present a law report had any binding authority at all, a point which section 4 of the present Bill expressly left untouched, and of putting an end altogether to the unauthorized reports, which at present were a bugbear equally to the judicial officers who administered the law and to the professional gentlemen who practised in the Courts. Such a measure, too, would secure most completely many of the objects of the Bill. The multitude of law reports would be most effectually diminished. Their quality in all probability would be more likely to be improved by placing them under the direct supervision of the highest judicial authorities in each quarter of the empire, who were well acquainted with the law and customs of the place, than by leaving the supervision to any single official, no matter how conspicuous might be his ability. Their authority would be strengthened in all respects save as regards local limits; and although he had carefully considered the arguments which had been advanced, he still thought that the difficulties which would be involved in extending the area within which each set of reports was now supposed to be binding were very great, and counterbalanced any advantages that might be gained by giving the lower Courts a larger range of authorities, or by bringing into prominence any differences of opinion between the superior Courts of different presidencies. He ventured to believe, too, that such a scheme would obtain the cordial co-operation of all the High Courts in carrying out its provisions; a co-operation which, as his hon'ble friend had told the Council that day, was essential to the successful working of any scheme of law reporting.

MR. DALYELL did not know that he need go further into the objections raised to the Bill and to the plan by which it was proposed to carry the Bill into effect, as those objections would be found fully detailed in the papers which had been printed in connection with the measure; but if he was not out of order, he would venture to ask His Excellency the President that the final discussion on the Bill might be deferred to the next meeting of Council, as he believed that further communications on the subject were likely to be received from the Governments of Bombay and the North-Western Provinces, and also as His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal was not in his place that day to express in words the objections which he had taken to some of the provisions of the Bill in his Secretary's letter which had been circulated to the Council.

The Hon'ble MR. BAYLEY said that, after so full a statement as that made by the hon'ble mover of the Bill, he should ordinarily not have thought it necessary to add any remarks; but as he had personal experience of the evils of the present system of reporting both in a judicial capacity and as one of the original members of the Council of law reporting, he ventured to offer a few remarks upon the subject.

The crying evil of the existing system was that it ministered to the vicious practice of the members of the Mofussil Bar, who regarded law reports, not so much in the light of guides to show the real condition of the law, as stores from which they could cull precedents to support any view of the law which suited the position they were engaged to maintain—in short, their aim was, usually, not to assist, but to confuse, the Court.

The more numerous and imperfectly stated the decisions were, the better they suited the purpose of the lower class of Mofussil vakíls, and the result of the commercial system of reporting had no doubt favoured the growth of this evil. MR. BAYLEY had himself been often pressed with decisions which were apparently contradictory. Occasionally, by close examination of the reports, he had been able to find clues which shewed the real drift of the decisions quoted; sometimes, when cases happened to be among the records of his own Court, he had been able to send for the original file and ascertain how far the facts and issues of law were really on all-fours with the case before him, but he had not unfrequently also been compelled to abandon all attempt to draw assistance from the precedents set before him and to decide without any reference to them. He thought that this was not a condition to which the Judges of our Courts, the least of whom held a most responsible position, should be exposed.

As regards the ability of the Courts themselves to issue and superintend the reports, MR. BAYLEY would point out that in fact this had always been within the competence of the Courts, who had indeed made occasional attempts to carry out such a system, but scarcely with success.

The reports of the old Sadr Courts were, he believed, prepared by the Judges themselves and were edited by the Registrar. Unquestionably many of the decisions were of very great value, and conveyed the matured opinions of gentlemen of great experience, some of them perhaps ranking among the ablest who ever came to India.

Nevertheless their reports could hardly be called on the whole successful; arguments of Counsel were rarely, if ever, given; the statements of fact were usually of a somewhat meagre description. A gentleman, whose friendship MR. BAYLEY had formerly the honour to enjoy, the late Mr. Morley, had endeavoured to make a Digest of these cases, but though he laboured at the work with much assiduity for many years, and although he was well known within and without the legal profession for his ability and his acquirements both as a scholar and as a lawyer, his Digest was certainly not received by any means as a satisfactory work. And this result was owing, MR. BAYLEY believed, not so much to any fault of the compiler of the Digest, as to the unsatisfactory character of the reports with which he had to deal.

It might, however, be said that these reports were the production of untrained men, and that it was not fair to accept them as examples of the existing style of law reporting.

But what was the case in the old Supreme Courts? The Judges of those Courts made no special effort to secure good reporting. He believed that almost from the earliest institution of the Supreme Courts the decisions of those Courts were left to the unassisted efforts of private reporters. Reports were no doubt published; some of them good, some of an inferior quality, and there were periods, MR. BAYLEY believed, for which no reports at all existed, and during which there could be no doubt many valuable decisions passed altogether unreported.

After the establishment of the High Court of Calcutta, a special Reporter was sanctioned for the appellate side of the High Court, who was salaried by Government; but it was not long before that arrangement broke down, and after various attempts to meet the desired object, the establishment of the Council of Law Reporting in Calcutta was encouraged, if it was not actually suggested, by the late learned and able Chief Justice, Sir B. Peacock. He did not wish in the least to disparage the Bengal Law Reports; on the contrary he believed that they had done a very useful work very well—quite as well, probably, as any law-reporting had been done in India before, and in a way most creditable to the gentlemen employed, and it was probable that the work of Government reports under the new law would be done much on the same lines and by the same Reporters. The Government reports would, however, have the further advantage of being subjected before publication to strict supervision and skilful professional criticism.

Still the Bengal Council for Law Reporting themselves admitted that the result was not what they aimed at. In a letter addressed to Government by that body they said: "The Bengal Law Reports have not yet attained the high standard of excellence which their originators hoped for;" and they attributed this in part to "the necessity of departing from the principle of selection," going on to explain that this necessity arose from the Council of Law Reporting being compelled to defer to the "commercial principle" to which the hon'ble mover of the Bill had more than once alluded, and which induced them to meet the vicious demand for numerous cases by reporting many which in themselves were such as should not have been reported. In fact the Council may almost be said in the same letter to have suggested the present measure, for they said "it is hardly a less important part of the duty of the Government to publish that part of the law which is enunciated by its tribunals, than to promulgate its legislation."

So far, therefore, as past experience was any guide, there was not much to be looked for from the persistent action of the Courts themselves, even if the Government could be assured of the continued willingness and leisure of the learned Judges to superintend the reports of their judgments.

No doubt objections had been raised and urged with much force, both by his hon'ble friend who last spoke and by the High Court of Bombay, as to the danger of putting so much power into the hands of Government, and it might be conceded that a corrupt Government, aided by corrupt reporters, might attempt to misreport or suppress a case; but the answer to that objection was, no doubt, that the attempt would so certainly be futile, and the attendant danger and disgrace would be so great, that, practically, no such attempt ever would be made.

As regards the conflict of decisions, MR. BAYLEY would also wish to say a few words in further illustration of the argument used by his hon'ble friend the mover of the Bill. The effect of the provisions in the Bill would not be to aggravate such conflicts, but to accelerate their termination. It might be in the remembrance of some of those who heard him that for a long time a series of opposing decisions on the effect of the law of limitation had been passed by the Courts of Calcutta and of the North-Western Provinces. The legislature did not intervene, for it was not clear that any intervention was necessary. It was only after many years that the point arose in a case of sufficient importance to bring it before the cognizance of the Privy Council, who then upheld the view of the Calcutta Court as being in accordance with the wording of the law. The effect of that decision, authoritatively pronounced, was no doubt to settle the real state of the law, and the Government then stepped in and amended the law in the sense of the North-Western Provinces decision, as being most in accord with public convenience.

Again, not long ago, a question arose as to the construction of a law of a general application, by which certain officers of Government were guided in the performance of their duty. Some of these officers applied accordingly through their Local Government for instructions. On reference to the Government Law Officers it was found that the point raised had twice come before the High Court of Calcutta; had twice been fully argued, and in both cases the decision was the same, a decision moreover known to be in entire accordance with the intention with which the law was framed. The Government of India accordingly referred the officers to the decisions in question. But it then was found out that, in another High Court a single Judge, on a reference from a lower Court, and without any argument before him, had expressed a contrary opinion, which had been reported as a precedent, and which, therefore, Courts in his province were, as the law now stood, bound to respect; and thus, in a matter in which uniformity of action was not only desirable but important, no such uniformity was possible, until one Court or other on its own motion reviewed its existing decisions, for which no opportunity might arise for years.

But under the provisions of the present Bill, the Judge of any subordinate Court having the opportunity of following whatever precedent commended itself to his judgment, the conflict was sure at once to be brought under the attention of the Superior Courts, and to be fully argued. It was to be hoped that in the majority of these cases the law would settle itself; but if it should in any instance prove otherwise, the remedy of appeal to the Privy Council or of legislative interference would still be as available as before, only the necessity of one remedy or the other would be more promptly shown. MR. BAYLEY, in conclusion, requested the Council to excuse the length to which his expression of opinion had extended.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE had a few observations to make in answer to the remarks which had fallen from his hon'ble friend Mr. Dalyell. One point he mentioned was, that he considered the outside public would be suspicious of the correctness of the reports if they were conducted by the Government. We were told, too, elsewhere, that the Government must be like Cæsar's wife. above suspicion. But probably when Cæsar was speaking of his wife, he was thinking of the opinion of reasonable men who formed their judgment on reasonable grounds. Even Cæsar must have known that the tittle-tattle of the Roman boudoirs was beyond control. So MR. HOBHOUSE supposed that, by the outside public, his hon'ble friend meant those who paid attention to the subject and took an interest in Law Reports. To that, all that need be said was, that if an outside public of that kind were dissatisfied with the Law Reports, the remedy was in their own hands. All they would have to do was to get some painstaking person like Mr. Sutherland to publish the judgments of the High Courts.

The object of the Government in supervising reports would be completely frustrated if intelligent persons suspected the thoroughness of the product. As for any other outside public, MR. HOBHOUSE suspected that they would never know or care anything about the matter.

Then his hon'ble friend said there was no safeguard provided by the Bill. MR. HOBHOUSE had not heard what safeguard his hon'ble friend would propose. MR. HOBHOUSE could not think of any mechanical safeguard nor had any been suggested. The true safeguard was to get men of intelligence and honour to undertake the work, whose interest would be to frame good reports.

Then his hon'ble friend made some observations as to the power of the Law Reporter. But that power existed now, as MR. HOBHOUSE had been at pains to show, and it was one of the things which rendered it desirable to have Law Reporters under public and responsible supervision. Such supervision as was exercised by Lord Campbell over the decisions of Lord Ellenborough was doubtless very beneficial to the public. In that case a strong lawyer with a reputation of his own at stake made selections from judgments of which some were useful and some otherwise. In other hands the process might not be so useful. But the power of selection must be somewhere, and the object was to have it in a quarter where there was every motive to exercise it well. If it were not exercised well, he again said that the whole plan must fail, and the lawyers would continue to be burdened with a number of reports that were useless to them.

The hon'ble Mr. Dalyell had said, again, that our object should be to induce the High Courts to become responsible for the reports of their decisions. MR. HOBHOUSE did not know how we could induce them to do so. If they were ready to do it, he admitted that that would most completely meet the object in view. His hon'ble colleague, Mr. Bayley, had just shown by referring to instances how difficult it was for the High Courts to perform that duty with sufficient promptitude and persistency, and MR. HOBHOUSE had nothing more to add to what had already been said.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE also moved that the Bill as amended be passed. He would give two reasons against the proposal to postpone the passing of this Bill. It was true that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor was not present in his place, but MR. HOBHOUSE did not think the Council should consider that to be an objection to the passing of the Bill. Sir Richard Temple agreed that the present system was undesirable, and he had glanced at the objections to the Bill very shortly. There was not a single word in the letter from the Secretary to the Government of Bengal that showed that the Lieutenant-Governor was opposed to the passing of the Bill. MR. HOBHOUSE had not read the letter to the Council because it dwelt so briefly on the objections that had been raised to the measure. The Lieutenant-Governor made some suggestions which amounted to a re-constitution of the High Courts, but the Government were not prepared to undertake any scheme of that sort. Sir Richard Temple had expressed a wish that the Civil Appeals Bill might not be proceeded with until he should have an opportunity of being present at the deliberations of the Council, and MR. HOBHOUSE had made no objection to that request. But as Sir Richard Temple had not said one single word of the sort in reference to the Bill now before the Council, MR. HOBHOUSE declined to accept the Hon'ble Mr. Dalyell's proposal.

The other consideration on which MR. HOBHOUSE objected to a postponement was personal to himself. These matters could not be taken up without a good deal of labour. Questions were asked him, and unless he went into the papers connected with each measure he would not be prepared to answer them at once with accuracy. The consequence was, that he always made it a rule to read through all the papers the day before, in order to be able to answer any objections that might be brought forward with promptness and accuracy. It was the practice to pass a Bill after the Report of the Select Committee was taken into consideration, allowing full discussion before the motion to pass the Bill. He thought they had had a full discussion that day, and there did not appear to him to be any reason why the Bill should not be now passed.

The Hon'ble MR. DALYELL said that his hon'ble friend Mr. Hobhouse had omitted to mention two other grounds which had been advanced in favour of the postponement of this motion, namely, that communications were expected from Bombay and the North-Western Provinces. They had as yet had no representation of any kind from the North-Western Provinces. He believed that some of the Judges of the High Court of the North-Western Provinces were very strongly opposed to the Bill.

The Hon'ble MR. BAYLEY explained that the rules to be framed under this Bill, which were circulated to hon'ble members, had been confidentially circulated some time since to the Judges of the High Courts : objections might be received regarding those rules, but he did not think that, after such a length of time, they might expect to receive further objections to the Bill itself.

His Excellency THE PRESIDENT said :—"I am sure the general feeling of the Council always is, that if any member wishes any particular measure to be postponed for a short time, in order to give further opportunity for discussing its details, such postponement should be acceded to. At the same time we must all feel that the manner in which business has to be transacted by my hon'ble friend, Mr. Hobhouse, deserves every possible consideration. Of course it would be a very great convenience to him that this Bill should be disposed of in order that his whole mind may be applied to the other Bill to which he has referred as standing for consideration at our next meeting. I should, therefore, be inclined to suggest to my hon'ble friend, Mr. Dalyell, that if he does not desire to propose any substantial amendment to the Bill, it would be more convenient that it should be passed to-day."

The Hon'ble MR. DALYELL said that, if the objections to delay were put upon the personal grounds to which His Excellency the President had adverted, he was willing to withdraw his proposal for the postponement of the motion before the Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MERCHANT SHIPPING ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HOBHOUSE also presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill for the further amendment of Act I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen), and for other purposes.

SIR JAMSETJEE JEEJEEBHOY'S LOAN BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. ELLIS asked leave to postpone the motion for leave to introduce a Bill to secure the repayment of a loan by the Government of India to Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Baronet.

Leave was granted.

The Council adjourned to Tuesday, the 2nd February 1875.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

Enactments repealed.

An Act to regulate Distresses for Rents in the Presidency Towns.

Preamble.

FOR the purpose of regulating distresses for rents in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay It is hereby enacted as follows :—

I. Preliminary.

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Distress Act, 1875," and it shall come into force at once.

Local extent.

It extends to every place within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdictions of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay;

But nothing herein contained applies—

(a) to any rent due to Government;

(b) to any rent which has been due for more than twelve months before the application mentioned in section six.

Enactments repealed.

2. The enactments specified in the second schedule hereto annexed are repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule.

All appointments made and securities given under any of the said enactments shall be deemed to be respectively made and given under this Act.

The reference to Act No. VII of 1847 made in Act XXIII of 1850, section three, shall be read as if made to this Act.

"Court of Small Causes" defined.

3. In this Act, "Court of Small Causes" means the Court of Small Causes for the time being established by law in Calcutta, Madras or Bombay as the case may be.

II. Bailiffs and Appraisers.

Appointment of bailiffs and appraisers.

4. The Judges of the Court of Small Causes may appoint four or more persons to be bailiffs and appraisers for the purpose of this Act, and may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, fix such remuneration for the services of such officers as the said Judges think fit, and may suspend or remove them.

Security to be given by appointees.

5. The persons so appointed shall give security to be approved by the said Judges faithfully to discharge the duties of their office, and they shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

III. Issue of Distress-Warrants.

Application for distress-warrant.

6. Any person claiming to be entitled to arrears of rent of any house or premises to which this Act extends, or his duly constituted attorney, may apply to any Judge of the Court of Small Causes for such warrant as hereinafter mentioned.

The application shall be supported by an affidavit or affirmation to the effect of the form (marked A) in the first schedule hereto annexed.

Issue of distress-warrant.

7. The Judge may thereupon issue a warrant under his hand and seal and returnable within six days, to the effect of the form contained in the same schedule (marked B) addressed to any one of such bailiffs.

The Judge may at his discretion, upon personal examination of the person applying for such warrant, decline to issue the same.

IV. Of the making of Distresses.

Time for distress.

8. Every distress under this Act shall be made after sunrise and before sunset, and not at any other time.

What places bailiff may force open.

9. The bailiff directed to make the distress may force open any stable, out-house, or other building, and may also enter any dwelling-house, the outer door of which may be open and may break open the door of any room in such dwelling-house for the purpose of seizing property liable to be seized under this Act.

Provided that he shall not enter or break open the door of any room appropriated for the zanáná or residence of women, which by the usage of the country, is considered private.

Property which may be seized.

10. In pursuance of the warrant aforesaid the bailiff shall seize the moveable property found in or upon the house or premises mentioned in the warrant and belonging to the person from whom the rent is claimed (hereinafter called the debtor), or such part thereof as may in the bailiff's judgment be sufficient to cover the amount of the said rent, together with the costs of the said distress.

Provided that the bailiff shall not seize—

(a) things in actual use; or

(b) tools and implements not in use; where there is other moveable property in or upon the house or premises sufficient to cover such amount and costs; or

(c) the debtor's necessary wearing apparel; or

(d) goods in the custody of the law.

Impounding distress.

11. The bailiff may impound or otherwise secure the property so seized in or on the house or premises chargeable with the rent.

Inventory.

12. On seizing any property under section ten, the bailiff shall make an inventory of such property and shall give a notice in writing to the effect of the Form in the first schedule hereto annexed (marked C) to the debtor, or to any other person upon his behalf in or upon the said house or premises.

Notice of intended appraisement and sale.

Copies of inventory and notice to be filed.

The bailiff shall, as soon as may be, file in the Court of Small Causes copies of the said inventory and notice.

V. Of Applications to discharge Distresses, and of Compensation.

Application to discharge or suspend warrant.

13. The debtor, or any other person alleging himself to be the owner of any property seized under this Act, may, at any time within five days from such seizure, apply to any Judge of the said Court to discharge or suspend the warrant, or to release a distrained article, and such Judge may discharge or suspend such warrant or release such article accordingly, upon such terms as he thinks just,

and any of the Judges of the said Court may in his discretion give reasonable time to the debtor to pay the rent due from him.

Upon any such application the costs attending it and attending the issue and execution of the warrant shall be in the discretion of the Judge, and shall be paid as he directs.

Claim to goods distrained made by a stranger.

14. If any claim be made to, or in respect of, any property seized under this Act, or in respect of the proceeds or value thereof, by any person not being the debtor, the Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, upon the application of the bailiff who seized the property, may issue a summons calling before the Court the claimant and the person who obtained the warrant.

And thereupon any suit which may have been brought in the High Court in respect of such claim shall be stayed, and any Judge of the High Court, on proof of the issue of such summons and that the property was so distrained, may order the plaintiff to pay the costs of all proceedings in such suit after the issue of such summons.

And a Judge of the Court of Small Causes shall adjudicate upon such claim and make such order between the parties in respect thereof and of the costs of the proceedings as he thinks fit;

and such order shall be enforced as if it were an order made in a suit brought in such Court.

The procedure in Courts of Small Causes in cases under this section shall conform, as far as may be, to the procedure in an ordinary suit in such Courts.

Power to award compensation to debtor or claimant.

15. In any case under section thirteen or section fourteen the Judge by whom the case is heard may award such compensation by way of damages to the applicant or claimant (as the case may be) as the Judge thinks fit, and may for that purpose make any enquiry he thinks necessary;

and the order of the Judge awarding or refusing such compensation shall bar any suit in respect of injury caused by the distress.

Power to transfer to High Court cases involving more than Rs. 1,000.

16. In any application under section thirteen or any claim under section fourteen, if the value of the subject-matter in dispute exceeds one thousand rupees, the applicant or claimant may apply to the High Court, to transfer the case to itself, and the High Court on being satisfied that it is expedient that the case should be disposed of by itself, may direct the case to be transferred accordingly, and may thereupon alter or set aside any order passed in the case by a Judge of the Court of Small Causes, and may make such order therein as the High Court thinks fit.

Every application under this section shall be made within seven days from the date of the seizure of the subject-matter in dispute.

In granting applications under this section, the High Court may impose such terms as to payment of or giving security for costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

The procedure in cases transferred under this section, shall conform as far as may be to the procedure in suits before the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction; and orders made under this section may be executed as if they were made in the exercise of such jurisdiction; and every such order awarding or refusing compensation shall bar any suit in respect of injury caused by the distress which gave rise to the case wherein such order was made.

VI. Appraisement and Sale of Distress.

Appraisement.

17. In default of any order to the contrary by a Judge of the Court of Small Causes, or by the High Court, any two of the said bailiffs may, at the expiration of five days from a seizure of property under this Act, appraise the property so seized, and give the debtor notice in writing to the effect of the Form in the first schedule hereto annexed (marked D).

Notice of sale.

The bailiffs shall file in the same Court a copy of every notice given under this section.

Sale.

18. In default of any such order to the contrary, the distrained property shall be sold on the day mentioned in such notice, and the said bailiffs shall on realizing the proceeds pay over the amount thereof to the Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes, and such amount shall be applied first in payment of the costs of the said distress and then in satisfaction of the debt; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned to the debtor:

Application of proceeds.

Provided that the debtor may direct that the sale shall take place in any other manner, first giving security for any extra costs thereby occasioned.

VII. Miscellaneous.

Costs of distresses.

19. No costs of any distress under this Act shall be taken or demanded except those mentioned in the part of the first schedule hereto annexed (marked E).

The Judges of the Court of Small Causes may apply the sum so raised as costs towards the payment of the contingent charges and remuneration of the said bailiffs as appears to the said Judges expedient.

Account of costs and proceeds.

20. The Chief Clerk of the Court of Small Causes shall keep a book in which all sums received as costs upon distresses made under this Act, and all sums paid as remuneration to the said bailiffs, and all contingent charges incurred in respect of such distresses shall be duly entered.

He shall also enter in the said book all sums realized by sale of the property distrained and paid over to landlords under the provisions of this Act.

Bar of distresses except under this Act.

21. No distress shall be levied for arrears of rent, except under the provisions of this Act;

and any person, except a bailiff appointed under section four, levying or attempting to levy any such distress shall, on conviction before a Magistrate of Police, be liable to be punished by fine not exceeding five hundred rupees and imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, in addition to any other liability he may have incurred by his proceedings.

Penalty for making illegal distresses.

ACT No. II OF 1875.

An Act to diminish the multitude and improve the quality of Law Reports, and to extend the area of their authority.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to diminish the multitude and expense of the law reports published in British India, and to improve their quality, and to extend the local limits of the authority of properly reported decisions of the High Courts of Judicature established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, cap. 104:

And whereas with a view to furthering these objects, the Governor General in Council proposes to authorize the publication of reports of cases decided by the said High Courts, to be called the Indian Authorized Law Reports; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Law Reports Act, 1875:"

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on such day as the Governor General in Council notifies in this behalf in the Gazette of India.

Limits of authority of authorized reports extended.

2. Every judgment delivered on or after such day by any of the said High Courts (whether by a Judge sitting alone, or by a Division Court, or by a Full Bench) and reported in the said Indian Authorized Law Reports, shall have the same authority in all subordinate Courts beyond the limits of the appellate jurisdiction of such High Court as independently of this Act it would have within such limits.

Authority given only to authorized reports after passing of Act.

3. No Court shall be bound to hear cited, or shall receive or treat as an authority binding on it, the report of any case decided by any of the said High Courts on or after the said day, other than a report published under the authority of the Governor General in Council.

Authority of judicial decisions.

4. Save as provided by section two, nothing herein contained shall be construed to give to any judicial decision any further or other authority than it would have had if this Act had not been passed.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

REPORT ON CANAL PLANTATIONS IN THE NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES FOR 1873-74.

No. 1118 W., dated 17th October 1874.

RESOLUTION—By His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, North-Western Provinces.

Read—

Report of the Inspector of Canal Plantations, and reports of Superintending Engineers, 1st and 2nd Circles.

REMARKS.—Surgeon-Major Jameson has submitted his report on the plantations of the Ganges, Eastern Jumna, Dun, and Agra Canals. The condition of the majority of the plantations is said to be satisfactory; in certain divisions it is not so good as might be wished.

2. The total expenditure on maintenance, as shown in the appendix, deducting the amount for establishment in the Ganges and Eastern Jumna Canals, was Rs. 69,261, against an allotment of Rs. 79,623, of which Rs. 32,223 was for the Agra Canal from Loan Funds. Omitting the Agra Canal, the net profits for the year were Rs. 33,592, showing a net increase of Rs. 14,472 over last year's returns, and a gross increase of Rs. 10,341. The gross income for the last three years is shown in the margin. The gradual increase is satisfactory.

| | | Rs. |
|---|---|---|
| 1871-72 | ... | 65,305 |
| 1872-73 | ... | 83,037 |
| 1873-74 | ... | 93,378 |

GANGES CANAL.

3. The expenditure on maintenance was Rs. 42,642, against an allotment of Rs. 40,400; the excess being on the Anupshahr and Bulandshahr Divisions.

The total receipts were Rs. 62,347, and the total expenditure, including establishment, was Rs. 50,765, giving a net profit of Rs. 11,581, against Rs. 6,046 of last year's. The analysis of receipts in Superintending Engineer's report shows the increase to have been due principally to the sale of Sardhana mango garden in Meerut Division, which raised the receipts for this year, under the head of sales of fruit, to Rs. 11,648, against Rs. 2,511 of last year. There was also an increase of Rs. 6,000 on sales of grass, due to the receipts in Cawnpore and Etawah Divisions, for which no revenue was realised last year. The increase would have been larger had it not been for a considerable decrease under sales of timber and firewood in Meerut Division, which neutralised the increase derived under this head from Cawnpore and Etawah.

In addition to the actual receipts from sales should be taken into account the increasing value of the plantations themselves, which is now rated at Rs. 10,00,000.

It is noticed that there is a loss in the Bulandshahr Division this year; but it is understood that some wood sales were not credited within the financial year.

It is satisfactory to notice that the Northern and Aligarh Divisions have been this year worked at a profit.

The loss on the Anupshahr Division is still greater than last year, which means probably a large increase of young trees; but there is no specific mention in the reports of Superintending Engineer or of Inspector of Canal Plantations.

The return from the Etawah Division has slightly improved.

The increase to the number of trees on the canal banks transplanted from the nurseries is most satisfactory in the Northern, Meerut, and Aligarh Divisions, and is creditable to the officers concerned. Care should be taken to supply the gaps made in the nurseries by the transplanting that has taken place: the decrease in seedlings which the Inspector of Plantations notices should be at once rectified.

Below is a statement showing the progress that has been made in fencing the plantations; all this work has been carried out subsequently to 1872-73, and the best progress has been made in the Aligarh and Bulandshahr Divisions. The return shows that there is still much to be done. His Honor trusts that this subject will meet with the particular attention of canal officers, and directs that a return for each division may for future years be furnished with the report, showing the length to be fenced, length fenced last year, total completed, total remaining to be done. The Superintending Engineer, 2nd Circle, will report specially whether the ditch running along the entire length of the Eastern Jumna Canal plantations precludes the necessity of other kinds of fence. A return will also be made by Superintending Engineer of the entry which should be made under column 'balance to be fenced:'—

| Division. | Length of plantation boundaries. | Length protected by distributary channels and cuts. | Miles fenced in | | Balance to be fenced. | Remarks. |

EASTERN JUMNA CANAL.

4. The expenditure was Rs. 6,838, against an allotment of Rs. 7,000; the establishment charges were Rs. 1,805, the receipts were Rs. 30,552, and the net profits were Rs. 9,467 more than those of last year. This return is most satisfactory, and the large sum of Rs. 28,114 realised by the sale of timber, taken in combination with the excellent order in which the trees and banks are reported to be, reflects great credit on the officers of the Division. The Inspector appears to consider the enumeration of the trees not as complete as could be wished on his inspection: he could obtain from the foresters no account of the number of smaller trees in the nurseries. A report on this subject was subsequently received. Care should be taken to keep these registers accurately, and it may be laid down as a rule that the plants must not be allowed to fall below the numbers necessary to supply the place of felled trees.

DUN CANALS.

5. There is nothing special to notice this year.

AGRA CANAL.

6. 1st Division.—Has the credit of being the first Division in the North-Western Provinces whose plantations are completely fenced.

2nd Division.—The mistake has been made of planting trees before a fence is made. Definite orders have been passed which will allow of the early completion of fences.

The orders prohibiting planting until land is fenced, published in the Resolutions of 1870-71 and 1871-72, are not carried out strictly, and a wasteful expenditure is the consequence. It is necessary that Superintending Engineers should pay special attention to the above orders.

No. 02476 I.-C., dated 9th September 1873.

7. The experiments upon the reclamation of úsar soil, of which the history has been detailed up to September 1873 in a resolution in this Department, have been continued in the Aligarh Division. In January 1874 an estimate was submitted for preparing and maintaining a plantation of a few acres in úsar soil for ten years. The anticipated net profits at the end of twenty years were stated at Rs. 3,862, and an estimate for Rs. 400 for preparing the ground and starting the plantation was sanctioned under the recommendation of the Inspector of Canal Plantations, and with the intimation that a yearly report of the proceedings and the accounts should be submitted with the plantation report.

In addition to this a report was submitted by Mr. McArthur, the Subdivisional Officer in charge of the agricultural experiments on úsar lands, of the results attained up to the end of last financial year. The accounts showed an expenditure of Rs. 891 (against receipts of Rs. 794, or a deficit of Rs. 97), and the forecast for the current year showed charges Rs. 110, income Rs. 306, or an anticipated net income of Rs. 196. The fields were divided into classes according to the number of years during which the process of reclamation had been going on, varying from one year to four, and the results tend to show that úsar land can be reclaimed thoroughly after four years' silting and manuring; but the question whether the cost of reclaiming is less than the price of good land, remains to be determined. The experiment of treating the soil with ák (Catatropis gigantea) according to the practice of Utah, U. S., was tried, and the results show that there is no more virtue in ák than in any other fibrous plant, similar results being obtained from fields on which this plant had been ploughed in, and from others which had been manured with water grasses. These results establish the conclusion that for land near the canal the natural manure will be water grasses. It is clearly proved that where water is attainable rice can be grown upon úsar. Superintending Engineer has noticed that in calculating the results of these experiments no account was taken of the water-rate, which should be debited: this should doubtless be done. Superintending Engineer has been instructed to submit a report showing the account-current of each field, and instructions have been given to continue the experiments.

GENERAL.

8. The need of Mr. Jameson's manual is very urgent. The greater part of the work is in the Press, and its early publication is expected. Full and complete instructions are detailed in it as to planting and tending trees of all kinds suitable for the canal banks, and it is expected that it will prove of great service when put into the hands of canal officers.

---

ORDER.—Ordered, that copies of this Resolution and of the reports be forwarded to the Government of India and the Controller, Public Works Accounts, for information; also to the Inspector of Canal Plantations and all Superintending and Executive Engineers for information and guidance.

Nos. 26-28 I., dated Fort William, the 26th January 1875.

OBSERVATIONS—By the Govt. of India, PUBLIC WORKS DEPT.

Read—

A letter from the Government of the North-Western Provinces, Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch, No. 1254 W., dated 23rd November 1874, forwarding copy of the report on canal plantations in the North-Western Provinces for the year 1873-74, and of the Resolution of that Government reviewing the same.

---

OBSERVATIONS.—The report is, on the whole, satisfactory and shows material progress, but does not call for any special remarks by the Government of India.

2. A copy of the report on the úsar experiments, alluded to in the second clause of paragraph 7 of the N. W. P. Government's Resolution, should be forwarded for the information of the Government of India.

3. The Resolution of the local Government should be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

---

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Government of the North-Western Provinces, Public Works Department, Irrigation Branch, for information and guidance, and to the Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce, with a copy of the report, for information.

Also, that a copy of this Resolution and of that of the local Government be forwarded to the Home Department for publication in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 4th FEBRUARY 1875.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Rain has fallen in the northern districts of Madras, parts of Sindh, and generally though in small quantity throughout Bengal. There have been slight scattered falls in the North-Western Provinces, Oudh and the Central Provinces. In the Punjab, where its want is most felt, slight showers are reported only from Jullundur and Lahore. Damage from frosts continues to be reported from Sindh, parts of Nasik, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. In the latter provinces the gram and arhar have suffered. With the exception of the Deccan districts of Bombay and parts of the Punjab and North-Western Provinces prospects appear generally to be satisfactory. The winter rice harvest in Bengal has closed with excellent results.

The proportion given for a British Cavalry Regiment is for three shoeing-sheds.

The scale for the Royal Artillery is per battery, and is in addition to its field forge. Space should be provided in each shed, so that the battery forge, when removed from the forge wagon, can be set up for use in the shed when required.

BENGAL CIVIL FUND.

At a Half-yearly General Meeting of Subscribers to the Bengal Civil Fund, held at the Town Hall, Calcutta, on Wednesday, the 27th January 1875.

PRESENT:—The Hon'ble V. H. Schalch; E. F. Harrison, Esq.; The Hon'ble W. F. McDonell; H. J. Reynolds, Esq.; T. J. C. Grant, Esq.; A. P. Howell, Esq.; J. H. Rivett-Carnac, Esq.; D. Fitzpatrick, Esq.; H. Beverley, Esq.; P. D. Dickens, Esq.; Dr. W. W. Hunter; T. W. Gribble, Esq.; W. H. Grimley, Esq.; W. M. Souttar, Esq.; W. H. Verner, Esq.; H. J. S. Cotton, Esq.; C. J. Lyall, Esq.; T. J. C. Plowden, Esq.; and J. A. Bourdillon, Esq.

H. J. Reynolds, Esq., in the chair.

Read the following Report submitted by the Managers:—

REPORT.

The Managers submit their proceedings for the past half-year for the consideration and sanction of the meeting.

Subject to the approval of Subscribers, they have admitted to the benefits of the Fund the following families:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Mrs. Carnac ... ... ... | £ 300 0 0 | The widow and two sons of the late Mr. W. J. Rivett-Carnac, who died at Nynee Tal on the 9th July last. |
| Sons ... ... ... | „ 180 0 0 | |
| | £ 480 0 0 | |
| Mrs. McNeile ... ... ... | £ 300 0 0 | The widow and three children (one daughter and two sons) of the late Mr. D. J. McNeile, who died in England on the 31st August last. |
| Children ... ... ... | „ 120 0 0 | |
| | £ 420 0 0 | |
| Less ⅓ under Rule VII ... ... | „ 70 0 0 | |
| | £ 350 0 0 | |
| Mrs. Lushington ... ... ... | £ 300 0 0 | The widow and five children (four daughters and one son) of the late Mr. C. Hugh Lushington (an annuitant of 1862), who died in England on the 3rd November last. |
| Children ... ... ... | „ 500 0 0 | |
| | £ 800 0 0 | |
| Mrs. Ward ... ... ... | £ 300 0 0 | The widow and daughter of the late Mr. John Ward, who died at Rampore Beauleah on the 22nd of November last. |
| Daughter ... ... ... | „ 60 0 0 | |
| | £ 360 0 0 | |
| | £ 300 0 0 | |

The Managers reported at the last meeting that Mrs. Beresford had applied for the continuance of her son John's pension after he attained his majority. She has, in compliance with the requirements of the rules, submitted a certificate from the oculist, Dr. Critchet, who certifies that her son is permanently blind. Subject to the approval of subscribers, Mr. John Beresford's name stands on the list of pensioners.

The Managers have received a memorial from Mrs. Clark to be replaced on the Fund, as she has obtained a judicial separation. She was formerly in the receipt of an allowance of £100 from the Fund, as the daughter of the late Mr. J. C. Brown, and on her marriage to the Revd. F. S. Clark, obtained the usual donation of £300. She has been informed that her request cannot be complied with, as the rules do not contemplate the re-admission of daughters after marriage. Mrs. Clark has expressed a wish that her case should be laid before the service.

The Managers have received an application from Mr. R. G. Melvill, late of the Bengal Civil Service, for a refund of the subscriptions he had paid to the Civil Fund. They have informed him that under the rules this cannot be allowed.

Mrs. Melvill, the wife of Mr. R. G. Melvill, has applied to the Managers for an allowance from the Fund for herself and four children, on the ground that her husband has been dismissed from the service and has no means to support her and her children. The Managers have replied that this cannot under the rules be sanctioned. The Government have taken Mrs. Melvill's case into consideration, and granted her and her children an allowance.

Mrs. Cunliffe having applied for the full quarter's pension due to her son, for the quarter in which he attained his majority, the Managers have interpreted article 33* of the rules as requiring a full quarter's pension to be paid in advance at the commencement of the quarter to a son coming of age in the course of the quarter.

* The allowances granted from the Fund for the maintenance and education of children, shall be paid in advance quarterly to their guardians or relatives having the care of them, or to such persons as may be entrusted with the disbursement of the sums allotted for them, either by the Managers of the Fund in India or by the Agents of the Fund in England. No advances made under this or the preceding rule shall be liable to be recovered on the death, marriage, or coming of age of any incumbent on the Fund.

An application has been received from Mr. J. B. Lyall for the remission of the fine of Rs. 50 incurred under article 5 of the rules. Mr. Lyall pleads that he reported his marriage, which took place in England on the 28th of November 1874, immediately on arrival in India, and that as he left England ten days after the event, had he reported the marriage within the prescribed month by letter from England, the information would not have reached the Managers sooner than by his report on reaching India. The Managers recommend this case for the consideration of the meeting.

The Managers submit, for the consideration of this meeting, the case of Mr. H. Priestly. Under article 8 of the rules, Subscribers who resign the service and wish to secure to their widows and children the full, the half, or the quarter, benefits of the Fund, must on retirement make up their subscription balance to Rs. 25,000, 12,500, or Rs. 6,250, as the case may be, and must continue their contribution from their annuities at half the rates levied from Subscribers in the Service. Mr. Priestly resigned the service on the 5th of August last, and was informed immediately that £430 was payable to make up his subscription balance to Rs. 6,250. He is anxious to keep up his interest, but finds it difficult to pay up £430 at once, and wishes to know whether he may be allowed to pay by annual instalments of £100 with interest at 8 per cent. The Managers lay the matter before the meeting for consideration.

Dr. Hunter has written to the Managers enquiring whether any communication from the Government, on the subject of the rumoured transfer of appointments hitherto reserved for Covenanted Civil Servants to natives of the country not being members of the Service, has been received by them, and, if not, suggesting that as the change is one which may seriously affect the prospects of the Fund, they should take steps to ascertain whether any such measure is in contemplation. The Managers have accordingly addressed the Government of India, asking whether the Secretary of State has in a recent despatch required the Government to draw up rules for the appointment of natives of India under 33 Victoria, III., 6., to posts hitherto held by members of the Civil Service. The Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department has, in a letter dated the 20th instant, replied that the Governor General in Council is in correspondence with the Secretary of State on the subject of these rules.

It was reported at the last General Meeting that the Managers had written to some members of the Service, asking them for statements of any facts or arguments that might seem to them calculated to throw light upon the subject-matter of the second resolution passed at the meeting of the 28th January 1874. They have since received three memoranda from members, showing grounds for apprehending future decrease in the average gross salaries of Subscribers. These documents have been forwarded to the Actuary, and copies have been circulated to the service at large.

The Managers regret that they are unable to lay before this meeting the Actuary's report on the position of the Fund. They were led by a letter of that gentleman to expect the report in the course of the past half-year, but it has not been received. The delay may be in part due to the further references that have been made.

The accounts of the year 1873-74 are submitted.

UNITED SERVICE CLUB,
Calcutta, 23rd December 1874.

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE CIVIL FUND.

SIR,

It is understood that the Secretary of State in a recent despatch has instructed the Government of India to draw up rules under 33 Vic., III, 6, for the admission of natives of India to appointments which have heretofore been reserved for members of the Civil Service. The question of the employment of natives in these posts is, of course, one which must rest with Government. But a very general impression exists that if the measure is to be carried out, it should be done in such a way as not to involve injustice or pecuniary loss to the Civil Fund; whose members for the most part entered the employment of Government and have paid their subscriptions under the previous state of the law by which these appointments were guaranteed to the body of men who constitute the members of the said Fund, and whose covenants with Her Majesty's Secretary of State rendered those subscriptions compulsory.

A good deal of anxiety is felt on this question by the Up-country subscribers to the Fund, and upon behalf of myself and other members I venture to enquire whether any communication from Government has been received by the Managers of the Fund on the subject; and if so, what steps have been taken by them with a view to watching over or representing the vested interests of the Fund in the change which is said to be now impending.

If no such communication has been received, I venture to suggest, for the consideration of the Managers, whether steps might not be taken by them with a view to ascertaining the facts from Government, and if needful, representing the interests of the members of the Civil Fund.

It is unnecessary to point out that the opening up of posts hitherto guaranteed by law to the body of men who constitute the members of the Fund, and the filling of these appointments by persons who are not subscribers, will diminish the income of the Fund, and possibly affect the basis of calculation on which its estimates have hitherto proceeded.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) W. W. HUNTER.

CIVIL FUND OFFICE,
No. 326, dated 4th January 1875.

SIR,

I am desired by the Managers of the Bengal Civil Fund to enquire whether the Government of India, in a recent despatch from the Secretary of State, has received instructions to draw up rules under 33 Vic., III, 6, for the admission of natives of India to appointments which have heretofore been held by members of the Bengal Civil Service. The question is one which must greatly affect the prospects of the Civil Fund.

To

THE OFFG. SECY. TO THE BENGAL CIVIL FUND.

Fort William, the 20th January 1875.

SIR,

In reply to your letter No. 326, dated 4th instant, I am directed to refer you to Section 6 of 33 Vic., Chapter III, which Act was passed with the object of giving additional facilities for the employment of natives of India of proved merit and ability in the Civil Service of Her Majesty in India.

Home Department (Public), No. 114.

I am to point out that the wording of this section makes it imperative on the Governor General in Council to frame rules in view to the attainment of this object, and all appointments are to be made subject to such rules when sanctioned by the Secretary of State in Council. I am to inform you that the Governor General in Council is in correspondence accordingly with the Secretary of State on the subject.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) ARTHUR HOWELL,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of India.

---

With reference to the correspondence just read, the following Resolution was proposed by Mr. W. M. Souttar, and seconded by Mr. T. W. Gribble, "that the action of the Managers as guardians of the interests of the Fund in addressing Government be approved; and that as subscribers to the Fund view with apprehension the loss which the filling up of appointments by persons who are not subscribers may entail on its resources, the Managers be directed to continue to watch the matter in the interest of the Fund and to submit a specific representation to Government on the subject."

Carried nem. con., Mr. A. P. Howell declining to vote.

The accounts of the past year were approved.

Messrs. Schalch, Grant, O'Kinealy, Souttar, and Cotton, were elected Managers of the Fund for the ensuing year.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman.

An Act for the further amendment of Act No. I of 1859, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

WHEREAS Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen), section one hundred, provides that, in the cases of loss, abandonment, damage, or casualty therein mentioned, it shall be lawful for the Local Government, if a formal investigation appears to it to be requisite or expedient, to appoint two persons to make the same, and declares that one of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made, and that the other may be any person conversant with maritime affairs:

And whereas it is expedient in many cases that such investigations shall be made by persons more in number and of more varied qualifications:

And whereas it is also expedient to provide efficient means for enforcing the attendance of witnesses in such investigations and in trials under Act No. XII of 1859 (to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty):

And whereas it is expedient to repeal Act No. XV of 1863 (to amend Act I of 1859) and to re-enact certain of its provisions with the amendments hereinafter appearing:

And whereas it is provided by Act No. X of 1841, sections two, fifteen, seventeen and twenty-three, that the persons guilty of the offences therein respectively mentioned shall be liable upon conviction by information by the Advocate General to the penalties therein respectively provided:

And whereas it is expedient to render the said penalties recoverable otherwise than on information by the Advocate General;—

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875;"

Extent.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of enactments.

2. Sections one hundred, one hundred and one and one hundred and two of Act I of 1859 and the whole of Act XV of 1863, are hereby repealed.

But every enquiry now pending, which has been commenced under any enactment so repealed, shall be deemed to have been commenced under this Act.

CHAPTER II.—Investigations into Losses of Ships and Charges against Masters, Mates or Engineers.

Notice of accidents to be given to Local Government.

3. In any of the cases following (namely):—

(a) whenever any ship is lost, abandoned or materially damaged on or near the coasts of India;

(b) whenever any ship causes loss or material damage to any other ship on or near such coasts;

(c) whenever by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life ensues;

(d) whenever any such loss, abandonment, damage or casualty happens elsewhere to or on board any ship registered at any port or place in India, under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or under Act X of 1841;

the master, pilot, harbour-master, or other person in charge of the ship, or, in cases under clause (b) of this section, of each ship, at the time of the loss, abandonment, damage or casualty, or, where any ship above referred to arrives in British India, the person then in charge of her, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, if he arrive at any port, then to such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be liable to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

The Magistrate or officer receiving such notice shall without delay communicate the same to the Local Government.

Power to appoint special Court of Enquiry.

4. If in any such case a formal investigation appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made, another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs. The other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

Courts authorized to investigate charges against masters, &c.

5. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, at the instance of the Local Government, or of such officer as the Local Government may have empowered in this behalf, to investigate charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of any master, mate or engineer of any ship, who holds a certificate granted by the Board of Trade, or as to shipwreck or other casualties affecting ships.

Assessor.

Every such Court may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor for the purposes of the investigation any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such person shall attend during the investigation and deliver his opinion in writing to be recorded on the proceedings. But the decision of the case shall rest with the Court.

Communication to Court of grounds for charging Master, &c., with incompetency, &c.

6. If the Local Government has reason to think that there are grounds for charging any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted by the Board of Trade with incompetency or misconduct, it shall transmit a statement of such grounds to the Court making the investigation.

Communication of grounds of charge to certificate holder.

7. If the investigation involves a charge of incompetency or misconduct against any person holding such certificate as aforesaid, the Court shall, if practicable, before commencing the investigation cause the holder of such certificate to be furnished with a copy of the statement transmitted by the Local Government as aforesaid.

Powers of special Court.

8. For the purpose of the investigation the special Court, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have the same powers as if such investigation were a proceeding relating to an offence or cause of complaint upon which the said Magistrate has power to convict.

Procedure on discovery in course of investigation of grounds for charging with incompetency, &c.

9. If, in the course of an investigation under this Act by any of the Courts hereinbefore mentioned, it appears that there are grounds for charging with incompetency or misconduct any holder of such certificate as aforesaid not so charged by the Local Government, the Court may cause a statement of such grounds to be furnished to such holder, and may then commence an investigation into such charge of incompetency or misconduct.

Powers of Court in making investigation.

10. For the purpose of such investigation such Court may summon the master, mate or engineer to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence, either in person or otherwise, and may summon and examine witnesses.

Report by Court to Local Government.

11. The Court shall in all cases transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived.

Statement of decision in open Court.

12. If the Court decide that any such certificate as aforesaid shall be cancelled or suspended, it shall so state in open Court, at the conclusion of the case or as soon afterwards as possible.

Transmission of report and certificate to Board of Trade.

13. When the Court decides to cancel or suspend a certificate, it shall send a full report upon the case with the evidence, and the suspended or cancelled certificate through the Local Government to the Board of Trade.

Preliminaries to cancellation or suspension.

14. Provided that no certificate shall be cancelled or suspended—

(a) unless the person holding the certificate has before the commencement of the investigation been furnished with a copy of the statement of the case upon which the investigation has been ordered;

(b) if the Court be a Court of Admiralty or of ordinary Criminal Jurisdiction, unless the report be confirmed by the Local Government;

(c) if the Court be a Court of Admiralty or of ordinary Criminal Jurisdiction, attended by an Assessor, unless the Assessor expresses his concurrence in the report.

Power to arrest witnesses and cause entry and detention of vessels.

15. If any Court making an investigation under this Act thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject nevertheless to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

Any officer so authorized to enter a vessel may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section one hundred and eighty-six.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Power to commit for trial.

16. Whenever in course of any investigation under this Act, it appears that any person has committed an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over any person to give evidence at such trial, and may for the purposes of this section exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Justice of the Peace:

Power to bind over persons to give evidence.

Depositions.

And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making investigations under this Act shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

Chapter II applied to charges against holders of certificates from Local Government.

17. All the foregoing provisions of this Chapter, except such as require reports to and communications with the Board of Trade, or relate to the actual cancellation or suspension of certificates, shall be applicable also to charges of incompetency or misconduct against any Master, Mate or Engineer who holds a certificate granted by any Local Government.

CHAPTER III.—Suspension and Cancellation of Certificates granted by Local Governments.

Local Government may suspend or cancel certificates—

18. The Local Government may suspend or cancel the certificate (whether of competency or service) granted by such Local Government, or by any other Local Government, to any master, mate or engineer, in the following cases; (that is to say)—

(a) after investigation under this Act.

(a) If upon any investigation made under this Act, it is reported that the loss or abandonment of, or serious damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or the master, mate or engineer is reported to be incompetent, or to have been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct.

(b) after enquiry under Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by Naval Court.

(b) If upon any enquiry made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or the Merchant Shipping Amendment Act, 1862, or upon any enquiry made by a Naval Court constituted as is provided by any law for the time being in force, or upon any enquiry made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized in any British possession to enquire into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, it is reported that the loss or abandonment of, or serious damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by the wrongful act or default of the Master, Mate or Engineer; or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct.

(c) after supersession.

(c) If he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force.

(d) after conviction of any offence.

(d) If he is shown to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony.

Provided that no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) of this section unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate had before, or within a reasonable time after, the commencement of the investigation notice of the nature of the charge made and established against him.

The Local Government may, if it thinks the justice of the case requires it, re-issue and return any certificate which has been cancelled or suspended under this section, or shorten the time for which it has been suspended, or grant a new certificate of the same or any lower grade in place of any certificate which has been cancelled or suspended.

Master, &c., to deliver up certificate.

19. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under this Chapter, shall deliver it to the Shipping Master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default shall, for each offence, incur a penalty not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Report to other Local Governments.

20. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends a certificate of a Master, Mate or Engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

Report to Board of Trade.

21. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending under this Chapter the certificate of a Master, Mate or Engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

Whenever it is reported to the Local Government that the loss or abandonment of, or serious damage to, any ship has been caused by the wrongful act or default of a Master, Mate or Engineer holding a certificate from the said Board, or that such Master, Mate or Engineer is incompetent or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct, the Local Government, if it concur in such report, shall send a copy of the same to the Board of Trade.

Power to revoke cancellation or suspension.

Power to grant new certificate.

22. Any Local Government may at any subsequent time revoke any order of cancelment or suspension which it may have made under this Act, or grant to any person whose certificate it has cancelled under this Act, a new certificate of the same or of any other grade.

Notice of every revocation and of every grant under this section shall, as soon as may be practicable, be reported to the Board of Trade.

Saving of powers conferred on certain Admiralty Courts.

23. Nothing in this Act affects the powers conferred by section two hundred and forty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by section eighty of the said Act I of 1859, on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

Exercise of such powers by chief criminal Courts in Indian Ports.

The said powers may be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at any port in India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, if the Master, Mate or Engineer has received his certificate from any Local Government.

CHAPTER IV.—Agreements with Seamen.

Masters to enter into agreements with seamen.

24. The master of every ship, except ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the Home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he carries to sea from any port in India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Form and contents of agreement.

25. Every such agreement shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof; (that is to say)—

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(b) the number and description of the crew, specifying how many are engaged as sailors;

(c) the time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work;

(d) the capacity in which each seaman is to serve;

(e) the amount of wages which each seaman is to receive;

(f) a scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman; and

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions, or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by Government as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt.

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of this Act), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

Provision where Lascars are shipped.

26. When it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section seventeen, contain stipulations for providing for him fit employment on board some other vessel bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port as may be agreed on, or for providing for him a passage to some such port as aforesaid free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on; and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the vessel, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION:—In this section the word 'seaman' includes also a Native of India carried to sea from any port in India as one of the crew of a ship.

Forms for British or Colonial ships.

27. If the master of any ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British possession has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which such ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman in any port in India, such seaman may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement under this Act.

CHAPTER V.—Miscellaneous.

Sections 3 to 27 to be taken as part of Act I of 1859.

28. Sections three to twenty-seven (both inclusive) shall be read with and taken as part of the said Act No. 1 of 1859.

Provisions as to examinations, &c., of masters not to apply to certain ships.

29. Sections nine to sixteen (both inclusive) of the said Act No. I of 1859 shall not apply to ships registered under the said Act No. X of 1841 and trading between ports in India and the coasts of Arabia, when such ships are navigated and manned exclusively by Arabs, lascars, or other Asiatic masters and seamen.

Amendment of Act X of 1841, secs. 2, 15, 17 and 23.

30. In the said sections two, fifteen, seventeen and twenty-three of the said Act No. X of 1841, for the words "on information in any Court of Her Majesty or the East India Company by the Advocates General of the respective Presidencies," "by information as aforesaid," "on information as aforesaid," "upon information as aforesaid," in each of the places where they occur, the following words shall be substituted (namely):—"on conviction before a Justice of the Peace or a Magistrate of the first class."

Powers of Pilot Court.

31. The Court conducting a trial under the said Act No. XII of 1859, shall have the same powers to compel the attendance and examination of witnesses as are conferred by this Act on Courts making investigations under section four.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 9th February 1875, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. V OF 1875.

An Act to remove doubts as to the rights and liabilities of certain Native Soldiers.

Preamble.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the rights and liabilities of certain Native Soldiers who have been enrolled without having been attested, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Validation of enlistment of Native soldiers.

1. Every person who has for the space of six months been in the receipt of military pay and been borne on the rolls of any Regiment, Corps, Depôt, Ordnance Establishment, or Department of Her Majesty's Indian Army (of which the last pay statement, if produced, shall be evidence), shall be deemed to have been duly enlisted, enrolled and attested, and shall not be entitled to claim his discharge on the ground of illegality or irregularity in his enlistment, enrolment or attestation, or on any other ground save such as may be recognized by the orders and customs of the service.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th February 1875:—

No. 1 OF 1875.

A Bill to secure the repayment of a Loan by the Government of India to Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Baronet.

Preamble. Patent of Baronetcy.

WHEREAS by Letters Patent of Her Majesty dated the sixth day of August, 1858, and by Warrant under the Queen's sign-manual, Her said Majesty conferred upon Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, then of Bombay, Knight, but since deceased, the dignity of Baronet, to hold the same to him and the heirs male of his body.

Trustees under Act XX of 1860.

And whereas by an Act of the Legislative Council of India numbered XX of 1860, and entitled "An Act for settling Promissory Notes of the Government of India producing an annual income of one lákh of Rupees and a Mansion-house and hereditaments called 'Mazagon Castle,' in the Island of Bombay, late the property of Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Baronet, deceased, so as to accompany and support the title and dignity of a Baronet lately conferred on him and the heirs male of his body by Her present Majesty Queen Victoria, and for other purposes connected therewith," certain officers therein mentioned were constituted Trustees for executing the powers and purposes of such Act.

Government Promissory Notes producing an annual income of one lákh vested in Trustees.

And it was thereby enacted that, immediately after the passing of the said Act, promissory notes of the Government of India producing an annual income of one lákh of rupees should be transferred into the names of the said Trustees upon trust, amongst other things, from time to time to pay and apply the annual income of the said securities unto and for the benefit of the present Baronet, Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, and the person who, as heir male of the body of the said first Baronet, should, for the time being, have succeeded to and be in the enjoyment of the title of Baronet conferred by the said Letters Patent as aforesaid, and in default of heirs male of the body of the said first Baronet to whom the same dignity of Baronet might descend, upon trust for the present Baronet, his executors, administrators and assigns.

Trusts of the income.

Alienation prohibited during the Baronetcy.

And it was by the said Act further enacted that, subject as therein mentioned, so long as the said dignity of Baronet should endure, and until there should be a failure of heirs male of the body of the said first Baronet to whom the said dignity might descend, neither the said present Baronet nor any of the heirs male of the body of the said first Baronet in whose favour trusts were thereinbefore declared of the annual income of the said securities, should convey, charge, or encumber the said securities, or any part thereof, or the annual income thereof, or of any part thereof, for any greater or larger estate or interest than during his natural life, and for such portion thereof only as he should continue to use the names of "Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy," nor should have any power to discontinue or bar the estate of any person or persons for whose benefit trusts were declared by the said Act of the annual income of the said securities, or to prevent any such person or persons from succeeding to the same; nor should the same be held to have vested in any such person as aforesaid for any greater estate or interest than during his life, and only during such portion thereof as he should continue to use the names of "Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy;" and every attempt to make any assurance contrary to the intention of the said Act was thereby declared to be void:

And whereas, immediately after the passing of the said Act, promissory notes of the Government of India producing an annual income of one lákh of rupees were transferred into the names of the said trustees upon the trusts aforesaid:

And whereas, since the said transfer, part of the said promissory notes, producing an annual income of five thousand rupees, has been paid off by the Government of India; and the annual income of the promissory notes vested in the said trustees upon the trusts aforesaid was thereby reduced to ninety-five thousand rupees:

And whereas the said present Baronet has three sons only (namely), Manakjee Cursetjee Jamsetjee, Cowasjee Cursetjee Jamsetjee, and Jamsetjee Cursetjee Jamsetjee who is a minor:

Agreement for loan.

And whereas the said present Baronet recently applied to the Government of India to advance and lend to him the sum of four and a half lákhs of rupees, to be applied to purposes beneficial to himself and his said sons, which the Government of India agreed to do upon having the repayment thereof with interest secured in manner hereinafter mentioned:

Advance of loan.

And whereas, in pursuance of the said agreement, the sum of four and a half lákhs of rupees has been advanced and lent to the said present Baronet:

Concurrence of present Baronet's sons.

And whereas the said Manakjee Cursetjee Jamsetjee and Cowasjee Cursetjee Jamsetjee by themselves, and the said Jamsetjee Cursetjee Jamsetjee by his guardian, have agreed to the arrangement intended to be effected by this Act;—

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Withholding interest on notes in discharge of loan.

1. In consideration of the premises, and notwithstanding anything contained in the said recited Act, the Government of India shall withhold out of said sum of ninety-five thousand rupees, being the interest on the said promissory notes now vested in the said trustees, the annual sum of forty thousand rupees during the term of seventeen years from the date of the passing of this Act, unless the said sum of four and a half lákhs of rupees with interest thereon at five per cent. per annum has been sooner discharged.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Government of India having lent four and a half lákhs of rupees to Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy of Bombay, Baronet, the object of this Bill is to secure the repayment of the same with interest at five per cent. per annum.

The interposition of the legislature is necessary inasmuch as the security offered was vested in trustees and rendered inalienable by Act No. XX of 1860.

The next heirs of the Baronet have consented to the proposed arrangement.

CALCUTTA, 3rd February 1875. } B. H. ELLIS.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 9th February 1875, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three weeks:—

No. 2 OF 1875.

A Bill to amend the Law relating to Salt in the Presidency of Fort St. George.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to the price of salt sold under the orders of Government in the Presidency of Fort St. George; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Madras Salt Act, 1875:"

Local extent.

It extends to the territories under the government of the Governor of Fort St. George in Council;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force at once.

Partial repeal of Act XXIV of 1869.

2. The following portions of Act No. XXIV of 1869 (to enhance the price of Salt in the Presidency of Fort St. George and the duty on Salt in the Presidency of Bombay) are hereby repealed, namely, in the title, the words "the price of salt in the Presidency of Fort St. George and":

in the preamble, the words "the price of salt manufactured and sold in the Presidency of Fort St. George and"; and in section two, paragraph one and the first word of paragraph two.

Power to impose duty on salt manufactured or sold under orders of Madras Government.

3. The Governor General in Council may from time to time impose a duty on salt manufactured or sold under the orders of the Governor of Fort St. George in Council not exceeding one rupee and thirteen annas for every maund of three thousand two hundred tolas; and the Local Government shall for every such maund sold by or on behalf of Government from time to time fix, by notification in the Fort St. George Gazette, such additional sum as it may deem sufficient to cover, in each district or group of districts, the average cost for the time being of the manufacture, storage, transport, sale and wastage of salt.

When any such additional sum has been fixed for any district or group of districts, it shall not be altered for such district or group until after the expiration of at least three years from the date of such notification.

Price of salt sold by Madras Government.

4. The price to be paid in each district to the Local Government for salt so sold shall, for every such maund, be the total amount of the duty and additional sum so imposed and fixed as aforesaid.

The price at present so paid in each district shall be taken to be the price to be paid under this section until an additional sum is fixed under section three for such district.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In the Madras Presidency the salt-revenue is almost wholly raised by means of a Government monopoly. Government is the exclusive purchaser, at fixed rates, of all the salt of proper quality made by the persons engaged in the local manufacture, and the salt is then retailed throughout the Presidency at the price of two rupees per maund of 3,200 tolas, which price is fixed by Act XXIV of 1869, section two.

The average cost to Government on the East Coast of the salt so purchased, including all expenses properly appertaining to manufacture and storing, is three annas per Indian maund; and as the salt is sold by Government at two rupees per maund, it follows that the full Government duty of Re. 1-13-0 is secured on every maund of salt sold on the Eastern Coast.

On the Western Coast the systematic manufacture of salt is carried on to a very limited extent in the northern part of South Canara only, and the bulk of the supply required in that district, and the whole of the supply required in Malabar, in order to meet the demands of the local population and for carriage inland, mainly to Mysore, are obtained from Goa and Bombay through contractors.

The manufactured salt of Canara costs about four annas, and the imported salt of Malabar and part of Canara averages over seven annas per maund, and as both are sold by Government at the rate of two rupees per maund, the Government loses one anna on the former and more than four annas on the latter for every maund sold; and the people of these districts, though undoubtedly quite as well able to pay the salt-tax as their brethren on the East Coast, are favoured to the like extent.

The object of this Bill is to enable Government to realize the full duty of Re. 1-13-0 on salt throughout the Madras Presidency, as it does now in all the districts of the Eastern Coast. It empowers the Governor General in Council to impose a duty on salt manufactured or sold under the orders of the Local Government not exceeding Re. 1-13-0 per maund, and it requires the Local Government to fix from time to time such additional sum as may cover in each district the average cost of the manufacture, storage, transport, sale and wastage of salt. The price per maund will be equal to the duty so imposed plus the additional sum so fixed.
